Fannie, the nine-year old daughter of R. M. Hunt, has been dangerously sick with whooping cough and pneumonia. For several days she was not expected to live, but she is now getting better and is thought to be out of danger.

The GLACIER failed to note several important items last week, among them the big wheel at the U.B. church Christmas eve. The wheel was 12 feet high and contained many Christmas presents for the large audience that had assembled to witness the program.

The annual stockholders meeting of Water Supply Co. of Hood River will be held at the Barrett pool house Saturday, January 7th, at 10 o'clock, to elect a board of directors and transact other business that properly come before the meeting.

J. F. ARMOR, Secy.

Capt. A. S. Blowers and son L.N. have purchased the stock of Capt. R. Rand & Son and will conduct a general merchandise business at the same stand. Messrs. Blowers & sons are well acquainted with the people of Hood River, having been married here for years, and that they will make a success of their latest venture is not to be doubted. Messrs. Rand & Son are not likely to remain long out of the business field of Hood River.

When the Travers literary club met at Mrs. Wolfard's this week, eleven teaspoons were borrowed of Mrs. Bartmess, one of the set having been lost nine years ago. When the spoons were returned there were twelve in the lot, all marked in a manner that left no doubt regarding the ownership. Mrs. Wolfard said that a number of years ago her children found the spoon in the east end of town, but she had no idea regarding the home of the spoon, and it was only by the merest chance that they were thus thrown together.

They were prodigies brought into the family again. Moral—Always be kind to your neighbors.

Meigs Bartmess went out to C. G. Roberts' place to make a visit of several days last week. Monday morning, John Roberts intended coming to town to catch the 7:45 train and Meigs was to accompany him to reach home in time for school. But the folks overslept, and it was 7 o'clock when the first one of the family awoke. It being too late to attempt to catch the early train, Meigs was given a pony to ride so that he might not be too late for school. Meigs and the pony started at 7:30, and the pony feeling pretty good on that frosty morning took it into his head to run away, and at just 2 minutes past 8 Meigs managed to check up his flying cayuse at his father's house, having ridden 8 miles over some of the roughest road in Hood River. It was a sight to see Meigs and the cayuse, as they emitted more steam than a steam engine.

Harry Bailey, who went to Warrensburg, Mo., with his wife to spend the winter, has been heard from. It will be remembered that he took along with him some Hood River apples to show what we could do in the line of growing fruit in this country. At Columbia, Mo., an exposition was being held, and several of Harry's friends attended and took along some of Henry Prigge's fine Spitzbergen, entered them and they took first premium. It should be remembered that Missouri is one of the best apple states in the Union.

Ho My, Hood River's genial washman, started last Tuesday for Tacoma, where he will take the steamer sailing for China Jan. 8th. Ho My will visit his old home in the flowery kingdom after an absence of 20 years in Melica, six of which he spent in Hood River. His ticket from Tacoma to Hong Kong will cost him $40, and from Hong Kong 200 miles to Canton, $1. Ho My has left his washer business here in charge of friend Gee Wu, who will conduct it until the return of the proprietor in July.

Mr. Ed Calkins came to town in his sleigh Tuesday, with Frank Caddy. Five cow bells decorated his horse and made fine music. When coming down the hill on State street he let out the Confederate X Roads yell and kept it up till he reached the lower end of town. His grand entree waked up the whole town, and all who heard it knew that Ed Calkins had come to town. Those who have lost cow bells lately in the vicinity of Franklin may get a hint from this item where to find them.

Dr. Olive Hartley came down from Wasco last Saturday. Dr. Hartley is a graduate of the state university and has been a practicing physician in Wasco, Or., for the past three years. She has decided to locate in Hood River and has engaged rooms over Williams & Brosius drug store, and after January 9th will be permanently located in Hood River. Dr. Hartley makes a special study of diseases of women and children.

C. L. Copple returned last week from his trip to Illinois, where he went with three car loads of Hood River apples. He got a good price for his apples, with the exception of one car, in which the apples were nearly all frozen. The seals on two cars were broken on the way, and it is supposed that one of these was left open too long and was exposed to the severe cold that prevailed at the time. His loss through frozen apples was $180.

If the road supervisor in district 2 would like to do something that will redound to his good name and deserve the appreciation of the Franklin people he will put in about one day's work shoveling snow on the rough places along the state road and make the traveling more comfortable for man and beast.

At a Christmas dinner last week at W. S. Boorman's four generations of a family were represented, as follows: Great-grandfather and great-grandmother Ellis, grandfather and grandmother Ellis, father and mother Ellis and baby Kittie Ellis; the oldest 69 years, the youngest three months.

Notice the change in the time card of the O. R. & N. The early morning train going west that formerly passed Hood River at 4:35 a.m. now passes at 4:11 p.m. The west bound Spokane train passes Hood River at 5:57 a.m. instead of 7:45 a.m.

If you know of anything happening in your neighborhood worthy of note send or bring it to the GLACIER. The GLACIER has no means of knowing what is transpiring in the country unless some one tells the editor.

Dr. Brosius has been promoted, and now ranks as surgeon in the Oregon volunteers with the rank of lieutenant. His friends will be glad to learn that he has been commissioned, something they think ought to have happened some time ago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McCoy returned from Portland last Friday evening. Mr. McCoy was seriously sick in Portland, owing to the rupture of a small blood vessel on his brain, but is now rapidly improving.

Mr. C. A. Bell, accompanied by his son Fred, started Wednesday evening for his home in New Brunswick, which he has not visited for 19 years.

Ed Williams received from Dr. Brosius a box of Manila cigars of extra quality, a brand that would retail for 50 cents each.

Read Bone & McDonald's new ad. Their prices will strike you favorably after the Christmas strain on your pocket book.

G. A. R. and W. R. C. meeting tomorrow. There will be a joint installation of officers, and a full attendance is desired.

Don't fail to take in Capt. Lewis' lecture next Monday evening. It will be a treat you wouldn't care to miss.

Mr. Frank Fawk, a rising young farmer of Polk county, spent the first of the week in Hood River.

Prof. and Mrs. Allard returned from Troutdale last Friday, after spending Christmas with relatives.

The town authorities will enforce the stock ordinance after next Tuesday. Look out for your cows.

Laura, the five-year old daughter of Mr. Curtis Dethman of the East Side, is sick with typhoid fever.

Mr. Chas. Davis, now living on his ranch at Tygh Ridge, was in Hood River Wednesday.

Mr. P. E. Gerald, agent for the National Insurance Co., was in town Wednesday.

Mr. D. S. Crapper made a trip to the Dalles Tuesday on business.

George Chamberlain spent the holidays at his home at Corbett.

They were thus brought into the family again. Moral—Always be kind to your neighbors.

An Interesting Lecture.

Capt. John W. Lewis of The Dalles, formerly register of the land office at that place, is a well known veteran of the civil war. He recently delivered a lecture in The Dalles on his experience in Libby prison, where he put in seven months. He gives the bright side of prison life, and the story of his capture and escape, with many incidents of his meeting with notable characters of the Confederacy, makes an interesting chapter of the history of the civil war.

Capt. Lewis' lecture was such a decided success in The Dalles that the old soldiers of Hood River asked him to come down and deliver the same here, and he has consented to do so. He will appear at the U. B. church next Monday evening, Jan. 9th, at 8 o'clock; at Barrett school house, the following evening, at 7:30; and at Odell school house Wednesday evening, Jan. 11th, at 7:30. The price of admission has been placed within the reach of all, only 25 cents. Tickets for sale at La France's and at the door.

Cards of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Campbell desire to thank their friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted them during the illness and burial of their infant child.

Died.

In Hood River valley, Dec. 22, 1898, William Dewey, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Campbell, aged 4 months and 6 days.

the Weather.

The springlike weather that prevailed for a few days after Christmas was not to last, and we are now having our second winter. Snow has fallen at intervals every day and night for the past week, until now there is about one foot of the beautiful covering the ground. The thermometer has gone down and Thursday morning stood at 15 above zero, within 2 degrees of the coldest weather in December.

Sledding parties go out every night and wake the echoes along the country roads with their hilarity. Farmers are glad the snow has come to protect the grain and berries, and the weather seems to suit all except the chronic kicker from west of the cascades, who kicks and sighs for the rain and slush and mud of wetfoot. The snow melt and gose bone and other weather prophets have failed in their prognostications and have retired from business.
