Old party lines are fast breaking up on the question of expansion. Men who but a short time ago were diametrically opposed on the money question now stand together. Questions of finance and tariff are relegated to the rear and are rarely mentioned. One or the other of the great parties will be captured by the expansionists in 1900, and then all opposed to expansion will unite under one party name. It will make no difference by what name it is called.

The GLACIER is pleased to enlist the aid of the pupils of the public school to help fill its columns. The work of editing the school column will benefit those engaged in it, and all will be interested. There are a good many embryo editors in the public schools, and the experience gained in writing up this column will teach them how easy it is to edit a newspaper. Edgar Stevens edited the column this week; next week the editor will be Percy Logsdon.

Hon. J. W. Morton has introduced a bill to protect the fruit and hop industries by prohibiting the sale of adulterated sprays and importation of infested or diseased fruits, and requiring the burning, within 30 days, of cuttings of fruit trees and vines. The poisons used in spraying are too often of no account, and if this bill becomes a law we will not hear it said so often that spraying doesn't pay.

The threatening attitude of the insurgents in the Philippines makes it doubtful if the Oregon soldiers will be relieved and sent home soon. Regular troops on the way were intended to take the place of the volunteers, but the latter cannot be spared while there is any probability of the Filipinos carrying out the threats of Aguinaldo.

School meetings being held tomorrow will interfere with the fruit growers meeting called for at 2 o'clock. The school meetings must be attended to. If the fruit growers fail enough of them to get together they can adjourn to another day.

Easter this year comes early—April 24. An early Easter is said to denote an early spring.

It is proposed to put a tax of $1.25 on bicycles for the benefit of the good roads fund.

The Situation in the Philippines.
A Washington special of January 25th says: It can no longer be denied that considerable alarm is felt in administration circles over the situation in Manila and Ilo Ilo, and the latest advices are not of a reassuring character. General Otis is of the belief that the insurgents are about to force the issue, and if this should occur the result cannot be predicted further than that the Americans will be victorious in the end. There are two serious contingencies confronting the troops near Ilo Ilo, one being a conflict with the natives and the other a fear that smallpox may break out among the troops. Besides this, the situation at Manila is considered much more grave than that at Ilo Ilo, and it is feared that the insurgents may commit an overt act which will bring on a conflict.

Home Literary.
The meeting of the home literary society last Thursday was changed to J. H. Shoemaker's place, and was turned into a pleasant birthday party, in honor of the fifty-second birthday of the Shoemaker brothers. A good dinner was served by Mrs. J. H. Shoemaker and the ladies of the society, which all enjoyed. All wished that they would have a birthday again soon. After dinner the meeting was called to order by C. E. Markham and the following programme rendered, which was both interesting and amusing:
"Hans Hanson in Minnesota," C. E. Markham; "Too late for the train," Mrs. C. E. Markham; "A letter to the women's suffrage convention," B. E. Shoemaker; select reading, Mrs. B. E. Shoemaker; "Cuba seen through a woman's eye," H. H. Bailey; "Why do we keep house?" Mrs. H. H. Bailey; Americans congratulated, J. H. Shoemaker; recitation, "Jacob's Lament," E. N. Benson; select reading, Mrs. Fred Bailey. Each one will select his or her own subject for next meeting, which will be held at Mr. Markham's place and will be conducted by J. H. Shoemaker. Mrs. Mattie Markham was elected secretary for the ensuing month.

Hood River Apples at Washington.
The Washington correspondent of the Oregonian has the following to say of Hood River apples:

H. H. Gilfrey, clerk of the senate, has distributed among his friends in Washington generous samples of Oregon apples grown in the Hood River country. They were sent to him by L. S. Wright, of Portland, who every year reminds Mr. Gilfrey of their long and lasting friendship in this manner. Those who had the pleasure of tasting the apples found them superior to any that can be obtained on the Atlantic coast, no matter from where they are sent. When freight rates reach a point where these apples can be sent from the Pacific coast with a profit, they will certainly find a ready market in the East.

Soldiers and Sailors Postage.
Portland paper some time ago gave the cost of sending a letter as 5 cents postage. Capt.

Dukes wrote to the postmaster at San Francisco in regard to the postage, and this was his reply:

"In reply to attached communication I would state that the rates of postage on all mail matter to soldiers and sailors at Manila are the same as to domestic points in the United States, no matter by what route sent."

The Sugar Industry.
The beet sugar industry seeks state aid. The flax industry, the prune industry and the mohair industry are other "infants" waiting for a precedent to be set in the case of the beet sugar industry. One bad step is sure to lead to others.—East Oregonian.

There is not an industry in the state but what has the same right to ask state aid as the sugar industry. The people of the state will uphold no legislature that voluntarily opens the state exchequer to the wealthy corporations. The people of the Grande Ronde valley paid a heavy bonus to get the sugar factory built at La Grande, now the same institution wants another bonus before it's a year old. This factory does not intend to confine the sale of its product to the residents of Oregon. It will seek a market in Idaho and Washington, and possibly other western states. It would be equally as consistent that its promoters should ask a bounty from each state in which it reaches out for a market. In truth the institution rightfully deserves no bounty from Oregon or any other state, any more than any other institution or industry of Oregon. If such is granted by Oregon's present legislature the precedent will be established for the biennial looting of the state treasury.—Blue Mountain Eagle.

To Prevent Grippe.
Geo. T. Angell, editor of Our Dumb Animals, advises people to wear powdered sulphur in their shoes to prevent catching the grippe and other contagious diseases. He says the Howard Benevolent Association escaped the terrible epidemic of yellow fever at Memphis, as they claimed, by wearing powdered sulphur in their shoes; also giving the evidence of a distinguished German medical writer that wearing sulphur in this way has proved a complete protection against cholera and other epidemic diseases; also, that those working the sulphur mines of Italy escape the malaria which prevails all about them; also, that sulphur in the shoes has cured various cases of rheumatism; also, that sulphur taken internally or worn in the shoes has sufficient power to pass through the body, the clothing and the pocket-book, blackening the silver there.

The Wisdom of Age.
An old man says: "Once I was a young man, now I am old, and I've never seen a girl unfaithful to her mother that ever came to her worth a good word from her husband. It is the law of God. It isn't exactly in the Bible, but it is written large and awful in the miserable life of a misfit woman. I'm speaking for the boys this time. If ever one of you chaps come across a girl that, with a face full of roses, says as you come to the door, 'I cannot go for thirty minutes, for the dishes are not washed,' you wait for that girl. You sit right down on the door step and wait for her. 'Cause some other fellow may come along and carry her off, and right there you have lost an angel. Wait for that girl and stick to her like a burr to a mule's tail."

Once upon a time a bluebird piped his lay very early in the season. Thereupon numbers laid aside their winter underwear and fell accordingly ill. "Unsanitary piping," remarked the doctors, acutely, for there were unmistakable zymotic symptoms. This fable shows how important it is for singing to have a scientific basis.

La Grippe Successfully Treated.
"I have just recovered from the second attack of la grippe this year," says Mr. Jas. A. Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexico, Texas. "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I think with considerable success, only being in bed a little over two days against ten days for the former attack. The second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy, as I had to go to bed in about six hours after being 'struck' with it, while in the first case I was able to attend to business about two days before getting 'down.' For sale by Williams & Brosius."

Grip finds its victims principally among those who are easily frightened. People who go about their business, keep their feet dry, their consciences clear, their pores open and their mouths shut are not perhaps altogether exempt but are certainly less open to the infection.

A Portland firm wants the legislature to pay $750 for a life-size picture of ex-Gov. Lord.

Men rail about women for being painted and yet they never saw an angel, even, that wasn't painted.

An agreeable truth may lie at the bottom of a well, but a disagreeable one always comes to the surface.

Hood River Public School Column.

Next in importance to freedom and justice is popular education, without which neither justice nor freedom can be permanently maintained.—Garfield.

Through the kindness of the editor of the GLACIER one column of its pages is to be devoted to the interests of the public school. It may not be amiss in our first issue to sketch briefly the growth and progress of the school in the past few months. In point of numbers, the enrollment has increased from 140 in September, 1898, to 163 the past month. Until the advent of the recent inclement weather the attendance has been excellent. While the attendance has decreased, the enthusiasm of those who remain has in no wise declined.

The popularity of the school is shown by the number of non-resident pupils who are taking advantage of the opportunities afforded.

The following is a sketch of the work we are doing in the school:
On interviewing the eighth grade we find their reading substituted by American literature. In arithmetic they are working in mensuration, illustrating the figures involved with drawings. In grammar, Greek, Latin and English prefixes and suffixes are the issues of the hour. The class in spelling is working in the dissemination of synonyms and word building, the history class studying the civil war, and in physiology, "What to do till the doctor comes." In drawing and in music, as in all the other studies, the class is doing remarkably well, and their recitations show they are applying themselves.

The ninth grade, in algebra, is working in rates and proportions; in general history they are studying Greece, and in physical geography, the depth, composition and temperature of the ocean. In bookkeeping they are making fair progress, and in rhetoric they are at present working in oratory.

The seventh grade, in Miss White's department, has made a detailed study of the "Deserted Village" in connection with their reading. They are now preparing to make sketches of the French and Indian wars and write short descriptions of all the expeditions in the same.

In the primary department the attendance was good until the cold weather. Since then, many have been unable to come owing to the condition of the roads and distance from school. There has also been much sickness among the pupils of this department. While at present the attendance is small, every week sees some returning to their work, and the interest taken by the pupils does not decrease. The third grade is doing supplementary work in reading and are enjoying the change from the Second Reader to "Grandfather's Stories." The pupils in all three grades are taking great interest in the drawing lessons and are improving daily. Regular promotions occur but once a year, but two pupils have, by their diligence and ambition, been promoted from the second to the third grade during the last term, and two more are working for a double promotion at the end of the year and are studying at home for this purpose.

The school will soon receive a quite valuable addition to its library. They have recently ordered a large number of books, the result of the Thanksgiving entertainment given by the school.

There is to be a school meeting held at the school house January 30th, at 2 p. m. We earnestly hope they will decide to continue the school for the spring term. Such a community as this should have at least a nine-months' term. It is the duty of every good citizen to see that the children are kept in school.

The fire drill has been introduced into the school this term. The school, consisting of over 150 pupils, are able to clear the building in less than one minute. From the first tap of the drum the pupils have marched out, broken ranks, formed and marched to their respective rooms in the space of two minutes.

A little learning is a dangerous thing. Education gives power; hence it is a blessing or a curse, according to how we use it.

The doorstep to the temple of wisdom is a knowledge of our own ignorance.—C. H. Spurgeon.

In a spelling in Miss White's room, Friday afternoon, Gertrude Buskirk spelled down the school. In a similar contest in Miss Graham's room Allie Welds was the champion.

Those who emerge from schools, be it primary, grammar, high school or college, should have mental training and settled purpose to do right. These are the two ends the thoughtful teachers of the country aim at. Every one, as he leaves the school, no matter what his grade, enters into citizenship. The youth must obey the community; the young man is a part of the community. The essential things are that intelligent possession of the knowledge gained by the race appropriate for the age, and a firm purpose to do right. Those standing on such a platform will make good citizens.
