Some of it is so tall that it can hardly reach the ears with his arm outstretched to its utmost. This place has the reputation of producing good corn, and it is one of the earliest places on the Columbia river.
Aho S. Watt, land agent for the O. R. & N. Co., was in Hood River last week and secured right of way for straightening the road through the places of Hon. J. W. Morton, R. S. Andrews and E. Locke. Mr. Watt is the father of our townsman, Dr. J. F. Watt. He has been quite sick since his return from Portland, and Dr. Watt was called last week to attend him.
S. A. Knapp received a telegram from South Bend, Wash., stating that his father, A. H. Knapp, died at that place Sept. 16th. He died at the home of his son, C. D. Knapp. He was born in New York state, June 3, 1826, and lived most of his life in Wisconsin, where he was engaged in farming. Deceased was in Hood River for two or three months last summer, when he made his home with his son, S. A. Knapp, proprietor of the People's Store.
A chapter of accidents happened on Monday morning in about 10 minutes. The Hood River box factory has been running along without an accident all summer, till Monday morning Bob Husbands got the end of a middle finger taken off in the slasher. Fidd Bradford went with him to the drug store to have the wound dressed and before he got back to the factory Frank Quinn had managed to get a slice of a finger taken off by the slasher saw. While Flint was taking the boy to the drug store Joe Purser's team came dashing up the street, having started to run at the depot, where Joe was unloading freight.

R. C. Judson, industrial agent of the O. R. & N. Co., brought J. F. Wilcox and wife of Council Bluffs, Iowa, to Hood River last Saturday. Mr. Wilcox is a wholesale gardener and green-house man. He has 280 acres, 62 of which are covered with glass. The party while here visited W. P. Watson's garden and then made a tour of the valley, inspecting W. A. Slingerland's place among others on the East Side. Mr. Wilcox is favorably impressed with Hood River as a place to locate a green house. If he puts in big green houses here we can have Hood River strawberries all the year round. He said the Front street commission men in Portland were unanimous in recommending Hood River as a good place to locate a green house.
John Brown, working for Van Johnson, was held up by a highwayman near Hackett's corner, in the Crapper district, Tuesday evening of last week. The highwayman wore a gunny-sack mask, with eye holes. When ordered to hold up his hands Mr. Brown attempted to fight and tried to tear away the man's mask, but the man told him he would shoot if he offered resistance. The man went through Mr. Brown's pockets and got $5. Next morning Mr. Brown inspected the ground where he was held up and found that the man had worn gunny sacks over his shoes to prevent his footprints giving him away.
Attorney John L. Henderson visited his son, Ed A. Henderson, at Vancouver Barrecks, last week. Ed is enlisted in the 39th infantry and likes the service. He was acting corporal, and his promotion to that non-commissioned officer will no doubt soon follow. The commanding officer of his company says Ed is the best soldier in his company; that if he had a full company like him he would have the crack company of the coast. Mr. Henderson's letter giving his consent to his son's enlistment was sent to Washington by the colonel and it was filed in the archives of the war department.
B. F. Belieu and son Perry were coming into town Saturday morning in their one-horse rig when the horse took fright near W. P. Watson's residence and ran away. Both were thrown out at the end of the block. Mr. Belieu was thrown violently to the ground but was not seriously injured. Perry was not so fortunate; he received a severe cut on the forehead and was badly bruised. The horse had always been considered gentle and reliable.
W. R. Winans recently sent a block of stone from his quarry at Winans to Portland to be dressed. The block was pronounced by experts to be a good quality of granite. It is susceptible of a fine polish which looks too sleek for a fly to light on. Mr. Schuman, the stone cutter who did the polishing, asked for a price high enough to make a monument for exhibition at the Portland exposition, and Mr. Winans will send it down.

Miss Phoebe Newell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Newell, well known in Hood River, where she spent the summer of 1896, died at her home in Portland, Sept. 15th, after a lingering illness. The Oregonian says: "After a heroic and laborious fight against death for nearly four years she succumbed to the disease, consumption, which had attacked her, and which carried off also her brother Rufus and sister Flora. Through the years of her illness she was cheerful and full of life, and with little care as possible for her parents, who sought in every way to ward off the inevitable. Her noble character and sweet disposition have left a memory long to be cherished by her schoolmates and friends. Thursday night, at 11 o'clock, she realized that the end was approaching, and she took a kindly farewell from each member of the family, speaking words of comfort to her parents. She was a native of Portland, born March 19, 1879. The Hood River friends of Miss Phoebe Newell deeply sympathize with the afflicted family."
S. W. Arnold, who by the way is one of the finest carpenters in the country, is a very quiet man. Recently he was in one of our stores where politicians sometimes congregate and discuss public men and public measures, and to their hearts' content praise or condemn the policies of our government officials. The sentiment of the crowd on this occasion seemed to be all one way and condemned the president for not pushing the war in the Philippines to a satisfactory conclusion by sending enough men and more able generals. After about all of the crowd had had their say some one asked Arnold what he thought about it. "Well," replied Arnold, "I think McKelvey's a fool. Yes, he's a fool for not picking his cabinet advisers and generals out of this crowd."
H. H. Holmes of Portland, county clerk of Multnomah county, has purchased the Wheeler place, consisting of ten acres near town, with the improvements, paying therefor $1,250. Mr. Holmes and wife spent two or three days here during this week to inspect their new purchase and are very much pleased with their bargain.
Mr. Martin and family from Prineville, arrived here Tuesday and moved into their farm recently purchased of J. H. Brown. The place is owned by the Aaron Beckman ranch and is one of the best pieces of land in the valley. Mr. Martin is delighted with his purchase and says other of his Crook county neighbors will follow him.
All the salmon trout that are being caught this year in Hood river are large. Fishermen say this is an indication that these fish are not going to be so plentiful hereafter unless something is done to replenish the stream with spawn and give them protection.

Howard Isenberg's Return.
Howard Isenberg, one of the Hood River boys who volunteered at the first call for troops in the war with Spain, arrived home from the Philippine Tuesday morning. He was the last of the Hood River volunteers to return. He is looking well. Like the rest of the Hood River boys who went to the Philippines, he has had the change to that enervating climate all right. Howard was on the non-commissioned staff of Gen. Lawton and was with him through all his campaigns. On his way home, at Nagasaki, Japan, he took the steamer and went to Kobe and from there to Tokyo, the capital of Japan, and thence to Yokohama, where he re-embarked on his ship and arrived at San Francisco about August 27th. Howard is proud of his record as a soldier, but he is glad he went to war, but he has had enough of soldiering. He was offered a good position at San Francisco if he would re-enlist. He will now devote himself to study and will complete his education, and for this purpose will attend one of the institutions of learning in the state, probably the university at Eugene.
Women's Christian Temperance Union.
Following is the declaration of principles of this association:
We believe in the coming of His Kingdom whose service is the chief end of man because His laws, written in our members as well as in nature and in grace, are perfect, converting the soul.
We believe in the gospel of the Golden Rule, and that each man's life is a blessing for every other man's life.
We believe that God created both man and woman in his own image, and therefore, for both men and women, and in the same right to all civil and political rights, and to express the same in the home, on the platform, in the pulpit and at the ballot-box.
We believe in a living wage; in an 8-hour day; in better conditions and pay for both men and women, and in the same right to all civil and political rights, and to express the same in the home, on the platform, in the pulpit and at the ballot-box.
We therefore formulate, and for ourselves adopt the following pledge, asking our sisters to do the same: We will abstain from all distilled, fermented and malt liquors; including wine, beer and cider, as a beverage, and to employ all proper means to discourage the use of and traffic in the same.
To confirm and enforce the rationale of this pledge, we declare our purpose to educate the young; to form a better public sentiment; to reform, so far as possible, by religious, ethical and scientific means, the drinking classes; to seek the transforming power of divine grace for ourselves and for whom we work; that they and we may willfully transcend no law of pure and wholesome living; and finally we pledge ourselves to labor and pray that all these principles, founded upon the Gospel of Christ, may be worked out into the customs of society and the laws of the land.

THE PEOPLE'S STORE.

Presidential Campaign of 1909.
The policies of the great political parties are now being formed and the candidates discussed. The voice of the people as recorded by ballot at the approaching presidential election, will probably decide the policy of the nation for the next decade. Every citizen must study the great questions that are to come before the people. This can only be done through the medium of a great newspaper. Now is the time, therefore, for every voter to subscribe for the best and most reliable newspaper obtainable. The Semi-Weekly Republic covers the whole field of political news. While it is democratic, it publishes the news in regard to political parties without prejudice. Its telegraphic and cable news service is superior to that of any other paper. Its special features are the best. In fact, it is the paper for that large class of readers who cannot afford or do not have access to the daily papers.
Attention is also called to The Republic's Sunday Magazine. Its half-tone illustrations are alone worth the subscription price. It is made up of special articles by the best literary talent, embracing a variety of subjects of current interest. News features of absorbing interest are illustrated and enlarged upon. For the benefit of the ladies the latest fashions are handsomely illustrated. The Republic Sunday Magazine is always interesting to every member of the family.
The subscription price of the Semi-Weekly Republic is $1 per year. The Republic Sunday Magazine $1.25 per year. Both papers are now being offered at the very low price of $1.50 for one year. To secure this low rate both must be ordered and paid for at the same time.
Address all orders to The Republic, St. Louis, Mo.

Crushed to Death.
O. F. Hull, eldest son of Mrs. D. H. Clough of Hood River, was accidentally killed at Pe Ell, Wash., Sept. 17th. Mr. Clough was telegraphed for at that time, but being too feeble to travel that distance, was unable to attend the funeral. Participants of the accident are given in the Oregonian, as follows:
"O. F. Hull, an old-time resident of Lewis county, was killed this morning while working in Yeoman's logging camp at Pe Ell. At the time of the accident he was working on the skid road. A small log that was being hauled in his camp, slipped and fell on the center of his body, pinning him against another log and cutting him nearly in two, causing instant death. The deceased leaves two grown sons, William and Allen, the former of whom is foreman in Yeoman's camp. His wife still survives him."
