

Hood River Glacier

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1900.

BRIEF LOCAL MATTERS.

Pound party tonight at Mrs. Irwin's. U. of O. glee club, The Dalles, Dec. 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark of Stevenson spent Christmas in Hood River.

E. Bloom, representing the California Saw Works of Portland, was in town last week.

Mrs. John Castner went to Portland Wednesday morning to attend her father's funeral on that day.

Clarence English is in San Francisco, where he is working at his trade of engraving and doing well.

Geo. Booth went to Portland last Friday to spend Christmas with his daughter, Mrs. J. L. Atkinson, and family.

Prof. Landers and N. H. The Dalles high school are at attendance at the state teachers' institute at Salem this week.

A fine line of fancy candies for the holidays can be found at W. B. Cole's confectionary - home-made and imported.

John Castner, who is working for the railroad company at LaGrande, was home for Christmas and returned to LaGrande Tuesday.

Dr. F. C. Brosius has returned and can be found in his office over Williams & Brosius' drug store, between the hours of 10 1/2 a. m. to 8 1/2 p. m.

S. J. LaFrance has the most complete line of Christmas goods ever brought to Hood River. Persons buying early will have a greater variety to select from.

Our friend T. J. Corning favored the Glaciers with a plentiful supply of shell-bark hickory nuts as a Christmas gift.

Another manufacturer has started in Hood River. J. B. Hunt is making an excellent furniture polish, which will make your old furniture look as good as new and save buying new.

Harry Halverson of Wind River is spending the week in Hood River. Harry has been attending the Portland university for the past two years, and is spending his Christmas vacation here.

A. d. was run in by Marshal Olinag last Thursday night. Friday morning he was brought before Recorder Nickerson and made to enrich the town treasury to the extent of $5, after paying costs of arrest.

G. A. R. - A special meeting of Canby post is called for Saturday, Dec. 30th, at 2 o'clock. The inspecting officer will be present and inspect the post. All who can attend are requested to do so.

Geo. M. Cornell, editor and publisher of the Clatsop, will spend the week in Hood River, in town last week gathering material for his paper from our mill men. The Oregon Timberman is a new publication and one that will be appreciated by the business men in whose interest it is published.

Mrs. Ella Mueron of Kansas, niece of Hon. J. A. Mieron, and who came out here about a year ago in the hope of benefiting her health, and subsequently went to her brother at Hood River, returned to her home in Kansas in the fall and died there on the 24th of last month. Her affliction was consumption - Forest Grove Times.

The funeral services of A. H. Tieman were held on Friday afternoon in the Congregational church. Hood River lodge of Masons conducted services after which Rev. J. L. Hershner gave a short talk, giving a history of the life of deceased as far as is known by intimate acquaintances. The services were concluded at the grave by the Masons.

Quite a family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Pugh on Christmas day, when sixteen persons gathered round the festive board. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Adams of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Pugh of White Salmon, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pugh of Hood River, and H. T. and Frank Pugh of Sherman county, who are attending business college in Portland.

I. C. Nealeigh reports that he has 21 of this year's pullets that have averaged him 21 cents a piece since they commenced laying in October. The pullets are a cross between the silver-spangled Hamburg and Minorca. His rooster was a full-blood Minorca. This is a good record, having been won by Mr. Nealeigh of our contributor of last week in a good one-hatch early pullet. Mr. Nealeigh's 24 pullets are now giving him a dozen eggs a day.

Mrs. Reed came to town from the Roberts' place Tuesday on the ferry, unattended she had Meigs Bartmess, such a wild rooster, and who came and that landed Charley Clarke in a ditch. Mrs. Reed is no novice in equestrianism and delights to sail through the atmosphere on the back of a steed that wants to run. At Columbia river, the horse took a notion to run away with her, and she let him have the reins till he thought better of it and came along at a more moderate pace.

L. C. Ireland, one of the firm of D. C. Ireland & Sons, proprietors and publishers of Sherman county's leading newspaper, dropped into the Glacier section last Saturday. Mr. Ireland is in Hood River looking for several carloads of oak wood. We had heard of his brother's marriage recently, and thinking it was L. C. who had committed the act of matrimony, congratulated him, when he told us it was his brother. L. C. says he is still enjoying single blessedness and cooking his own meals.

Uncle Oliver Bartmess presented the Glacier with an ear of corn - hominy corn, he called it - over eleven inches long and filled with plump grains to the tip. The corn was grown on his farm on the Wabash, back in Indiana, and was brought out by his son, W. F. Bartmess, on his recent visit. His son had 85 acres in corn last season and harvested 4,500 bushels. The land on which it was grown has been farmed for 70 years, but has been enriched by crops of clover. W. F. Bartmess is an expert at husking and can average his 90 bushels a day. Sam Bartmess held a record just as good.

Louis Baldwin came down from Mt. Hood on Friday to attend the funeral of A. H. Tieman, and in the evening went to Cascade Locks to spend the holidays with his sister and family. Mrs. Dell McCrory, Louis was doing the chores for Mr. Tieman and was with him when he died. Deceased was taken sick the day before, complaining of severe pains in his head, breast and back. He suffered intensely all night, but towards morning the pain was not so great, and a few minutes before 6 o'clock in the morning he came to where Louis was sitting by the fire, reading. He spoke to Louis, telling him he was a great reader and asked what he was reading. He then leaned back in his easy chair and fell asleep. In about five minutes he gave a gasp and two. Louis went to him and found he was dead.

Geo. Dimmick of Mt. Hood came down with H. D. Langille and the undertaker, S. E. Bartmess, who brought the body of the late A. H. Tieman to Hood River last Thursday. Mr. Dimmick will look after the Tieman place, feeding and caring for the stock, etc. All some disposition is made of it by the executor. There are 30 head of cattle and four horses, besides chickens, to look after.

Mattie Dukes and Barton Davidson, students of the Oregon agricultural college at Corvallis, came up last week to spend their two-weeks' Christmas vacation at home. All male students at the O. A. C. are required to do military drill duty one hour each school day, but Mattie says, fortunately, returned veterans from the Philippines are exempt from this work.

Prof. C. D. Thompson, principal of the Hood River public school, reports 212 pupils under his charge. This is an increase of 36 over the largest enrollment of last year, and is a good indication that Hood River is still growing. The building of our big six roomed school house - five rooms of which are now being built - is already proving a good investment.

W. H. Perry was presented by his children on Christmas day with a handsome and valuable gold watch. Mr. Perry was 64 years old on Christmas day. A family reunion was held at the home of E. E. Lyons and of course a very merry time was had by all. Mr. Perry is in his home in Portland on Tuesday morning.

The many Hood River students who have returned home from the various schools of the Willamette valley to spend their Christmas vacations at home, seem glad to get back to Hood River. The Willamette valley country may be good enough for websters, they say, but is not congenial for people from Eastern Oregon.

As indicating of Hood River people's prosperity the merchants of the town with one accord pronounce this to have been the best Christmas season Hood River ever had. The weather was clear and warm all week and every body came to town and having money to spend spent it for Christmas presents.

Miss Madge Warren is spending the holidays with her parents at Frankton. Miss Warren has been teaching school at Cascade Locks for the past two weeks, having taken Miss Benson's place, who resigned on account of trouble with her eyes. Madge expects to complete the term of school at Cascade Locks.

The Frankton literary elected officers at its meeting last Friday evening, as follows: President, Mel Foley; secretary, S. C. Sherrill; treasurer, May Bowman; sergeant at arms, Thos. Calkins. After rendering a short program, the meeting adjourned without debating the question for the evening.

A reunion of M. P. Isenberg's family gathered at the home in Belmont on Christmas day and of course a jolly and agreeable day was spent. Five sons and five daughters, and one son-in-law with the old folks and grand children gathered at the Christmas dinner.

Congregational Church. - Services will be conducted by the pastor Rev. Sunday at 11 a. m. Subject, "From Father Time's Standard." (C. L. service to be held at 7 p. m. Ladies aid society will meet on Friday afternoon at Mrs. Herzener's.

W. B. Shute, who is employed with the house carpenters of the O. R. & N. on the Snake river branch, came home to spend the holidays. Mr. Shute says there has been as much winter weather in the Snake river country as we have had in Hood River.

W. J. Smith and daughter Helen spent several days in Hood River last week. Mr. Smith is now engaged in the saw mill business at Astoria. His family still reside at Cascade Locks, where he is comfortably situated for the winter.

Wm. Sayre and wife arrived here last week from Massachusetts and were taken out to Mt. Hood by Joe Wright, where they are visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Prindle. Mr. Sayre taught school in the Baldwin district about 10 years ago.

A pond social will be given this Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Erwin for the benefit of Rev. Frank Spaulding. A musical program will be rendered, after which refreshments will be served. Price 10 cents.

Amos Underwood received a dispatch from Mosier Tuesday morning stating that Herbert Underwood had died at that place. Mr. Underwood was instructed to notify Ira Rowland, who lives near Underwood's landing.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bailey, who have been teaching at the N. C. - Cameron mill, returned home last week. Mr. Bailey is on the sick list, and both will remain at home till he recovers.

F. E. Denzer has finished off four rooms of his new house in Blowers addition and is occupying the same with his family. The balance of the house will be finished at his leisure.

Rev. Frank Spaulding preached the sermon at the dedication of the new M. E. church at Boyd last Sunday.

Mrs. Lucy Morgan returned to Portland, Wednesday, after an enjoyable visit in Hood River of three weeks.

There will be union watch night services at the M. E. church next Sunday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Henry Shute came down from Echo, where he is engaged in railroad work, to spend Christmas at home.

C. C. Ingersoll of South Bend, Wash., father of Mrs. S. A. Knapp, is visiting Mr. Knapp and family.

S. E. Taylor, who has been laid up with rheumatism, is recovering and is again on the streets.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Bartsch came up from Portland to spend Christmas in Hood River.

Howard Isenberg of the Portland university is visiting his home at Belmont. C. P. Ross and family spent Christmas in Portland, returning Wednesday.

Sam C. Smith and family will leave next week for Dallas, Polk county, where he, in partnership with Roy Forsyth, has purchased the furniture of a hotel and will engage in the hotel business. Mr. Forsyth has had experience in hotel work. Mr. Smith will be now to the business, but with the help of his estimable wife, will soon catch on to the work and we predict will make a success as a landlord. Hood River society will be the loser by this change, but Dallas is to be congratulated on the acquisition of Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their interesting daughter to society. Messrs. Smith & Forsyth will give the town a hotel the people can be proud of. Mr. Smith went to Dallas last week and made the purchase, returning home Monday.

Uncle Oliver Bartmess, his son, W. E., and grandsons Earl, Meigs and Lloyd, made a trip last Tuesday to the highest hills east of White Salmon. The party traveled the whole distance, except in crossing the Columbia on the ferry, on foot. It was a tramp of about fifteen miles, but all felt well repaid for their arduous trip. They reached the top of the highest peak and beholding the grandeur of the picture, the river and hills and valleys and snow mountains, spread out before them in all directions. Uncle Oliver, though over 80, stood the trip better than all of the party.

The Oregon Lumber Co. presented a Christmas party Tuesday to the dancing team, making a total of 72. The Oregon Lumber Co's shipments of lumber for the year 1899 will amount to 20,000,000 feet. The company is building another incline to the boat landing from their yards at Veneta, and another donkey engine will be used, giving room for doubling the force of men employed in bringing rough lumber from the mills across the Columbia.

The hall given under the auspices of the Hood River cornet band took place Wednesday night at the armory. About 40 couples were present, and dancing continued until the early hours. An orchestra from The Dalles was present and furnished good music. Supper was served. The proceeds of the evening will go toward helping to pay an instructor for the Hood River band.

Brother Watson was surprised on the 70th birthday by four good people dropping in and disturbing his peaceful rest, but he enjoyed the pleasures of the evening as well as they. The delicious pumpkin pie and cake was served and nowhere else can one find such pumpkin pies as the ones made by Mrs. Watson. The snail of many more summers be given them both.

Howard S. Soule of Soule Bros. of Portland, Or., piano tuners and repairers and successors to W. S. Geary, will be in Hood River January 2 and 3. If you will leave your order at the office of the Glacier, Mr. Soule will call on you, and any work entrusted to him will receive expert attention.

Capt. Blowers, one of the executors of the estate of A. H. Tieman, deceased, went to The Dalles, Tuesday, and had the will probated. N. C. Evans, J. H. Dukes and Robt. Rasmussen, appointed appraisers and on Thursday they went to Mt. Hood to make the appraisement of the effects of deceased.

The East Fork Irrigating Co. expect to complete their ditch on the East Side next summer. Right of way has been secured from all the property owners on the main line of the ditch, and on the East Side later three or four have for some reason refused to give right of way.

Mr. A. B. McGuire and family of Colfax, Wash., are visiting their parents, and relatives of this city, and will remain until after the holidays. Mr. McGuire's family are from the Palouse land, and is one of the Palouse country's most prosperous farmers.

W. E. Newcomb died in Portland on Christmas day, aged 75 years. Deceased was well known in Hood River, where he lived for a number of years up to about two years ago. Bright's disease was the cause of his death.

The warm chinook wind last Friday and Saturday took off the snow, and Hood River had a green Christmas. Christmas was a clear and beautiful day, warm enough to go without fires in the residences.

Miss Lottie Roberts, who was expected home to spend the holidays, unfortunately had to postpone her keeping at work at them, and she had to disappoint her folks by not coming.

H. F. Davidson returned from his Eastern trip on Christmas day. He found good weather everywhere he went and at no place was the thermometer lower than 10 degrees above zero.

The Hood River cornet band played several pieces of music on the streets just "before the ball" Wednesday. Our band is something to be proud of.
