RELIGIOUS MONOPOLY.

Professor Herron, of Iowa, on the Effect

New York, Jan. 24.-George D. Herron, formerly a professor in Iowa college, who is on his way to Russia to visit Count Tolstoi, said in a lecture last night before the Social Reform Club that what Protestant Christendom termed religious authority was essentially a monopoly.

"There is no difference," he said, between the oil combination that says 'Pay unto me so much tribute, or else go without oil,' and that of the church that says 'Whorship as I say or be damned.' It is exactly the same prin-Manila, Jan. 24 .- Two companies ciple; that which lies back of the Standard Oil combination and the

"Socialism has come to us not as an economic change, but it stands for a capitalism and the various forms of diswe must finally reach that stage where human need is the only recognized coin of the realm for a decent society. The central idea of socialism is that of every human being an equal inheritor of worldly benefits. And in this day all things objective and subjective are tending toward the socialistic idea.

"One of the grave questions is the effect socialism will have on religion. What will be the effect on the general nental attitude in human life if socialism should predominate? What will be the effect of the creeds and the dogmas, the gods and the temples? The effect of socialistic idea possessing the world would change the whole attitude of human life toward the future. More About the Fight." Spearman's Camp, Jan. 24.—Early Sunday morning General Warren comnenced a flanking movement on the extreme left of the Boer position. The infantry advanced at 5 o'clock in the morning along the irregular sides of Tabamyama mountain, which ends at pionkop. The artillery positions were ehind and on the plain. The British carefully worked along the hills until within 1,000 yards of a commanding kopje, on which the Boers were concentrated, concealed behind immense boulders strewn thickly over the hill. The artillery opened the attack, and the batteries worked continuously, pouring tons of shrapnel among the Boers, who devoted their attenton to musketry firing on the British infantry. The Boers stuck to their rocky fastness with greatest tenacity, and at the conclusion of the day the British had only advanced across a few ridges. The Boers apparently have few guns, and they did little damage. Captain Honley, of the Dublin fusiiers, fell mortally wounded while leading his men to seize a fresh point of vantage.
