

Wood River Glacier

FRIDAY, MARCH 2, 1900.

The Institute

The farmers' institute met in A. O. U. W. hall at 10 o'clock Monday. J. H. Smeaker was called to the chair and acted as temporary chairman. Prof. Lake of the Oregon agricultural college and C. L. Smith, the lecturer from Minnesota, were the only ones present from a distance, the others having failed for some reason to arrive in time for the opening of the institute. There was a good attendance of farmers and fruit growers.

C. L. Smith was introduced by the chairman and gave an interesting talk for half an hour or more, and then said he would devote 20 minutes to answering questions. Questions were first at him quick and fast, and for more than half an hour he gave answers to questions satisfactorily and which were interesting and instructive to all. Questions were asked by E. W. Winans, Peter Mohr, E. L. Smith, W. A. Slingerland, W. P. Watson, D. H. Sears, Chas. Chandler, C. E. Markham and others. We regret that we cannot furnish a verbatim report of the questions and answers.

Prof. E. R. Lake then gave a short talk on subjects relating to horticulture. He asked Hood River fruit growers to cooperate with him in propagating strawberry and other fruits from the best plants and trees. Select strawberry sets from the most vigorous and productive plants only, and clone from the apple trees, and limbs of apple trees, that produce the best fruit of their kind. He believes many failures of trees in our orchards are due to injudicious selections of clones. Questions were asked Mr. Lake, and most of his talk was concerning the curl leaf of the prune tree, of which no one had yet discovered the cause nor provided a remedy.

In the afternoon W. P. Watson presided. C. L. Smith talked and answered questions for about two hours. He talked on diversified and intensive farming and showed what could be done on a small fruit farm by keeping cows, hogs and chickens, by growing plenty of fodder and feeding it on the place, and returning the manure to the land. He did not believe it would pay to purchase commercial fertilizers for orchards. Applying barnyard manure and turning under red clover and other like forage plants gave the best and most lasting results.

Prof. Lake talked for a short time on the necessity of fruit growers taking more interest in the work of the state board of horticulture and asked all to become members by paying the necessary 50 cents. The afternoon session was interesting throughout, and the experience brought out by the questions asked were instructive.

The evening session was held in the Congregational church. The missing professors were still absent, which somewhat interfered with the programme for the evening. W. P. Watson presided.

Prof. Cuddy opened the exercises by a cornet solo. Miss Anne Smith presided at the organ during the evening.

Dairy and Food Commissioner Bailey gave a talk on adulterated foods. He exhibited a three-gallon wooden bucket, handsomely labeled, in which had been 20 pounds of so-called strawberry jelly, sold at wholesale for 35 cents a bucket, and retailed at 40 and 50 cents. An analysis by the chemist at the state agricultural college showed that there was not a particle of the fruit of the strawberry in the "jelly."

Mr. Bailey also showed how other foods were adulterated, and said that hardly a manufactured article sold in a grocery store was as represented.

Sam Blowers treated the audience to a song, which was heartily applauded, and he was called back for another.

C. L. Smith then gave his lecture on "Home Making," which was intended for Tuesday evening.

A song by S. J. LaFrance ended the programme for the evening. Mr. LaFrance had also to respond to an encore.

Tuesday morning Prof. Cordley talked on fruit pests. For codlin moth, he did not consider the first spraying, just after the blossoms fall, as the most necessary. He considered late spraying, after August, as the most important, and to keep it up until picking time. D. H. Sears thought the first spraying the most important. He said he sprayed last year at that time, kept it up throughout the season, and saved 98 per cent of his apples, while his neighbors, who did not spray till later, had 40 per cent of wormy apples. After considerable discussion, Prof. Cordley admitted that climatic conditions might make the first spraying necessary at Hood River. The questions and answers and discussions on fruit pests kept up till the morning hour was consumed.

Tuesday afternoon C. L. Smith talked and answered questions about dairying and feeding, for 2 1/2 hours. The questions and discussions taken part in by our farmers showed that much interest was taken in their work and that many were well posted.

Tuesday evening the closing session was held in the Congregational church, and a full house assembled to hear the conclusion of C. L. Smith's lecture on "Home Building." Dr. Brosius opened the session by favoring the audience with a solo. C. L. Smith's lecture was listened to with strict attention and his humorous and droll illustrations provoked frequent applause. He said in part:

The first aim and highest ambition of the farmer should be to make for his family a happy home. The poet Burns truly said:

To make a happy domestic life
For wife and child,
That's the true path and sublime
Of human life.

The pioneer farmer, who of necessity is compelled to give his first attention to the production of something that will sell for dollars, far too often becomes so engrossed in his pursuit of dollars that he forgets what he is living for. The dollar for dollars goes on year after year to the neglect of all his higher duties. Many and many a load of farm produce goes to market that costs the farmer and his family much more in hardship, deprivation and unhappiness than the money received can ever buy back.

Every man who owns a lot of land, large or small, should make the home his first thought. Trees, grass, flowers and shrubs should be utilized to beautify the place, making it so pleasant a place to dwell that the boys and girls will hold it in remembrance as the dearest spot on earth.

Every kind of fruit, vegetable, meat or other article that can be produced in this climate should be grown in sufficient quantity to supply the family. Observation and experience has demonstrated that where the farmer depends on buying these things instead of raising them, his family has to go without them.

Good, wholesome, nutritious food is necessary for the best development of the boy or girl as it is for the cow, calf or pig. Sour bread and soggy potatoes as a continuous diet will develop sour, ill-tempered men and women. No woman should ever think of marrying until she knows how to cook a good meal of victuals. A young man should never marry until he has demonstrated his ability to provide the things necessary for the wife to cook with. Sour bread is an abomination; but the man who fails to provide his wife with good flour, a good cooking stove and plenty of good fire wood, ought to eat sour bread to the end of his days without any right to complain.

Kind words, thoughtfulness regarding the feelings of others, will go a long way toward making a happy home. The man who makes the model home his highest ambition and aim in life stands a fair chance of winning the goal. In doing this he will secure a larger measure of human happiness, will have done more for his country and for humanity than one who amasses dollars.

The poet Whittier truly says:
"Give knives their gold and loaves their power,
Let France's bubble rise and fall,
Who plants a tree or trains a flower
Is more than all."

Surely, he who makes a model home, and trains his boys and girls to noble life, is a public benefactor whose work will secure for him grateful remembrance in the hearts of those who come after him.

Hon. E. L. Smith read the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted by a rising vote, after which Chairman Watson declared the institute closed:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Hood River institute, now drawing to a close, are hereby tendered to Mr. C. L. Smith of Minnesota for his efficient services during our session. In the absence of other speakers who had been announced, he has done more than double duty; he has discussed the subjects of grasses, fertilizers, dairying and home making in a highly interesting and instructive manner. The thanks of the institute are also due to Professors Lake and Cordley for information of great value to horticulturists, also to State Dairy and Food Commissioner Bailey for statement of the progress made in driving out of the markets bogus fruit preparations.

Resolved, further, That we emphatically endorse the proposed legislation by congress for the better protection of pure food products, and we urge the strict enforcement of the laws of Oregon upon that subject.

(Articles appearing in the GLACIER under the above heading for a week or two will be furnished and edited by the board of directors of the Hood River Fruit Growers' Union.)

Last year the Union and the Davidson Fruit Co. each had cars arriving in Butte on the same day. To prevent the recurrence of such a mistake and also to avoid holding over fruit at this point when it would be advantageous to load together, the Union has secured an agreement with the Davidson Fruit Co. by which they will load together when necessary.

No other agreements have been entered into. The statement that the Union and the Davidson Fruit Co. have "combined" is not true.

The policy of the Union directors is to avoid all fighting with or against another company. It is their purpose to attend strictly to the business interests of the Union shippers whose agents they are. That some growers do not see fit to ship with the Union is no fault of the Union shippers. Every body admits that the failure to maintain a union would result in two or more private companies contending against each other as shipping agents at this place. Such competition would be disastrous to the interests of the growers, especially if personal feuds enter into the strife. The growers really owe it to themselves and to each other to combine for their own interests.

To private corporations and to middle men generally the growers owe nothing. The Southwestern remarks, "The first duty of those who believe in co-operation is to stand squarely by their local union."

"The greatest enemy in this country, and in every other country, today and every day, is co-operation—practical, thorough co-operation. It is needed in business, it is needed in social life. In fact, the safety of this country largely depends upon the union of the farmers into co-operative societies. The working men generally belong to unions, the business men are organized, only the farmers, who number 40 per cent of the population, remain unorganized."

Mrs. J. K. Miller, Newton Hamilton, Pa., writes, "I think DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve the greatest salve made." It cures piles and heals everything. All fraudulent imitations are worthless. Williams & Brosius.

Price of Strawberry Crates.

Being assured of practically the entire trade of this section on strawberry crates this season we have offered to the Union for their patrons and offer to others a price of 14 cents on strawberry crates for this season's use. In view of the advance in the price of lumber, wire, nails and labor this reduced price cannot be maintained except by the unanimous patronage of the growers and shippers of this section.

To all who pay cash for their crates and load them away on or before the first day of April, we will allow a further discount of 5 per cent from the above price, making the crates cost those who are in a position to take advantage of this offer, the low price of 13-30 cents each.

Every grower must give us, before the 15th of March, an estimate of the number of crates he expects to use and his acreage of strawberries, so we can provide against a shortage of boxes. This interests the growers as well as us. Call and see us. DAVIDSON FRUIT CO., Proprietors of Hood River Box Factory.

Mothers and Daughters of Oregon.

There's a guiding love direct mankind
Amid the devious paths we tread;
There's a dread of being left behind
That quickens our steps to paths to tread.

Amid the paths of progress, long
As the years of the centuries roll
An ever better and sweeter song
Is bursting from the human soul.

Through weal and woe towards their goal
The men and women go hand in hand;
And they are one in heart and soul,
Why not in the law of the land?

There's a force that strives to equalize
In all the rights that Nature gave—
In law and custom good and wise—
Let each be free, and none a slave.

Oh yes, there's a force, a motive power,
Through the world of action and of thought;
A flame no good, how ever it lower,
Can quench, no drought can draught.

There's a force that tends, and ever should,
To foster and further a righter plan,
And the hope of woman's womanhood
Is applying to the manhood of man.

Woodmen of the World.

On last Thursday evening at the Congregational church a small but very appreciative audience listened to an address on Woodcraft by Mr. Brownhill of The Dalles camp, Woodmen of the World. Mr. Brownhill is neither a lecturer nor organizer for the order but doubtless is accomplishing much good by his clear presentation of the benefits of fraternal protection. It is hoped that in the near future it may be thought wise to send an organizer here who may be successful in perfecting an organization of which all Woodmen of the World may justly feel proud.

The greatest danger from colds and la grippe is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. It will cure a cold or an attack of la grippe in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Williams & Brosius.

To The Public.

Owing to other business arrangements with which it would seriously interfere, the Hood River Trading Co. has decided not to engage in the business of shipping strawberries and the manufacture of crates for the season of 1900. We thank our many friends who have voluntarily agreed to do so, and promised to us a very large amount of business, and trust that in the future we may be able to materially serve them in other lines, to our mutual benefit.

Best Food for Intellectual Thought.
No man can vote intelligently unless he thinks intelligently. In this time of "wars and rumors of wars" the greatest aid to intelligent thinking and the best food for intelligent thought is that newspaper which is greatest and best. Important political issues are daily growing more important. An intelligent understanding of the policy of a nation or a great political party is something to be desired, and it is the duty of every citizen to thoroughly inform himself upon the leading topics of the day. The Semi-Weekly Republic is the greatest and best of all newspapers. Its telegraphic and cable news service excels that of any other paper.
