

Good River Glacier

FRIDAY, MARCH 23, 1900.

BRIEF LOCAL MATTERS.

A door key was found and left at this place for the owner.

Eggs for hatching, pure bred stock, E. E. SAVAGE.

E. E. Savage is on the sick list and under the doctor's care.

Col. Hartley is building a neat fence around his residence block.

H. Pugh is building quite an addition to his house occupied by Capt. Davidson.

Annie Wilson is laid up with a bad cold and has been under the doctor's care.

J. R. Nickelsen and family visited C. Early and family at Viento on Saturday.

Full-blood one-year-old single comb Leghorn rooster for sale by J. H. Oberg.

The ladies aid society of the Congregational church will meet at Mrs. Noah Cox's on Friday afternoon.

Rayburn, the milkman, delivers milk morning and evening. He drives a fine horse and a new spring wagon.

Mrs. Charotte Koplin has been dangerously sick with heart trouble for the last week, but was improving at last account.

Miss Emily Palmer of White Salmon, who was quite sick last week with the grip, is getting better and is now in a way to recover.

Dr. F. C. Brosius has returned and is found in his office over Williams Brosius' drug store, between the hours 10-11 a. m., 2-3 and 6-7 p. m.

25 acres finely improved land, 20 acres suitable for fruit or dairy. Fine orange tract, with house, in town. For sale by E. E. SAVAGE.

Dr. Shaw's cottage, on State street, near Second, is nearing completion, and being in a commanding location, will make one of the prettiest homes in town.

Judge Prather has procured for the Good River library the Standard History of All Nations, in ten volumes. This is a most valuable addition to our books.

B. B. Crawford, of Hazeldean, near White Salmon, died of heart failure at his home Friday, March 23d inst., aged 2 years. A wife and adopted daughter survive him.

E. E. Denzer is rushing work on the summer boarding house he is building at Blowers addition for Portland parties. The building will show up nicely from the state road.

L. K. King, who has been visiting with another A. W. King, in Hood River during the past winter, left last Saturday for his home at Weiser, Idaho, where he has a large stock ranch.

Mrs. A. C. Leander of Groton, S. D., cousin of Mrs. F. W. Angus and the Morse brothers, is visiting her relatives in Hood River. Mrs. Leander's husband is a publisher and proprietor of the Groton Independent.

Our valley was visited by a soaking rain last Saturday night and Sunday. It was the first rainfall for two weeks, and roads were dusty and newly set strawberry plants were suffering for moisture.

W. L. Clark of Cascade Locks was in town Saturday. Mr. Clark is sub-inspector on the works at the Locks. He reports that about fifty men are employed in building a protection wall on the island at the mouth of the locks.

No part of town is building up more rapidly than Blowers addition. The new houses of N. Tostevin, F. E. Denzer, A. Knapp and H. W. Wait, along the state road, have been occupied for some time and the owners are graded off and are beautifying their lawns.

E. D. Calkins, proprietor of the Frankton poultry yard, laid an egg on our table last Saturday that weighed 2 1/2 ounces. The egg was first laid by Mr. Calkins' favorite Light Brahma hen, and to the hen of course all credit is due. Mr. Calkins is making a success of the poultry business.

Commencement exercises at Barrett school, on the evening of March 21st, were attended by over 200 people. The essays read by the graduating class were highly complimented, which speaks well for the teachers as well as pupils. Prof. Ackerman and Gilbert were both present and delivered addresses, the latter presenting the diplomas.

Ed Miller of Viento was a spectator at the Dalles convention, as is well known, but his right arm in a plaster cast last summer, and is therefore incapacitated from following his trade as a saw mill man. He has lately attended business college in Portland and brushed up his knowledge of clerical work. He has been elected a candidate for county clerk when another republican county convention comes along.

The fruit crop was never more promising. Peaches, plums, cherries, apricots and strawberries are in bloom, and early apple trees are showing the bloom. Orchardists are preparing to spray for the codling moth. The heavy loss of two years ago, when we had an immense crop and lost most of it through failure to spray, was an object lesson that will not soon be forgotten.

The cantata of Lost and Saved, that was to have been repeated March 21st, has been postponed indefinitely. Miss Simmons was called to Portland by the illness of her sister, Miss Ida Eoss, the leading character. Miss Ida Eoss, who is teaching at Trout Lake, W. S. Gregory will remove to Portland, and other changes have taken place which necessitate the postponement of the play for the present.

Instructions sent out from the post office department, office of the superintendent free delivery system, state that carriers are under the control of the postmaster from whose office the service is established, and it is his duty to report any derelictions upon their part. Rural carriers are now supplied with stamps, postal cards, etc., for the accommodation of patrons, and they can also receive for money orders.

Fred Baillet and wife came to town the night of the Cameron road to attend the same. While driving down Oak street one of Mr. Bailey's horses stumbled at the crossing at Rogers' store, where the gravel crosswalk makes a rise in the ground. When the horse fell, it was pushed along by the impetus gained at the crossing and the wheel over its eyes. Both its eyes were soon so badly swollen that the horse could not see on its way home.

Two men traveling up the Columbia in a scow met with quite an adventure last week. When near Cameron's boom at the mouth of White Salmon, the wind calmed, and the men put an anchor into a small boat and towed the scow towards the shore. In attempting to cast the anchor the chain got wound round the leg of one of the men, and when it took the man along to the bottom of the river. The small boat was upset and the other man thrown into the river. Some men in a skiff near by immediately came to their assistance. The anchor was drawn up and the man came up with it. He was turned over a barrel and worked with till he was cured.

The following parties raided the happy home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bailey, armed with large well packed lunch baskets, on the 23rd inst., it being the anniversary of Mrs. Bailey's birthday: Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Bailey, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Shoemaker, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Crapper, Mrs. Pearl Crapper, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Shoemaker, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Canning, J. L. Blount. A splendid dinner was served and it would be difficult to tell who enjoyed themselves the most—the surprisers or the surprisèd. Fred Bailey and Mrs. J. H. Shoemaker illustrated Sioux courtship, J. L. Blount explained when expansion was not beneficial or irritable, and T. J. Canning answered why he always ate so much when away from home.

Amos Underwood of White Salmon dropped into our sanctum on Monday and incidentally remarked that "44 years ago today the Indian massacre at the Cascades took place." He and John Chitman, L. L. Peck, Henry Shepard, Jim Thompson, Capt. Baughman were on the south side of the Columbia river and saw the bloody work of the red skins. The party could see the Indians trying to fire Bradford's store by throwing torches from the bluff. F. F. Bradford, now of Hood River, was one of the men at Bradford Bros., but he was in the East at the time. Lawrence Coe, brother of Capt. Coe, was a clerk in the store and took a leading part in defending the same. The number of whites killed on that day was 22.

The small-pox patients at the town hospital are all about well. It is thought they will be ready to leave the hospital the latter part of this week. The prompt and efficient work of the mayor and town council and the physicians of the town in quarantining the small-pox case prevented the spread of the disease and thereby saved the community from heavy loss. Purchasing the pest house and caring for the faulily sent here has cost the town about $1,000, but we may consider that we are getting off cheap.

A boy from Mt. Hood, about ten years of age, rode into Hood River Monday morning, on horseback. He accosted Judge Prather with the question, "Is this Hood River?" The judge knew the boy and saw that he had lost his bearings, and he had a little to say to him he was in The Dalles. "Well," said the boy, "I must have passed through Hood River and didn't know it. Didn't know I was riding so fast." And when the tears came to the boy's eyes the judge told him he was in Hood River and all right.

We do not know who is responsible, but the GLACIER notes with respect that the fine oak trees along State street, between Watson's place and Capt. Coe's, are being grubbed out. There is no necessity to destroy these handsome shade trees that have taken centuries to attain their growth. There was not too many trees on this part of the street, and if they stood too close to the wagon track, the road could have been made around them.

The funeral of Joseph McGuire, on Wednesday, was largely attended. Rev. J. L. Herschner preached the sermon in the U. B. church. At the request of the deceased, his remarks were chiefly devoted to the work of the Oregon pioneers. The floral tributes were numerous and handsome. The pall-bearers were O. C. Bartness, E. W. Winans, M. V. Rand, Judge L. Henry, Capt. A. S. Blowers and S. F. Blythe.

A magnolia bush in W. P. Watson's garden is a beauty. This semi-tropical plant contains about 300 blooms. Many visitors to Mr. Watson's garden have never seen anything like it. Monday, Mr. Watson had the bush photographed and will send a picture to the Oregonian.

One day last week five men sat down to dinner at the Mt. Hood hotel whose united weight was 1,355 pounds. Their names and weight are as follows: Hale, of Hale & Smith, railroad contractor, 220 pounds; Hayes, fire inspector, 310; L. D. Blount, 275; S. W. Arnold, 280; Joe Phillips, 290.

W. J. Baker, who has some of the best orchard and strawberry land near town, has decided to sell his place in lots to suit purchasers. He desires only to retain 10 or 12 acres for his own home. His land can be bought in tracts from 5 to 50 acres.

Miss Kate Davenport, teacher of the primary department of the Frankton school, closed her school last Friday and will go to her home at Mosier. Her youngest sister is visiting her at the home of Mrs. E. D. Calkins.

As will be seen by announcement in another column, Capt. Blowers has withdrawn from active service in the business of A. S. Blowers & Son. The captain will now have more time to look after his political views.

W. H. Wilson of The Dalles was in Hood River Tuesday, as attorney in Justice Prather's court, in the suit of Mrs. Boling against R. Rand. A jury trial was ordered and 10 o'clock Thursday fixed as the time.

The democratic primary for East Hood River will be held at Judge Kent's office at 2 o'clock Saturday, March 31st. In West Hood River the primary will be held at the armory, on the same day and hour.

Arthur Canning, a boy 12 years old, was neither absent nor tardy for the whole term of school in the Barrett district. He passed the sixth grade examination and will enter the seventh next January.

Jan. Parker will go to Nome along with Dr. Siddell of The Dalles. The doctor has secured transportation on the first steamer that leaves Portland for Nome, which will be about the 15th of May.

Cole & Graham, agents for the Troy Laundry, drive a neat delivery wagon that was presented by the laundry firm. Cole & Graham gather the wash every Tuesday and deliver on Saturdays.

The republican delegates to the county convention placed in nomination for justice of the peace for the district of East and West Hood River, C. J. Hayes; for constable, E. S. Olinger.

M. N. Foley came to town Wednesday for the first time for three months. The old pioneer is looking well. He was in town to attend the funeral of Joseph McGuire.

W. S. Gregory expects to go to Portland about the first of the month. He has about finished the wash every day of the business of R. L. Sabin at this place.

A sharp frost visited Hood River Wednesday morning. The fruit crop, beyond a few early strawberry blooms is thought to be all right.

Regular meeting of the Book and Curio club this Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, at A. O. U. W. hall. A full attendance is desired.

Supervisor Armor is opening up a fine lot of gravel on Paradise hill. R. M. Hunt is hauling gravel on the state road. The buildings of C. L. Rogers and Matt Russell, on Sherman street, are being pushed toward completion.

The People's Store has enlarged to accommodate increasing trade and their large stock of goods.

Big boys and little boys play marbles on the streets these fine days.

Mrs. H. J. Fredericks entertained her Sabbath school class last Saturday afternoon from three until five o'clock. Games were played and stories told, after which light refreshments were served. There were ten little folks present; Everett Rand, James Udell, Fred McMillen, Emmet Anderson.

Two members of the Song Bros. Co. (Howard S. and Stanley S. Song) will be in Hood River April 4, 1900, and will be prepared to do all kinds of piano work in the way of tuning and tone regulating, action and case repairing. All orders left at the GLACIER office promptly attended to.

Mrs. Wm. Davidson of Cloverdell entertained a number of young folks Wednesday evening. Some of Hood River's young folks went out.

Robt. Rand's cottage in South Watcom is nearing completion. Joe Mayes is also building a house in South Watcom.

A good picture of the late Joseph McGuire, along with an extended obituary, appears in the Oregonian of March 27th.

Elder J. W. Jenkins came down from Mosier on Wednesday to conduct the funeral services of Mrs. Elton Hayden.

Mrs. A. B. Canfield has been quite sick with the grip for the past two weeks and is now convalescent.

David Miller is putting up an addition to H. H. Holmes' summer residence on Lyman Smith avenue.

The Parker house, under the management of Mrs. H. W. Wait, has four boarders.

Regular meeting of the Eastern Star Saturday evening, March 31st. Work.

E. R. Bradley is confined to his house with the grip.

Hood River Teachers' Association.
Following is the programme for the teachers' association March 31st, commencing at 2 o'clock p. m.:
Opening song.

Elder J. W. Jenkins is conducting a protracted meeting at Mosier and will not be here to preach in the Valley Christian church next Sunday.

Born.
In Hood River, March 24, 1900, to Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Curtis, a daughter.

Died.
In Belmont, Hood River valley, March 26, 1900, Mrs. May Chapman Hayden, aged 19 years, 6 months and 8 days. Funeral was held Wednesday, from the residence at Belmont, at 2 o'clock.

Notice to Fruit Growers.
We wish to announce to the fruit growers of Hood River and White Salmon that we will accept consignments of all kinds of fruit, and we are making special preparation to market the coming quantity of crates and will sell them in competition with any proposition that may come along. We have ample room to store them, so customers need not prepare a place, but take them away at their convenience. As to marketing your berries, we feel sure that we can obtain the best possible price and your returns will be prompt. We have had twenty years' experience in marketing various kinds of Oregon products, and at all times have had to battle with the brightest commercial dealers of the Northwest. Old-timers will tell you that it has always been our purpose to get the highest value of a crate of strawberries and to frustrate buyers who combine to buy cheap.
BONE BROS.

Announcement.
I wish to say to the people of Hood River and vicinity that I have opened up business in the BOOK AND STATIONERY LINE, in the building recently occupied by W. V. Cole. I have a few early strawberry plants for sale. For sale by Williams & Brosius.
