Somebody's pet rabbits, a white and black one, are a great nuisance about town. They dig out the flower bulbs in the gardens. If the owner can not keep them off they ought to be killed and made into an elephant pot pie by the first party who can find a gun handy.

Davenport Bros. are filling a contract for 10,000 railroad ties for the portage road at the Dalles. The ties are shipped by scow and loaded near Nicolai's mill. H. F. Blagg, B. F. Gerkung, Abe Foley and N. Hall are hauling the ties from the planer and haul about 200 a day each.

The upper floor of Bone Bros. large warehouse is almost full of strawberry crates, and more crate material ordered. The lower floor contains the largest stock of feed stuffs ever in Hood River, and they will sell you, by the sack, wheat, shorts, bran, rolled wheat and barley at prices that will make you wonder who paid the freight.

Sunday and Monday were quite warm, the mercury going up into the eighties. A strong east wind filled the atmosphere with dust from east of the mountains on Sunday. The hot east winds made strawberry growers fear that their crops would suffer, but the welcome chinook that came up the river Tuesday evening dispelled all fear and no damage was done.

A. E. Cooper, general passenger agent in Portland for the Great Rock Island Route, was a visitor in Hood River last Friday. He thought we had a lovely town. Geo. Pass, Agent Sebastian of the Rock Island, at a meeting of the Western passenger association recently, submitted a proposition covering four special excursions in each direction between Chicago, Missouri river and intermediate points, and Colorado and Utah points, at rate of one regular first class fare plus $2 for the round trip; these rates to be tendered to Western connections for basing purposes.

F. M. Bewley, an old pioneer of Oregon, is sojourning at Paradise farm. He is an invalid, being afflicted with chronic catarrh of the stomach. Mr. Bewley came to Oregon across the plains in 1847, when he was but six years old. His father's family was in camp at Sandy river when the news of the Whitman massacre was received. One of his cousins was killed in the massacre. His father's family all had the measles at the time, and when they learned of the massacre his mother and an uncle took to their beds and never recovered. They were buried by the help of the Indians. The children, sick with the measles, had no medical attendance and nothing to eat but dried salmon and boiled wheat. They were living in a tent, in the month of November, with the rain pouring down and mud and water two inches deep in the tent. Such were pioneer days in Oregon. Mr. Bewley knew Dr. Adams 50 years ago, when the latter owned the best farm in Yamhill or in the state of Oregon.

Prof. C. D. Thompson, Miss Mella White and Miss Minnie Elton went to The Dalles on Sunday evening. They spent Monday visiting the public schools of The Dalles. Miss White and Miss Bess Isenberg started on Monday evening for Kansas, where they will visit relatives. Miss Elton will teach a summer school south of The Dalles. Prof. Thompson returned home on Tuesday.

Wm. Thompson's team ran away while returning from the boat landing Tuesday evening. Mr. Thompson was thrown out of the buggy and seriously injured. His left ear was nearly severed from his head and he received an ugly scalp wound and severe bruises on the body. Dr. Watt replaced his ear by sewing it on, and Mr. Thompson is doing as well as could be expected.

Chas. Gray was found dead on his place, about six miles out on the East Side, Tuesday evening. He had been blasting out stumps, and it is supposed he was killed by a premature explosion. Coroner Butts was notified and came down on the boat Wednesday and held an inquest. He lived alone and it is supposed that he had been dead nearly a week.

Sam Bartmess developed a bad case of rheumatism just when his wife was well. Mrs. Bartmess was put to sore straits to find a man to beat a carpet on Wednesday. The job was offered to several, among them Judge Prather, Hon. T. C. Dallas, Jas. Langille, Esq., and the editor of the GLACIER, each of whom were "too busy."

Buy your crates and boxes at the Hood River Box Factory. They are the best to be had, are the right size, have the usual smooth outside, and are MADE IN HOOD RIVER. Support the factory. It makes prices low and is a convenience to the fruit grower.

A runaway on the planer hill Thursday morning resulted in Chas. Wallace being badly injured. He was brought to town, and as we go to press is in charge of Dr. Shaw, having his wounds dressed.

Dr. Watt lately purchased a powerful microscope that will be very useful in his profession. It magnifies the germs of disease so that they can be readily detected in sputa or corpuscles of blood by an expert.

A meeting will be held Friday evening, May 4th, over W. E. Sherrill's store, for the purpose of organizing a base ball team. Every one interested should be present.

Dr. Shaw's new cottage will be occupied by F. B. Barnes and bride. They are now boarding at Mrs. J. F. Armour's. Mr. Barnes is again with W. F. Sherrill.

East Hood River.

Miss Carrie Copple, who has been dangerously sick with pneumonia for some time, is now in a fair way to recover.

Claude Copple arrived home Monday from the state university at Eugene.

Sherman Young started on his annual trip to the sheep country last Saturday. He is an expert with sheep shears and always comes home with a bar'l of moneys.

M. Metcalf is building a good dwelling house on his mountain slope east of the school house, which he bought from Henry Alkire last fall. A good sized clearing also shows plainly from the valley below.

Now is the time to sow clover seed. The ground should be well prepared and the covering done with nothing more than a heavy cold crusher. If a good shower comes, a good catch is assured, while if sown in the fall or early spring, the ground will bake and the tender growth will shrivel and die in the hot sun.

On one of A. I. Mason's trips from Portland to his farm he had an experience with giant powder which came near giving him his 4th of July too prematurely. It was on a frosty morning, and to warm up the powder for use he lit two bakings pans with it and placed them in the oven. The stove was warmer than he thought, and in a few minutes the powder was safe and burning fiercely. The pans were too hot to handle, and his first impulse was to dash a bucket of water into the oven. This he attempted to do, but the ball on the bucket, which was sitting near the stove, had become so hot that it burnt his hand, causing him to let go of it, spilling the water on the floor. He rushed to the spring for a fresh supply, but before he could return the powder was entirely consumed. The heat from the open oven door was so great that the floor, wood-box and chairs were nearly caught fire, which a light dash of water easily extinguished. The upsetting of the water bucket may have been a fortunate thing, as the explosion of steam, which surely would have followed if he had thrown the water into the oven, might have been more than the treacherous stuff would have borne. Mr. Mason's wife and little girl were both with him at the time, and he says that the nervous shock which the affair gave him spoiled his sleep for several nights. He warns his powder now by the heat of an out-door fire.

Poultry Notes.

It is claimed that poultry manure, if properly taken care of and judiciously applied, is worth half the food the fowls eat.

E. D. Calkins brought to town, Monday, three hens' eggs that weighed 9 1/2 ounces. This is at the rate of 2 pounds 5 ounces to the dozen. Two of the eggs were from light Brahma hens and the other from a Langshan.

It is said that ducks, when fed too much grain, are liable to weakness of the legs and finally death. They want bulky material for food, such as lean meat, bran and ground oats moistened, and eat alfalfa or clover.

Poultry are a help to the strawberry grower. Chickens can be given the run of the strawberry patch at all times except when the berries begin to ripen. They will peck the ripe berries for awhile, but soon find they have no use for them. Chickens destroy many insects that are enemies of all fruits.

F. W. Angus on Tuesday received a light Brahma cockerel from Portland that was winner of first prizes at Spokane, Portland and Albany. He scored 93 points by Judge Browning at Portland and 93 1/2 by Judge Hitchcock at Albany. His weight is 14 pounds. Mr. Angus is rightfully proud of his bird.

Mrs. C. E. Ross received a present of a setting of Plymouth Rock eggs from a friend. Her hens are all non-setters of the Brown Leghorn breed. Reading in the GLACIER of Mrs. C. L. Copple's good success with light Brahmas as setters, Mr. Ross went over and borrowed a broody hen. Mrs. Copple's hens are trained not to set away from home, and the one borrowed persisted in standing on the eggs. This finally led to take the eggs to Mrs. Copple's ranch to have them hatched.

E. D. Calkins last week visited the poultry yards of several fanciers in the valley. He found F. W. Angus well prepared, with all the modern improvements, to make a success of the poultry business. He is putting in a reliable incubator, and has light Brahmas, but Calkins, bred Plymouth Rocks and black Minorcas. At Mrs. Upton's he found the old style Rankin incubator and modern brooders. She has fine specimens of White Plymouth Rocks. At D. G. Hill's place he found barred Plymouth Rocks, the best in the valley. At E. E. Savage's he found the different strains of the buff Wyandottes, the best in the United States. Mrs. G. D. Woodworth has the white and brown Leghorns and light Brahmas, and several hundred chickens old and young. Mrs. Woodworth has probably the best equipped poultry yards in the valley.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawtelle, of Hartford, Conn.

"A lady customer, seeing the remedy exposed for sale on my show case, said to me: 'I really believe that medicine saved my life the last summer while at the shore,' and she became so enthusiastic over its merits that I at once made up my mind to recommend it in the future. Recently a gentleman came into my store so overcome with colic pains that he sank at once to the floor. I gave him a dose of this remedy, which healed him. I repeated the dose and in fifteen minutes he left my store smilingly informing me that he felt as well as ever." Sold by Williams & Brosius.
