The casing of the water jacket split after half an hour's firing and nine men, including Lieutenant Edwards, who were working the sevenpounder, were put out of action half an hour later. Major Wilkinson was shot. The force then charged the bushes, discovering a stockade 30 yards distant in the bush, so carefully concealed that its existence could not be suspected. The stockade was carried at the point of the bayonet, and the

New York, July 4 .- Over $10,000,-000 worth of property was destroyed, many lives lost, many persons were injured, and at least 1,500 lives imperiled by a fire that started among cotton bales under pier No. 2 of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company, in Hoboken, N. J., at 4 o'clock this afternoon. In less than 15 minutes the flames covered an area of a quarter of a mile long, extending outward from the actual shore line to the bulkheads, from 600 to 1,000 feet away, and had caught four great ocean liners and a dozen or more smaller harbor craft in their grasp. Stories in regard to the loss of life are conflicting, the number being variously estimated at from 50 to 200. Up to midnight 10 bodies had been recovered, but they were all so badly burned and blackened that identification was impossible.

The hospitals in New York, Hoboken and Jersey City are crowded with injured and men are being brought in by scores.

Those who gathered along the shores of the Hudson river to witness the great ting men to handle the cargoes, and conflagration saw a spectacle they can never forget, and one that will always have a conspicuous place in the history of New York. River and bay were enveloped in a pall of black smoke through which angry flames, bursting as from volcanoes on the Jersey shore and in the water itself, leaped like spirits into the air. The surface of the water was covered with floating and blazing masses of freight thrown in haste from the doomed vessels, all un noticed in the mad race to rescue more precious human life threatened or being sacrificed in the great ships. And through the pall of smoke a great crimson sun, enlarged to thrice its size by the haze, glared like an enormous

The only way the steamship officials have of approximating the loss of life is by comparing the list of those reported safe with the list of the employes on the steamships.

Late tonight Gustav Schwab, the general agent of the North German Lloyd line, gave out a list showing what men on each vessel had been missing up to that hour. On the Saale 255 men were employed, and only 127 of these had been accounted for up to 11 o'clock, leaving 128 men actually employed as officers, sailors, stewards, engineers, coalpassers, oilers and trimmers to be accounted for. The Bremen had 204 men aboard, but only 127 of these have been found. The Main had 187 employes on aboard at the time, and of these only 27 have Newberg is now assured.

Paris, July 4 .- In the competition for the world's champtonship for professionals, under the auspices of the racing club of France, today, the American, Shoenfield, won the weightthrowing contest, covering 11.31 meters. The high jump was won by Sweeney, of New Orleans, who cleared 1.80 meters, with Shoenfield second clearing 1.75 meters. Sweeney also ELDER BACK AGAIN.

The Vessel Made a Record-Breaking Round Trip.

Portland, July 1 .- The steamer Geo. W. Elder tied up at the Ainsworth dock at 8 o'clock last night, ater a voyage of nine days from Nome City, having made the round trip, including five days lay-over in Dutch Harbor and six days discharging cargo at Cape Nome, in 34 days. She brought 13 passengers, none of whom report that they struck it very rich. Her trip is the quickest on record. Two days before the departure of the Elder, the Nome City arrived off the beach, and Captain Randall, of the Elder, believes sho will be in Portland again in about 10.

The Elder took up 325 passengers, mostly from Portland, and landed them with their belongings safely on the beach. The O. R. & N. Co, had made lightering arrangements, which enabled the Elder to get quick dispatch, and she was much better off in this respect than many of the other, steamers. Five ships reached Nome before she did, the first of them being the San Blas. The stampede to Topkuk, the new district where it is reported that $45,000 was taken out, was at its height when the Elder was in port and another find was reported at Port Clarence, up the beach in the direction of Kotzebue sound. The day before the Elder sailed a miner came to Captain Randall and offered to guarantee him 820 passengers at $20 a head for a run to this new field. He failed to return again to make good his guarantee, and the captain did not wait for him. Money is plentiful, wages and meals high. Great difficulty was experienced by many of the vessels in getmuch delay has been experienced on this account. Many of the crews of the boats "jumped" as soon as they reached the beach, and here again the Elder was fortunate as she lost only tour men by desertion three of whom were from the cabin where they were not missed owing to the few passengers carried on the return trip. Smallpox broke out on the steamship Ohio which took up 700 people from Seattle, and she went into quarantine at Egg island. She was still there when the Elder left. Other steamers which were at Dutch Harbor at the same time with the Elder came straggling in after her arrival at Nome having been delayed at Dutch Harbor by the difficulty of getting coal. The governor gave a very practical and encouraging address, which was well received. He dwelt upon the undeveloped possibilities of the state and pointed out the necessity of such manprise, he said, would bring more people, and more people Oregon must have. Governor Geer emphasized the fact and our only salvation is diversified industry. He referred to the prosperity which exists in the beet-raising sections of the East , and in Union county, of our state, as an example of what this enterprise will do for Newberg, Yamhill and Oregon. Other enthusiastic
