FRIDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1900. Secretary Dosch of the Oregon state board of horticulture has recently finished his report of the work done in his ords of which each and every one may office during the past year. He finds that notwithstanding the apple crop of 1900 was one of the largest ever produced in the United States, there is no cry of over production. First class four tier into the United States service in Camp apples are now selling in Portland at from 85 cents to $1.50 a box, for shipment east and to Europe, and in a short time, he says, they will reach a higher Rich and Cheat Mountains, Green Briar and Allerkeau Page Davisor the fell of the Camba and the Company K. 24th Ohio V. To the credit of our far mers, not one has applied for exemption from road work under the law passed by the last legislature, which allows a rebate on taxes to all owners of wide-tire wagons. The general disposition throughout the district is to give extra road work rather than ask for rebates. If a law were enacted forbidding dealers to bring narrow-tire wagons into the state, some good might follow. The question of good roads is at present receiving an unusual amount of thoughtful consideration among East Side residents. As the apple crop and other business grows greater, traffic during the rainy season increases at a corresponding rate, and it is absolutely necessary that the mud sloughs on the road between Wm. Fossplace and town be abolished. Macadam, or something just as good, is all that will fill the bill.

Mr. Dosch thinks the oriental markets of great importance to Oregon apple growers, but it seems to us, it will be a long time before China, or any other cheap-labor country, can be expected to take many of our apples at the prices we expect for them here. The mining regions of Alaska, British Columbia and the mining states east of us will be our best markets for years to come, with an occasional good market in the Eastern states when there is a failure of the crop there. Mr. Dosch's report in several places makes favorable mention of Hood River as an apple producing section.

The Real Estate Agent.

If you have property for sale, take it to a public spirited real estate agent who believes in advertising the good features of the community and supporting home industry. Take it to the man who will advertise it in the local paper, and place industry. Take it to the man who will advertise it in the local paper, and place it before as large a list of prospective buyers as he can, and give him the exclusive agency. By this method you will get quicker and better returns than by listing it with several agents. But if you list it with three or four agents, each one will try to keep it a secret for fear some one else will make a sale, and the real estate agent who advertises and tries to build up the community, is at a disadvantage; because when he gets a prospective buyer and starts to show him around, some curbstone agent will sneak in and snatch the buyer away and beat the legitimate agent out of his commission, after he has done the advertising and brought the buyer in the community.

Be businesslike with your real estate agent, give him an exclusive contract; and then insist on him advertising your property and the country.—Forest Grove Times.
