From Orchard to Table.

Extracts from an address by J. W. Nelson of the California Fruit Canners' Association, before the 25th annual state Fruit Growers' Convention:

It is the man with the hoe, so to speak, whom the growers of the state must look to as a steady consumer of their fruit, when sold at a mode ate price; every dinner pail or table may be expected to contain some variety of fruit every day in the year.

The Wheel in the Army.

Perhaps no class of people value the modern bicycle to a greater degree than do the officers, and their wives and daughters, of Uncle Sam's army.

Hobson is a upon as a well-nigh indispensable companion by officers. Lieut. Hobson is a clever and enthusiastic wheelman. Gen Wood is also a wheelman and resorts to his bicycle frequently. General Fred Grant is also a rider, and it will be recalled that one of the first objects of interest recovered from the wreck of the Maine was the Colombia bicycle of Captain Sigsby. In fact, about the only distinguished wearer of Uncle Sam's blue and gold who has not mastered the trick of balancing a wheel is Admiral Dewey, and the hero of Manila bay says the only reason he does not ride is because he fears that it is a bit too late in life to teach his sea legs new stunts.
