The merry-go-round that did a land of office business in Hood River for three weeks, and ground out tireless music, pulled up stakes Sunday and left for pastures new, and left the regret of children of all ages. Uncle Oliver Bartmess resisted the desire to ride like a boy again till the last night, when he could no longer resist and sat on the pony as straight as if he was riding his bike.
Will Isenberg on Thursday last, caught a man named Fred W. Harris in the act of selling a bottle of whiskey to an Indian. The general committee of arrangements for the 4th of July celebration held several meetings during the week, and the work is progressing in a manner that assures success. The transportation committee has secured from the steamboat companies one fare for the round trip from all points on the river. The advertising committee has sent ads to papers in Wasco and Sherman counties, and there is promise of a good attendance from these points. The committee on grounds has made all arrangements to have the park in Blowers addition in shape to receive the crowds. The committee on decorations has gone to work in earnest (no play upon the chairman's name intended) and promise some delightful surprises for our visitors. The fireworks committee received the largest appropriation from the general fund, and its part of the programme will not be the least interesting. R. M. Hunt, chairman of committee on artillery, is having the big gun put in order for firing the national salute at sunrise on the morning of the 4th. The finance committee is still at work, and patriotic citizens are still contributing to help pay for our big celebration.

Nels Nelson, who recently bought the Blocher place, reports being held up by two highwaymen Monday night. He came in late with a load of strawberries and on his way home, after 10 o'clock, he found a plank taken up on the bridge at Rail gulch. His horses jumped across the opening, and just then two men stepped up and caught his horses' reins and ordered him to hand over his money. He had two purses, one containing gold and the other $14 in silver. He gave up the silver and was allowed to proceed. He thinks the robbers were Indians. There was some tough talk between the two men, but the robbers went on their way; they have been well trained in the ways of outlaws.

Admission, adults 25 cents, children 15 cents.

Joe T. Cooper of Mt. Hood sold his wood in The Dalles last week. His band of sheep numbered 1,608; his loss was 16, leaving 1,592 from which he clipped 17,320 pounds, and received a check from the Wasco Warehouse Co. for $1,900.80. This lacks but 46 cents of being $1.20 per head for his 1592 sheep. His increase in lambs was 1,568. He wintered his flock on the bunch grass range without a feed of hay.

A peculiar accident happened to Frank Beardsley, a berry picker from La Camas, who is working for Burns Jones. He was a molasses can in which to boil his coffee. He left the cork in the can, and when it came to a boil, the cork flew out and hit the boy between the eyes. Enough hot water went with the cork to badly scald the boy's face. His father, Fred Beardsley, came up on Friday to look after the boy, who will recover from the effects of the scalding.

Mrs. John A. Wilson is still at the home of her mother in Iowa. Her brother died June 6th, and now her mother is too ill and feeble for her to leave. The old lady is nearly 80 years old. When she gets well enough she will accompany Mrs. Wilson to Hood River.

As usual the ditch will be four miles long and will run through heavy fir timber as to entire distance. This ditch will supply water for irrigation as high as the place of A. A. Jayne, J. L. Miller, R. B. Lindsay and others in that neighborhood. Mr. H. H. Haysport is superintending the work, and judging from the progress the ditch made during the past few years, no doubt this new enterprise will be a success. He has about 1000 feet of ditch completed and will have it in his present charge.

The Oregon conference of the United Brethren in Christ was held at Astoria, June 21st, Bishop N. Cassie, D. D., presiding. Rev. J. C. Shaffer will close the year's work in Hood River this week, and will be returning to his home in Astoria, Oregon, where he will have his personal pastor. Mr. Shaffer has closed himself to a host of friends in Hood River by his active work in a good cause. They hope the conference will return him to his present charge.

Chas. W. Gilmer of Gilmer, Wash., was in town Saturday. He informs us that his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Whitehead, is in feeble health. The old lady is a pioneer of the White Salmon country, well known by all the old settlers. Her mother, Mrs. Gilmer, was in her 90th year of her poor health. Mr. Gilmer reports that the old lady is in a very promising way. The doctor says she is getting on her feet.

Ice cream on strawberries is not a bad dish to take these ice-cream days. Ernest Jensen, in the kitchen of his home, treated the children on Tuesday when the mercury was up to 84, to this delicious dish. Ernest knows his devil hand in the good things of the Hood Cap Inn confectionery.

The strawberry crop in the valley is about harvested. In the upper valley shipping has just fairly commenced, and the berries are large and of fine quality. They are ranging from $1.00 to $1.10 in Hood River.

The Magdon strawberry is bound to come to the front as a good berry. It is a large, handsome berry, and the vine is prolific, but for flavor, in the opinion of most people, the Magdon cannot compare with other berries.

G. A. McCurdy shipped by the union on Tuesday two crates of strawberries to the Pacific coast. They were as handsome a lot of berries as ever left Hood River, running from 20 to 25 to the box.

There is a man within the confines of Hood River valley who has not voted for his choice for goddess of liberty on the 4th. If so he will find the polls will open at the two drug stores and other stores in town. Vote early and often.
