Persons enrolling their names at the Standard Dress-cutting school before July 15th will receive the instructions and complete system at a reduced price. The school is at present located in the Rigby property, Sixth and Oak streets. J. Coates, manager.

C. A. Hickle, whose place is up on the mountain, near Davenport's mills, is now in the midst of his strawberry harvest. The three days of cold rain, he says, blighted much of his crop. The glacier is indebted to him for two boxes of handsome berries.
W. V. Ferrier, editor of the Pacific at San Francisco, preached at the Congregational church Sunday morning and at the U. B. in the evening. The Pacific is the second oldest paper of continuous publication on the Pacific coast, being published only by the Oregonian.

The state encampment of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. at Forest Grove, last week, was well attended and a most enjoyable time was had by the old soldiers and the representatives of the Relief Corps. Capt. Joseph A. Sladen, a very worthy comrade, was elected department commander. G. A. R. and Mrs. Wm. Callaway of Oregon City president of the W. R. C. of Astoria was selected for next encampment.

To Cloud Cap Inn on an automobile is a means of locomotion not thought of a few years ago, though Wednesday morning such a trip was accomplished by E. Y. Judd of Boston, with a triple cylinder, 12-horse gas power machine, weighing 1800 pounds, and constructed for heavy mountain roads. Mr. Judd is president of the Pendleton woolen mills, and although a resident of Boston, spends most of his summers in Oregon and makes annual trips to Mt. Hood.

Last Friday Miss Katie Davenport closed a most successful term of school at Mosier, with exercises of unusual merit. The whole neighborhood turned out to enjoy the day. It is safe to say that the expectation of every one was fully realized. A basket dinner was served on the ground after which all retired to the house where for two hours they listened with much pleasure to our future Websters and Florence Nightingales, every pupil taking part acquitting himself or herself in the most creditable manner. The room was tastefully decorated with flags, flowers and blackboard drawings which evinced much skill on the part of the teacher. It is only just to say that the entire work has reflected the greatest credit upon Miss Davenport who leaves next Thursday to attend the Portland business college— Chronicle.

The glacier is in receipt of a neatly printed brochure, entitled "Health and Pleasure," and issued by the general passenger department of the O. R. & N. company. The pamphlet describes the notable summer resorts of the Pacific Northwest, and is the product of the originally vigorous and pleasing pen of P. Donan. Persons contemplating an outing this summer should have a copy of this pamphlet, which may be procured free from the O. R. & N. agent, or for a two-cent stamp from A. L. Craig, general passenger agent, Portland, Or.

J. T. Bagley has resigned his position as O. R. & N. agent for Hood River, and has gone into partnership with J. J. Luckey in the livery business. Mr. Bagley, during the two years he has been depot agent here, has shown himself an obliging and capable railway employe, and the patrons of the railroad regret to see him go. His thorough business qualifications will assure him success in connection with the enterprising livery firm of Luckey & Bagley.

Prof. J. T. Neff was one of the examiners appointed by Congressman M. A. Moody to conduct the competitive examination for the Portland last week for the appointment to a naval cadetship at Annapolis. The other examiners were Prof. R. S. Johnston of the Portland academy, and Principal J. A. Churchill of the Baker City high school. There were eleven candidates for the examination. Ernest Durr of Baker City ranked first, with Hugh Bellinger of Woodstock as alternate.

Rev. W. W. Ferrier of San Francisco spent Saturday and Sunday in Hood River, the guest of Dr. and Mrs. M. F. Shaw. Rev. Ferrier is a graduate of Otterbein University, class of '78, of Westerville, Ohio, and is an old college acquaintance of S. E. Bartness, who graduated from the same college the year following. Rev. Ferrier is now editor of the Pacific, at San Francisco, the official paper of the Congregational church for the Pacific coast.

T. Bishop, John Wilson and C. L. Cople, the board of directors of Bartness school district No. 4, met last Friday night and decided upon Miss Lorraine Bridges as principal of the school in that district. Miss Bridges is recently from Lewiston, Idaho, where she taught last year in the high school of that city. At a former meeting of the board Miss Cora Cople was secured to teach the primary department.

The steamer Bailey Gatzert, on the Fourth, will make no way landing between The Dalles and Portland. This is done in order to give the passengers an opportunity to reach Portland in time for the fireworks that evening. People wishing to make the trip from Hood River can board the boat on her way to The Dalles, and will be charged fare between Hood River and Portland only.

C. D. Moore was over from White Salmon Monday. Mr. Moore reports that the tomato crop at White Salmon will be a good one, and that he will have something over 200 tons, which his neighbor, S. C. Zeigler, will have nearly as many. The tomatoes are marketed in Portland, and net the growers about $800 per acre, which is even better than strawberries can do.

W. A. Foley arrived from Crook county yesterday. He recently sold his ranch and sheep in Crook county, and after visiting relatives in Hood River for a while will go to the eastern part of the state to look out for a new location in the sheep business where settlers are fewer and further between than they have become in the country he left.

R. Kirbyson shipped 168 crates of waterberries from his Frankton patches this year. All the work of picking and packing was done by himself and family of wife and four children, which is a good record, and effected a considerable saving in the expense account. Mr. Kirbyson will have a good crop of blackberries, and his vegetable garden is doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman Butler, accompanied by Mrs. Butler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Leamer of Leompton, Kans., left yesterday for Seattle, where they will take steamer for a three weeks' trip to Alaska, visiting Fort Wrangle, Juno, Skagway and other points. This is one of the most delightful summer trips in the world.

E. F. Kennedy of Portland, assistant grand master of the United Artisans, arrived in Hood River Tuesday, and will remain a couple of weeks in the interest of the organization. Mr. Kennedy has been secured to give a couple of humorous selections for our celebration here on the Fourth.

L. D. Boyd has been given the contract to furnish the 200,000 bricks for the new two-story building to be erected by John O'Connell, Chehalis, on the property he recently purchased of Brosius and Early. Mr. Boyd will burn the brick in his kiln at Belmont.

B. R. Tucker takes this method of returning thanks to the neighbors who worked with him in trying to save his property from the flames on Monday, when his mill burned. He fed them, when his mill burned, molasses all on this occasion can never be repaid.
E. J. Orendoff, brother of Mrs. J. J. Jordan, arrived here from California last week and is visiting the Jordans. Mr. Orendoff served in the Philippines in the First Washington regiment.

City Recorder Nickelsen received a limited number of copies of the Hood River charter from the secretary of state's office and is giving them out to those asking for them.
The new office at the depot, appointed since the resignation of J. T. Bagley, are: J. E. Wilhelm, agent; C. D. Atterberry, operator, and W. R. Winters, night operator.
The Hood River Springwater Co. is giving good service this summer. We have heard of no complaints of scarcity of water for irrigating lawns and gardens within the city.

Rev. H. C. Shaffer and wife returned from the U. B. conference, Tuesday night. Rev. Shaffer has been reappointed to the Hood River charge for another year.
Walter Leeburg returned Tuesday from Puget Sound, where he has been for the last April. He expects to leave shortly for the harvest fields of Eastern Oregon.
Granda Ellis, Burns Jones, Frank Ellis and their wives and the Nealeigh went three days in camp at Sandy flat last week.
Prather & Barnes have a new sign for their office, the work of Jim Hunt, the painter.

Harry Bailey, who has faithfully performed the duties of mail carrier for the past year on the free-delivery route in Hood River, has resigned the position and will retire to his farm. Marshall Isenberger, who takes Mr. Bailey's place, has been making the trip for the past few days.

Mrs. B. Warren returned, last week, from a trip to Puget sound, where she spent a month visiting relatives. She found our old neighbor, S. B. Crockett, in poor health. He had a fall a year ago from a ladder and received injuries from which he never recovered. R. Kirbyson, Sam Koplin, Jas Gordon and Wm. M. Stewart went to Sandy Flat last week and spent three days fishing. They had poor luck; too much snow water yet for fishing in Hood river.

Miss Marjorie Baker left on the delayed passenger Tuesday afternoon for Portland and will spend the Fourth with friends in that city.
Assessor Rankin of Klamath county was in Hood River Monday. His wife is still quite sick and under the doctor's care.
Attorney N. Sinnott of The Dalles was in Hood River, Monday, and attended the council meeting Monday evening.

S. B. Hess and wife of Mt. Hood went to Portland Tuesday, where they will spend the Fourth.
The glacier force thanks W. J. Baker for a sample of choice Royal Anne cherries.
Mrs. E. W. Rowe and children of Portland came up Saturday on a visit to relatives.
The steamboats all land at the low-water landing above town.

Death of Captain Davidson.
Captain Payton S. Davidson, general manager of the Lost Lake Lumber company, dropped dead from heart failure at his home early Saturday morning. As Captain Davidson was in his usual vigorous health and had passed a restful night, his death came as a shock to his family. He had risen from his bed and walked across the room when he fell dead without uttering a sound. The funeral services were held at the family residence Sunday evening, and the body was taken aboard the 8:27 train for interment at LaCrosse, Wis.

Captain Davidson came to Hood River in March, 1890, and was one of the largest lumbering concerns in the state, of which firm, the Lost Lake Lumber company, he was general manager and treasurer. Captain Davidson was a man who paid close attention to business all his life, possessed a sterling character, and the loss of his influence as an enterprising business man and citizen will be heavily felt by the community.

Captain Payton S. Davidson was born September 16, 1827, in South Point, Lawrence county, Ohio. He entered the steamboat business on the Ohio at an early age, and in the 50's was prominently connected with one of the largest through passenger and freight steamboat lines ever operated between New Orleans and St. Paul. In 1862 he removed to LaCrosse, Wis., where he was interested in an extensive lumber business until he came to Oregon three years ago. Captain Davidson was twice married. His first wife, by whom he was the father of nine children, was Miss Ada E. Johnston of South Point, Ohio, who died in 1887. In the fall of 1893 he married Miss Newton of Gallop, Ohio. Three of his children died in infancy, and the remaining six, all of whom are residents of Hood River, are William F.; Payton S., jr.; Arthur J.; Frank L.; Louis N.; and Barton G. Payton S. Davidson, jr., is secretary of the Lost Lake Lumber company.

Tucker's Mill Burned.
The sawmill of B. R. Tucker, five miles southeast of town, burned to the ground Monday afternoon. At the noon hour, while the mill hands were at dinner, fire from a burning sawmill pile was accelerated by the high wind at the time and communicated itself to the main building of the mill. The flames were beyond control when discovered and the surrounding bunk houses and lumber piles were consumed in a few hours. By hard work the county bridge at this point was saved, though considerable damage was done to the east end approach. One hundred thousand feet of new lumber, besides seasoned lumber in the sheds, was consumed. By the loss of this mill, five or six men, with families, are thrown out of employment. The total loss will foot up about $4,000 with no insurance. This is the third fire Mr. Tucker has had to contend with on this place. First his dwelling house was burned; six years ago his box factory and store were consumed with heavy loss.

The burning of the mill produced such intense heat as to draw pitch blisters on the rustic of his dwelling house, and it is a great wonder the building was not destroyed. The barn near at hand caught fire in the hay a number of times but was saved by the vigilance of the mill hands and neighbors. 25 peach trees near the mill were killed. The high wind at the time fanned the fire to such an intensity that burning embers were carried over Slingerland's barn on the top of the hill, and numerous fires started among the dead logs on the hillside. The fire made a clean sweep of everything, molting all the chains and castings and leaving nothing intact but the steel shafts.

Council Proceedings.
The common council met in the council chambers Monday evening, Mayor Brosius presiding. Present—Bell, Brothers, Luckey and McDonald.
The petitions of Allen & Morrison and Fouts & Son for saloon licenses were again presented, together with the treasurer's receipts showing that the petitioners had not complied with the provisions of the new charter and ordinance 25, which allows liquor licenses to issue upon application of 20 petitioners, without publication, was still in force. A motion that the petitions be considered notwithstanding the ruling of the mayor was adopted. The mayor declined, without first consulting legal authority, to put a motion that the petitions be granted in conformity with the treasurer's receipts. After a short recess, the motion that the petitions be granted in conformity with the treasurer's receipts, was put and carried unanimously.
The finance committee reported the treasury report $10 on account of cow sold last year. The discrepancy lies between the treasurer and marshal, and the marshal was notified to produce a receipt for the $10 or be charged with that amount.
The present quarters for council chambers were secured by the finance committee at a monthly rental of $5, the justice of the peace and constable paying $2 of that sum.
The mayor called attention to the mat-
