Wm. Shipman, employed at the Fox house, has ordered the Glacier sent to his father at Verona, Mo. A nice Christmas gift.
Miss Vera Jackson came home last week from Forest Grove, where she is attending school. After spending the holidays at home she will return to school.
H. J. Hibbard killed a ten-month old Jersey calf, one day last week, that weighed, when dressed, 396 pounds. If any reader of the Glacier thinks he can beat this record, let him speak out.
E. J. Hubbard of Forest Grove, a nephew of E. R. Bradley, was a visitor in Hood River the first of the week. Mr. Hubbard is traveling man for the Alpin flouring mills of Corvallis. He finds business good in his jurisdiction.
Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Castner will start today, Friday, for an extended trip to their old home in the Eastern states. They will stop awhile in Iowa and then go to Ohio and Michigan. They expect to return home in March.
The following officers of Hood River Chapter, R. A. M., were elected and installed Friday evening, December 20th: E. L. Smith, H. P.; L. E. Morse, K.; A. S. Blowers, R. A.; W. A. Slingerland, treasurer; A. N. Rahm, secretary; H. F. Davidson, M. M.; D. McDonald, M. S.; G. E. Williams, M. L. T.; A. L. Phelps, M. S.

G. J. Geseling was seen, last Saturday, handling home some enlarged pictures of the secretary of the Hood River Fruit Growers Union. He said that every fruit grower who shipped with the union next year would get one of these chrome. A big incentive like this ought certainly to make the union solid next year.
The sorrowing parents and a sister and brother of the late Tom Kent came up from Vancouver, last Friday, to attend the funeral. The young man was killed by the fall of a pole, which, after being moved off, fell and struck him. His neck was broken and he died instantly. Bert Stranahan brought the body from Pomeroy, Wash., to Hood River. A large number of the young man's friends attended the funeral, which was held Saturday from the U. B. church.

Driggs, Culbertson & Co. is a new real estate and insurance firm, recently located in Hood River, and whose business card appears in another column. The office of the firm is temporarily located in the second story of the Wall Paper Emporium, and for the next two months the business will be in the hands of Geo. Culbertson, who will endeavor to acquaint himself with Hood River people until the arrival of his partner, L. C. Driggs. Mr. Driggs will move here with his family to locate permanently with us. While conducting a general real estate and insurance business, the company will also solicit loans reasonable rates on farm property. The members of the firm are gentlemen in every respect, and as thorough business men, energetic and enterprising, their aid in the upbuilding of our community will be gratefully accepted by the people of Hood River.
Articles of incorporation of the Mount Hood Mining and Stock company were filed today in the office of the county clerk. The incorporators are B. K. Tucker, R. S. Tucker and F. E. Strong. The business of the corporation is to acquire, hold, work and operate places and lodes of quartz mines, and to acquire such property and to do such things as are incident to a general mining business; to buy and sell mining claims and other real estate, and to conduct a general livestock business. The head office is at Hood River, and the capital stock is $30,000.—Chronicle.

Hon. E. L. Smith, president of the state board of agriculture, is preparing a paper for the meeting of the Farmers' congress, at Salem, January 6-9. The subject treated by Mr. Smith is the apple, with reference to special conditions for its growth and cultivation in the Willamette valley. Mr. Smith will also present a paper before the meeting of the Northwest Fruit Growers' association, at Walla Walla, next month.
Thursday morning, Hood River was visited by a cold wind and rain storm. The foot hills on the Washington side of the Columbia were white with snow. Dilatory winter is slowly creeping on. So far the weather has been so mild and agreeable as to interfere very slightly with out door work. The grass is bright and green and the yellow butter buds are occasionally met with in the woods.
Dean & Emerson, comedians, had billed the town for one night stand at the armory, Christmas night, but the show was called off for the lack of an audience. They showed at the Odell school house last Saturday night and are requested to show there again tonight.
May Boorman, Carrie Byrlee, Mattie Dukes, Barton Davidson, Percy Adams, Ernest Hinrichs, Max Hinrichs, Gladys Sears, Lucy Roberts and Perry Wells, Hood River's students at the Oregon Agricultural College, came home from Corvallis to spend the holidays.

M. Willis and Abe Foley have recently built substantial board fences on their properties facing the state road.
The drawing for the doll at Mme Abbott's millinery store will take place Saturday, December 28th.
Mrs. Brown Foster of Cascade Locks was in Hood River during the week, visiting Mrs. T. J. Cunningham.
The orchestra has prepared some fine music for the masquerade ball at the armory, New Year's eve.
The Odell school is taking a recess this week. School will open again next Monday.
Two brothers of O. A. Rieselhart from La Grand, visited in Hood River Sunday.
Mrs. Harwood of Portland is spending Christmas with relatives in Hood River.

New Masonic Lodge Rooms.
Tuesday afternoon the Glacier reporter was shown through the newly-furnished lodge rooms of the Masonic orders in Tieman hall. These new rooms are certainly among the neatest and best furnished of any lodge rooms in the state outside of Portland. Something over $800 was used on furnishings alone. A view of the interior of the hall shows the money to have been well expended. Three of the officers' chairs are hand made from quarter-sawn oak and cost the lodge $200 in Portland. There are 60 other chairs, also of heavy oak, and desks for the secretary and treasurer. The floor and raised platforms are covered with rich, ingrain carpet, which, with the well-plastered walls and ceiling, give the room a most pleasing effect.
The entrance to the lodge hall is on the south side of the temple, from which an inclosed stairway leads to a spacious ante-room. Here are conveniently arranged a sink, cooking stove and the necessary requisites for supplying the lodge members with a warm lunch on a banquet. The main hall is 25x60 feet in extent, with a 16-foot ceiling. The building throughout is well-lighted with electricity.
Tieman hall is the place of meeting for the Blue Lodge of the Masonic order, the Royal Arch chapter and the members of the Eastern Star. The Masons in Hood River are about 60 strong, and with the location in their new temple, they are as well situated as any chapter of this order in the state.

Christmas in Hood River.

Christmas in Hood River was very generally observed by all. The business houses closed, and the quiet streets and stores were in striking contrast to the lively scenes for the ten days preceding Christmas. The merchants generally report a good holiday trade, and the racket stores, with their special Christmas goods, did a big business, some of the stores disposing of whole lines of goods. Although there were more stores in town than ever before, there were more people to buy goods. Money seemed to be plentiful and the people were spending at home. The business men had secured a large assortment of Christmas goods and were selling them at metropolitan prices. Last year, on the Friday before Christmas, 47 money orders were sent from the Hood River post office to purchase Christmas goods elsewhere. This year, on the same date, but three such money orders were issued. This is good evidence that Hood River merchants and their patrons, the country people, are prospering, and that the Christmas of 1901 was thoroughly enjoyed by all.
The weather was mild and warm, and the day would have been called by Eastern people a green Christmas.
Following is a report of the Christmas exercises held Christmas eve in the various churches of the town and valley:
CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.
The Christmas exercises of the Congregational Sunday school were held in the church Christmas eve. There were the usual evergreen decorations and Christmas trees laden with presents. The children of the Sunday school filled half the church, and from all appearances the evening's entertainment was for them a source of whole-souled enjoyment. The customary programme of songs and recitations was varied with a cantata, "The Pixies," a very pretty adaptation from a German fairy tale of the Black Forest. The little ones taking part did splendidly, and F. B. Barnes made a remarkably good resemblance of old Kris Kringle. The Christmas song by little Florence Brosius was a pleasing production of more than usual merit for one so young in years.
U. B. CHURCH.
The Christmas programme at the U. B. church was varied from the usual order, and in place of the accustomed Christmas tree, an imitation house, supposedly the house of Santa Claus, constructed of paper in imitation of stone and brick, and from this house presents were distributed to each member of the Sunday school. Instead of presenting the children with candies and nuts, each pupil was given a book of some standard author. The Santa Claus who distributed the Christmas gifts was impersonated by David Flemming. Preceding the programme a collection was taken from the Sunday school children as their donation for charitable purposes. The front of the church was massed with a bank of Oregon grape. The literary programme was of the usual excellence.
M. S. CHURCH.
The Methodist church was well filled Christmas eve. There was a short programme of music and recitation, at the conclusion of which numerous presents were distributed to the children from a big Christmas tree that completely covered the rostrum of the church. J. H. Feak, superintendent of the Sunday school had charge of the programme. The pastor, Rev. Frank Spaulding, gave a short talk on the ethics of giving gifts at Christmas time. The large crowd present reported the occasion a most enjoyable one.

BELMONT M. S. CHURCH.
Christmas eve, the church was filled to overflowing by the people of the neighborhood to listen to the exercises of the Sunday school children. The programme opened with song and an appropriate address by the Rev. Mr. Bagley. The next hour and a half was pleasantly spent listening to the recitations and songs of the little folks. F. H. Isenberg favored the audience with a baritone solo, Miss Ethel Church accompanying with the organ. After the programme a bountiful supply of Christmas presents was distributed.

CRAPPER SCHOOL HOUSE.
Crapper district beat its record in its Christmas festivities at the school house Tuesday evening. Old Santa Claus was there in all his glory. There were two Christmas trees. The house was jammed full of people, a fine lot of presents were given out and everybody enjoyed the occasion immensely.
PINE GROVE SCHOOL HOUSE.
Christmas at Pine Grove was celebrated with a Christmas tree at the school house. The pupils of the school rendered a good programme and Santa Claus was unusually generous in his distribution of presents to the little folks.
Mrs. W. J. Baker left Christmas day for a week's visit at Tacoma.
Masquerade ball at the armory, New Year's eve. Fine music.
Joe Purser got his mustache shaved off last week. With a clean shave and hair cut it is said by Joe's friends that he looks like Wm. J. Bryan. When the barber cut his hair his shears struck a hard substance. "Well, I'll be blanked," said Joe, as the tonsorial artist pulled out a whiststone, "if there ain't that old scythe stone I lost last summer!"

In Memoriam.
Whereas, it has pleased Divine providence to remove from our midst a beloved friend and associate, Thomas Keop, the Brother of Andrew and Philip, sorrowfully regret the untimely departure of our old friend, a charter member, be it
Resolved, That we extend our most sincere sympathy to his bereaved ones, and ever pray for the souls of all who have departed.
Resolved, That a copy of this our testimonial of regret and sympathy, be forwarded to his family, that a copy appear in the Hood River Glacier, and be placed on the minutes of our society.

Birds of Germany.
The birds of Germany, like the crows of Ireland, are the pets of the people, both in the city and the country. They are protected by the law, but no law is needed for their protection. They are so tame that many of them build their nests inside of the houses and are never disturbed by the people. They are a few crumbs, and they will come down from the trees and almost eat out of your hand. The consequence is that fruit-growers never suffer from the invasion of worms, and the plum and damson, which have almost disappeared

To All Our Patrons

We Wish a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

And we thank you all for your very liberal patronage.
Our Holiday trade has been more than satisfactory. We consider your patronage an expression of confidence in our methods, our goods and our prices. And your confidence is not misplaced.
During the coming year we will continue our policy of dealing in the better grades of goods at the smallest possible profits. And we assure you that our goods are as we shall represent them.

THE PEOPLE'S STORE.

We inaugurated this clearance sale system one year ago, when we had but a handful of goods compared with our present well selected clean stock.
Every article will be marked down dangerously near to cost, and we feel assured that you will appreciate the concessions made in order to stimulate trade during the coming month.
Our sale will last for one month, commencing January 2, 1902, and during that time we will offer you bargains that Portland department stores dare not imitate.
We wish to thank you for your assistance in building up The Little Store with Little Prices during the past year, and we hope soon to merit the title of The Big Store with Little Prices. Our prices will always remain "Little," no matter how big our store grows.
We wish you a Happy New Year.
