Hood River Glacier.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1902.

Wants Information.

Logan Wood of Viseton, I. T., writes a letter of the kind often received by the Glacier. He says:

I saw in the South McAlester Capital a letter from Hood River, which caused me to want to know more about your country.

1. What is the coldest weather you have?
2. What kind of grain do you grow?
3. How is the water?
4. What is lumber worth?
5. What kind of range have you for stock?
6. What is the price of cattle and what are good mules and cattle worth?
7. Do you have to irrigate to grow crops?

I am coming to Oregon in the spring and want to learn all I can about the country.

1. The coldest we have had in Hood River this winter was zero weather—two weeks ago, when the severe cold lasted a week, about as long as it usually lasts. At this writing the thermometer is above 40.

2. Very little grain is grown in Hood River valley, but when it is grown, wheat, rye and barley never fail to produce good crops. The land is too valuable for growing crops other than fruit. We grow apples, pears, peaches, plums, prunes, quinces, cherries, strawberries, blackberries and raspberries. Apples and strawberries are our principal crops. Our fruit has a reputation for excellence all over the United States. We grow the best strawberries in the world. They have been shipped to the Klondike and to China and arrived in fair condition. Hood River shipped 40,000 crates of strawberries last year, mostly going in refrigerator cars to Montana, Utah, British Columbia, North and South Dakota and the states east. Strawberries begin to ripen in Hood River valley and at White Salmon about the first week in May. The earliest strawberry ground is at White Salmon, on the north bank of the Columbia. Strawberry land in Hood River valley and at White Salmon is worth from $50 to $500 an acre.

3. The water is the best in the world. It comes in springs and dashing streams from the glaciers of Mt. Hood, a snow mountain 28 miles from Hood River town. Hood River valley and White Salmon are health resorts. We have a delightful summer climate.

4. Lumber is cheap. We have several saw mills that manufacture lumber for export. Rough lumber is worth $8 per thousand.

5. We have no ranges for stock in Hood River valley. The country across the Columbia, in the state of Washington, has some good stock ranges in the Trout Lake and Camas Prairie sections, where dairying is carried on extensively.

6. Cattle and horses are high priced. Very few mules here. If you have mules, bring them along.

7. We irrigate here for strawberries and other small fruits and for clover and garden crops. At White Salmon many strawberry growers do not irrigate.

The Glacier gives more or less information every week valuable to intending immigrants. The price of the paper is $1.50 a year.

The reader may make up his mind to be pleasantly overwhelmed by the opulence and vivacity of "Around the Pan," published by the Nutshell Publishing Company, 1059 Third avenue, New York. The wonders begin with the frontispiece picture of President McKinley, drawn in a single line beginning at a point on the cheek bone and going round and round in a constantly widening circle, with waverings and downbearings of the pen in the proper places to secure detachment and shading. We are told that this portrait "is considered the most unique of its kind in the world," and if there are degrees of uniqueness we are willing to believe that this is most the thing of which there are no duplicates. Of course there is text in addition to the pictures, and we should be surprised indeed to hear from any purchaser the opinion that he had not got his money's worth ($2).—New York Sun.

The Goldendale Sentinel has been reduced in size to fit its advertising space. Now that a railroad is coming to Goldendale, and the public has its eye on Klickitat county more than ever, the Sentinel is right when it says every business house in town should have some kind of an ad in its columns.

If taxes are paid before March 15th, a rebate of 3 per cent is allowed. If one-half is paid before the first Monday in April, then the time for the payment of the remainder of taxes may be extended to and including the first Monday in October. Unless one-half is paid by the first Monday in April, the tax is delinquent and 10 per cent interest is added. If the last half of any tax is not paid by the first Monday in October, then 10 per cent penalty and 12 per cent interest from the first Monday in April is added.

The Torrens law, for registration of land titles, passed by the last legislature, is finding opposition wherever it has been attempted to register titles. Charles K. Henry of Portland in a letter to the Oregonian shows that the opposition to the law comes from the legal profession and abstract owners and companies. He shows that the law is working satisfactorily in England and its colonies and other parts of the world. The registrar of titles in Chicago says the Torrens system is moving forward in Cook county with all reasonable speed. Certificates of title are bought, sold and mortgaged within an hour or two at a total expense of $3, and give complete satisfaction. The total cost of registering a tract under the Torrens land system is $25. After the registration, the total cost of a transfer is three dollars.

The new road law of Oregon provides that all males between the ages of 21 and 50, unless by law exempt, are subject to road tax—two days work or three dollars in cash. Property is taxed at the rate of one day's work ($1.50) for every $1,000 assessed. If any person after three days notice by the supervisor neglects to turn out to work the roads, or puts in his time in idleness after starting to work, the supervisor has the power to collect his tax in money. No property is exempt from levy and sale for delinquent road tax. The supervisor can designate any part of his district for the work to be performed. The county clerk is required to furnish supervisors with poll tax receipts in blank, and shall charge the road supervisor $3 for each road poll tax receipt. These receipts shall be of two kinds of forms, one of which shall be given when the tax is paid in money. The receipt shall be numbered and signed by the county clerk and bear the seal of the county. The county court of any county in the state may provide for the payment of all road taxes in cash.

The Oregonian showed up the crookedness of a commissioner of Multnomah county in selling goods out of his store to the county without due observance of law, and now the commissioner has sued the paper in the modest sum of $50,000.

Up to January 31st, the state of Oregon had paid a bounty of $2 on 84,644 coyote scalps. The law will remain in force another year, by which time, it is estimated by Secretary of State Dunbar, the state will have paid $250,000.

"Why Should I Join the Grand Army of the Republic?"

The above question is ably and eloquently answered by a leaflet sent out from the headquarters of the Grand Army for Oregon. It is well worth the perusal of every Union soldier outside the ranks of the Grand Army. We give it in full:

Dear Sir: The pertinent question you address to yourself in the caption of this note it is the purpose of this little leaflet to answer. Please read this carefully, ponder over its suggestions, and if you decide, as it is hoped you will, ask some comrade to propose you for membership in some post of the G. A. R. in your vicinity, and help continue the struggle for God, country and humanity to which you, with the flower of the young men of the United States, gave the full measure of devotion in the past.

The problem of life presents itself to different men in different conditions. Some men exist solely for themselves; others live for the good they may do. The best-deserved monuments are built for the brave, the unselfish, the devoted. It is such men whose memories are kept ever fresh and green in grateful hearts.

Every man who wore the blue should so live as to be thought worthy of the respect and honor of his surviving comrades, and every such man who does so live should be found in the ranks of the G. A. R. "Why?" Why? Because the objects for which the survivors of the "war for the Union" have associated themselves in that great organization are to preserve the memories of those days an everliving influence for good in the hearts of their countrymen; the inculcating in the minds of the rising generation a due appreciation of the noble heritage won for them; to show by the private life and public acts of its members that patriotism which alone can preserve the glorious freedom so dearly won. "Ah, yes, but my loyalty is unshaken; I need no organized effort to keep it alive." True; so is it true of every good soldier; but if the old Roman test of strength is applied, the fascine is stronger than the single faggot.

But this is only one of the objects of the G. A. R. It appeals to man's selfish as well as his charitable nature. The brave men who dared death at the call of their country, many of them broken in health, suffering from wounds or disease, are now dependent on others or left to want; the widows or orphans of those who fell in the conflict or who, having survived it have fallen by the wayside in the march of life, need the assistance which only organized charity—a soldier's charity—can give.

To the purely selfish man the G. A. R. is not an organiztion to be avoided! To every recruit the most solemn assurance is given that in the hour of need every comrade will stand by him and his, no matter what his creed or politics. If he honorably wore the blue and is of good repute the organization is pledged to aid him by all honorable means.

Death is the unrelenting sneer which mocking nature casts at life, but even at the threshold of that bourne from which no traveler returns, a comrade stands beside him whose life is ebbing away with the assurance that those he leaves behind to mourn shall be comforted.

Fraternity, charity, loyalty! Would you realize the full import of these three words? Join the G. A. R., and they will reveal themselves to you with added strength and beauty. Have you been a member of a post and allowed yourself to sleep on your arms? Grown indifferent and got on the suspended list? Shake off the lethargy and for the sake of "Old Glory" you followed so faithfully, put yourself again in step with your comrades. The boys need you and you need again to feel the touch of elbows to make your sluggish blood run freely.

That very clever but selfish diplomat, Tallyrand, on his deathbed received the consolation of the church, only to hear a witty French woman present exclaim: "He dies like a man who understands living!"

Don't wait, my friend. The greatest weakness that besets many an otherwise estimable man is procrastination. He never is, but always is to be blessed, and as you lay this little leaflet down—or throw it away—resolve to unite at once with some post of the G. A. R.

A Blot Upon Civilization.

Mysterious as are the ways of Providence, there are times when their meaning is an open book. No cause is so iniquitous, no official is so unfit and corrupt as not to find ready and impassioned championship in the senate of the United States. It is a truth that needs occasional demonstration, and for this cause, in connection with the unspeakable Noyes, has Mr. McCumber been raised up.

The senate of the United States is the most dignified deliberative body in the world—at its own valuation, and at that only. In fact, it is the cesspool of American politics. Thither repair the brainless rich, the blackguard poor, the conscienceless rapscallions and the coarsest clowns that imported strains and native talents can produce. Such assininity on one hand and rascality on the other as our national life affords painstakingly erect themselves into an imposing arch into which as a keystone the United States senate fits with miraculous precision.

The senate is a deliberative body. It prides itself on its dignity and courtesy. Its high standards have been set by ruffians like Tillman, clowns like Wilson, ignoramuses like Dubois, howling dervishes like Pettigrew, screech owls like Mason, promoters like Hanna and Elkins, tricksters like Gorman and Quay, moneybags without pretense of statesmanship, like Clark, Kean and Dryden. A man of brains and character can hardly aspire to the senate any more. It's as much as his reputation is worth. Such is its character that the worst is at once believed of the man whose name is mentioned in connection with it. In many states the extremity has been reached of chosing the less objectionable of one or more unworthy aspirants. Old ideals have to be abandoned and new ones set up. The highest moral and intellectual accomplishments we can expect in a senator nowadays is that he is six feet tall, possesses the gift of human speech, and has no convictions that cannot be instantly sacrificed for an appointment or an appropriation.

There is not a department of our government, nor an institution of our laws and affairs, nor an establishment maintained by public money that is not something viler and more dangerous from the senate's unholy touch. It has stamped venality upon every tariff law and dishonor upon every currency law enacted in a generation. It has tied the nation's hands with Cuba, fomented insurrection in the Philippines, prostituted the army with its traffic in appointments, and made its list of employes an instrument of support to male and female stipendiaries of its members.

If the senate of the United States could be wiped out of existence tomorrow, the public conscience would be quickened and the millenium brought immeasurably nearer. Of greater gain than the relief to national legislation would be the redemption of politics in every state from the devastating moral and material influences of senatorial campaigns—Oregonian.

Medals for Hood River.

Oregonians captured 131 medals at the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo—more than was awarded any other state. Of the 131 medals, Hood River valley got 16, and two honorable mention diplomas. Following is a list of the awards to Hood River:

Agriculture—Honorable mention, W. P. Watson, corn.

Horticulture—Gold Medals—E. L. Smith, collection of apples; Wm. Ehrck, apples; George Booth, apples; W. P. Watson, silver prunes in liquid.

Silver Medals—C. L. Rogers, apples; G. J. Gessling, cherries; E. L. Smith, apples in liquid; W. W. Nason, apples.

Bronze Medals—W. J. Baker, Bartlett pears; Fred Knudson, apples; G. A. McCurdy, strawberries; B. R. Tucker, apples; H. C. Bateham, plums; W. W. Nason, Hyde's King of the West apples.

Honorable Mention.—Wm. Knudson, Baldwin apples.

Death of Hon. J. L. Story.

Word has been received from Prineville of the death of Hon. J. L. Story, who died at that place February 11, 1902, aged 57 years. His death was caused by cancer of the stomach and other complications. Mr. Story was a lawyer, well known in Wasco county and throughout Eastern Oregon. For many years he was a resident of The Dalles and at one time in partnership in the law with Judge Bradshaw. He leaves, besides a wife, three daughters—Mrs. Fred Wilson of Prineville, Mrs. Frank A. Cram of Hood River, and Mrs. James Crossen of San Francisco.

The Blacksmith's Story.

Mrs. A. W. of Hood River asked in the Sunday Oregonian for the following verses. They were furnished the Glacier by F. R. Absten, who had preserved them in his scrap book:

Well, no; my wife ain't dead, sir,
But I've lost her all the same;
She left me voluntarily,
And neither was to blame.
It's rather a queer story,
And I think you will agree,
When you hear the circumstances,
'Twas rather rough on me.

She was a soldier's widow,
He was killed at Malvern Hill;
And when I married her she seemed
To sorrow for him still;
But I brought her here to Kansas,
And I never want to see
A better wife than Mary was
For five bright years to me.

The change of scene brought cheerfulness,
And soon a rosy glow
Of happiness warmed Mary's cheeks
And melted all their snow.
I think she loved me some—I'm bound
To think that of her, sir,
And as for me—I can't begin
To tell how I loved her!

Three years ago the baby came
Our humble home to bless,
And then I reckon I was nigh
To perfect happiness;
'Twas hers—'twas mine, but no language
Have I to explain to you
How that little girl's weak fingers
Our hearts together drew.

Once we watched it through a fever,
And with each gasping breath,
Dumb, with an awful wordless woe,
We waited for its death;
And, though I'm not a pious man,
Our souls together there,
For Heaven to spare our darling,
Went up in voiceless prayer.

And when the doctor said 'twould live,
Our joy what words could tell?
Clasped in each other's arms we stood,
And our grateful tears fell.
Sometimes, you see, the shadow fell
Across our little nest,
But it only made the sunshine seem
A doubly welcome guest.

Work came to me a plenty,
And I kept the anvil ringing—
Early and late you'd find me there,
A-hammering and singing;
Love nerved my arm to labor
And moved my tongue to song,
And though my singing wasn't sweet,
It was tremendous strong.

One day a one-armed stranger stopped
To have me nail a shoe,
And while I was at work we passed
A compliment or two;
I asked him how he lost his arm,
He said 'twas shot away
At Malvern Hill. "At Malvern Hill!
Did you know Robert May?"

"That's me," said he. "You, you!" I gasped,
Choking with horrid doubt;
"If you're the man, just follow me:
We'll try this mystery out!"
With dizzy steps I led him to
My Mary. God! 'twas true!
Then the bitterest pangs of misery
Unspeakable I knew.

Frozen with deadly horror,
She stared with eyes of stone,
And from her quivering lips there broke
One wild despairing moan.
'Twas he! the husband of her youth,
Now risen from the dead,
But all too late—and with bitter cry,
Reeling, her senses fled.

What could be done? He was believed
As dead. On his return
He strove in vain some tidings
Of his absent wife to learn.
'Twas well that he was innocent,
Else I'd have killed him, too,
So dead he never would have risen
Till Gabriel's trumpet blew!

It was agreed that Mary then
Between us should decide,
And each by her decision
Would sacredly abide.
No sinner at the judgment seat,
Waiting eternal doom,
Could suffer what I then did,
Waiting sentence in that room.

Rigid and breathless there we stood,
With nerves as tense as steel,
While Mary's eyes sought each white face
In piteous appeal.
God! could not woman's duty
Be less barely revealed
Between her lawful husband
And the father of her child?

Ah! how my heart was chilled to ice,
When she knelt down and said:
"Forgive me, John! 'Tis my husband
Here—alive, not dead!"
I raised her tenderly, and tried
To tell her she was right,
But somehow in my aching breast
The prisoned words stuck tight.

"But John, I can't leave baby!"
"What! wife and child!" cried I;
"Must I yield all! Ah, cruel fate!
Better that I should die.
Think of the long, sad, lonely hours
Waiting in gloom for me—
No wife to cheer me with her love,
No babe to climb my knee.

"And yet you are her mother,
And the sacred mother love
Is still the purest, tenderest tie
That Heaven ever wove.
Take her, but promise, Mary—
For that will bring no shame—
My little girl shall hear and learn
To lisp her father's name!"

It may be, in the life to come,
I'll meet my child and wife;
But yonder, by my cottage gate,
We parted for this life;
One long hand clasp from Mary,
And my dream of love was done—
One long embrace from baby,
And my happiness was gone!

[Timber Land, Act June 3, 1878.] NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

United States Land Office, Vancouver, Wash., Jan. 17, 1902.—Notice is hereby given that in compliance with the provisions of the act of congress of June 3, 1878, entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the States of California, Oregon, Nevada and Washington Territory," as extended to all the public land states by act of August 4, 1892,

JOSEPH E. P. PULKRABEK,

of Willmar, county of Kandiyohi, state of Minnesota, has this day filed in this office his sworn statement, No. 253, for the purchase of the east ½ southwest ¼ and lots 3 and 4 of section No. 30, in township No. 6 north, range No. 10 east, Willamette Meridian, and will offer proof to show that the land sought is more valuable for its timber or stone than for agricultural purposes, and to establish his claim to said land before the Register and Receiver of this office at Vancouver, Wash., on Monday, the 7th day of April, 1902.

He names as witnesses: Robert F. Cox, Albert W. Lobdell and George Shirley, all of Portland, Oregon, and August J. Wagnitz of Trout Lake, Wash.

Any and all persons claiming adversely the above-described lands are requested to file their claims in this office on or before said 7th day of April, 1902.

Sheriff's Sale.

Notice is hereby given that under and by virtue of an execution and order of sale issued out of the circuit court of the state of Oregon for Wasco county, upon a judgment and decree rendered in a cause pending in said court wherein Cynthia Jones and Burnice Jones were plaintiffs and John King and Amelia King were defendants, to me directed and commanding me to sell the real estate hereinafter described for the purpose of satisfying a judgment in favor of Cynthia Jones and against John King for the sum of $630.15 and $35 attorney's fees and $13.60 costs and disbursements, I will, on Saturday, the 15th day of February, 1902, at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M., at the courthouse door in Dalles City, Oregon, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash in hand, for the purpose of satisfying said judgment, the following described real estate, to-wit: Beginning at a point 18 rods north from the southeast corner of section 34 in township 2 north of range 10 east of the Willamette Meridian; thence west 54 rods and 3 feet; thence north 14 rods and 14 feet; thence east 54 rods and 3 feet; thence south 14 rods and 14 feet to the place of beginning, containing five acres of land and situated in Wasco county, Oregon.

Dalles City, Oregon, January 14, 1902.
ROBERT KELLY, Sheriff.
