HOOD RIVER GLACIER.

EVENTS OF THE DAY.

FROM THE FOUR QUARTERS OF THE WORLD.

The American colored troops in the South have been in the news, with reports of mutiny and insurrection. The troops are stationed in the southern states, where they have been sent to quell the growing discontent among the colored people. The reports of mutiny have been denied by the army authorities, but there is a growing concern about the situation.

Peacemaking efforts have been underway in the South, with efforts to bring the colored people and the military into a peaceful resolution. The efforts have been met with mixed results, as the colored people are demanding more rights and justice, and the military is concerned about maintaining discipline and control.

The situation in the South is being closely watched by the rest of the country, with concerns about the potential for wider social unrest. The federal government is under pressure to take action, but so far, the efforts have been limited.
