Mrs. J. H. Shoemaker last Saturday brought the Glacier office a basket of handsome tea roses. Mrs. Shoemaker takes a pride in growing roses, and has one of the most attractive flower gardens in the valley. The beautiful roses at the Glacier office were admired by many.

O. A. Rinehart and family returned last week from Summerville, Union county, where they have been sojourning since the 1st of May last. The Grand Ronde country is prosperous and a nice place to live, but the Rinehart family are glad to get back to Hood River.

Those who expect to take advantage of the baseball excursion to Portland, Sunday, September 14, should purchase their tickets by Friday the 12th, in order that the railroad company may be prepared to furnish plenty of cars.

The city of Hood River has purchased the lot adjoining the K. of P. hall on the north for the purpose of building a city hall and hose shed for fire apparatus. The 50x100 lot was bought of Robert Rand for $600 cash.

G. A. McCurdy, Professor Arneson, John Kinney, Jasper Wickham and Charles Reed started Monday for a few days outing on Green Point, where they will angle for the festive trout while re-creating.

Shoemaker Bros' 20-acre prune orchard, which this year yielded 60 tons of fruit. This season's prune crop is not heavy in Hood River, but the prunes are of good quality.

Hon. M. A. Moody and the Misses Anna and Bessie Lang left this morning on the Regular for Lyle, where they will join the Balfour party on a trip to Cloud Cap Inn.—Friday's Chronicle.

Several Hood River Elks who are members of The Dalles lodge are enjoying the carnival festivities in Portland this week. James DeBord took part in the grand street parade, Thursday.

M. F. Jacobs and H. J. Fredericks started Tuesday for Newport, where they will sojourn for awhile. Mr. Jacobs has seen the Atlantic ocean and now wants to view the Pacific.

Dr. I. R. Donaldson and family returned last Thursday from their outing of a month with the family of Porter McMillan on their claim at White Salmon.

T. J. Cunningham began Monday the erection of a $1500 house on his Parkhurst property, Contractor J. L. Blount doing the carpenter work.

Contractor J. L. Blount completed last week a neat $300 14x22 cottage for Mrs. Ida Crapper, on her home five miles southwest of town.

P. D. Hinrichs is busy harvesting his second crop of clover hay. Mr. Hinrichs has 30 acres in clover which yielded well this year.

Mrs. George Steinhoff and children of Seattle are visiting in Hood River with Mrs. Steinhoff's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Blount.

Mrs. J. T. Bagley is home from a three-weeks' visit in Eastern Oregon. She will leave next week for Portland.

John Gavin, an attorney of The Dalles, was transacting business in Hood River, Tuesday.

Theodore Dallas spent Sunday and Monday at Oregon City and Portland.

Malte Dukes is fireman on Captain Bagley's tug Maja.

Truman Butler is in Portland.

Guests the past two weeks at "The Fire"—W. B. Crowe, Minn.; Miss Eva B. Duncan, Nome; Mrs. Dr. C. A. Nichols, Portland; Miss Florence Hall, San Francisco; Miss M. J. Jacobs, Mrs. C. A. Bradley, Ashland; Mrs. C. S. Walker and niece, Portland; Hon. Malcolm Moody, Miss Lang, Miss Bessie Lang, The Dalles; Mr. and Mrs. Balfour, Mr. Nagan, Lyle; V. Strong, Portland; Mrs. J. E. Ewing, New York; Mrs. F. E. Gardner and son, Philadelphia; D. C. Brown and wife, Colorado; M. T. Carroll, Tacoma; S. Caro, New York; Mrs. L. H. Adams, Portland; H. M. Mecklen, Cloud Cap Inn.

O. H. Fredenburg of Mount Hood presented the Glacier with a sample of his delicious honey (Hood) honey. Mr. Fredenburg has 16 hives of Italian bees, which with a good season and proper range are capable of producing fifty pounds of honey to the colony. The bees were secured of pure stock in Seattle four years ago. Mr. Fredenburg finds it impossible to supply the demand for honey, but expects next year to enlarge his clover patches and fields of buckwheat, and will then be ready to furnish all the honey the market calls for.

Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Dakin, who have been visiting their many friends and relatives in Moro, returned Wednesday to their home in Hood River. They were accompanied by Misses Myrtle DeMoss and Edna Strahl, who intend to try ranching for a few days at the home of Miss DeMoss near Mt. Hood. The young ladies will no doubt "make hay while the sun shines" and may incidentally harvest a crop of tan, sunburn and fresh air. We wish them a pleasant trip.—Moro Bulletin.

The forest fire which started near Davenport's mill about three weeks ago is still spreading, and doing considerable damage to timber in the foothills. The country burned over is mostly held as homesteads, and D. O. Enticott is, so far as reported, the heaviest loser, having lost his house and contents. The claims of E. H. Hartwig, Miss E. Sperry, Miss Alvena Hoadley, U. G. Dyer and W. E. Pearson have also suffered considerable damage to standing timber.

W. A. Luzzader, editor and manager of the McLean County Herald, of Norman, Illinois, was in Hood River one day last week, acquainting himself with the good points of our country. He was driven through the valley by Roswell Shelley, of Orelit. Mr. Luzzader says there are a number of people in his home town who are looking forward to the time when they can make their home in Oregon. There is a considerable demand in that country for Oregon literature.

E. C. Rogers, on his place at Belmont, has about an acre of land planted to garden truck from which he has sold so far this summer $100 worth. This has hardly made an impression on his amount of vegetables, he says. He will have some vegetables for exhibition at the Hood River fair that ought to capture the prizes. He has some young parsnips which weigh a pound.

A movement is on foot to unite the Methodist Protestant, United Evangelical, Cumberland Presbyterian, Evangelical Association, and the United Brethren in Christ churches. In view of this fact, Rev. H. C. Shaffer will preach a sermon next Sabbath morning on the subject: "Unity". Special singing both morning and evening.

Doc Winchell lost a valuable horse one day last week while hauling wood to town, and in coming out of the woods, in descending a hill, the pole strap broke and the wagon and load was precipitated upon the team. One of the horses was crowded under the wagon. His back was broken and he had to be shot.

W. R. Winans last week purchased the James English 160 acres near the forks of Hood river, and has sold one-half of it to C. A. Lewis and the other to Seaguest Bros., all of Portland. It is understood that the purchasers will erect substantial cottages on the land and make it their summer home.

Dr. E. T. Carns and family returned Saturday from a five-days' outing at Carson Landing. The doctor says Carson is a delightful place for a summer outing, and reports that fresh butter, eggs and milk are easily obtainable. The beauty of it all, when people get off the boat, the camping ground is right there.
