

FRANK A. CRAM.

Always Up to Date.

EXPLAINS that he is still giving the dishes to his constantly increasing patrons, and will continue with the SAME pattern indefinitely. We have discarded the stamps and are giving instead a rebate check which either counts on the dishes same as before, one stamp for each 10c purchase and 50 stamps to a page, the dishes going by the same list as before, which you can always get by asking for one; or we will allow you 5 per cent of your purchase in trade FREE. Keep the check, it is valuable. If forgotten by a busy clerk, ask for it. The register issues them as you pay for your purchase. Return $5.00 worth to us and get 25c in trade free, or dishes as per list as before.

We are frequently asked how we can afford to sell as reasonable as we do and still give this extra 5 per cent rebate. The reason is mainly because every time we sell an article we get the cash, and if we sell a dozen shirts each one is paid for by the one who buys it, thus enabling us to sell our dozen shirts cheaper than the merchant who does a credit business, and in selling a dozen, loses one. Some one pays for that shirt SURE, even though the man who wore the shirt failed to meet his obligation. The merchant can't lose it. He could not do business long if he did not stop the leak some way. How? Well he must ask more for the shirts he did get pay for, in order to save himself on the one other fellow did not pay for. Simple, isn't it? But expensive for the eleven who paid for their shirts. This is simply an example which applies to any article bought. You can sell goods cheaper for cash than any one else can who has an occasional loss. This has been proven by hard experience, and no practical business man can dispute it. I frankly acknowledge that if I done a credit business I should have to ask much more for goods than the same goods could be sold for cash. We buy for cash, we sell for cash. We are happier and so are you; as you buy what you need right, and are not tempted to buy things which you are not ready to pay for, and which you might find harder to raise the money for than you had anticipated.

I want your trade and will work like a beaver to get it, and work like two beavers to hold it. We do not misrepresent goods; a child buys as cheaply as a man. Everything marked in plain figures. Dry Goods, Clothing, Shirts, Underwear, Blankets, Furnishings for man, wife and child, are here in vast assortment. Prices cheerfully submitted for comparison, and money refunded on anything returned in good order. Not the cheapest goods, but the Best Goods at Lowest Prices, is what we give you always.

Sincerely yours,

FRANK A. CRAM.

WOMAN'S BIG GOAT RANCH.

Her Flocks of Angoras Highly Rewarded an Energetic and Persevering Widow for Their Care.

Mrs. Armour, in Sierra county, N. M., owns a herd of more than 25,000 Angora goats, from which she is making $25,000 profit a year. Her "Columbia Pascha" is the most valuable Angora in America, and worth $1,500, says the Chicago Tribune.

In 1899 she was left a widow, penniless and with nine small children dependent on her for support. The ranchmen and miners took compassion on the destitute family and contributed a small sum for their immediate relief.

Then she pluckily cast about for some means of earning a living, so that she might not be a burden on the generosity of her friends. By chance there drifted into camp a ranchman with a herd of 90 Angora goats for sale. Nobody cared to buy them, for it was thought there was more money in cattle raising. With genuine intuition Mrs. Armour looked at their silken coats and knew that they would be valuable.

But she hadn't any money and didn't want to borrow. So she made a proposition to take a small flock of the goats, tend them and care for them and breed them, and at the end of the year divide the profits with the owner. The proposition was accepted. She took her goats and her children, and went up on the mountain side, 6,000 feet above the sea level, where the scrub oaks grow in profusion. Thus she secured the necessary fodder, and as for shelter the goats could find their own food. But she hadn't any money and didn't want to borrow. Thus she secured the necessary fodder, and as for shelter the goats could find their own food.

Since that time each year has added to her prosperity. She now employs 20 goatherds to care for her flocks. The greatest precaution is required to protect the goats from the invasions of the mountain lions, or cougars, which are so numerous that the ranchmen have to organize hunts to get rid of them.

Through her industry and perseverance and pluck, Mrs. Armour has made herself wealthy. She has sent her eldest son to college, where he is now studying law, and her four other children attend school in Kingston.

The Reason.
George (aged six)—Say, pop, why do they have a fender on an electric car?
His father—It enables both the doctor and the undertaker to get a crack at your estate; otherwise, the undertaker would have it all his own way.—Chicago Journal.

A Matter of Form.
Mrs. Handker—What have you got to say in the shape of rhubarb?
George—Well, we've got some celery; that's the nearest.—Philadelphia Press.

The Toledo Blade.
Before the close of 1922 the Toledo Blade will be installed in its new building, with a modern plant and equipment with facilities equal to any publication between New York city and Chicago. It is the only weekly newspaper edited expressly for every state and territory. The news of the world so arranged that busy people can more easily comprehend than by reading cumbersome columns of dailies. All current topics made plain in each issue by special editorial matter, written from inception down to date. The only paper published especially for people who do or do not read daily newspapers and yet thirst for plain facts. That this kind of a newspaper is popular is proven by the fact that the Weekly Blade now has over 178,000 yearly subscribers and is circulated in all parts of the United States. In addition to the news, the Blade publishes short and serial stories and many departments of matter suited to every member of the family. Only one dollar a year. Write for free specimen copy. Address The Blade, Toledo, Ohio.

Dr. Vogel Coming.
Dr. Vogel, the well-known oculist will be in Hood River for one week commencing November 3, and will be prepared to treat all who require his services, at his rooms at the Glenwood.

"Now is the Appointed Time."
The O. R. & N. Co. has just issued a handsome illustrated pamphlet entitled "Oregon's Wealth." It has much to say about Hood River. People in the East are anxious for information about the Pacific Northwest. If you will give the O. R. & N. Co. a list of names of Eastern people who are likely to be interested, the booklet will be mailed free to such persons.

Halloween Luncheon.
Canby Post, W. R. C. will serve a 10c luncheon consisting of pumpkin pie, cake and coffee, on Saturday, October 31, and will sell at auction a couple of bed quilts and other articles of needle work. Proceeds to be used for charitable purposes. Everybody invited.
