

Wood River Glacier.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1902.

The Eugene Register has enlarged its daily edition to six pages of seven columns each.

The Medford Success is the latest addition to Oregon Journalism. The first issue is bright and newy, and if Messrs Meeser & Kershaw continue as they have begun their publication will merit the name they have given it.

Hallow'en.

It was pleasant to note the normal condition of things generally in this condition of woods on the morning of the initial day of November this year, as compared to similar dates of past years.

All the senseless, anarchical proceedings that are indulged in and condoned by our people, that of the damage and destruction of property of others by the incorrigible youth and shallow-minded older people on Hallow'en seems to be the worst.

Mr. Wood went to Wind River on Tuesday. H. H. Jewett is reported to be on the sick list this week.

Our city will soon be supplied with water from a reservoir now being constructed by A. H. Jewett and son, X.

There is another phase of the case which is equally applicable to other occasions as well as to Hallow'en. These children who have been rightly brought up do not resort to lawlessness and although full of life and vivacity, and bent on getting all the enjoyment out of life they may; their sense of justice, and their regard for the rights of others naturally remain them from engaging in malicious, lawless acts.

It does seem that there can be no more heartrending experience, or one more fraught with the keenest anguish and misery than for a parent to hear from the lips of a son or daughter, from a blind parent, or the shadow of the gallows, the reproachful, despairing words: "Oh father, mother, if you had corrected me in my childhood and curbed my willfulness, I would not have come to this."

Our children who are being brought up to be obedient, respectful to their elders, impudent to their friends and strangers, who disregard the rights of their fellows, are heaping up a load of misery to themselves and sorrow to their children. Let us look to our children. The hope of our nation lies in them. If our nation is to be perpetuated and prosperous it must be through them.

We begin the training of our children in our homes. At the age of six we decide that the supervision of our children in our public schools. The teacher, then, is entitled to our sincerest sympathy, our most hearty support and encouragement if capable and faithful, and if not so, should be as promptly removed from the supervision of our children as it is possible.

What's the matter with its being Adam's knowledge box? Jonah's agricultural and piscatorial exploits, where he raised the prize gourd and caught the big fish, are known to have been done on the other side of the big pond; but who knows where Adam tilled the soil? We claim for Hood River some of the characteristics and adjuncts of primordial days; nay, Adam wandered from this vicinity over into "bleeding Kansas" before he "snuffed off this mortal coil."

Telling the Truth. It is said that an editor, recently announced that for just one issue he would tell the truth, the whole truth, naked and unvarnished.

It rests with us, the parents and guardians of the young, to at least manifest as deep and abiding interest in the intellectual and moral development of our children as do those friends who employ to direct and further their development. Let us encourage a spirit of perseverance and punctuality, of honesty and justice toward their teacher and their fellows.

to our nation; it will encourage and gladden the heart of the teacher; it will stimulate the children to greater effort; it will give to both, teacher and pupil, higher ideals, brighter views of life, and the reflex action will crown our declining years with a glory such as has never been attained by a previous generation.

White Salmon Items. An effort to remove the rock from the school grounds was made by Geo. Percor last week, which was a partial success, so to speak. He found no difficulty in securing money to buy the powder, but men with drills and hammers were not much in evidence at the appointed time.

The ladies' club met on Wednesday afternoon. The ladies are quite busy now getting ready for a fair to be held some time in December. They have made arrangements with C. M. Wolford & Co. to take charge of their store for one day during the first week in December.

Frank Groshong has a force of carpenters at work on his blacksmith shop, S. C. Zeigler being foreman. We hear talk of a photograph gallery, barber shop and hardware store to be opened up in White Salmon. Let them come, there is plenty of room to build.

The local assembly of United Artists will celebrate the sixth anniversary of its organization on Friday evening, by a social to be enjoyed by the members and their families.

J. C. Terry now occupies the Lane house, having moved from The Dalles last week. He has a contract to cut wood for Mr. Waterford, Washington. Politicians of the republican persuasion were here last Friday night. There was a fair sized audience in Luterbach hall to hear them.

Mrs. U. S. Drake is recovering from a serious attack of pleurisy. Mr. Plene will soon have his house ready for occupancy. Mr. Wood went to Wind River on Tuesday.

H. H. Jewett is reported to be on the sick list this week. Ramon says that F. Groshong contemplates building a dwelling in, and moving to White Salmon in the near future.

R. Fields is busy getting the roads in shape for winter. Mrs. Hunsaker has just returned from a visit to Portland. Our city will soon be supplied with water from a reservoir now being constructed by A. H. Jewett and son, X.

Odell Notes. The new covered mail wagon is a thing of beauty and attracts a crowd at Odell almost every day. Sherman Young, the new carrier, is certainly entitled to much credit for this enterprise. He has invested at least $50 more than was necessary to deliver the mail, but not in as good shape as it now comes.
