City Politics.

City politics are beginning to warm up for the election December 2, when a mayor, three councilmen, city recorder and city treasurer are to be elected. The initial caucus was held Friday evening, at A. O. U. W. hall, when a full ticket was nominated. The call for this meeting was signed "20 citizens" and declared for majority rule in local affairs. There was a good attendance, and the nominations were made by acclamation.

G. J. Gessling called the meeting to order and nominated Hon. L. N. Blowers for chairman. Mr. Blowers was the unanimous choice of the meeting for chairman. He proceeded right to business and called for a secretary. George I. Slocom was elected secretary without opposition. Hon. T. R. Coon was the unanimous choice of the meeting for candidate for mayor. A. W. Mans, G. J. Gessling and Ed Mayes were made the nominees for councilmen. J. B. Nickelsen received the nomination for re-election as city recorder and Truman Butler as city treasurer.

Mr. Coon was called upon for a speech and made a neat little talk in which he thanked his fellow citizens for the honor conferred in making him their candidate and promised, if elected to the responsible office of mayor of the city of Hood River, to carry out to the letter the spirit of the city charter, so far as concerned the duties of his office. He said our city is small, just beginning, and upon its officials depending now, more than at any other time, the duty of making a right start. He would at all times favor law and order.

At the conclusion of Mr. Coon's speech the meeting adjourned but was called to order again before the audience left the room and the chairman asked that the ticket be given a name for the official ballot. Mr. Gessling suggested the name of "majority rule ticket," and the name was unanimously adopted.

Wednesday morning a call was circulated for a republican and taxpayers caucus, signed by John Leland Henderson, republican committeeman. The meeting was held in the new opera house and was lively from beginning to end. Every nomination, from that of mayor to city treasurer, was contested by ballot. John Leland Henderson was selected for chairman of the meeting and H. M. Huxley, secretary. A motion debaring all who took part in the majority-rule convention from participating in this, was adopted unanimously.

For Mayor, Dr. F. C. Brosius, Geo. T. Prather and Captain Blowers were placed in nomination. About 60 votes were cast, and Dr. Brosius having received a majority, was declared the nominee for mayor.

For councilmen, C. A. McDonald, C. A. Bell, Elmer Rand, Geo. T. Prather and S. H. Cox were placed in nomination. W. O. Ash and P. F. Friday declined. McDonald, Bell and Prather were nominated for councilmen.

For recorder, W. B. Cole and T. J. Canning were placed in nomination. Mr. Cole having received the highest number of votes, was declared the nominee for recorder.

For treasurer, Ralph Savage declined a nomination. Truman Butler's name was mentioned for the nomination, but the chairman ruled that according to the motion adopted, debarring those who took part in the previous caucus, Mr. Butler's nomination could not be entertained. G. E. Williams was then placed in nomination, and there being no further nominations, the secretary was instructed to cast the ballot, and Mr. Williams was declared the nominee for city treasurer, and the meeting adjourned.

F. B. Barnes and J. B. Hunt acted as tellers for the meeting.

The matter of accepting or rejecting Mr. Carnegie's library gift of $100,000 was last week submitted to the voters of Albany, N. Y., and the nays carried with 5000 majority. The Albany voter who said no thus states his reasons. Mr. Carnegie is the possessor of more money than he knows what to do with. He has become the holder of hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of securities which yield him an income. It is said, of between two and three million dollars a month, and he amassed this colossal fortune in a few years while thousands of men who contributed their efforts to the upbuilding of his industrial enterprises remained poor. And furthermore, the conditions under which the gift is offered make it obligatory upon the community to bear the expense of maintaining an institution which is to perpetuate the fame of a man whose sole claim to the respect of his fellow citizens is his distribution of vast wealth, in the equipment of which he gave no evidence of that beneficence which has since been so ostentatiously paraded. Mr. Carnegie would be entitled to more lasting fame had he shared with his employees the profits of his industries made productive by a high protective tariff enacted to benefit American workmen.

While it pays to advertise, it will also pay our readers, and pay them well, to read the ads in the Glacier every week. There is always something to interest all in the advertising columns of the Glacier. Read these ads carefully and obtain some idea of the goods and prices offered by our merchants and compare them with those of the big department stores of Chicago and other large cities and you will be surprised. In most cases you will find the Hood River prices just as low as those of Chicago or other cities, after freight, expressage and other expenses are added to the foreign prices; you will find in very many cases they are the lower of the two. And if once in a while you find that you can take the chances of getting an inferior article at a ten per cent discount from your home merchant's, and can save two bits on the first cost of some article, just turn round, look yourself squarely in the eye and put to yourself this question: "Am I so 'picky' as to go to the store to buy a pair of boots for two bits I will go back on my own friends, men whose efforts are identical with my own, whose aim is to make a living and promote the interests of Hood River and the valley, and patronize an institution that does not know or care anything whatever about Hood River or any of her people, except to pluck them of as many of Uncle Sam's shiners as they can?" Now would you?

The banner that was put up as a prize for highest percentage of attendance and punctuality, and for which a competition has been in progress during the past and present months, has already proven a profitable and interesting factor in our school government. Our teachers are to be highly commended for their action in the matter and deserve the hearty support of every patron of our schools. No prize, however, has been offered for the school making the largest percentage of gain in attendance and punctuality during the year. If it is not out of place the Glacier would suggest that such a prize be offered by our instructors or others, the winner at the close of one school year to retain the banner until won by another, either at the end of a school year, or end of a term of the year. We believe it would stimulate some schools to greater exertions, who now, perhaps, cannot expect to win the present much coveted prize, but who might by strenuous effort, attain such a percentage of gain as to place them in a favorable position in competition for this annual, or term, prize.

Five voting machines were used in the New York city booths at the election, and with results entirely satisfactory. Mayor Low voted in one of them and had no trouble in getting out in a couple of seconds. The machines were operated rapidly and the votes were counted the moment the polls closed. The cost of installing the machines is the only reason for not bringing them into universal use at once.

The city of Hagerstown, Md., with a population of 4500, is said to have one of the most economical and successful municipal governments. Its mayor receives a salary of 50 cents a year; aldermen, 25 cents a year; and its princely salaries revert to the city treasury because the council votes solidly against allowing orders for their payment. The town has no saloons, the revenue of the city being raised by taxation.

For the first time in the history of Hood River, two completely different tickets are in the field for city officers. Both tickets contain good representative men from beginning to end, and the voter can not go far amiss in casting his ballot.

Crupper Croppings.
Still it rains but we are getting so rain-soaked now that rain don't have any effect on us any more, so we have no kick coming.

E. H. Nichols returned last week from an extended visit to friends and relatives in Iowa, Missouri and Arkansas. He likes Hood River better than ever. He stated for Sherman county Wednesday to put in 160 acres of wheat. After he gets through with that, he will return to Hood River and go to clearing land on his ranch. He expects to work his ranch hereafter instead of renting it out.

Will Dodge started for Grade, Crook county last Saturday to stay with his uncle and aunt this winter. Rev. D. D. Dodge, expects to start for Nebraska in a couple of weeks. He don't expect to leave Hood River for good, but is going to get his children in some school, and he will return to Hood River in the near future.

A. W. King is on the sick list this week. While lying on a log last week he wrenched his back in some way, causing severe pain. He is confined to his home, and probably will be for some time, as the cold, wet weather seems to make him worse.

Quill Notes.
The curtains of heaven were planned back by the stars last night, which seems a promise of better weather, and being the man behind the team, the thought of sunshine tomorrow, is right welcome.

On Saturday, as the writer was slowly ascending the Davidson hill, on his way to town he saw a man hitching his team by the wayside and accosted him: "Are you going to work the road?" "I came for that purpose, but no one else has showed up." "Are you the road superintendent?" "Oh no! Don't accuse me of anything like that." Last night he had offended him, I hastily begged his pardon and passed on.

C. M. Busby who purchased the Joehinsen place, is preparing to enlarge his apple orchard. Busby shows his faith in the country by his works.

John Kroeger has been quite under the weather for some days with Job's trouble, but manages to get down after his mail every day. John is patient under affliction's rod. It reports are true there are better days in store for him ever long.

Some very fine samples of potatoes which are novelties in shape, can be seen at "The Little White Store" this week. They were grown by F. C. Sheridan on the West Side.

Dr. Walt of Bushlah Land and Mr. Avery and wife, who live on the Eggert place were customers at "The Little White Store," yesterday, as were also Mr. Wagonblast and Mr. Patterson of Mount Hood.
