THE PEOPLE'S STORE.

John Wickham, formerly of the Goss place on Lyman Smith avenue was in town Sunday on business. He was surprised to note the many changes in Hood River. Mr. Wickham is interested in the Alameda mining company at Galice, Oregon, and is doing very well. He has recently bought a home near Portland and will move his family there.

Barney Cooper came down from Mount Hood to attend the district hall Friday night. Mr. Cooper was forest ranger at Lost Lake last summer. Later he surveyed the line of the forest reserve near Lost Lake, where a half township had been thrown out. Sheep men had been trespassing on this land, but now that the lines have been surveyed they can do so no more.

Hon. John Michell came down yesterday from Ontario, where he opened a law office three months ago. Mr. Michell will spend a few days here visiting his family, and expects to leave Sunday night for Washington, D. C., to be there on the convening of congress to assume his duties as one of the officials of the senate.—Mountaineer.

An Astoria woman had the temerity to sleep alone in a house that her family had just moved out of, and the only article of furniture left was a folding bed. Just her luck, the bed folded up on her during the night, and she had to fight her way through the springs and slats at the bottom. A folding bed will seem to be the only thing that will shut up some ladies.—Salem Journal.

L. H. Nichols returned last week from his Eastern trip. He was gone two months and visited in Iowa and Arkansas. He found a good many comrades of his old regiment, the 24th Iowa, still living, and had a way-up time. He passed through the strawberry country of Arkansas in the neighborhood of Van Buren. He thinks the country doesn't compare with Hood River in growing berries or apples.

Sears & Porter of the East Side will have about 7,000 boxes of apples. The rains caught them in the orchards, and the bearing trees, 2% are Ben Davis. They will have 3,000 boxes of first-class Ben Davis. Sears & Porter could have sold their entire crop for something over a dollar a bushel, but as they have a big apple house, will hold for better prices.

E. L. Smith, president of the state board of horticulture, who is engaged preparing his biennial report at Portland, was home Sunday. The last biennial report is considered the best ever gotten out by the Oregon state board of horticulture or any other board. It has been in great demand for some time, and the United States department of agriculture is expected to buy the report, now being prepared will be in great demand.

H. B. Miller, consul to Newchwang, Manchuria, was in Hood River Saturday. Mr. Miller is home on a furlough but will return to his post of duty soon, accompanied by his wife. Mr. Miller was E. L. Smith's predecessor as president of the state board of horticulture. He still takes a deep interest in horticulture and thinks Hood River has great advantages as an apple growing section.

Miss Carrie Butler is visiting her sister and family at Centralia, Wash. O. C. Dean has moved up from Viento and is occupying his home on the hill with his family. He is now engaged in putting the finishing touches on his home. R. M. Hunt is digging a well on the place. Mr. Dean has a whole block, which he will improve, or he may decide to put some of the lots on the market.

Amos Underwood, the old Indian war veteran and broodstock democrat, was in town Monday from Underwood. He is unable to travel since the flop made by the Skamania county in the recent election. The county has been going about two-thirds democratic heretofore, but this time it elected every candidate on the republican ticket. Mr. Underwood says that he has seen the election, but he spurs the intimation that any Skamania democrat would sell his vote.

The Dalles syndicate that purchased the Dalles strawberry ranch last week, have retained J. W. Moore to manage it. Mr. Moore superintended the work on this place for Mr. Bickel, and now places in the valley is in better shape. Messrs. Lake, Bolton and Wilson can congratulate themselves on having got the best bargain in Hood River. Of the 30 acres of strawberries, 16 acres were new plants set last spring. The plants are in fine condition for next year's crop.

Our devil, like Uncle John of Punkin Center, is always getting into trouble. This time, he tried to write up the verbal proceedings for making blunders, and failed to show that the old school program that had that of those two numbers failed to make the name of the program that night, and George—well George is a regular "prima donna," the devil says, and asks us to make this explanation and offer his apologies, so that he may again promenade Oak street without watching all the time for a brick to take him in the back of the neck.

Rev. G. K. Berry, editor of the Pacific Christian, will preach in the tabernacle next Monday evening, at 7:30. Stoves will be put up and the room made comfortable for the audience. Tuesday evening, Mr. Berry will preach in the Valley Christian church at the same hour.

Robert Leasure of Mount Hood was in town Saturday. He is now logging for the Lost Lake Lumber company at Mount Hood and reports the company is getting a good many logs in the river. The good stage of the water has enabled them to get a good many logs to the mouth of the river.

The troubles of the jury are over for this term at least and they have been discharged. This season of the circuit court has been a light one, with only seven jury trials and about one half as long as that of last fall. In former years the jury always expected to hold a three-week term, with almost always a half dozen criminal cases. It has, however, been a noticeable fact that in the past few years litigation has decreased very largely in every part of the state. Is this a sign that the state is growing better?—Dalles Chronicle.
