Surprise Birthday Dinner Last Thursday the 20th, at 10 o'clock a. m., M. F. Jacobs received a telephone message to report immediately at Blowers & Son's store to make arrangements for a fishing trip to Trout Lake. He took the bait with the voracity of a 'steelhead," and Harvey Byrkett played with head, and Harvey Byrkett played with him until nearly noon, when he slipped away from him to join the crowd that had invaded the Jacobs residence with lunch baskets, in the name of F. C. & L. in honor of the 66th anniversary of his birth. On entering the house he was greeted by a room full of comrades and W. R. C. members lustily singing—or rather shouting—that old riot, "Marching through Georgia." Surprised? Dumbfounded rather, for he tried to speak to his daughter, Mrs. Frederick, but no sound came from his lips. Tears came to his eyes but the smiling faces was not indicative of a funeral. Grasp-ing the situation, up went his hands in token of surrender, and in answer to a question "How old are you?" he fell short of the truth 46 years and promptly answered, "I'm twenty and you're twenty too." The falsehood was confirmed by the boyish joy beaming from his face, and the renewal of youth seemed infectious, for all the old boys and staid W. R. C. ladies—who are not firmed by the boyish joy beaming from his face, and the renewal of youth seemed infectious, for all the old boys and staid W. R. C. ladies—who are not to be called old girls—dropped their dignity and formality and the result was a hilarious time. Marshal Dukes was telephoned for to quiet the disturbance.

The latest reports say there were three ladies and ten gentlemen present. Very "select" indeed. Whether they will try again rumor sayeth not. Sam. C. Zeigler purchased a ranch the other day located near his homestead.

M. J. Kast went to Portland on Tues-hope that this city shall bear the conditions of things which he votes for I believe in progress, and have an ardent hope that this city shall bear the conditions of the condition of things which he votes for I believe in progress, and have an ardent hope that this city shall bear the conditions of the condition of things which he votes for I believe in progress, and have an ardent hope that this city shall bear the conditions of the condition of things which he votes for I believe in progress, and have an ardent hope that this city shall bear the condition of telephoned for to quiet the disturbance, but he seemed to have caught the malady, as his only answer was a laugh. I thought how appropriate the couplet from Oliver W. Holmes: "We're twenty, we're twenty-who says we
