Spray Your Orchards.

This is the time of year to spray fruit trees with a solution of salt, sulphur and lime. This spray kills the San Jose scale and prevents fungus on the fruit. You may not have the scale or any fungus in your orchards, but it is a good wash for the trees, and the fruit next season will be more perfect after using this spray. Here is the formula:

50 pounds unsalted lime.
50 pounds flowers of sulphur.
25 pounds common salt.

Slake the lime in enough water to do it thoroughly; add the sulphur and boil for an hour at least, adding water if necessary. Then add the salt and boil 15 minutes more. Add water to make 150 gallons, and spray hot through a coarse nozzle.

We all know the good effects of spraying for the codling moth, and every orchardist who failed to spray thoroughly for this pest last year has resolved to do it right next season and save his fruit. If you fail to spray with salt, sulphur and lime while the trees are dormant you will be neglecting a most important part of your work. This spray should be applied to every tree in the orchard. If your trees have the scale it will kill it; if you have no scale, it will keep it out of your orchard. "Let us spray" if we wish to start right for a good crop in 1903.

Hood River will soon be getting its share of the immigration that is coming to the North Pacific coast by reason of the low railway rates and the desire of Easterners to seek a more congenial climate. These newcomers should be given the glad hand. They should be encouraged to investigate our resources. Give them facts and let them know what can be done here in growing fruit. Our climate speaks for itself, we have soil and climate adapted to the fruit industry, the best of transportation facilities, and if the stranger on first acquaintance gets the idea that we are the right kind of people, he is mighty apt to locate with us.

There seems to be general satisfaction over the result of the senatorial election. Enough members did the sensible thing at the last moment of the last hour of the session and voted for the man who had the strongest following. Mr. Fulton is a man every way qualified for the high office to which he is elected. He made a clean campaign and won without a taint of dishonesty—something new in Oregon senatorial elections.

The grip is more prevalent than usual this winter. Its prevalence is attributed to the long spell of dry weather. Three weeks without rain is too much for Oregonians; the grip is apt to get in its work.

Home Telephone Company.

There was an enthusiastic meeting of the farmers of Hood River valley in the A. O. U. W. hall last Saturday for the purpose of taking steps toward organizing a home rural telephone company. The hall was filled with people representing every section of the valley. J. H. Shoemaker called the meeting to order, and after reading the call, stated the object of the meeting to be for the purpose of organizing to build, equip and maintain telephone lines in every part of the valley, as well as in the city of Hood River, provided the people wanted them to come to the city, and would grant permission to set poles and string wires through the streets. If not, they would have to build a town of their own. At the conclusion of Mr. Shoemaker's remarks, Captain Jas. P. Shaw was elected to preside at the meeting, and L. F. Morse as secretary.

Upon assuming the chair, Mr. Shaw delivered a short address, referring to the various sections of the country where the people had put in their own system of phones from 30 to 75 per cent of the cost of similar service under private ownership. "The trend of public ownership," he said, "of not only the telephone but of all means of serving the people in a public capacity is rapidly spreading throughout the country. A letter was read from the manager of the Newburg rural telephone system, installed by the people of Yamhill county, showing that the cost of each telephone per month was but 50 cents, as against $2.00 for the same service a private corporation was charging them. The same may be said wherever the people have put in their phones.

Great interest was manifested by the large number present and the earnestness of the speakers who addressed the meeting. There is no doubt but that the people are in earnest in this matter and will install their own system of telephones.

J. H. Shoemaker, Jas. P. Shaw and W. V. Johnson were constituted a committee on organization, and were instructed to proceed at once to put the new enterprise of the people in shape to do business. A committee to be known as the push committee was appointed to solicit signatures for stock, and they will call on the citizens this week for that purpose.

The meeting adjourned amid applause for the success of the new phone system, and will meet again Saturday, February 28, at 8 P. M. At which time it is expected the committee on organization will be able to report. Everybody interested is invited and expected to be present.

Looking Up the Records.

Hood River, Oregon, February 23, 1903.—Editor Glacier: In the issue of your paper of February 13 appeared a list of names of people living in North Yakima, Washington, which were represented as a few of the people who would build homes with money obtained from the National Homesteaders' Association. The facts in the case would not warrant any such publication, as the following letter will prove.

J. E. HANNA.

North Yakima, Washington, February 17, 1903.—J. E. Hanna, Hood River, Oregon.—Dear Sir: Yours of the 14th came to hand yesterday, and in reply I will say that I have investigated the county records here and find no names on their books contained in the list you sent me where the National Homesteaders' Association loaned any money to any of them. I called on E. L. Sessions in person, and he said that "there had been no loans made here in the city by that company." I will give you a list of the names of those I went to see: Geo. N. Tussley, G. L. Hixon, Rev. J.

H. Wood, Jennie Hixon, Geo. F. Sigle, Ed. Krattman and every one of them said they had not received a cent from the company, and they did not know of any one receiving a loan from this company. This man, E. L. Sessions, was their agent here up to the first of the year. Hoping this will be satisfactory, I remain yours truly,
R. N. HARRISON.

Lyle-Goldendale Railroad.

O. P. Ramsey and wife (nee Madge Warren) are visiting Mrs. Ramsey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Warren of this city. Mr. Ramsey is a civil engineer in the employ of the Columbia River and Northern Railway Co., now under construction from Lyle, on the Columbia river, to Goldendale, Wash. Mrs. Ramsey has been braving the rigors of a cold winter and the accompanying deep snows all winter in a tent with her husband, suffering only isolation from civilization and friends. To a representative of the Glacier Mr. Ramsey said the road is completed eleven and one-half miles out from Lyle, and that construction trains are running over that portion of the road. There are now two engines and a complement of cars on the road, and other rolling stock expected soon. The company is building a round house and turn table at Lyle, large enough to accommodate a half dozen engines.

Construction work is being pushed at a rapid rate all along the line between Lyle and Goldendale, with the intention of completing the road in time to move the 1903 wheat crop out of the Klallam valley.

"Is it the intention, Mr. Ramsey, to extend the road to the Glacier?" asked the representative of the Glacier.

"I can not answer that question," I will say, however, that there are now two parties of engineers in the field east of Goldendale running preliminary lines. With this information I will leave you to draw your own conclusions."

"There seems scarcely a doubt, Mr. Ramsey, but what the C. R. and N. will extend their eastern end into the Yakima country?"

"I think so," he said.

"What do you know about the plans of the company for a continuation of their line down the Columbia?"

"I have no information relative to the intentions of the company in that direction," I will state, however, that in January a party of surveyors were engaged in running a line down the north bank of the Columbia river. Who they were and for what purpose they were running the line, none of our party seems to know.

"Could they have been parties connected with the Columbia Northern?"

"No; they had no connection with our road. The line these parties were running was above the line of the C. R. and N. Besides, they were not running down the Columbia. No, this has another connection than the road I am with."

This, then, must be the initial work of some other road, possibly the Northern Pacific, and it would be the O. R. and N. Who knows? It's a guess which, as it shows the way the wind blows, no surveyors point the direction of the road.

There will be a railroad built down the north bank of the Columbia to Vancouver, and that, too, in the near future, is a conclusion easily reached by the knowing ones.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey left for Portland Monday, where they go to visit Mr. Ramsey's father, whom he has not home telephone company.

Professor S. P. Barrett, a brother of the late Dr. P. G. Barrett of Hood River, died at his home in North Yakima, February 19. Deceased was a teacher in the public schools of The Dalles in 1871.

August Richter, proprietor of the Columbia brewery at The Dalles, was in a buggy upset in Sherman county a few days ago and suffered dislocation of his shoulder.

The public schools of the Dalles have reported after being closed for two weeks on account of the prevalence of scarlet fever.

Better Than Gold.

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes F. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicine I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. I say Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run-down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. Only $2.00. Satisfaction guaranteed by Chas. N. Clarke.

Noticed.

I hereby give notice to the man who takes so much liberty as to set his dog on my estate in the city of Hood River, Oregon, that if he is going by my place, that he must stop such nonsense. I don't wish any trouble.

ONLY EYE TESTER.

I wish to let the people of Hood River know that I have the only Eye Tester on the Columbia river between The Dalles and Portland. Come to me if you need spectacles, and have your eyes tested so that you can be suited in glasses. If your eyes are not both the same, it is sometimes necessary to have lenses ground, cylindrical and spherical. I have all my lenses ground by the very best optical company in America. They never fail to give satisfaction. And I can sell them for less than half what you would pay in Portland, as my expenses are small. I have a way of fixing rimless lenses that is my secret, by which they are not easily broken. For compound stigmatism no one can be suited with lenses unless their eyes are treated by a regular eye-testing instrument, same as I have in my store.
