Mrs. H. Pugh, who has been an invalid for the past six months is now entirely helpless, and is nearly blind. She suffers a good deal of pain. Her son William and wife take turns with Frank Noble and wife in caring for her. They are on duty every other night, and their patient requires constant attention.

Mrs. M. A. Scobee sold her farm at Trout Lake to C. A. Pearson for $2500. This farm, 240 acres in extent, fronts the lake on the north, and is one of the best stock ranches in the Trout Lake country. Mr. Pearson expects to go extensively into the stock business.

Dr. C. H. Jenkins was in Portland last week attending the meeting of the Oregon state dental society. The alumni of the North Pacific dental college, of which Dr. Jenkins is a member, also held their meeting last week.

W. Ross Wiggins brought in from his place at the Forks, Monday, two handsome meat blocks for the Commercial company. They are cut from yellow fir, are three feet across, and were cut 12 feet above the stump.

Will Isenberg provided a place for his future home by the purchase of one of those handsome lots in Coe's addition, paying therefor $300. Geo. D. Culbertson did the business, and will do the same for you.

Rev. J. T. Merrill returned Monday morning from Sherman county and The Dalles. Rev. Merrill, as presiding elder, held quarterly meetings in Sherman county, and attended the county Sunday school convention in The Dalles. Rev. Merrill moved onto his East Side farm about four months ago for the purpose of regaining lost health from over work at his Eugene charge. He finds recreation on the farm a healthful pursuit, and declares he now feels like a new man.

Judson H. Carter, of Portland, and his bride, spent Sunday in Hood River. Mr. Carter is advertising manager for the Tradesman and Commercial Record, and was married in Portland Saturday. The new married couple left town on the next train as a good joke on their friends who looked for the event in June. Mr. and Mrs. Carter were shown every courtesy at the Mount Hood hotel and returned home feeling that they had enjoyed a good time in Hood River.

J. H. Koberg brought to this office, Wednesday, six potatoes of the Rural New Yorker and Carmen varieties, each of which would weigh over two pounds. They are smooth and well formed, and hard to beat for beauty as well as size. Mr. Koberg last year planted one acre of ground to potatoes of these varieties and harvested 180 sacks of marketable potatoes. In fact he didn't have any small potatoes in the field.

Charles E. Warrens was up from Portland last week, looking after his strawberry interests here. Mr. Warrens finds that with the right sort of management strawberry culture on an extensive scale can be made to pay. From six acres last year he marketed 900 crates. This year Mr. Warrens has over 18 acres in plants.

Special Agent Clement of the post office department will be here Friday, May 8, and will examine applicants for the position of mail carriers on R. F. D. route No. 2. The examination will begin at 9 a. m. Here's your chance now, boys, to get a soft job. Applicants between 17 and 55 years of age only will be eligible.

Professor C. D. Thompson came in Tuesday from his Willow Flat ranch, where he spent two weeks planting four acres of winter apples. The professor expects to clear more orchard land this summer, and will increase his muscle by boxing the job.

John Leland Henderson's farm at White Salmon, formerly the Butler ranch, two miles north of the post office, is in charge of a farmer who is paying $40 a month. Mr. Henderson has 25 acres in ryegrass and speltz and 5 acres in bearing orchard.

Geo. D. Culbertson & Co. negotiated a $4,000 loan last week for Washington parties to complete the purchase of a large tract of land sold last year, in Klickitat county.

EIGHT MEN ARE INJURED

Boiler Explodes at Viento Planing Mill—Hanson is not Expected to Live.

A boiler explosion at Viento, yesterday morning, injured eight men. Two of the mill men received broken legs, and a half dozen others were severely bruised and scalded. Hanson, with a broken leg and severe scalds is seriously injured and may not recover. The accident happened a few minutes before 7 o'clock, just as the men were waiting for the whistle to blow.

Those injured are:
 —HANSEN, broken leg and badly scalded (injuries may prove fatal).
 F. LINK, broken leg and badly scalded.
 J. BADER, bruised and scalded.
 CHARLES WALKER, bruised and scalded.
 FRED PAUL, scalded.
 WILLIAM CARNETT, bruised on the chest, possibly hurt internally.

Two other men, names not attainable, were scalded.

The injured men were all new employees and were the only hands collected about the boiler, the old men not being in the habit of gathering there. The explosion occurred about 10 minutes to 7. Engineer Larson had just stepped from the boiler room as the accident happened, and escaped any injury. The boiler was carried over freight cars for 300 feet and alighted bottom side up.

What caused the accident no one knows. Word was immediately sent to Manager Charlie Early at Hood River, who, with Drs. Brosius and Dumble left on No. 5 for Viento, arriving but a short time after the accident. Those of the injured who suffered most were taken on to Portland, Dr. Dumble accompanying them to St. Vincent's hospital. Every effort was made by the physicians to relieve the pain of the men while they were being taken to Portland. In Hansen's case anesthetics had to be used, owing to the laceration of his foot. In the hospital Dr. Dumble, who was left in sole charge by Dr. Brosius, at Troutdale, called in Dr. Rockey. Hansen's foot was amputated and the others' wounds dressed as soon as possible. When the surgeons finally took stock of the injuries they felt that they were reasonably sure that none would die. Two of the men will leave the hospital within a day or so.

Superintendent Early places the loss to the mill at $2000, with no insurance. He was not present at the time of the accident, and only stopped long enough on the way to Portland to pick up the injured. "It is impossible for me to tell how or why the explosion took place," he said this morning. "As to the damage I can only make an approximation. The mill was valued at $5000 and there was no fire, so that the yards are intact. I judge that $2000 would cover the loss. C. Larson, the engineer, is an old and trusted employee. The two boilers were connected, with a check valve between, the same pressure is maintained in each, and each has a safety valve."

At 3 p. m. it was said at St. Vincent's hospital that J. Hansen was very low. The amputation of his leg proved a severe shock to his system, and it is feared he will not recover, though he has a fighting chance. His burns and the fracture of the other leg hinder his chances very much. The others are doing well.

Removal of Depot Talked Of.

It is currently reported on the streets that the O. R. & N. Company will move their depot four blocks west from its present site to a location at the foot of Irving street. Nothing definite could be learned about the matter from local railroad officials. It is reported though that Manager Mohler will be here next week from Portland to decide the matter. The present location is too cramped and with a warehouse on each side the track it is inconvenient. The company expects to remodel the bridge east of depot this year. The reverse curve will be taken out and the track in front of the depot extended a hundred feet toward the Columbia. If this is done there will be plenty of room for the depot at the present location. Several real estate deals have already been made in expectation of removal of the depot.

Family Lose Everything by Fire

The residence of Amos Perkins, living on John Leland Henderson's farm at White Salmon, was burned last night. Not a thing was saved, the family barely escaping with their night clothes. The family consists of Mr. and Mrs. Perkins and three small children and the father of Mr. Perkins. The residence was valued at $700 with $250 insurance. Mr. Henderson heard of the loss this morning and immediately sent over a box of supplies and clothing for the unfortunate people.

In mailing the Glaciers for the two free delivery routes, last week, our mailing clerk dropped a make-up rule which was lost in the bundle of papers. If the subscriber who found the rule in his paper will kindly return it to the Glacier he will receive a great favor on the make-up man, who has been out of sorts ever since he lost his rule.

Mrs. H. L. Dumble received word, Wednesday, that her brother, Rev. Idelman of Ashland, had been taken to the hospital to be treated for typhoid fever. Mr. Idelman is a popular minister of the Episcopal church.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shoemaker were in Hood River during the week visiting Mrs. Shoemaker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gilbert.

Master Abbot and Tom, twin sons of A. H. Mills, and nurse Miss Eboral, of Portland, are enjoying a week's stay at "The Firs."

The woman's alliance of the Unitarian church will meet Friday afternoon, May 15, at the home of Mrs. E. L. Smith.

An ice cream social will be given at the Valley Christian church, Friday evening, May 8, price 15 cents.

Miss Cad Borch arrived from Hood River to attend the funeral of the late J. O. Mack.—Chronicle.

Mrs. Henry Snipes was the victim of a serious case of ptomaine poison Monday, which came near proving fatal. With some neighbors the Snipes family went picnicking down near KSnipes' lake Monday morning. In the picnic lunch were some canned goods, which proved a poor diet, for Mrs. Snipes and her little daughter were brought home ill, the former seriously so. A physician was called and gave the remedies usual in such cases. Today she is reported out of danger.—Chronicle.

Four weeks ago next Thursday Orion Kinerly broke out with smallpox and was quarantined at his residence on 5th street. Today he broke out again; but this time it was "from" smallpox, the quarantine having been raised Monday afternoon. It is very gratifying to her friends that Mrs. Kinerly and little Wilson escaped the disease, and that it spread no further throughout the city.—Chronicle.

Smallpox has claimed another victim in Prineville, John Clagpool, an old resident of that city, having died Sunday. Word from Prineville today comes that all the smallpox patients are convalescent, and no new cases have developed, though it is stated that Miss Kate Helfrich, who recently went from Prineville to Portland, has taken the disease in that city.

We are making the best crates that are being made in Hood River. That's easy. Nobody else makes any here, nor sells any better ones made elsewhere. The kind we make are all right, and the berries packed in them sell all right.

Grenville Goddard is home from Tillamook. He will spend the summer months improving his strawberry ranch in the Crapper neighborhood, and expects next fall to return to Tillamook, where he is director in a glass, club and also has charge of a local dramatic company. He is assisted in his work by Mrs. Goddard, who instructs in music and vocal expression. Mr. Goddard says half the people of Tillamook are anxious to come to Hood River. "There's apt to be a regular exodus," said Mr. Goddard. "We talked Hood River all the time and a number of Tillamook people have decided to come this summer and see for themselves what can be done here."

C. L. Gilbert, proprietor of the Mount Hood hotel, spent Monday at White Salmon visiting his old friend C. M. Wolfard, the White Salmon merchant. Mr. Gilbert found things prosperous with the White Salmon people, and reports Mr. Wolfard as doing a big business. The firm name is now Wolfard & Smith, the new member being a brother-in-law of Mr. Wolfard. This firm, a short time ago, bought out Mr. Thomas and his stock has been moved to Wolfard's store. Mr. Wolfard will build an addition to his store to accommodate his rapidly increasing business.

Geo. D. Culbertson & Co. sold last Tuesday the Glenwood hotel for C. A. Bell to N. J. Devold, lately of Mount Hood; consideration $3,500. Mr. Devold sold his farm property near Mount Hood a short while ago to Dr. Shaw, and has come to Hood River with his family to live permanently. The well known Glenwood will be changed and enlarged by the purchaser with a view to making the place an up-to-date resort for the traveling public.

Barnes, the real estate man, sold Tuesday, to Frank Massee, 20 acres north of the Willow Flat land. This makes 40 acres that Mr. Massee has bought on Willow Flat. Consideration of the last 20, $900.

Clyde T. Bonney and family of Brooks, Oregon, spent Sunday in Hood River. Mr. Bonney is now a successful dairyman at Brooks.

Mrs. Sunderland and family came up from Portland, Tuesday, to spend the summer at their summer home on Hood River Heights.

Mrs. Edward Blythe returned Saturday night from a two weeks' visit with her mother, Mrs. John Butterworth, in Portland.

Julius O. Mack, a citizen of The Dalles for the past 18 years, died in that city May 3. He was a commercial traveler.

Rev. J. L. Hersher will not conduct service next Sunday at Pine Grove, as he will be absent from Hood River.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Mickelson of Husum, Washington, were trading in Hood River Tuesday.

Friday last, Mrs. C. F. Woolley sold their fruit ranch at Frankton to Mrs. Edith Owen of Montana. Mrs. Owen's brother will come up from Portland and care for this season's crop. Mrs. Owen returned to her home in Montana, Monday, where she will dispose of her property and move to Hood River later in the season, and endeavor to bring her son, a successful Montana rancher and stockman, with her. Mrs. Owen is a very estimable lady, an old time friend of Robert Rand, whom she visited during her stay here. She will be a welcome addition to the Frankton people. It is not known what Mrs. Woolley's intentions, but it is hoped she may decide to stay in Hood River. This purchase is proof of the value of Frankton property when compared with the colder, later soils of the upper valley.

E. H. Shepard, the gentleman who recently bought "Fair Oaks" fruit and berry ranch, 2 miles south of the city, of E. G. Jackson, will move his family up from Portland and take possession of his new purchase on May 10. Mr. Shepard has been a business man of Portland for a number of years past, and we predict that he will make a success in the growing of Hood River's famous fruit. There is still room in Hood River valley for more of Portland's good people, who seem to know a good place to come to, and are not slow in availing themselves of the opportunity to take advantage of it.

John Leland Henderson has bonded the John Middleton property, corner of State and Third streets, the building now occupied by attorney A. A. Jayne. If this purchase is made Mr. Henderson expects to put up a two story brick. The lot is 50 x 100 feet in extent and the contract price $2,500. Mr. Henderson has also taken a bond on the east 20 acres of the south 40 of his brother's farm a mile and a half southwest of town. This land is the property of Louis Henderson, an entomologist in the university of Idaho, at Moscow.

The English sparrow has arrived in Hood River. Half a dozen or more of these birds of ill repute can be seen most any day feeding about the depot. The English sparrow is a bold bad bird. It destroys the nests of other birds. In the Willamette valley the sparrow is destroying the cherry blossoms. He will do the same here if allowed to remain and multiply. Our city marshal should be instructed by the council to shoot on sight all found within the city limits.

Rev. J. L. Hersher leaves today (Thursday) for Seattle to attend the Pacific coast congress of the Congregational churches and ministers. The sessions convene on the 10th and close on the 18th inst. The congress will be composed of all the ministers of the Congregational church living on the Pacific coast, and one delegate from each Congregational church. Eminent speakers will be present, among them Rev. G. Campbell Morgan of London, and the recognized successor of D. L. Moody of Northfield, in educational and evangelistic work; Rev. A. H. Bradford of Monclair, N. J., who is moderator of the national council of Congregational churches and H. W. Scott, editor of the Oregonian. Mr. Hersher will return on the 14th or 15th.

If you need a watch, see F. W. CLARKE, before buying elsewhere.

Found—A pair of small size pruning shears. Call for them at the Glacier office.

Smokers should remember that Wright & Tompkins still handle Fifer's Union cigars.

Wanted—A girl for light housework in a small family. Inquire at McGuire Bros. meat market.

Take your watch or jewelry to F. W. CLARKE for repairs. All work is guaranteed. Prices satisfactory.

Patronize the Davidson Fruit company; it helps Hood River and everybody who wants to see the community grow.

George Anderson the expert piano tuner and tone regulator, of Portland, is in town today. Leave orders for him at the Glacier office.

I have just received one of the new Geneva Optical Co's trial sets for testing the eye, and I am now prepared to fit all eyes with glasses. F. W. CLARKE, the jeweler and optician.

Fleming Bros. will give an exhibition at the Hood River opera house, Thursday, May 7. Among the many attractions of interest will be a reproduction of the passion play of Oberammergau.

L. E. Morse has shown his good judgment in securing one of the Coe lots, that seems to be the rage to get hold of before they are all snapped up. George D. Culbertson & Co. are kept busy making out deeds for lots in this fine body of land. The price goes up on May 8. This is a warning to you.

The Davidson Fruit company is a home institution. We work all the year round to earn a living, and are not trying to tear down Hood River industries struggling for a start; to build up the lumber industries of Gray's Harbor, nor canneries established in Portland who like a few Hood River berries to help them sell a lot of Willamette valley berries as Hood River.

Born.
 In Birgen, Wash., April 23, 1903, to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Henderson, a son.

Edgar Stevens, of Portland, was in Hood River for a few days last week.
