THURSDAY, MAY 14, 1903.

The people on the East Side now have a good easy grade into town, and one derful resources of the state of the best pieces of roadbed in Wasco county. This is all due to the enterprise of the East Side farmers. Last winter $1000 in cash subscriptions was pledged chiefly by the farmers, with some assistance from the merchants of the town, for road improvements. The Wasco county court had previously agreed to appropriate funds equal to the subscriptions, but when the gentlemen who comprise the county court saw the subscription list of the East Side farmers the pile was too big for them, and the county road fund for this section of Hood River was cut down to $500. Some $900 has been expended on the hill grade, and a wishes that the scientific gentleman who considerable amount of the subscription found the germ of laziness would hurry fund is yet to be called in. We don't up and find the proper toxin. think that a more enterprising lot of farmers can be found anywhere. When they want good roads they build them, out of their own pockets if necessary.

Most of the East Side orchards which bore so heavily last fall are not so plenapple crop. Although the orchards may hat. not bear so heavily this year, the fruit will be of finer quality. Hon. E. L. Smith, president of the state board of horticulture, is of the opinion that by often found astride of a two wheeled permitting large crops to mature the vitality of the trees are too severely taxed longed. M. M. Hill did thorough work in thinning his young orchard last year, and he reports that out of 400 boxes of apples less than half a dozen were fivetier apples. Thin your apples.

No. 4 of volume 3 of the Quarterly of the Oregon Historical Society has reached our table. It contains a chapter on the Early Railroad History of Oregon by Joseph Gaston, an old newspaper man, at one time editor of the Oregon Statesman; History of the Press of Oregon from 1839 to 1850, by George H. Himes; an article on "The Archives itor of the Quarterly; Documents relating to the Organization of Early Immigration Parties; Review of "The Con-Clark; and a sketch of the "Historians of the Northwest," by William A. Morris. Every article has a distinct historical value, and the Quarterly deserves a place in every library in the ying west of the city, fronting the state road, is now ready for sale. This is a pleasant place to make a home, is less than 20 minutes' walk from the post office, affording a fine view of Mt. Adams and the lordly Columbia.

Remember, the city is growing westward—there is no other direction for it to go-and when Hood River has 3,000 happy people-and she will in five years-Idlewilde will contain 100 contented families, dwelling peacefully together.

Why? Because the drainage is perfect, and therefore Idlewilde is a healthy place to live; because it has the finest view, and for the further reason that the lots are cheapest, and the terms are the best, giving purchasers easy payments.
