In This Nusac

which fits perfectly without clinging too close to the man. This suit is so finely tailored that if made by an ordinary tailor would appear slouchy. This garment fits because it is made of the best material and designed and tailored by experts.

This Just Meets the Taste of the man who likes a not too close fitting garment, possessing that "made by the best tailor" air about it, and costing less because the manufacturer by their large purchases and extensive tailor shops in their factory, can give the best where a small producer is at a disadvantage.

Thus in all garments made by CROUSE & BRANDFEE, Manufacturing Tailors, Utica, N. Y., the true spirit of economy is apparent to the purchaser. This NUSAC is made in a variety of fabrics.

That will make your selection different than the other fellow's.

Yours Truly, FRANK A. CRAM.

Doug Langille spent the first part of the week in Hood River. He returned to Portland, Wednesday morning, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. S. Langille. Mr. Langille is in the service of the government as inspector of proposed forest reserves. Portland will be his headquarters for a month or more, but later in the summer he will be located in Olympia and Tacoma. Next winter Mr. Langille will take a special course in forestry at Yale, the authorities of the university having arranged so that he can take a two year's course in one year. Mr. Langille was in the Blue mountains last week. He says there is lots of snow in the forests, and if the weather turns suddenly warm for any length of time there will be very high water.
Miss Maud Noble, the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Noble, left Wednesday, May 20, for Benton, Ringgold county, Iowa, to visit relatives. She goes to Iowa to visit her father, John Hutchinson of Benton, Iowa, whom she has not seen for 17 years. The mother died at the birth of Maud. She has been in the family of M. E. Noble since she was 14 months old and knew nothing otherwise than that she was a daughter until during the past winter. George Hutchinson, a brother of Maud is now in Hood River.
The services held in the opera house last Sunday, under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias, was attended by several other orders in a body. The Odd Fellows, Workmen, Grand Army, Order of Washington, Knights of Pythias and Women's Relief Corps, attended in force, and all the different lodges in the city were represented. Good music was furnished by the volunteer choir. John Leland Henderson made a lengthy address upon the subject of Fraternity. This was well received. Rev. J. L. Hershner preached the sermon.
L. C. Haynes received a telegram, Monday morning, announcing the death of his father, L. S. Haynes, who died in Portland, May 18, aged 72 years. He had been a sufferer from dropsy and heart disease for a year or more. Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Haynes went to Portland to attend the funeral.

One of the finest Indian relics found about these parts for many a day was picked up by the young son of C. A. Borders last week, says The Dalles Chronicle. The design is a head somewhat after the nature of Egyptian work, chiseled out of rock, the top being hewn out like a mortar. It has large bulging eyes, the nose being worn down. The hair is represented by coils resembling cord. It is about eight inches high and is a valuable relic. The boy found it in Mill creek below the Fourth street bridge.

The committee of arrangements for Memorial day exercises desire to state that an error in date was made in sending out the invitations to ministers and church congregations to attend the Memorial services in the opera house Sunday, May 24 at 11 o'clock. By mistake the date was given as the 29th.

Judge Blakely has made a contract with Clark & Buchanan, who have been experting the books of various counties in the state, to perform a like service for Wasco, and they will begin work at The Dalles about June 1.

Miss Amy Angell will have charge of the ice cream parlors for S. C. Jackson on Hood River Heights during the season. The parlors will be open Saturday night.

In renewing subscriptions to the Glacier subscribers should take advantage of the cheap clubbing rates with other papers. To club with the Rural Northwest, the best publication of its kind in the Northwest, costs 25 cents with the Glacier. The Weekly Inter Ocean, than which there is no better Eastern regular can paper for the farmer or fruit grower, costs 40 cents for one year. The St. Louis Republic, twice a week, is democratic and gives excellent news service as well as being up to date in all other departments. The Twice-a-Week Republic costs 50 cents a year in clubbing with the Glacier. The Toledo Blade, that old favorite family newspaper, costs 50 cents a year in clubbing with the Glacier.

W. R. Hooley, a new comer in Hood River, is residing with his family on the Old King place at Barrett. Mr. Hooley is an old newspaper man, having published a paper in Kansas and another at Port Angeles, Wash. Strange to say he made money in both instances. He was also in politics and served the state in the Washington legislature. Mr. Hooley was a soldier in the 69th Illinois during the civil war. This regiment was first organized as the 14th Missouri and served as sharpshooters in all the great battles of the West.

Mrs. J. F. Batchelder and sons of Portland are sojourning in Hood River for the benefit of Mrs. Batchelder's health, which has been quite poor for some time past. As Hood River has proven a beneficial change to Mrs. Batchelder in the past, she wanted to try it again.

Mr. Robard and family, recently from Palouse, are comfortably settled in their home which they purchased from Charles Richter on Stranahan avenue. Mr. Robard is so pleased with Hood River that he says "I expect to live and die here."

The semi-annual report of John Hampshire, county treasurer of Wasco county, dated May 11, 1903, shows $567.99 to have been collected by the sheriff as the Hood River city fund on 1902 taxes.
