Ferry Boat is Wreeked.

The Hood River-White Salmon gasoline ferry was wrecked last week. Thursday evening while crossing from the Washington side the little boat struck a submerged piling at the mouth of Hood river. Fortunately a sail boat was in tow and everything was easily got to shore. Rowland Bros. were on the boat at the time, and being boatmen of nerve, knew what to do in an emergency.

Ira Rowland, who was in the boat at the time, says he had a narrow escape for his life. There were 75 crates
