

WHITE SALMON NOTES.

S. C. Zeigler, one of white Salmon's strawberry kings, has always believed in diversified crops. This time it's a boy and a girl. He has distanced all competitors and McClure, Egan, Moore and the rest admit that they are hopelessly out of the race.

Frank Groshong, our "village blacksmith," has bought of Jewett & Son the 4-acre tract lying between the property of C. F. Waldo and that of P. A. Trana.

All stages between this place and Trout Lake are filled to the brim with trip. This, together with the freight handled at our dock, shows the rapid development of the country tributary to White Salmon.

A great need on this side of the river is an irrigating system. Will someone having the necessary capital at command come and look over the ground?

A most enjoyable dancing party was given last Friday night in honor of the marriage of Gus Coleman and Miss Mary Timm.

A number of our people spent the day Sunday at the Roland ranch up the river. The steamer "Blackie" conveyed the party to the place selected. A splendid basket lunch contributed to the enjoyment of the inner man, and some of the ladies nibbled a little, too. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hausaker, Mr. and Mrs. Art. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Will Overbaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Krops, Mr. and Mrs. Condon, Dr. Gearhart, Misses Mabel and Birdie Emmons, Misses Alice, Erva and Nora Gunning, Miss Mary Wolford, Miss Annie Wyers, Miss Susie Wolford, Miss Lydia Crow, Belle Sheen, Gertrude Ward, Dorris Condon, George Johnston and Ethel Johnston, Dorris Overbaugh, Messrs Fred Purser, Claude Wetherell, John Wood, James Wood, Desner Groshong, Day Hausaker, Earl Emmons, Roy Emmons, Guy Crow, Roy Crow, Dan Perry, Will Perry, Frank Egan, M. C. Fox, Peter Wyers.

Rev. W. G. Elliot preached a very helpful sermon Sunday evening on the "Purposes of God." There are many in this place who feel that they cannot afford to miss one of these practical sermons so full of the real soul of Christ and so free from worn-out dogma.

Rev. Gardner, who is understood to be a candidate for the pulpit of our little church, will preach here next Sunday. Everybody is invited to be present to hear him.

A few nights since a strange phenomenon occurred. Many of our people, who are dreamers to relate interesting and exciting dreams, have on and off a berry was a twin or triplet; Mr. Jewett saw a stream of water eight inches in diameter gush out of the side of the hill on his place and broke to find the irrigation problem unsolved. It is probably the first time that as he was driving along through a cloud of dust, a white Salmon and Trout Lake, an electric car filled with passengers, and his front wheels turned forward and the rear ones backward. He was the first time in his life because he couldn't keep up.

Dr. Gearhart imagined that he had a job setting broken legs, of a millionaire. He was a millionaire.

Charles Wetherell and Frank Hausaker dreamed that the road to the dock was paved with asphalt and wet down by a street sprinkler.

Kast had an imaginary job packing dynamite. He was a millionaire.

Frank Groshong dreamed that he was a millionaire. He was a millionaire.

Mr. Wyers thought he was driving a four-horse "wagger" down the bluff steps at a trot, and the only places that bothered him were the findings.

Mr. Lauerbach dreamed that he died and went to heaven, and when he returned, was asked by the night clerk how he pronounced his name, and was sent down the chute because he couldn't do it.

George Purser imagined that he was being pursued by a Portland policeman for peeking into the smoke-stack of the smelting works and finally escaped by hiding behind a telephone pole.

Bora.—In White Salmon, Wash., July 16, 1903, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gordon, a daughter.

Misses Grace and Gertrude Morris of San Francisco are visiting their friends, the Underwoods and Ferrys, at Pine Flat.

Guler's hotel at Trout Lake is becoming very popular as a summer resort. A large number of outing parties are gathered there from Portland, The Dalles and Hood River.

Mount Hood Notes.
Some of the boys have gone out to the highest peaks while others are preparing to follow.

Now, as the first crop of clover is all cut, it has become a question as to who can get the most water for the next crop regardless of rights.

Last week, while E. Hensen was going fishing he didn't see a cougar, but he did see a deer crossing the pond above the dam. In crossing, the deer waded into swimming water and got too close to the gate and the current drew him through the chute way, but he was not drowned.

Elmer Gribble has quit working in the camp on the West Fork and moved back to Mount Hood, where he is driving a team for Kowitz & Kelley, hauling lumber to Hood River.

J. L. Langille left for his mines on McCoy creek last week. Jim says he will go and get a few nuggets so he can improve his farm at Mount Hood and become an old hat soon.

R. B. Bird has charge of the Davenport mill up here, which is slowly nearing completion.

Happenings at Stevenson.
Stevenson Pioneer.

Articles of incorporation were filed this week by the Underwood Mining company. The concern is capitalized for $10,000 and the incorporators are Amos Underwood, Ed Underwood and Ed Sweetland. May the new company make millions.

The Pacific Express company has established an office here, with A. C. Sly as agent. J. E. Burch, route agent, was here Tuesday and Wednesday in the interest of the company. The C. R. & N. is now a Pacific Express company carrier. A general express and money order business will be done. The office will be at Totten's store.

Captain Belcher already has a business at the Collins hot springs of which he is deviously proud. He has built a commodious kitchen and dining room, but of temporary architecture, and for the rest has all sizes and degrees of tents. This is the plan pursued by Allen Bros. in the Yellowstone National park, and to say that the guests are pleased is but to state it mildly. The bath house is a very handsome building and has only recently received the finishing touches.

Mr. Belcher already has his hands full before he has fairly begun on his extensive plan of improvements.

A. Hirschheimer, president of the Wind River Lumber company, and S. Y. Hyde, a stockholder in the same concern, both of La Crosse, Wis., were in Stevenson Saturday and made the Pioneer office a pleasant call. They are accompanied on this trip by their wives, who are, of course, delighted with the West. Mr. Hirschheimer says the plant of the company is to be further improved soon by substituting two new band saws for the re-saw now being used. The company suffered heavily last year by forest fires in this country. This forces it to log out and sell the burned timber as rapidly as possible.

Manager H. C. Campbell was in Stevenson early this week when he made arrangements with the Stevenson Wharf company for the transfer of the dock to his company. Though the old dock has cost in the neighborhood of $2,000, and includes a valuable water frontage as well, the consideration is nominal, the company, however, binding themselves to construct a high and low water dock and keep it in good repair. Accordingly the new dock will be several feet higher and will be a gradual incline until the high ground is reached. The driveway will be wider than at present, with ample room for a wagon to turn around at the landing. A commodious warehouse will also be built. The company agrees to allow any other boat line dock privileges, charging them a reasonable fee therefor. The change marks a distinct improvement in transportation facilities, and in a way, unloads a burden from a faithful few who have borne the brunt of great trouble and expense for years.

Underwood Briefs.
Abe Foley, the freighter, is carrying supplies to Bill Coulter's logging camp on the Underwood bluff. Foreman Bill Coulter of the Menominee Lumber company has about 20 men and 8 or 9 teams at work snaking logs to the chute running over the bluff. It is evident this company means business.

The high wind last Saturday played havoc with the small craft in the mouth of the White Salmon. The sail boat of A. J. Haynes, the mail carrier, was beached and badly damaged, requiring two days' work to repair it. The boats of Amos Underwood and C. Arson were also damaged, and the ferry scow was piled upon the sands. It seems that whenever the water of the Columbia is at the stage it was last week, the least wind storm is apt to swamp the boats. The damage was all done within a few minutes.

The Columbia River and Northern surveyors, who were at Underwood a couple weeks ago, continued up the river to the Lytle and have now returned to Chewoneth. From the surveyors it was learned that the work is for the location of a telephone line, but in the minds of many there are suspicions of a railroad. The telephone line will in all probability be put up soon and will give service to the north bank of the Columbia all the way from Vancouver to Lytle. This will be particularly handy in giving notification of the arrival of steamboats.

The Menominee Lumber company has several million feet of logs at the mouth of White Salmon, while logs are piled on the banks of the stream for a distance of 18 miles. The logs are of excellent quality. A pile driver is now driving piles at the lower end of the logs to permit the removing of logs in raft. About 125,000 feet are towed at one time to the saw mill at Nicolai. When the weather is calm, three or more trips are made a day, but most of the rafting is done after the wind recedes in the evening.

John Dark and Ed Sweetland went into the McCoy creek mines, Tuesday. Abe Ames accompanied them as packer for the party. The gold seekers are elated over the prospects of their diggings on McCoy creek.

Odell Notes.
Mrs. H. F. Davidson and Miss Elizabeth Quinn of Illinois were callers this morning at the Little White Store. Like all new comers, Miss Quinn is charmed with the Hood River country.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Metcalf and two grand children were guests yesterday at the tents of Messrs. Coe & Shute.

The Odell warehouse and public hall is about completed, and is a good piece of work. Contractors Coe & Shute are entitled to a hearty patronage.

Elmer Lafferty will leave tomorrow for La Grande and Baker City.

B. G. Young and family returned yesterday from a hunt for blackberries near the old Parker mill. They report a good time and blackberries plentiful.

H. E. Dodge is putting on the finishing touches of paint to the new hall.

Trout Lake News Notes.
R. A. Byrket on his Fountain farm, last week, in four days, cut his hay crop and put it in the barn, 60 tons, and eight tons for O. R. Frisbie. He was assisted by Fred Frisbie, Thomas Collins and Porter McMillan. He was so pleased with his hay crop that he bought his daughter Effie a new Burdette organ for $117. Miss Effie is quite proud of her present.

Mr. Byrket lost one of his best cows last week. He is milking it and sending the milk to the cheese factory.

There was quite a number of Hood River people at Trout Lake last week.

Chenoweth News Notes.
During the windy weather, one day last week, the Washington Lumber company's mill was forced to close down on account of the smoke being blown back down the stack. The week closed, though, with very fine weather.

Monte Arnold, sawyer in the Washington Lumber company's mill, was at Underwood, Sunday, on a visit to A. J. Haynes.

The saws of the Washington Lumber company are buzzing lively these days. Last week the company was shipping ties, but now the men are working at the lumber, of which there are several million feet piled along the flume.

The surveying party of the C. R. & N. is again with us. The men arrived Monday, and are now running a line for a large irrigating ditch, which is to take water from the Little White Salmon, some 12 or 14 miles up the stream. The ditch, it is said, will be six feet wide at the bottom, and will supply an abundance of water to the Chenoweth settlers, as well as making a paradise out of the vast land holding of this enterprising company.

Shaffer Bros. will return to Arkansas about the first of next month.

William Tergeson, an employee of the Washington Lumber company, made a trip to Hood River, Tuesday, with Haynes, the mail carrier.

J. M. Spriggs and A. E. Moretz were at Vancouver and Portland last week.

Sportsmen report good fishing in the Little White Salmon.

The young people of Chewoneth had a nice little dance Saturday evening. E. M. Hill furnished the supper. Quite a number of young folks were down from mill A.

Three Carloads of Furniture For the First Half of 1903,

And the cars just in by far the largest and filled to the roof with a better grade of Furniture than we have ever shown.

A mere statement of this fact proves much. We have not changed the policy that so quickly placed two carloads into the hands of users. We have improved it. PRICE, QUALITY AND ASSORTMENT, all changed to your advantage. No trouble to show goods. If we are busy, please go over the stock yourself. All goods plainly marked.

over the creek to mill A. We wonder why?

Some of the mill hands are leaving for the harvest fields.

Arthur Arnold and Harry White went deer hunting Sunday. After following tracks for some time, Harry, catching sight of some animals a rod or so ahead, cried out: "We have been following pig tracks instead of a deer." But at that moment they discovered it was a bear and two cubs. Two shots laid the mother bear out, but the cubs escaped, one, however, carried a broken leg and a bullet through its nose. Two prouder boys could not well be found, and well they may be, for neither has yet reached the age of 15.

Beautiful Hotel Location in Idelwild.
No prettier selection could have been made for Batchelder & Erwin's Country Club Inn than the location in the secluded wooded retreats of Idelwild.

In a beautiful grove of oaks and pines the Inn will be but 20 minutes walk from the depot and post office. Though within the corporate limits of Hood River, the Inn will be almost as secluded as if located miles from town. This Idelwild tract at the west end of town has practically never been occupied, and remains today as nature made it. Gently sloping toward the Columbia, and with frequent mounds and draws covered with noble oaks, pines and thickets and dotted with numerous cold water springs, the tract of 60 acres offers indeed a delightful location for the summer hotel.

J. A. Arment, who is here from Portland in charge of the improvements, being made by Batchelder & Erwin, took a Glacier man through part of the Idelwild last week. Near the site of the proposed Inn, there is building a 10-room cottage, which Mr. Arment expects to have completed by August 1, when it will be filled with guests from Portland. The cottage, built after the German style of architecture, with large extended eaves, is two stories in height and is to be a handsome building. Seaman Corvis in charge of the carpenter work. The large dining room is intended to accommodate those people who will spend their days at the cottage. A laundry, lavatory and bath house is located just west of the cottage, and a sewer system is provided for all waste water. A spring on the side hill supplies pure drinking water. To the north a ravine leads to the railroad track, and just beyond this is a large lagoon, on which boats will be placed for the use of the guests. A splendid view of the Columbia river and Mount Adams is obtained from the cottage. The trees about the hotel are trimmed up, and an easy driveway is being constructed.

Mr. Batchelder has erected tents under a grove of spreading oaks, where his family are enjoying the delightful Hood River summer. Two large, magnificent oak trees in front of the tents Mr. Batchelder has named "Twin Oaks."

Will Operate Company Store.
The Mount Hood Lumber company has leased the store property of L. N. Blowers, corner of First and Oak streets, formerly the location of Bone & McDonald, and will open out in a few days with a complete stock of groceries, mill supplies and men's furnishings.

The store building is being repaired and renovated. The rear of the store room has been fitted up for a general office of the company, and will hereafter be the headquarters of Mr. Early. Just who will have charge of the store has not been determined.

The mill company is busy now with all the men it can secure putting logs into the river. Wing dams are building at various points and rocks removed from the channel. The splash dam above the falls of the West Fork has been replaced, and altogether some $15,000 will have been expended before an attempt will be made to drive logs, Mr.

Early stated to a Glacier reporter that he expected to have plenty of logs for the mill inside of 60 days, when the saws will be started up again.

H. E. Wright, representing the Wagner Extension Ladder company, is in Hood River taking orders for the fruit grower. If Mr. Wright gives you a call let him demonstrate the utility of his ladders.

The automatic lock and extension ladder is strong, light and durable because it is reinforced by a strand of carbon steel wire let into a groove on the back of each side rail and drawn very tight. Each strand of this wire has a breaking strain of 2,000 pounds. This makes possible the use of a very light side rail. The wood takes the compression strain, the wire takes the tension strain, and together they form a combination steel and wood truss, which is as effective for its purpose as is the trestle in a bridge.

Such an all round ladder ought to be readily sold on sight.
