WHITE SALMON NOTES.

Allie Henderson is taking off his fourth crop of alfalfa grown this season on his meadow land.

Our White Salmon minister may be seen these days manning the hurricane deck of a stone-boat getting out rock for the new parsonage. That's the kind of a man to win the respect of a community. Isn't afraid of physical work.

Mr. Henderson, Hood River's long-distance lawyer and long-winded swimmer, crawled out of the water near the fish trap at the mouth of the White Salmon river last Sunday, having swum from the mill on the Oregon side in company with his son. The family seems to be amphibious. They take their nourishment on land but seem to prefer the water at other times.

Eolus Jewett has returned from a trial of the hot springs and is said to be still in poor health. He is a stalwart young man by nature, and his many friends hope to see a marked improvement soon in his condition.

The West End is again heard from. This time it's a new boy come to town. He weighs 10 pounds and will spend the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Jensen, who claim him.

Here's to the kid, neighbor Jensen. May he help you in patching the "mitten" 'Steer gladly the trim cultivator. Hoe corn and dig the potato.

and do such other things as from time to time are necessary and proper.

There's another serious matter making trouble in White Salmon. It's all about our latest and finest dwelling house. Is it pea-green, apple-green, Nile-green, Kilkenny-green, bilious green, screaming green or what? It has restored the eyesight of an old Kikicat Indian, blind from his birth. He was going by, and experiencing a peculiar nervous shock, opened his eyes, and while everything else seemed dark and gloomy he could plainly see the side of the house.

A LAY SERMON.

The mouth of the White Salmon is an interesting place to visit. Last Sunday we took our youngest on our back and "shot the chute" down the bluff, landing at the bottom on an even keel with our eyes full of volcanic boulders, and our paper collar badly twisted out of shape. We lost our collar button and wrecked our suspenders, tore the heel off our logging shoes and badly wrenched the patch on our trousers, but arrived on time and saw hundreds of Salmon doing just what thousands of us human beings are engaged in—skinning our noses trying to poke them into somebody's trap.

Here are salmon of all kinds. Old fellows, who wear a sad and disappointed countenance, all trying to complete the impossible—trying to get up the river in obedience to a natural instinct through a picket fence that has only one hole in it and that one leads into a trap. Some of the salmon look pitiful. We noticed one about 30 or 40 years of age with a real sad face. His lower lip curled downward and his upper one seemed to hang over it out of pure sympathy. His face was skinned up as if he had been to a ten-cent barber shop. He wouldn't take to the free, open Columbia, or try some other tributary. He was killed for Trout Lake and he was going there or die. He died. The government was after the eggs for its hatcheries and he had left his at home on the piano, he was turned over to an aged squaw who proceeded to slice him up for next winter and hang his carcass up where the sun could cure him and where the wind and the flies could blow him. Its a sad lesson. Every little boy salmon has to learn it by skinning up his own nose. He won't take his father's advice and stick to the deep water. He tackles the rocks and the pickets and instead of realizing his ambition because of food for a squaw who eats him without even returning thanks. The salmon we have been talking about wasn't any bigger fool than the rest. The mouth of the stream is black with them—all scrambling for a try at the game. It's a cinch. The Louisiana lottery or a faro-game don't compare with it. They all want to go to Trout lake via Husum instead of stopping at White Salmon and their fool carcasses are being festooned all over the beach to teach us that in chasing the ideal we often forget where we're at. See?

Notes From Underwood.

B. F. Fuller and family of Chenoweth passed through Underwood Tuesday, on their way to Hood River.

Mrs. Grace Dark and children and Ed Underwood's children left overland last week for Fort Simcoe, where the children will enter the government training school. H. C. DeBo and Robert Cline went along as drivers. Mrs. Dark is expected home Friday.

A. J. Haynes has about completed the new house for Ed Underwood, and is busy now building one for himself.

Coulter's logging camp closed for a few days, but it is expected will begin next week on the fall run.

Six men are employed at the government fish hatchery at the mouth of the White Salmon. A large batch of eggs is being secured.

Master Amos Larson had the misfortune to break his wrist, Monday, but is getting along nicely.

Chenoweth News Notes.

Chas. Gibbons is back to town.

Mr. Barker has moved his family into the house vacated by Roy Johnson.

Mr. Fuller and family have returned from Sherman county, where they were during harvest and visiting a son-in-law.

J. W. Hill has just received another shipment of confectionery goods.

The young folks here had a nice little dance Saturday evening.

Earl Keys' father has gone to Portland.

Charles Tubbs and Alvin Fuller were at The Dalles last week.

Arthur Arnold and Elmer Tubbs killed a young bear last week. Arthur seems to be hard on the bear in this vicinity.

Charles Lane spent a few days last week with relatives at The Dalles.

Miss Lillie Brown spent Sunday with her brother, O. H. Brown, here.

Fred Kautz and Miss Blanche Fuller spent a couple of days in Portland last week.

O. H. Brown's father was seen in our camp one day last week.

Robert Stone and F. M. Arnold spent Monday in Hood River.

The young folks had a nice dance Saturday evening.

Mrs. De Hart from mill A spent Saturday and Sunday with friends here.

There was quite a land slide at Drano last week, as a piece of the bank over a hundred feet back slid into the river, bearing away five panels of flume.

A. J. Haynes, the mail carrier brought over some fine watermelons, Tuesday.

Mrs. John Pugh is still on the sick list.

Frank Wilcox went to Portland Tuesday.

J. W. Hill and Charles Lane went to The Dalles to take in the carnival.

John Pugh is doing the freighting for the Washington Lumber company at present.

The W. L. company are running at full blast again.

Mr. McDonald is back to our camp at work again.

Albert Yandle spent Sunday visiting friends here. He is at Stevenson setting ratchets in Arnold's mill.

Mrs. Hill and Miss Jessie Hughes are spending a few days in Portland shopping.

F. M. Arnold was in Hood River on business, Monday.

Some of the boys are sporting new yellow watches since Mr. Johnson, the jeweler, has been here.

Mill A is shut down at present, as they have about 5,000 piling yet to run, and can't run them and the saw, too.

Mrs. Pugh has been on the sick list for awhile.

This eight day clock or city gas pump must be run down. I see no serious plussions about Kautz in this week's paper.

Barrett District.

The people of this district received a nice little sprinkle of rain this Monday morning and will be much disappointed if they do not receive a good-sized rain before it clears up, as all have more or less plowing and seeding to do, and the ground will need a good soaking before it can be converted into a good seed bed.

The school in this district is progressing very nicely under the direction of Professor Thompson, assisted by A. B. Cash and Miss Ota Norman. All the patrons of the school express entire satisfaction.

Professor P. H. Sparks, who is employed as principal of the White Salmon school, was a visitor with his mother last Saturday and Sunday, returning to White Salmon Sunday evening. He seems to like his position very much.

The people of this community regret very much to have Rev. J. W. Jenkins leave his work here. He has been very successful, and both he and his family are very much liked in this neighborhood. The Endeavor society and its friends gave the minister and his family a farewell entertainment last Friday evening, and last Sunday evening the church gave the family a farewell hand-shake after the evening service. We all wish them success and happiness and do most cordially congratulate the church at Athena on their choice of pastor, and society there on the accession of the family into their midst.

Miss Minnie Hoole, who has been again with his wood hauling to go on a still hunt for items, but promises more later.

Mount Hood Notes.

The weather is fine in this locality this week and we look for our Indian summer now.

The King's club held its meeting last Saturday evening, with the usual attendance, and elected officers for the coming season.

Mr. Munroe and Mr. Rood visited Mount Hood last Sunday. Mr. Munroe has 40 acres of land leased which he is improving and setting to strawberries.

The Middle Fork irrigation company held a special meeting last Saturday evening and voted to enlarge their capital stock from 2,000 inches to 5,000 which will give them enough water for all the land between the Middle Fork and the East Fork.

Some time ago there was an extra from this place in the Glacier, in which it was announced that there would be two weddings in the near future. One has already come off, and at least half a dozen young people, both ladies and gentlemen have jumped onto the present writer to know how he came to find out they were contemplating matrimony, while others would ask "did you mean us?" In answering all such inquiries I will say it was not me (Continued on Page 7.)

Moster Items.

L. Evans, George Ireland, George Harrison and Mr. McFadden were among The Dalles visitors last week.

Mrs. Rosella Jones, who was very sick last week, is much better.

W. H. Cook's baby is quite sick. Mr. Cook has moved into his new home near Mosier creek bridge.

Gerold Wyss has just completed a new dwelling on his ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Stewart spent several days last week in Portland, and while there they attended the wedding of Mrs. Stewart's niece.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Hunter, who were burned with lime last June, returned to Portland last Monday. Mr. Hunter expects to have his eye operated on in order to clear up his vision. He can see some now in a good light, but the operation will clear up his left eye to the natural vision if they are successful. His wife went with him to the operation.

Mrs. Lena Smith returned to the hospital last Monday. She seemed to get along pretty well but not as she would under the care of trained nurses.

The young people of this place gave the family of C. G. Graham a pleasant surprise last Monday night. Several came in and had a pleasant dancing party and every one enjoyed themselves. They left Tuesday for their future home in Wasco.

On Monday last, many of our apple growers brought in samples of the choice fruit to be sent to The Dalles carnival, and if you can judge by what they show we must raise some very choice fruit here. J. P. Carroll went to The Dalles Monday to see that each one got proper showing.

Fred Van Doren, who had purchased some school land about 15 miles from here, came here to see if he could find it. He stayed here one day but could not get a team or a horse to go out with, so he went to Hood River to try from there. His wife went with him.

George and Fred Evans and Price Hunter returned with one bear. Good for them. We heard several say bear meat was all right, but "the scribe" don't know.

Burr Sturges, who is a timekeeper for the O. R. & N., spent Sunday at home with his parents.

Mrs. A. Stewart left Monday for White Salmon, Wash., where she will visit her son Ira Rowland.

Mr. Gibbert, our O. R. & N. agent was smiling and happy last week and said: "Boys, come up and smoke, it's a fine girl," and while he was rejoicing, Thomas Hennings remarked: "A 11-pound boy is good enough for me." All are doing well.

Many of our citizens went to The Dalles, Sunday, to attend the funeral of Mrs. M. A. Mosier, who passed away on Friday last. She was one of the first settlers in our valley, a respected neighbor, and a conscientious Christian. She will be missed from among us here. The scribe and all here extend to the bereaved ones their heart-felt sympathy.

Mrs. Martha J. Mosier.

Mrs. Martha J. Mosier, died in The Dalles, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. P. Taylor, Saturday evening, September 26, 1903. Mrs. Mosier had been a sufferer for many years from heart disease, and while her death was sudden it was not wholly unexpected.

Mrs. Mosier crossed the plains from Kentucky in 1844, when only five years old, and stayed for some time at the Whitman mission, where so many of the early pioneers banded together for mutual protection.

When she grew into womanhood she was married to J. H. Mosier and they settled at Mosier, Or.

Four daughters and one son remain to mourn her loss. They are James Lewis, of Mosier; Mrs. F. P. Taylor, of The Dalles; Mrs. V. F. Cook, of Grand Dalles; Mrs. E. U. Phillips, of Portland, and Miss Dolly Mosier, of Mosier, Or.

Odell Notes.

Mr. Manley, uncle of Prof. J. L. Towsey, came up from Portland, Monday, and will be a guest for a week or more at the Towsey ranch.

William Ehrek and Chris Dethman and wife visited The Dalles carnival, Wednesday.

Apple orchards at Odell are looking fine. These frosty nights are giving the apples their beautiful color and excellent keeping qualities. William Ehrek is picking his Jonathans and getting $1.20 a box for them. Hood River against the world.

visiting relatives in the East, arrived in Hood River last Saturday and will now become a permanent resident of this district, residing with her father, W. R. Hoole, on the old King place, opposite the Barrett school house.

The Nealeigh and Chris Nickelsen went out after bar meat, and they both shot the bear. Singular to relate, there was only one bullet hole through that bear, so both must have shot through the same hole.

There is quite an epidemic of measles among the children of Barrett district, two having died of the disease in the past week.

W. R. Hoole of the Fair Oaks farm has been quite ill for the past two weeks, but we learn is getting better.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Bishop spent the last week past visiting in Portland.

Jesse Imbler's son and family, who have been visiting with him, returned to their home the first of this week.

We understand that a member of the ladies' aid society of the Christian church took exception to what we wrote about the outing of the society two weeks since. We regret this very much, as we did not intentionally say anything that could have given offense. What we wrote we assure the lady was only intended as a joke, and it was not written by the party whom we learn she credits with having written it. And now, after this explanation from one who is not a member of the ladies' aid society, we trust she will receive it in the same spirit of jollity in which it was written.

This may seem like a fairy tale or a fish story, but it is nevertheless true. We are not inclined to boast through the columns of the paper, but to keep abreast with the times we are justified in stating facts. Come to think about it, there is not so very much furniture in a car load—$1200 or $1500 worth—and sold on a close margin it is not a big thing, nor would we try to deceive any one.
