

WHITE SALMON NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Canning of Hood River were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Waldo of this place Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Henderson, a sister of Mrs. A. H. Jewett, and her daughter Jennie have returned to Portland. Jennie Jewett, who has not improved in health, has been taken to a sanitarium in Portland.

The Enterprise is responsible for the statement that a law office is to be erected in White Salmon. It might have been stated in the same connection that Cultus Charley and wife will spend the winter in Paris. One comes as near to the truth as the other.

Inquiries are already coming in concerning the school bonds. Two letters have been received by the school clerk from Eastern firms.

The new school building at Trout Lake is a credit to the people there. It advertises them as a patriotic and progressive people. Our old trap is a reproach.

Every new comer in a city judges it by its public buildings. A country community is judged by its school facilities. If you want to know how a community has people and people demand good school houses. That's why the opponents of a new building stayed away from a meeting to which all were invited and then when those who did attend unanimously instructed the directors of the district to call a bond election, this same public spirited element whetted their knives and slid 21 negative ballots into the box "agin education."

At a recent convention of physicians in Portland it was stated that in a family of hereditary lunatics there were 26 children including six times twins, twelve triplets, and four times quadruplets. Imagine bath night in such a family! Poor, feeble-minded Dad trying to hang onto an armful of wriggling, squirming triplets, while "Maw" stirs the quadruplets along in the suds with a clothesstick. Securin' 'em fer Sunday.

It's funny how the freshest in the creek has rolled our village spring water system till it looks like old-fashioned molasses with carpet tacks and caraway seeds in it.

THE SCHOOL BOND SITUATION.

J. B. Turner of White Salmon has filed an affidavit at Goldendale with the object of preventing the sale of the school bonds recently voted at the special election. Mr. Turner is not to be blamed too much. He has been selected to appear in the open because of his innocence and lamb-like docility, while the Shack-nasty Jims and the Scar-face Charleys keep under cover. There are others. These others—some of them—have more to gain and some as little to lose.

Schools make taxes, and some men would have the American flag hauled down from the national capital to save their portion of the cost of keeping it there.

We have noticed that two classes of citizens are enemies of new school house propositions. Those who don't know children, because they have never felt the love of a child, nor protected one, and those whose children never have a "balanced ration" or a full set of underclothing. The comfort of a half a hundred little folks in winter means nothing to them. There's a moral issue here that won't down. We may temporarily advertise our lack of patriotism and local pride, but new people are coming—every one of them loyal to the public school, and White Salmon will yet look with pride at a new school house where her children may be housed in comfort. The "hog-wallow" days are about over. There's not a foot of land in this community that is worth what it would be if we had a good graded school housed in a comfortable and suitable building.

Men will invest in Hood River and pay three times as much for poorer land rather than settle with their families in a place where the woods shelter men who go to bed with their boots on and have a war dance whenever an improvement is suggested.

The directors and the people will stand by the school and, sooner or later, its enemies will sink back into the brush to curse the civilization that reaches their pocket book for the benefit of the children of the community.

Notes From Underwood.
C. H. Cromwell expects to leave for Hood River next week, where he will resume his work as principal of the Frankton schools.

Ed Swetland, Abe Amos and John Dark returned last week from the McCoy creek mines, bringing back a considerable quantity of gold nuggets and stories of vast wealth in the hidden recesses of the Cascade range.

Mrs. Dark is home Fort Simcoe, where she placed her children in the training and industrial school.

Ed Thornton accidentally discharged a revolver into his foot one day last week, and is now in Hood River under the doctor's care.

Mrs. Lilly Miller, county school superintendent for Skamania county, visited the Underwood school Tuesday. She spent Monday evening as a guest at the home of Director A. J. Haynes.

The high water and storm Monday night filled the Chenoweth road with a large quantity of dead timber, making the mail carrier's route almost impassable. His trip across the Columbia Tuesday morning proved rough and dangerous.

The Menominee Lumber company is building a dam at the mouth of White Salmon for the purpose of turning the river into one channel, and thus make it possible to float saw logs into the Columbia.

GEORGE GILSTRAP DROWNED.

Passengers from Stevenson Tuesday evening reported that George Gilstrap of Drano, Wash., was drowned in the Columbia during the high wind in the afternoon. Another man who was with Gilstrap managed to cling to the up-turned boat and was saved. The river was so rough that the Oregon Lumber company's steam tug Pearl could not go to the rescue until the Regulator came along and went in front to protect the tug. Gilstrap, it is said, was a thorough sailor and in the habit of crossing the Columbia in all sorts of weather. [H. M. Metcalf, teacher at mill A, called at the Glacier office, Wednesday morning, and confirmed the report.]

WANT NEW ROAD.

Amos Underwood went to Stevenson, Monday, with a petition for a new bridge over White Salmon, and a request that a road be built from the bridge down the west bank of the White Salmon to Underwood landing. This would shorten the distance to Trout Lake four or five miles; make an easier grade, and may be the means of getting all the trade of the Lost Lake country to pass through Underwood. This is a point the commissioners of Skamania county should not overlook.

FISH TRAPS WASHED OUT.

The government fish traps and cribbing at the mouth of White Salmon were washed out by the storm Monday night. This will likely put an end to the taking of any more salmon for the hatchery. A number of "green" fish are still on hand, which will keep the men busy for several days yet. Up to Monday night 10,000,000 salmon eggs had been secured. These were not damaged.

Chenoweth News Notes.

We have been having a clearing up shower for the last four days, but guess it will do better in the near future.

Fred Kave was at Lyle last week for a day or two.

F. M. Arnold went to Hood River, Monday, on business.

Mr. Fuller and Charles Tubbs are in Hood River on business.

Mr. Arnold and family expect to move over to the planer in the near future, for the school year.

Mrs. John Hensel has returned to Lyle from Drano where she has been visiting her daughter and son-in-law, R. A. Snyder and wife.

Crupper Croppings.

Rain began falling here on Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock and continued until about 11 Sunday morning, the first heavy rainfall of the season, soaking the ground up thoroughly. A good stand of fall sowed grain is now assured, as it was feared by many that the grain sowed early in the fall, and which had sprouted would dry up if the dry weather continued much longer. Most of the grain sowed for hay in this vicinity this fall is bald, or beardless barley, it being a surer crop than wheat, and it makes better and stronger hay than wheat. The farmers in Eastern Oregon claim that a ton of barley hay is worth as much for horse feed as a ton and a half of wheat hay. If this be the case, it will pay to try it any day.

A basket and fish pond social was given at the Crapper school house last Friday evening. Nearly every one present, between 75 and 100, took a turn at fishing, and strange to say, every one was lucky enough to make a catch of some kind of fish or other, as is seldom the case with a crowd of fishing parties, as ye correspondent can testify to. The fish caught in this pond consisted of bags of candy, pin cushions, nigger doll babies, etc. All who were there spent a most enjoyable evening and came away hoping for another one in the near future. The money received at the social will be used for the benefit of the school.

A. W. King was out circulating a petition last week for the purpose of getting his part of the neighborhood cut off from the Crapper district and added to the Barrett school district. Objections are made by some on the ground that they would have to help pay off the indebtedness of the Barrett district, besides, they would be no nearer school than they are now, unless they could get a road through on the half-section line. Some are in favor of creating a new district out of a part of Crapper, Barrett and Odell districts, which we think would be the thing to do.

H. E. Blocher is also circulating a subscription paper to get funds and volunteer work enough to grade and gravel the road from the top of the Slingerland hill to the A. E. church. Every one ought to take hold and push the thing along, as this is the worst piece of road in the country in winter.

The dance at Blocher's hall came near being a failure last Saturday night on account of the rain. As bad as the night was the musicians were there and four or five couples came from around in the neighborhood and enjoyed themselves for awhile, going home as they came, in the rain.

Archie Helms wants to know if there are any young widows (either yours or any other old kind) who would like to take a boy to raise. He says he is getting mighty tired of trying to raise himself, and do all the cooking besides. Now, young widows, here's your chance. Archie is a fine boy, and we don't think he would be hard to raise either.

Dukes Valley Items.

Last Saturday and Sunday we were visited by an old-fashioned Oregon mist, which turned our dust into mud.

Our school is holding in the new building now. We have started a well. It is nine feet deep and no water, but we did not expect to get water so near the surface. The new house has cost something near $800. It is painted inside and out and looks nice. We are proud to have a house as good. Almost every one has paid up their subscription without any trouble. This shows that we all take an interest in it, which is right.

C. E. Bone is putting up a new building on his farm at Willow Flat which resembles a store building. This will be quite a convenience to Dukes valley and Willow Flat. As Mr. Bone has had quite a lot of experience in this line, we expect a good store and hope Mr. Bone will more than meet his expectations in the undertaking.

Mr. Edgington and Mr. Wright have been on their claim west of here and it may be that they are still on their ranch. Mr. Edgington had his horse picketed out and the horse committed suicide by breaking his neck. Edgington says it is pretty lonesome up there with only a dead horse to keep him company.

There were several claims taken on the hill west of here some 12 or 18 months ago, and outside of the Dodge brothers I don't think there is a single one that has complied with the law. If they want to hold them they had better look out, as we do not intend to give up our range unless you do something near what the law requires.

Mr. Massey has dug a well on the land he got of L. B. Byrd and struck water at 14 feet. This is good for Mr. Massey. He is building a house now, and camping for a few days in the old school house.

S. P. Anderson was in the valley last Monday.

The writer from the Crapper district is very forgetful. I would suggest that she keep on file the old Glaciers or a copy of her writings. Here a few months or weeks ago there appeared a badger story that bent the L. H. and D. cougar story all to pieces. Now, to tell the truth, I think this is what started Mr. D. in that direction, as a young lady was one of the prominent actors in rescuing this man from the work bench. As Mr. D. has purchased ten acres of land on top of the cougar grade, he wants a partner who is brave and not afraid of wild animals, so if you want to stand in with Mr. D. do not deny the badger story.

Mosier Items.

Sidney Briggs and Frank Roberts have returned from Sherman county, where they have been harvesting.

Fred W. Wilson of The Dalles spent a day or two on his farm here last week.

Frank Ginger and mother went to Stevenson last week to visit Newell Harlan and while there Mr. Harlan's infant died and then they returned home. They had intended to go to Portland and visit other places.
