$50,000 of wearing apparel

All UP TO DATE, bought for the cash in the best Eastern markets, now on display.

FRANK A. CRAM,

carries the stock and can deliver the goods, no matter how particular the customer may be. Again, CASH does the trick. We sell for cash and we can buy for cash, and with our low expenses can undersell Portland from 10 to 20 per cent, because of their enormous expenses which they must add to the price of their goods.

We are selling nearly double last year's sales and our expenses are no more. You will buy better goods for less money this fall of us than ever before.

Yours truly,
FRANK A. CRAM.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wigle of Prineville spent Wednesday and yesterday at the fair here. They had been visiting their daughter, Mrs. Larwood, at Mount Hood—Montaineer.

Meigs Bartness was elected secretary of the student body at Oregon Agricultural college, Corvallis. Meigs is a senior this year, and will graduate with the class of '04, next June. He is making a good record, standing high in his classes, always on the right side when any question affecting the welfare of the students comes up. He is a man of much courage to uphold and promulgate his convictions, he has won a high place in the esteem of both the faculty and the student body.

Judge Prather has about a half-bushel of English walnuts grown on his lot on State street. The nuts are of good size, fully matured and ready to be gathered. The late Emil Shannon grew a fig tree on his place at The Dalles, with very little protection from frost, which fruited abundantly and ripened its fruit. These are two of the most delicious of California's products and with a little care could be profitably grown in sheltered locations here, and would prove a source of great pleasure to the grower.

Wednesday evening, October 14, the Artisans will give a social in their new hall. This is assurance that a large number of Hood River people will enjoy themselves that evening. The feature of the social will be an address by I. E. Staples of Portland, the new supreme master artisan, who has the reputation of being a splendid singer and speaker. Light refreshments will be served.

Sen Fouts is now a student in the University of Oregon law school at Portland. Mr. Fouts will complete his two-year course in the college, and at the same time read law and do clerical work in the office of Dolph, Simon & Malory.

At the end of two years, Sen says if he finds himself adapted to the profession, he expects to complete his studies at Ann Arbor, Mich.

G. N. Robinson of the East Side harvested some remarkable potato yields. From 20 pounds of seed of the Million Dollar variety, Mr. Robinson gathered 1,400 pounds of potatoes. A patch of Miller's Early Fortune, a 60-day variety, yielded 18 pounds to the bush.

William Thompson has moved to Portland, where he has purchased a feather renovator and will run the business coming winter. Mrs. Thompson will go to Peabody, Kansas, where she will spend the winter with her father and two sisters.

Barnes, the real estate man, has had a new case placed in his office in which he has exhibited samples of Hood River's famous apples. The well-known orchard of Sears & Porter have supplied some handsome apples of ten different varieties.

John Vanthiers of Mount Hood left a stool of timothy at Geo. D. Culbertson & Co's. office that measures 7 feet tall.

F. W. Angus, who has been packing apples for Mr. Avery, says that in one week he had 246 boxes of sound apples, and less than 25 boxes of wormy and five-tier apples. Mr. Avery has done thorough work in spraying and is now reaping his reward.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Watson and daughter Lulu were visiting during the week with Ed Mayes and family. They left Tuesday morning for San Jose, Cal., where, if he likes the country, Mr. Watson may locate permanently.

Lee Evans, a leading fruit grower of Meigs, was in town Monday and gave the Glacier a call. Mr. Evans had 20 crates of prunes this year. His apple orchard is young but he will have 500 boxes of first-class apples.

Miss Albina Page of Portland, who spent a week visiting Miss Teal at Pinehurst, returned home last week. This was Miss Page's first visit to Hood River, and she was favorably impressed with the beauty of the valley.

Henry Buskirk will build a two-story dwelling house on the site of the laundry building recently destroyed by fire. L. D. Boyd has the contract, and the building is to be completed by November 20.

L. J. Johnson of Corvallis, Wash., was in town last week. Mr. Johnson is an old newspaper man and at one time ran a paper at Tillamook, Or. He is now engaged in mining.

The Misses Ida and Ella Evans, daughters of Rev. C. C. Evans, pastor of the M. E. church, and Miss Ruth Rigby, are Hood River students at Willamette university, Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Bone have moved to town for the winter and are occupying Dr. Shaw's cottage.

The woman's alliance of the Unitarian church will meet Friday afternoon with Mrs. Huxley.

School commenced in Rose Hill district September 28, Miss Lulu Thomas is teacher.

J. M. Hollowell, who is farming 15 acres of the Watson tract, in the town of Hood River, has a fine garden and has been supplying the market with the vegetables consumed by Hood River de-

Professors Kiggins and Towsey, principals of the Hoquiam and Albia central schools, Portland, were guests at Liberty Home farm, Saturday afternoon and Sunday. The former is an old schoolmate of A. I. Mason, at Kirkville, Mo., state normal class of 1884. Mr. Kiggins is owner of a 40-acre apple orchard near Boise, Idaho, and is preparing to plant 60 acres more this spring. Thinking that Hood River could produce the best Newtowns in the world, he purchased here 500 choice yearlings. Mr. Mason supplied both gentlemen with samples of Hood River apples. He, like many others, wonders why Hood River gets better prices than other apple districts. He sold 2,200 boxes of Jonathan's at $1.30 c. b. at Boise. As Mason is president of the apple growers' union, he probably explained the secret of high prices.

Captain J. P. Shaw took a prospective land buyer to look at W. A. Wendorf's fruit farm at Underwood, last Thursday. The captain on his return brought some samples of the fine apples Mr. Wendorf is harvesting from four-year-old trees. The apples are on exhibition in Shaw & Culbertson's real estate office. Among them is a freak—a King, with a half-inch of green leucophaea, and a red, a roan background of the King. Apple experts declare it to have been pollenized by a Yellow Newtown and a Spitzenberg, of which Mr. Wendorf has one tree each in his orchard. On another variety is a cucumber labeled: Evans and one-half pound health food, grown by Hood River's leading agriculturist, G. J. Gessling.

Everett McCarty of the Paris Fair returned last week from New York, where he went to purchase a line of fall and winter goods for his store. Mr. McCarty was delayed nine days in Denver on account of sickness, which unfortunately makes his goods that much later in arriving. The fall goods are expected to begin coming by the end of the week and when they do get here, the Paris Fair will be crowded more than ever for room. Mr. McCarty says he was successful in selecting a fine line of ladies' cloaks, skirts, dress-trimmings, etc., and that his store this fall will show the best and largest stock it has yet exhibited.

Property owners on River street are laying sidewalks. Soon there will be sidewalks and crosswalks the whole length of the street. The proprietors of Riverview Park addition will lay the walk on both sides of the street west from the armory building. Judge Henry engaged H. J. Byrket and J. W. Rigby to lay his walk. Mr. Byrket got Captain Duke to assist him on his walk, and now these old veterans claim to be doing the best job of laying sidewalk in town. Guess they're right.

Mrs. B. Warren moved to Portland Monday. Mr. Warren is much improved in health and expected to leave the hospital last week and go to his daughter's house. He has purchased a house and the celery that the home is in. E. P. Ramsey, on the East Side, and will make that his future home. Mr. and Mrs. Warren are old residents of Hood River, having come here in 1877, and will be greeted by their many friends and old-time neighbors.

J. H. Tapp of The Dalles, who has been supplying the markets of Hood River during the season with big, luscious watermelons, kindly left one of his largest melons at the Glacier office one day last week. The melon weighed 35 pounds. Mr. Tapp's was soon tapped, and when the office force gathered round it it melted rapidly—the devil getting away with the biggest slice as usual, when there's a melon on tap.

Mrs. William Foss has a fine lot of apples this year. Her eight-year-old trees are very large and bear handsomely colored. Many of them will make three-tier. An apple buyer from New York state, who has orchards of his own, after viewing Mrs. Foss' apples, declared they were the finest lot of apples he ever saw. Cloud Cap Inn was vacated for the winter, September 29. Peter Felthausen, who acted as guide on the mountain during the past season, proved to be the best guide the mountain has had. He has since taken to the summit this year, taking up 10 ladies and 19 gentlemen besides making other trips to different parts of the mountain.

Frank A. Cram has had his ad painted on the roof of B. R. Tucker's barn. It covers the whole of the side of the roof next to the road, in letters so large that "he who runs may read." Mr. Cram believes in putting his ad where it will be seen, hence his generous use of the pages of the Glacier.

J. R. Nickelsen, having sold his blacksmithing business to Snow & Upson, will now be engaged in agricultural implements. He has purchased the building formerly occupied by Snow & Upson and will move it over to his lot and use it for the storage of his implements.

Elmer Wells, son of George M. Wells, arrived here from Texas recently, and is now living on the East Side. He went hunting, one day last week, saw a grouse in a tree, shot at it, and at the crack of his gun a cub bear jumped out of a tree and soon disappeared in a thicket near by.

F. W. Angus, who has been packing apples for Mr. Avery, says that in one week he had 246 boxes of sound apples, and less than 25 boxes of wormy and five-tier apples. Mr. Avery has done thorough work in spraying and is now reaping his reward.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Watson and daughter Lulu were visiting during the week with Ed Mayes and family. They left Tuesday morning for San Jose, Cal., where, if he likes the country, Mr. Watson may locate permanently.

J. M. Hollowell, who is farming 15 acres of the Watson tract, in the town of Hood River, has a fine garden and has been supplying the market with the vegetables consumed by Hood River de-

F. L. Davidson has taken into partnership his brother Barton. Mr. Davidson opened out a planing and tin shop in Hood River late last spring, and in the few months since then his business has made wonderful strides, and he keeps three or four men busy most of the time. Next week he will go to Goldendale and Centerville where he will put up three gasoline engines and several wind mills. Last week he arranged to place a $38 bath tub in the residence of Dr. M. F. Shaw. The Davidson Bros. are energetic, bustling young business men. The Glacier wishes them success.

Mrs. F. F. Bradford and little daughter have returned from Portland and are making their home at Mrs. Lou Morse's for the present. The little girl, who has been in a Portland hospital, is improved in health. Mrs. Bradford desires a quart of rich milk a day for the child. Can any one of our readers inform her where it can be had?

Brother F. L. Davidson and wife, of Hood River, were recent visitors in the city. Brother Davidson reports Waco, Tacoma as doing business at the old stand.—K. of P. Senator.

Ike Nealeigh and Flint Bradford bagged a b'ar during the storm Monday afternoon at George Rordan's place. This makes the fourth bear to the credit of Ike within the last month.

The school board met Saturday night and elected A. S. Blowers to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of T. R. Coon.

Madame Von Bolton and daughter Ties are guests at the Country Club cottage.

ring the present season. He has a fine lot of celery that has been in the market now for some time. It is better than that of heretofore has been imported. It is what might be termed first class. But Mr. Hollowell says that in another year he will furnish still better celery. He says it takes manure to grow it and all returned to their homes feeling well repaid for having braved the storm. Another meeting will be held Wednesday evening, at the close of the Modern Woodmen session, when election of officers and other necessary business will be transacted. All Modern Woodmen and their families are requested to be present.

very serious condition, but we are glad to say he is better at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Evans has a nice visiting them from Wasco this week.

BLUE RIBBONS FOR MOSIER. Many of the Mosier people visited the Dalles carnival this week, and each one came back and said they were glad they lived in Mosier, as Mosier had the finest fruit on exhibition at The Dalles they ever saw, and from the blue ribbons that were stuck on the Mosier apples the judges thought so too. J. P. Carroll of this place carried off the premium on the 10 varieties show, over all seven counties in the district, and every other man that showed for premiums did not fail to get one on some variety. Also our two dryers here carried off first and second prizes on dried prunes.

All the prunes in the vicinity are gathered and nearly all dried. How is this? Mr. Sellinger, one of our prominent fruit growers here, last year had about 25 tons of prunes. He grubbed out every other tree in each row, making one-half of them, then manured his orchard well, and this year he had over 40 tons and much nicer prunes.

One day last week the little boy Mrs. Godberson is raising was playing round the wagon while Gustave was hitching up. After Gustave got in the wagon to drive away he missed the boy but supposed he had gone to the house. When the wagon started the little fellow was under it and was knocked down, the wheel passing over his thumb and finger and against his head. The boy was taken to a doctor in The Dalles, but his injuries proved to be not serious.

C. T. Bennett and William Graham, while hauling wood with a trail wagon, had an accident last Saturday evening just after a shower. Coming down a grade both wagons slid over the grade and turned upside down. An oak tree standing at the edge of the road even with the front wheels of the front wagon caught it and held the wagon from jerking the horses off the grade, therefore the real damage was slight.

A. L. Pugh, who has been away for a week or two, surprised us all by bringing back a wife with him, one day last week. The scribe joins his many friends in wishing him a prosperous journey on the sea of life with his new partner.

Mrs. Rights of Hood River spent two or three days in Mosier canvassing for books. She reports good success.

Bruno Medler of Wasco stopped off the train, one day last week, and contracted for some wood.

P. Henningsen spent several days last week in Eastern Oregon buying prunes to keep his evaporator running with success.

G. L. Carroll brought down a fine apple from his ranch, last week, and our agent sent it to Mr. Craig of the O. R. & N. The apple weighed 32 ounces and measured 10 1/2 inches in circumference. It was in perfect form and clear of worms.

Odell Notes.

G. L. Robinson, who owns the Meadow Grove farm, near Pine Grove, furnished the Little 'Y' State store with samples of his Million Dollar potatoes that are beauties. They are smooth and very large. He has some that weigh four pounds each. Mr. Robinson is an intelligent farmer and is meeting with success in diversified farming. He planted 35 rods of ground of this famous potato, planting 15 pounds of seed, and took 120 pounds from the 15 pounds planted. Who can beat it?

Mr. Morton, recently from Scotland, has leased the C. G. Roberts place for three years and is highly pleased with the valley. He is enthusiastic over the future of Hood River. Intelligence coupled with energy will accomplish wonders here, and we welcome such men.

Professor J. L. Toussay came up from Portland Saturday and returned Sunday. He is teaching in Portland and Mrs. Toussay is managing the ranch affairs.

The writer took a trip last Friday to White Salmon and found a busy little village. He had read of the rain that caused so much trouble there, but your correspondent there was silent concerning the innumerable steps to climb in getting there. Five days have passed and still the mules of his team remind him of that climb. Better attach your mind to an elevator.

A very pleasant party was given at the hall at Odell, last Friday night, by John E. Roberts. There were about forty guests; some from Hood River, Mount Hood and the neighborhood near Odell. Johnny is all right, and from a standpoint of innocent pleasure, the party reached the limit.

After hearing the report of Rev. Shaffer's eloquent sermon at the Union church here, it occurs to me that if arrangements could be made to send him to Hood River, that he would always find a crowd of listeners, which would result in good to the community. Come again.

Both Mr. Benborn and Mr. Black, who purchased the Wyman place, have been ill recently. They are pleased with this valley and say they did not contract their illness here. We wish them a speedy recovery.

Living for a year within a few rods of William Ehrek's orchard, yet until last Sunday we had not walked through it. It is a picture—lovely laden with perfectly colored apples, and not a weed in sight. Mr. Ehrek is now beginning to reap a reward for his many years of work and waiting. He is justly deserving of all there is in the beautiful red apples.

A few days ago Mrs. W. L. Carnes was called to looker City to attend her mother, who had the misfortune to break a leg. Mr. Carnes in his wisdom kindly offered to take her to Hood River, Otto says he saw the elephant, but it wasn't white. Glad to see you home, Otto.
