Mr. and Mrs. Leasure of Mount Hood were in town Friday and Saturday. While here they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Blaracom. Mr. Leasure had met Mrs. Van Blaracom a few days before and learned that she was an old acquaintance of his father's family back in Minnesota. In fact, he had been raised with the Van Blaracoms. Mrs. Van Blaracom was rejoiced to meet with some one she had known at her old home, and, overcome with recollections of the long ago, had a good crying spell. She said she had spanked Robert many a time, as he often deserved it. The Van Blaracoms left Minnesota in 1864, and in all this time Mrs. Van Blaracom had not meta single acquaintance from her old home until
