

WHITE SALMON NOTES.

Old Zekel came home from a Jim-jam. And his hard-working wife tried to find him. A fat iron she listened to him. And hit Zeke a swat on the him-ham.

If our reservoir isn't covered soon, or at least surrounded by something to keep children away, somebody's child is going to be drowned in it. School children have been seen on its edge looking into the water. It's a dangerous place for a child.

There's a little wee girl in this community—a little miss of eight or nine summers only—who has the stuff in her character that real heroes are made of. She rides over mountain trails to school, all alone, through a lonesome section where she often meets no human being throughout the entire journey. No mother's kiss is hers as she leaves the home away on the mountain's crest, and none welcomes her on her return at eventide. Last winter the mother was taken from the little home and the brave little girl knows her but as a sweet memory. The world is full of child heroes whose bravery goes un-sung. We do not know what inspires and cheers this courageous little soul—possibly the mother still, who can tell but we will take our hat off to Hecanith Bedwin, as a little heroine worthy of respect and admiration.

If anyone really wants to know the amount of business done at White Salmon let him look at the freight handled at our dock. Its increase in a year's time has been astonishing.

Where does all the stuff go? Who consumes what is handled at the dock? Well, to begin with, White Salmon, as a village, has grown and improved rapidly. Instead of a single business house we now have a modern store laying in an up-to-date stock, a hotel, two boarding houses, two blacksmith shops, a drug store, feed store, a printing office and newspaper, two public halls, a meat market building and a half dozen residences recently completed, several repaired and others in process of construction. Mr. Wollard is entitled to the thanks of our people for his enterprise and public spirit. Our post office, with its lock-boxes and other features is now up to date, strictly, and would be a credit to a much more populous community. Lock-boxes are 30 and 40 cents a quarter, according to size.

C. M. Wollard & company's business has grown so as to call for a modern store with modern appliances, including a cash carrier system. The floor space has been more than doubled.

We visited Trout Lake last week. The cheese factory is on a firm basis and is turning out cheese that commands top notch prices in the city. The two stores there and the one at the Falls, or Husum, as it is now, are doing a good business. The Trout Lake school building is a credit to the people who taxed themselves to build it. They bonded the district and they have the best school building in this county with the exception of the one at Goldendale. Mr. Miller, the principal, and Miss Lacey, the assistant, are teachers of experience. Mr. Miller, as he stood in the well equipped school room, assured us that the school house was the product of a "progressive community." That's just the point exactly.

An Indian who the angels call "Snatapps," and who comes to breakfast when they call "Jake," tells us that he found 12 sheep somewhere upon the Little White Salmon and that they are strays from some band, and had been left behind. He has them and is anxious to deliver them to the owner. A letter addressed to Jake Snatapps, care of S. W. Condon, White Salmon, will reach him and if the sheep recognize the handwriting the mutton is yours.

OF INTEREST TO HOMESTEADERS.

The local land office at Vancouver has no right to grant leave of absence from a homestead except for (a) failure of crop; (b) sickness; (c) unavoidable casualty. These must be shown by affidavit and be corroborated by two disinterested witnesses. Homesteaders may be away six months (a) to earn a living or (b) to school their children. If a homesteader leaves the homestead, he should leave his family thereon or on making final proof show good reason for not doing so.

White Salmon Notes, No. 2.

White Salmon, Wash., October 26, 1903.—Editor Glacier: In last week's Glacier I read in the White Salmon Notes that Altadena ranch had some choice wild plants left over, and I hastened to his place early today to secure a supply for a friend. To my surprise I failed to get his price, although I was the first customer. I found him in his mustard patch, cultivating. In our conversation about the plants it was mentioned the mustard was good for greens (not green men).

In looking over the work of the non-union plasterer, I think it will survive his demise.

I was three months at Trout Lake this summer—15 miles from snow— and spent my leisure time angling for the "speckled beauties." I landed 1,629. Eleven times in October, on the lake, in one of Smith's boats, I landed 136, many of them over one pound in weight.

Chenoweth News Notes.

Mr. Curtis, the cattle man, is in our vicinity at present.

F. M. Arnold is in Portland for a day or two on business.

R. F. Fuller made a trip to the Cascade Locks Monday.

There was a wedding at Mill A, Saturday. Mrs. Morby and the engineer of the logging train there were married. They have the good wishes of all Chenoweth.

John Yandie was over at Mill A to take in the wedding. He afterwards attended the dance here at the hall in the evening. He is working for the Mount Hood Lumber company, 16 miles above Hood River.

Professor Metcalf, the school teacher at Mill A, was here, Sunday, visiting R. Stone and family.

Miss Jones of the Willamette valley arrived here, Thursday, to take charge of our school. She began Monday morning with a good attendance.

Mrs. Willard is now recovered from an illness of a couple of weeks duration. Charles Tubbs is now getting in his supply of hay before bad weather sets in.

W. A. Omer has moved back to his ranch.

Jean Raper and two boys are back again and going to school here.

Mr. Belderback, from Oklahoma, is fixing up one of the vacant shacks to back in until his wife gets here, which will be some time next month.

East Keys and family have moved to Portland, and Mr. Becker, from The Dalles, will move into the property he has vacated.

A. G. Wise and son Louis are living in camp now. His little girl is keeping house for them and going to school.

The C. R. & N. people are getting their weir dams in and are finding plenty of water.

Mount Hood Notes.

The weather could not be nicer for this time of year in any country.

William A. Offield has returned from Portland, where he has been for a week on business. He went to camp in the vicinity of Mount Hood, where he will spend the winter.

Roy Henson arrived in Mount Hood last Tuesday from Shaniko and went to St. Martin's Springs. He is not sick but thought the water of these famous springs might drive out some of the rheumatism from his system before winter sets in.

What is the matter with the directors calling a meeting and making arrangements to finish the new hall before winter sets in?

There is some talk of school district No. 43 coming back to join No. 6. If this is done it will necessitate the use of teams to haul the pupils to school. They have now about 13 children of school age in 43 and 50 to 60 in No. 6.

So the next thing will be to build a larger school house and run a graded school, as there are more pupils now than one teacher can do justice to.

W. S. Gribble is building a dwelling house on his ranch. He is intending to clear up all of his slashing soon and will sow clover. He thinks he can raise his hay cheaper than to buy it.

Apples are about all harvested and thrashed as well as most of the spuds. We don't raise very large spuds here, but J. R. Steele dug 125 sacks of spuds off of one acre of ground, all good, salable spuds, but one man could lift any one in his patch.

Pine Grove Cleanings.

Mr. and Mrs. Bockes of Amity, Or., who have been visiting the Newman and Fike families, returned home today.

Boyd Sprout made a sale of 12 acres off the north end of his place to Warren Wells, Jr., at $150 an acre. Mr. Wells expects to finish clearing the land and put it in orchard next spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lage gave a party to a number of the young people last Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Maggie Denismuir, who is visiting at their place.

Miss Mary Hunt expects to go to Washington soon to teach school.

Miss Mabel Riddell spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Jenkins of Hood River.

Rev. J. L. Hershner has men at work on his place getting it ready to plant to apple trees next spring.

Dukes Valley Notes.

Our fine weather still continues, and the farmers are taking advantage of it in getting ready for a rainy day.

C. R. Bone got his clover hay cured and hauled in all right.

A. J. Kassel and family have gone to the logging camp, where they intend to spend the winter in helping to get the logs into Hood river for the Mount Hood Lumber company.

Quite a crowd met at the school house, last Saturday evening, and organized a literary and debating society, which will meet on Thursday of each week. Next Thursday they will debate a question of great importance, and all ought to come and hear both sides.

The question is, "Resolved, That single life is preferable to married life." The leaders are Mr. Edgington for the affirmative and W. A. Dodge for the negative. The name of the society is "Salmagundi." Every one is invited, and all are expected to take part in the exercises so as to make it interesting.

Barrett District.

The people of Barrett are taking advantage of the fine weather by ploughing, seeding, digging spuds and hoeing strawberries, and otherwise improving their already fine looking premises.

Owing to the rumors of smallpox, the directors of the school district, deeming it wise not to take any chances, have dismissed school for the present, and the kids are enjoying the vacation.

There has been a change in the time on mail route No. 2. The carrier leaves Hood River in the morning instead of at noon. The patrons of this route are extremely well pleased with the present carrier, who is very prompt, pleasant and obliging. He delivers parcels and does errands of any kind for a very small fee, and should be patronized.

Rolla Phelps has rented his place opposite the Barrett school house to his brother Ed for the coming year.

George Lampman of Blaine, Wash., is a visitor at Fair Oaks farm. He is looking the valley over and is extremely well pleased with the country. Mr. Lampman is quite an extensive traveler and says the scenery up Hood River valley is the grandest he ever saw.

The protracted meeting at the Valley Christian church has been postponed for the present.

G. W. Brown, who has been living on the Markham place, will move this week into the house by the brick yard.

The sons of E. M. Camp, who have been up in Sherman county for some time, returned last week and are now enjoying mama's biscuits and pies.

W. R. Hoole, who has been on the sick for two months, is now able to put his feet under the table—the table is high—which is an indication that he is getting along o. k.

Crupper Croppings.

The weather for the past three weeks has been all that we could ask for, giving a chance to finish the fall work. Potato digging is about all done and the yield is about up to the average, with very little rot.

H. E. Blocher had a force of men at work on the road this side of the Tucker bridge, taking out rock and grading up the road bed. This part of the road now is in better shape than it has ever been. It looks as if Mr. Blocher understood his business. He would make a good overseer for the next term.

The carpenters will begin work on John Mitchell's house next week. A. T. Dodge and Charles Chandler have the contract.

Mrs. McRoberts started for her home at Wyoming, Iowa, last Tuesday. We made an error in our last week's items in stating that Mrs. McRoberts' home was in Missouri. Mrs. McRoberts made many friends while here and all are sorry to see her leave.

Fred Miner and family were visiting friends in this vicinity last Sunday. Mr.

Miner has recently purchased property on Neal creek and is preparing to move on it soon.

A. T. Dodge and family of Dukes valley were visiting at the Nichols ranch last Sunday.

There will be a masquerade ball and oyster supper at Blocher's hall on Thanksgiving night. Everybody invited to come dressed in the ugliest costume they can get on. It doesn't matter how ugly you are dressed, you will be as welcome as though you were dressed in silk or satin.

Mosier Items.

The dryer is running again prying the prunes Mr. Henningsen purchased near La Grande. The prunes are much smaller than those grown around here.

L. M. Thomas was selling fresh bear meat twice this last week. He says they are plentiful around his place.

W. A. Hustands, who was hurt last week by a wagon load of wood upsetting on him, is much improved and will soon be out again.

A. P. Bateham loaded a car of fancy Spitzenburge and Yellow Newtowns here last Monday.

A. B. Craft and family of Grass Valley are here visiting relatives this week.

Mr. Stewart is making some very nice improvements in his store. He has taken out his old shelves and put in new ones twice as wide in order to hold his large stock of fall goods. He is also giving his store inside a coat of paint.

Odell Notes.

Last week's notes went wrong somewhere between Odell and town through no fault of the writer.

Robert E. Callison, formerly from Lane county, has purchased and moved on to the W. V. Johnson, 20-acre tract near Odell. Mr. Callison's grandfather crossed the plains in 1848, in the same ox train with his father, settling on Pleasant Hill, where he has ever since resided. He is 85 years old and he and his good wife have been married 63 years. They were our neighbors in the days of my childhood. Young Callison's father was a schoolmate of mine in a one-room log school house away back in the 50s. The descendants of those sturdy, honest pioneers, who are a part of the history of our great state, are a good class of people, and we welcome such in our midst.

About ten days ago it was my pleasure to make a trip to the Elk Beds, where the elevation is 3,500 feet above sea level. The day was perfect and the beautifully tinted autumn leaves that fringe the hills and roadsides, together with the red apples that tempt one, as he goes by, made up a charming picture. We found homes all along the way, the orchards of William Ehrick, G. W. Lafferty, C. T. Rawson and Hon. E. L. Smith's Beulah Land orchard. I made a trip today to Beulah Land and got a fine lot of peaches as can be found anywhere. He also has grapes abundant. In visiting a well-kept country home, I am reminded of the following words of Benjamin Franklin: "A farmer on his knees is taller than a gentleman."

Frank A. Masse is moving into his new house on Willow Flat, which he built upon land purchased from C. L. Rogers last summer.

Mr. Massey, who bought 80 acres of L. D. Boyd on Willow Flat, is about ready to move into his house built at the north end of Dukes valley.

Ralph Savage of Hood River and the Odell brothers left this afternoon for a hunting trip the balance of the week. Ralph brought his bike out to carry in his game to town, on his return. With saddle ponies, dogs, pack horse and hunters with their guns, it rounded up a nice picture and reminded us of pioneer days. The Little White Store and the village blacksmith shop furnished a nice opportunity for a snap shot as they halted to arrange their packs.

Under the new time table of the rural delivery, Mr. Bailey arrives here at 10 a. m. Mr. Bailey is rendering a very efficient service. He is obliging and prompt.

A Love Letter.

Would not interest you if you're looking for a guaranteed salve for sores, burns or piles. Otto Dodd, of Ponder, Mo., writes: "I suffered with an ugly sore for a year, but a box of Bucklen's Arnica salve cured me. It's the best salve on earth." 25c at Chas. N. Clarke's drug store.

Barnes, the real estate man, sold last week to J. W. Strong, Frank Danbrook's place, recently purchased from H. A. Tawney. Mr. Strong has also purchased 40 acres from Mr. Tucker. He proposes to move his family from Coos county this fall. Mr. Strong is a man of means and intends to improve his place here. Mr. Strong agrees with our honored president in regard to race suicide, as he is the father of 10 children, who will all become Hood Riverites.

Frank Caddy, last week, completed a commodious house for his chickens. It is built after his own plan, and Frank thinks he has a dandy hen house. There are three apartments—one for roosting, one for nesting, and the largest for scratching and feeding. Frank keeps 33 hens. He comes to town every Saturday with six dozen eggs. He lets his hens have the run of the place, feeds them well on grain, and the eggs are first class.

C. L. Cople returned, Wednesday of last week from a trip to Union county where he spent two weeks in the interests of the Order of Washington as deputy organizer.
