

FRANK A. CRAM,

Always Up To Date,
Sells Crouse & Brandigee Suits and Overcoats.

Some Men like clothes in the very height of fashion. SOME DON'T. That's because tastes differ so. One man wants the most extreme cut, while another wants it thoroughly conservative. Nothing Old-Fashioned, mind you; just up-to-date in every way, though rather subdued in style. We cater to both. One kind of taste doesn't make a business, you know, so that's why we keep in stock enough variety to satisfy the dress desires of a good-sized town. What-ever your leaning may be, you can always find it where the garments bear the label of Crouse & Brandigee, Utica, New York. Asking for that is a good way of getting what you want, whether it's something very ultra or just plain every-day stylishness.

$20.000 in this splendid line to select from. A perfect fit is guaranteed. We'll begat to show the goods.

Yours truly,
FRANK A. CRAM.

The cool November days have come. As they have been before.

And now we hear the old-time cry, "Say, WILL you shut that door?" —Chenault Times-Star.

W. H. Marshall of Mount Hood went to Portland on a business trip last week.

Lindley F. Hall returned to Portland last week after a few days' visit at "Pinehurst."

Belien & Rea will commence this week to build a house for Frank Davenport at Belmont. The house is to be occupied by his workmen. He talks of building five more.

B. F. Belien got his house he is building for himself in Idleville roofed and primed last Saturday, and the lathers are now at work. The house will contain eight rooms.

James Stranahan was laid up several days last week, as a result of taking cold when his vacation was taking.

James is wondering which is the worse, smallpox or vaccination. He is able to be at work again and says he enjoyed(?) his vacation.

A. P. Tift of the Portland law firm Pipes & Tift was in Hood River last week, a guest at the Country Club cottage.

Scott Boorman finished harvesting his potatoes last week, and tells the most remarkable tale yet. From the five acres he gathered 1,125 sacks of 100 pounds each. This is almost two tons of potatoes to the acre. The potatoes were a sight to behold as Mr. Boorman had them heaped in monster piles ready for the bins constructed by covering the spuds with leaves and straw then heaping earth on top. Mr. Boorman's largest potato measured 22 inches in length. For a potato yield this beats the record. It is all the more remarkable since no irrigation was used. The potatoes were planted on a clover sod, and well cultivated.

R. R. Erwin returned Friday from Lynden, Wash., where he spent a week with his family. Mr. Erwin says Seattle is not the lively city it formerly was.

Hotels now advertise 25-cent rooms for which they used to charge $1 or more.

"Seattle will continue to hold her Alaska trade," said Mr. Erwin, "but that city will fall behind in the next two or three years while Portland is discharging a couple of million dollars for the Lewis and Clark fair."

And Seattle people are forced to admit this.

R. B. Bragg of the general merchandise firm of R. B. Bragg & company made a business trip to Pulman last week, where he is interested in another large mercantile establishment. Mr. Bragg reports the conditions prosperous in the Pullman country. The farmers realized very well on their wheat, and horses sold at good prices.

Arthur Cole returned to Hood River last week after an absence of two years in Minnesota. Mr. Cole says his parents are content to live in the East, but he likes Hood River a great deal better, and has come back to stay. He began work Monday morning as salesman for Frank A. Cram.

Miss Eva Belien went to Portland, Monday, on a visit of a couple of weeks. Her sister, Mrs. Nannie Niswonger, is at the Portland Sanatorium taking a course to fit herself for a trained nurse.

Miss Eva Stranahan left on the noon train last Saturday for Lexington, where she expects to give lessons in elocution. The many friends of Miss Stranahan wish her success in her new work.

Bert Lane recently purchased Mr. Miles' house and two lots, and moved his family into their new home the first of the week.

L. H. Nichols left last week for Klondike, Sherman county, where he will assist his son in seeding a 100-acre ranch to wheat.

A. P. Tift of the Portland law firm Pipes & Tift was in Hood River last week, a guest at the Country Club cottage.

Some person or persons, too, has been guilty of a serious penal offense, and if possible, should be apprehended and given the full benefit of the legal process for such cases. Not content with minor misdemeanors they short-circuited the electric light current near N. C. Evans' place, burning out the fuse at the power house. The dynamo evidently is a good one and in perfect working order or it would have been ruined causing a loss of several hundred dollars to the light company. Then to complete the sum of their maliciousness, they came into town up on the hill and connected the electric light line with the telephone wire. Had not this connection been discovered before the dynamo was repaired and started every telephone on the line touched would have been burned out, and very probably the girls in central using their head gear would have been killed.

A curious attempt to obtain money on false representation was experienced by Mrs. C. G. Roberts last week. A telegram from Simms, Cal., was received which informed her that her daughter, Lucille Jean Roberts of the O. A. C., Corvallis, was there in a delicate circumstance and to forward money. Immediate inquiry established the fact that Miss Roberts was then at school at Corvallis, which she had not left since college opened the middle of September. President Hatch of the college phoned to Simms that the real Miss Roberts was there and that an imposture was being attempted. No doubt some one who knows the family well attempted this, but who it was cannot even be guessed.

Frank Stanton, after reading of the Scappoose apples mentioned in last week's Glacier, came in to say that he gathered from his own orchard 23 boxes of Northern Spy apples, 13 of which were three-tier apples. R. R. Erwin says the Scappoose yield must have been only an accident. He once owned a 100-acre farm in that country and got rid of the land as soon as he saw the other fellow had got the better of the deal. Hood River still leads the procession.

J. I. Miller added to the Glacier's exhibit of Irish potatoes some fine samples grown on his place in the Crapper district. Mr. Miller does not know what variety the potatoes are, but they are certainly nice ones. He gathered about 100 sacks from one acre. His largest potato weighed 4 1/2 pounds, while seven of them weighed 20 pounds.

Mr. Miller gathered in a 4-pound potato grown by Mrs. E. F. Edlenn.

H. L. Pitcock of the Portland Oregonian, accompanied by George T. Myers, the well-known politician and salmon canneryman, spent Sunday and Monday in Hood River. While here they were guests at the Country Club cottage, where they enjoyed the meals prepared by Grandma Munra.

A new firm in White Salmon is that of Manly & Crowe. They purpose to sell real estate. They are putting up an office building adjoining the drug store in White Salmon, where they will open an office and be prepared to show visitors around the country and sell them real estate in that growing community.

George Smith arrived in Hood River last week from Spokane. After shaking hands with friends in town he left for Pine Flat for a short stay with his folks. Mr. Smith expects to spend the winter in Portland.

H. L. Howe goes to Roseburg today. He has been up at his homestead at the head of Neal creek, where he spent a couple of weeks. He found that where he had down alfalfa the moles had destroyed 75 of his young apple trees.

Miss Clark of Portland, who has just returned from New York, will sing a soprano solo at the Unitarian service Sunday morning. Miss Clark possesses a magnificent dramatic soprano.

The woman's alliance of the Unitarian church will meet Friday afternoon, November 6, with Mrs. C. H. Jenkins. A large attendance is desired.

Frank A. Cram, the up-to-date dry goods merchant, has two additional clerks, Miss Maggie Garabrant and Arthur Cole.

Charles Temple has moved his place of business to Williams' drug store, where he is now showing a fine line of goods.

St. Marks guild will meet at the residence of Mrs. Dunsmuir, Wednesday afternoon, November 11.

Married.

At the residence of Aaron Preston, Montevilla, Or., October 8, 1903, Mrs. Anna Birth of Montevilla, Oregon, daughter of Portland, Or.; Aaron Preston officiating.

At the Congregational parsonage, in Hood River, Saturday, October 31, 1903, Charles A. Tucker and Miss Bertha L. Plog, Rev. J. L. Hersher, officiating.

The groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Tucker, who are old residents of Hood River, while the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Plog, who recently came from Iowa and purchased the Frank Chandler place. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker went to Portland on the afternoon train for a short visit. They will live in Hood River.

New Today.

Riverside, A. O. U. W., will hold its 23d anniversary, Saturday evening, November 7, at the lodge room. Members of the order will come with their families.

People who desire to have their eyes thoroughly tested and properly fitted with glasses would do well to call on Dr. W. T. Rowley, the oculist. He is supplied with lenses ground to fit each patient.

Alfred Wood of Odell and Jasper Wickham were conversing in the Glacier office, Thursday, when the former pulled out of his pocket a regular old-fashioned steel corn-busker. "What use do you have for that instrument in this country?" asked Mr. Wickham, surprised to see such an instrument for the first time since he left Kansas. But Mr. Wood assured him that he found plenty of use for it on his place. Mr. Wood grows some corn every year on his place at Odell, and without irrigating. He has had no water, but now that the Bone ditch will pass his place, he can get all the water he wants for irrigation. This year Mr. Wood had half an acre in corn that he planted for fodder, but when he came to cut it found so many big ears that he saved them for seed and got a wagon box full of fine corn.

John Leland Henderson sold last week 20 acres formerly part of his mother's place, mile and a half southwest of town, to George W. Smith, of Ponne wawa, near Colfax, Wash.; consideration $4,000 cash. Mr. Smith is a well-to-do fruit grower in the Palouse country. He intends some day to make Hood River his home.

Alfred Wood of Odell left at this office a curiosity in the shape of three apples grown into one. It is a Yellow Newtown apple with three blossoms, and not the least curious feature of the freak is that one of the blossoms is on the stem end of the main apple.

I may make mistakes—everyone does—but I am more than willing to rectify any error.

To Those It Does Concern:

In answer to your letter in last week's Glacier, we wish to reiterate and condemn any such letter as was signed "Brother Competitor," which leaves a blot on our standing as business men, and it was malicious on your part to take that way of a little paid advertising. We will place $100 in Butler & Co.'s bank, to be paid to you if you can prove that any one of us signed and sent any such letter to you.

My jewelry store has been removed to Williams' drug store. Call and see me in my new quarters and note the fine line of jewelry, watches, clocks, etc., just received.

I have 300 styles of ladies' gold rings, set with diamonds, rubies, emeralds, opals, pearls and ladies' gold for chains and other watch chains of all kinds. In oculist goods I can fit you with the best, I charge nothing for testing eyes and can fit you as well as if you went to the highest priced oculist in Portland, and at less than half the price you would have to pay there.

Norman Williams is Arrested.

Norman Williams, a former resident of Hood River, was indicted by the United States grand jury last week charged with forging a homestead relinquishment for Miss Alma Nesbett. Connected with the story of his alleged murder of Miss Nesbett and her mother whom he located on lands in the Mount Hood settlement about four years ago.

Williams has since been heard from at Whatcom, Wash., and will probably be taken to Portland for trial on the forgery charge.

The case of Williams is indeed peculiar. Many Hood River people will recall the incident of the disappearance of the Nesbett women in the spring of 1899, and the suspicions which were directed at that time against this man Williams. Many people in the Mount Hood district believe the man capable of the supposed murder, and can say nothing good of him. Others think there is no occasion for such serious suspicions.

The Nesbett women came here from Omaha and were located on claims at Mount Hood by Norman Williams. Very little was seen of the women. One March night, 1899, Williams hired a livery team to take the women to their homestead. He returned alone the next morning and the women were never seen since. Williams, though, asserts he can produce witnesses who saw the mother and daughter board the train at Hood River after the date of this all-night ride. Further developments in the case will be watched with interest.

Rand's New Hotel at Frankton.

A portion of the Glacier force wandered down to Frankton last Sunday, arriving at the Oakdale farm of D. N. Byerlee in time for an excellent dinner, served by Mrs. Byerlee. After dinner the party continued to Robert Rand's.

Mr. Rand was found in his observatory, or "den," as he likes to call it, reading his Sunday paper. From this observatory there is a splendid view of the Columbia river and below. Mr. Rand has the room filled with all sorts of collections until it is a veritable museum.

H. L. Pitcock and George T. Meyers of Portland had just been out to see Mr.

Rand took several photographs of the place for exhibition at the St. Louis fair. Both gentlemen were charmed with the place, and declared they were coming for a longer stay next summer.

The new hotel was shown the callers. This is at the very edge of the precipice, and at the point where Pluys creek plunges in a straight fall of 250 feet to the Columbia river below. The natural panorama viewed from here is grand and wonderful in its magnificence. As a retreat for tourists from the city it would be hard to equal. Mr. Rand is spending money and putting in much hard work to make everything about the place attractive. He expects to be able to accommodate guests by May 1 next year, and there is little doubt his house will be crowded all summer.

Public Schools Resumed Monday.

The board of directors of the Hood River public schools met Saturday evening and decided to reopen the public schools. A letter was read from Dr. Hutchison, the state health officer, in which he ordered the school directors to refuse to admit to the schools any children who cannot show satisfactory evidence of recent vaccination or of recovery from smallpox. Pursuant to these instructions the teachers were informed that they must comply with the order from the state health officer. Exceptions will be made only where pupils produce a physician's certificate that vaccination in their case would be ill-advised. Rule 24 of the Oregon state board of health dealing with the matter says:

It shall be the duty of all school boards in all the districts of whatever class in the state of Oregon, to prohibit the entrance into any of the public schools of the state, of all children not previously vaccinated, the evidence of which is shown by the scar, without proper vaccination; and it shall be the duty of the teacher or teachers in any of the public schools of the state of Oregon to satisfy themselves that such order has been properly enforced, the evidence being a scar or by a certificate of vaccination signed by a reputable physician.

An order was also on file from George C. Blakely, county health officer, stating that the law must be complied with.

LOUIS H. ANDERSON, Teacher.

Professor J. T. Neff, who has been busy for some weeks past visiting the schools of the county near The Dalles and as far out as Kingsley, says he finds them in good running order with the exception of a very few which have failed to obtain teachers. The short term of some are about to close when the schools may be supplied. Out at No. 10, where Miss Lulu Rowe is teaching, they have just added a new list of books to their library and other schools are planning to give entertainments for the purpose of increasing their libraries. On account of school business which demands his attention every Saturday he has been unable to visit schools further in the interior, but hopes to do so soon. Mr. Neff is taking a deep interest in the work which the county school superintendent has left in his charge.—Chronicle.
