Phil Warren of Viento was in town Saturday. Mr. Warren will make proof on his homestead before Judge Prather December 29. He has lived upon his place continuously for nine years and doesn't anticipate much trouble in making proof that he is entitled to the land. He has 60 acres on the hill that he is now clearing which will make good hay land. He is in the wood business and hopes to get the O. R. & N. to give him a spur where he can load his wood on care. He has been in the stock business for years, had land rented of Tatum & Bowen, who own the meadow land at one time owned by Lyman Smith, and on which at one time owned by Lyman Smith, and on which at one time Mr. Smith cut 75 and 80 tons of size of pebbles to that of a bushel basket, and that this has been the case since last Friday. Several young people have expressed a desire to take up an evening course in bookkeeping, shorthand and typewrit-ing. H. M. Huxley has taken the matter in hand and is making arrangements to give a four-months' course in these studies. If the proper books and sta-tionery can be obtained in time, work will begin Nov. 23. Mr. Huxley understands the subject thoroughly and would like as large a class as possible the first evening. Write, phone or call for further particulars.

Fred Deitz has made many improve ments on his property, formerly the Robert Rand place just east of the school house. Mr. Deitz came to Hood River last spring from Dakota, and since then has peen sending weekly reports of Oregon weather to his Eastern friends. He is well pleased with Hood River, and sense it is his intention to River, and says it is his intention to spend the rest of his life here. He is 64 years old but doesn't look it by 10 years. He is one of five brothers, who served in the civil war, all of whom are living.

In the report of the council meeting last week the Glacier reporter, in mentioning the debate on the question of recouncilman stood on the question, and said H.F. Davidson "sawed wood," mean-ing of course, that he "stood pat." When his better half read the Glacier she wanted to know why he should go down to the council meeting to saw wood when he never did anything of the kind at home.
