

WHITE SALMON NOTES.

There is a plan on foot to build a large hotel on the beautiful tract belonging to Mr. Lauterbach among the cluster of oaks just west of the main stage road.

Thanksgiving day will be duly celebrated in White Salmon. At sunrise the White Salmon band will march on the plaza. At 10 a. m. there will be a parade.

Peace is desirable. But let us have peace with progress; peace with school development; peace with honorable dealing.

John F. Willard of Oakland, Cal., representing the Hercules Gas Engine company of San Francisco, and a former neighbor of Mr. and Mrs. Condon, and Mr. Wickersham of Chicago, who is looking for a location as a fruit grower, made White Salmon friends a visit Saturday and Sunday.

Notes From Underwood. The first snow of the season on the flat fell Tuesday, while two feet is reported from Norway, three miles from the landing.

Frankon News Notes. S. Koplun, Walter Hull and Frank Gregory have returned from Stevenson having failed to get into the mines on account of heavy storms.

Odell Notes. Professor J. L. Towsey, who is teaching in Portland, came up Saturday evening and passed Sunday with his family two miles southwest of Odell.

Barrett District. What's the matter with the climate of Hood River? Seems as if a revolution or a cyclone had struck the old settler first heard of this valley the old settler informed us that there were no strong winds in this section, but the day we arrived was something very unusual, for it was all we could do to hold ourselves in the wagon that brought us out.

ly to the range of hills west of town and the grand growth of oaks and pines that border the north and west sides, passed serenely through the storm, said to be the worst ever seen here, without even the breaking of a tree and but few branches damaged. Moral: if you would care to live in a section where all the blessings of life seem to be conferred upon its citizens, come to Barrett district.

School is progressing finely and even the "bad boys" seem to be perfectly satisfied. One of the instructors, however, is somewhat worried about a couple of the aforesaid bad boys, whom he kept in after school last Friday for correction, but who, while the teacher was engaged in making an appointment (?) disappeared, and the only evidence left behind was an open window, and a couple of shadows across the school house yard. We would suggest a few such locks and some strong tree branches.

J. P. Barnett met with a severe accident last week while hitching up his team. He slipped and fell under one of his horses, which, becoming frightened, attempted to get away. Mr. Barnett, not being able to extricate himself, was stamped by the horse on the head, arms and legs, his head being cut very severely, so as to require the taking of several stitches by Dr. Brosius, who attended him. We understand that while painful, his injuries are not dangerous, but that it will compel his remaining quiet for a few days. Mr. Barnett's many friends congratulate him on his narrow escape.

Two strangers were traversing this section through all the mud and rain last Saturday looking for a location. They seemed to know just what suited them and we understand secured what they wanted.

The Valley Christian church having secured the services of Rev. A. A. Beery as pastor, have arranged for a series of meetings at the church, beginning on Thanksgiving day, November 26, at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m., and every evening thereafter until further notice. It was the intention to have begun this service four weeks ago, but the smallpox rumors caused the postponement. As this meeting is intended to encourage the betterment of all mankind, subjects will be introduced and discussed at each service that will be entertaining in the highest degree. The pastor is one of the most effective speakers and presents his subjects in an entirely different manner from most ministers, and all who attend will be greatly entertained and we trust benefited. All are cordially invited and we hope to be able to welcome the presence nightly of some Hood Riverites. It won't hurt you, brothers, and may do you a world of good. Come and be welcomed.

Bernie Phelps has decided that there is no place like home, even if he has to split the wood, and has returned and is now chopping mince meat for me. He still nurses his hand, but says it is doing nicely and hopes soon to be able to perform a full day's work.

Wouldn't it be a good idea if the road supervisor on the Belmont and Methodist lane roads would take account of stock. We think he would find an overplus of goods that a little exertion would or could soon dispense with. Try it.

We again urge the people of Barrett to send us items of news, anything interesting - births, deaths, marriages, any arriving or departing relatives or friends, crop items, new houses, barns, etc. Let us let the world know we live, and we can surely do it if we advertise in your news.

Mr. Emerson is building himself a fine apple house. We hope it will keep the fruit all right until spring, then we would be perfectly willing to relieve him of any further responsibility.

Frankon News Notes. S. Koplun, Walter Hull and Frank Gregory have returned from Stevenson having failed to get into the mines on account of heavy storms.

Odell Notes. Professor J. L. Towsey, who is teaching in Portland, came up Saturday evening and passed Sunday with his family two miles southwest of Odell.

Thomas Broderick of Dukes valley spent a few days last week in Portland with his family. He had been absent from them for a year. Mr. Broderick has a good homestead ranch at the head of Dukes valley and is developing the same with a view of bringing his family and making it his permanent home.

This is a busy little valley. Always something doing. Grubbing and wood chopping are now on, notwithstanding the newspaper talk of an abundance of anthracite coal near Heppner.

Too bad the close season is on on deer, for the recent snow has brought them down to the hills near the valley.

B. G. Boardman left today for Prineville. He goes overland to Shauko, where his wife joins him by train, and they will drive the balance of the way. They will spend the winter there.

Ralph D. Sholley, eldest son of Roswell Sholley, is daily expected to arrive at Hood River from Dutch Harbor, Alaska, with his family to take up his residence at Odell and take a one-half interest in the Little White Store. He was to have shipped on the 1st inst. on the Canadian steamship Gloria of the Sea. Soon after his arrival there will be important changes in the business of the Little White Store. It has passed the experimental stage and it is the intention to enlarge the stock by adding some other staple lines of goods. With an increasing trade, facilities have been enlarged, and in a short while staples in several lines can be had at Odell at Hood River prices.

(Intended for last week.) The beautiful slushy snow is delightful this morning, but when we consider the charming October days that we enjoyed we have no kick coming. Winter has its advantages, bringing rest to those who are comfortably situated, and then the budding and unfolding of spring breathes a benediction over the desolate and waste places of winter. To those of us who are fast approaching the winter of life there is a lesson in the changing seasons. To all such the approach of spring brings with it a bow of promise of brighter and better days.

The Tucker hill is in an awful condition, and if something is not done speedily to improve it, it will soon be off with the teamster. The work last spring of smoothing the hill with clay is now proving a detriment. And about the only temporary relief would be to take picks and shovels asked him if he didn't think he could stop it. The little one looked up brightly at the professor's face and said proudly: "I've quit sucking my thumb, just the same!" Mr. Cromwell joined the upper grade in an audible smile, and the little offender was dismissed with an admonition not to repeat the offense.

The sheet and pillow-case social at M.H. Nickelson's Friday evening turned out to be an umbrella and waterproof social.

J. B. Phelps and wife returned from Vancouver, where they had been visiting.

Joe Purser returned, Friday evening, from Portland.

Mrs. Gilbert's orchard in front of M. H. Nickelson's was severely damaged by the wind storm last week.

A. L. Phelps returned from Vancouver last week, where he has been putting a new foundation under St. P. Harris' house. He says they are very religious down there because it rained every day but Sundays.

Mrs. Sarah Gray, daughter of E. C. Rogers, died at her home on the Sound, Saturday forenoon.

Albert Blaylock from Spokane is staying with Reverend Dilling and going to Frankton school.
