Mood River Glacier.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1903

The Oregon delegation at Washing ton seems to be playing in bard luck. In the committee appointments of the lower house, this state was given nothing of importance. Hermann, who jeweler. wanted a river and harbor position, got almost nothing. Speaker Cannon had offered him a position on the insular committee, but this wasn't enough, and Mr. Hermann's colleagues sent a letter to President Roosevelt ask not reinstate Asa W. Thomson, suspended receiver at the LaGrande land office, notwithstanding the fact that the Oregon senators sent Mr. Hitchcock a note asking that Thomson be kept in office.

County Clerk A. E. Lake has furnished a statement to Recorder Nickelsen showing the total amount of assessable property within the city of Hood River for 1903 to be $208,927. The figures for 1902 were $228,815, showing a decrease of a few dollars less than $29,000. The 3 mill city tax last year raised something over $600. The next meeting of the city council is the latest date for fixing next year's city tax.

When Editor Scott of the Oregonian reads his paper's dispatches from Washington, telling of the troubles of the Oregon delegation, he probably congratulates himself, after all, that last winter's legislature did not send him to the United States senate.
