Eat turkey at Carrier's Sunday.
A. W. Boorman was in Portland, Monday.
Mrs. Booth returned from Portland, Saturday, after a three week's visit with her daughter Nettie. She stayed to see Ben Hor.
Mrs. W. G. Clelland of University Park visited her sister Mrs. R. E. Harbison and other Hood River friends, last week, returning to her home Friday morning. J. C. Abbott made a business trip to The Dalles last week.

A subordinate lodge of the Fraternal Brotherhood is the latest addition to the list of orders represented in Hood River. The charter members numbered 30 and the following officers were appointed for the balance of the present term: Earl Filinger, past president; Chester Jury, president; Mr. Ewers, vice-president; William Boyd, chaplain; Miss Elizabeth Irwin, treasurer; Les Ulrich, secretary; Miss Allen, musician; William Walker, O. D. K.; D. W. Plank, T. D. K.; Dr. F. C. Crossin, physician. The officers were publicly installed by G. F. Street, district manager, after which a very pleasant evening was spent in dancing, which was returned until midnight. The event was in every way a striking success, and judging from the opinion of those present a bright future is assured the order here.

It is really surprising what an amount of food and feed stuff is consumed each week in Hood River. Bagley & Stranahan, who operate an extensive warehouse at the depot, inform the Glacier that the shipments into Hood River amount to an average of a carload a day. There are also other flour and grain jobbers in Hood River. This is good evidence that Hood River is forging steadily ahead in the matter of population.
A. C. Beck advertised in last week's Glacier for his lost dog, that had been gone three weeks. The edition of the Glacier had not been half worked off, Thursday morning, when the dog, evidently having read the ad, returned home. It pays to advertise in the Glacier.
Alexander Piere, who lives on the farm of the late Mr. Emmel, suffered a broken leg before last by his horse falling upon him. Dr. Brosius, who attended the injured man, was successful in securing some very good X-ray photographs of the broken limb. Mr. Piere is getting along very nicely.
The Davidson Fruit company has enlarged the platform in front of the company's office, and a sidewalk has been built south to River street. This improvement is much appreciated by the many people who transact business with the Davidson Fruit company.
Chas. N. Clarke, the druggist, moved into his new house on the hill last week. Mr. Clarke owns one of the many fine residences in Hood River, while for a variety of scenery from his home he can't be beat.
J. C. Boggs marketed a hog last Friday that dressed 400 pounds. The hog was one year old.
J. C. Abbott made a business trip to The Dalles last week.

The Hood River telephone system had 309 phones in use on December 1, and several contracts for more instruments. What other city of 1,200 population in the Northwest can equal this record? The same company at The Dalles has 321 phones, eleven more than Hood River. In that city there are employed five operators in addition to the foreman, while the Hood River office gets away with an equal amount of work with three operators. Miss Laura Cramer is manager of the Hood River circuit. Miss Cramer and her efficient assistants serve the patrons of the telephone company in a faithful and courteous manner. Hood River people have nothing but praise for the service afforded them, and the Pacific States Telephone company should be proud of their employes here. The Hood River system was instituted four years ago with 13 phones.
J. A. Westerlund of William Westerlund company, Chicago, and E. C. Pearson, who is connected with the Swedish Tribune of that city, were in Hood River last week, and paid the Glacier office a visit. The Westerlund company are the Eastern agents of Geo. D. Culbertson & Co., real estate brokers in Hood River. This company is interested in attracting immigrants to Oregon, and Mr. Westerlund was here a short time ago with a large party of prospective land buyers, several of whom arranged to buy land at Whit growth good crops, but he makes this change to again enrich the soil. Mr. Harbison is very much pleased with his new home in Linn county, but says he wishes there was a newspaper in his county which gave the local news like the Glacier.
W. S. Curran of Viento was in Hood River last Saturday. Mr. Curran said that he had entered the cabin of Mr. Neire and his partner, wood choppers for Mr. Curran, Thursday of last week, and helped themselves generously to a supply of bacon, sugar and other provisions. Before leaving the house the tramps filled the sugar bowl with salt. When the workmen returned at noon, they used the salt for sugar before they discovered the mistake, and about that time things around the place were sulphurous as well as salty. No lynching has been reported from down the river it is supposed the tramps made good their escape.
A. W. Carsten, bridge watch for the O. R. & N., was stationed below town Friday of last week, where the many is putting in a steel bridge at the crossing of Phelps creek, to flag all passing trains. When the noon passenger train came along, Mr. Carsten waved his signal flag, but the engineer paid no attention to it and was flying by, while two or three of the passengers, mistaking him for a hold-up man, fired several shots at him. Fortunately, as the train rounded the curve the engineer saw the workmen at the bridge and had time to stop the train before it might have been a serious accident.
Big potatoes continue to come to the Glacier office. Last week J. C. Abbott brought in a peak of large, smooth Irish potatoes, the largest one of which weighed four pounds. They were of an unknown variety, and were grown by an unknown party in the Crater precinct district. The largest of the potatoes were taken to Chicago by Mr. Westerlund, where they will be on display at the office of the Harriman immigration agent to show that Hood River can grow vegetables as well as fruit. Mr. Atwood gathered 300 sacks of potatoes from five acres.
Dressing rooms have been added at the rear of the opera house, which gives more room for the stage settings, and offers a stage space of 18x20 feet. Jimmie DeLano is now painting new scenery, and arranging the curtains, etc., to insure greater conveniences in producing plays. Hood River now has a well arranged theater and an effort should be made by the management of the opera house to induce some of the traveling shows of the better class to include Hood River in their circuit.
Street Commissioner A. H. Cunniff has a force of men laying culverts and cross walks in the business section of the city. These new drains for the surface were badly needed. The street commissioner is doing a good piece of work, and has the thanks of every citizen who has had occasion to be on the streets during the heavy rains. The sidewalks along River street are also a great improvement. Hood River will soon have all the conveniences of a modern city—provided that sewer system is put in before long.
Perhaps there are some Hood River people who are not aware that the town has a candy manufacturing establishment. Stuart's confectionery makes a first-class line of candies and enjoys a great trade. Oyster parlors are also run in connection with the candy store, where this great American dish is served in any desired style. Stuart has a display of beautiful sea shells from which to know to choose the animal belongs or anything about his manner of death.
Mr. and Mrs. James F. DeBord will leave next week for Southern California, where they will spend the winter. A stay of a week or more will be made in San Francisco, during the holidays, when they will return to Los Angeles. They expect to return to Hood River next May.
Among the Hood River people who attended the production of Ben Hur at the Marquam theater in Portland last week were Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Jackson and daughter Anna, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Yates.
Miss Emma Bretzell of Portland, after weeks' absence, returned to Hood River on Tuesday. She was accompanied by Miss Clara Blythe.

Manager Joseph A. Wilson of the Hood River Apple Growers' union, received a letter, Monday, from a New York banker, who inquires if he could get apple trees in Hood River for his fruit farm in Colorado. The man said he had seen some very fine Oregon apples on display on Broadway, and that he wanted nursery stock which would produce apples true to name.
The First Unitarian society of Hood River filed incorporation papers, with the county clerk last week. The incorporators are Mrs. W. M. Stewart, F. P. Friday and T. G. Cunniff. The contractors on the new church have promised to have the building in shape for services Christmas.
Monday was regular council meeting night, but a quorum failed to show up. Those present were Mayor Coon, Councilmen Mayes and H. F. Davidson; Recorder Nickelsen and Marshall Cunniff. There will very likely be a full attendance next meeting, December 21, when a city tax levy is to be made.
A. C. Snyder was in town Monday night for business in Stevenson. He was with his frant in the spring. S. A. Cox of Hood River, was here at the same time, and will make a bid on the new court house.—Stevenson Pioneer.
A practical hotel man from Hood River was in town this week looking up the field for business in Stevenson. If he should become interested, he will put up at least a $1,000 building.—Stevenson Pioneer.
When you buy it of Clarke, the jeweler, you can depend upon it being O. K.

Peter Jochimsen of the East Side is one of the most successful farmers in Hood River valley. He believes in diversified farming and never comes to town without bringing along something to sell. He keeps about 40 head of cattle and horses, feeds the hay and much of the grain he grows, and always has something to return to the soil in the shape of manure. His land is kept up by constant manuring, and his crops never fail. A commodious barn shelters his stock in winter, and he can market a fat beef any time of year. His 80 acres are kept in a high state of cultivation, and with good buildings, fences and other improvements, his place would sell any day for a handsome price.
J. S. Harbison, who is now located at Tangent, near Albany, Or., visited Hood River last week and returned home Friday. His mother accompanied him. Mr. Harbison has 206 acres in his farm at Tangent. He is making money growing wheat, oats and other grains. He expects next year to grow 100 acres of clover and alfalfa. Some of this land has been cultivated to wheat for 50 years and still grows good crops, but he makes this change to again enrich the soil. Mr. Harbison is very much pleased with his new home in Linn county, but says he wishes there was a newspaper in his county which gave the local news like the Glacier.

Miss Emma Bretzell of Portland, after weeks' absence, returned to Hood River on Tuesday. She was accompanied by Miss Clara Blythe.

J. M. Taylor, who has been at Chinook, Montana, for the past three months, returned Wednesday and will remain on his place on the East Side. Mr. Taylor says the thermometer got down to 30 degrees below zero about the middle of November. He struck Hood River while he was having a cold snap (3 degrees below freezing), and he thought he had got into a warm climate.
Riverside lodge, A. O. U. W., at a regular meeting Saturday night, elected the following officers: W. B. Shute, M. W.; C. L. Cople, foreman; Guy Masters, overseer; E. O. Haynes, recorder; E. H. Bradley, financier; Truman Butler, recorder; H. R. Enticott, guide; F. H. Blagg, inside watchman; E. L. Smith, outside watchman. E. L. Smith gave a fine talk and others made short addresses.
Another evidence of Hood River's growing population is the large amount of mail matter handled daily by the railroad carriers. Monday morning Harry Bailey started from the post office with nearly 900 pieces of mail. Kinsey on Route 2, carried about 700 pieces. Mr. Bailey said that last month he distributed over 12,000 pieces of mail on his route.
Comrade E. D. Calkins presented the Glacier with a generous supply of white alfalfa home made at the Idaho Industrial Institute apary. The honey is first class and the finest ever tasted. Mr. Calkins is full of praise for the Weiser country and has prepared a descriptive article of his trip, which will appear next week.
Geo. D. Culbertson & Co. sold last Monday 40 acres of the Edward Underwood land in Skamania county, Wash., near Underwood landing, to W. E. Cash of Boise, Idaho. Mr. Cash will arrive in a few days with his family, a carload of household goods, some stock and farm implements, and will begin clearing up his land very soon.
W. T. Hansberry is again in a critical state of health. He was feeling better and came down town one day last week. Since then he has been quite feeble. His trouble seems to be with his liver, and an operation may be necessary. His comrades of the G. A. R. are requested to call.
Lee Strong, formerly from Cook county, Or., is now located on the Tawney place. A couple of weeks ago he purchased 40 acres from B. R. Tucker, which he will clear and plant to apple trees. The Tucker place is well known for producing fancy apples.
Little Lawrence Hershner was taken to a Portland hospital last Thursday, where an operation was performed on his hip. The little fellow stood the operation very well, but the doctors are as yet undetermined as to the true nature of the disease from which he is suffering.
Some of the finest examples of apple packing ever shown, will be on exhibition and for sale at the Unitarian bazaar this week. As a gift to send away nothing could be more desirable. Look at them.
The ladies' aid of Belmont will hold a sale of quilts and aprons December 18 and 19, at Mr. Jackson's store. The ladies of Hood River are invited to come and see us. Mrs. F. G. Critch.
The ladies' aid society of the Congregational church will meet Friday afternoon of this week, with Mrs. G. E. Williams. A full attendance of members is desired.
W. S. Gribble has been appointed post master at Mount Hood, vice William Edick, resigned.
D. H. Sears, the Hood River apple packer, was registered at the Perkins, in Portland, Monday.
Hear Miss Carter at the Unitarian bazaar Friday evening. Admission 10c.
Watch for the fine display of holiday candies at Stuart's confectionery.

week by Deputy Sheriff Olinger and brought to Hood River, where they were turned over to authorities from Vancouver.
The boys of the K. of P. brass band are practicing nightly for a public concert, December 18.

Dog Poisoner Around.
Editor Glacier: On the night of December 2, two valuable dogs were poisoned on Paradise Farm. Both dogs were highly valued, one of which belongs to D. O. Etrian and one to Lenore Adams. I will give a reward of $20 for proof that will convict the criminal. W. L. ADAMS.

Saturday evening Dr. Dumble of Hood River, brought to the city, Corbett, the 7-year-old son of Edward Underwood of Underwood's landing. The little fellow had been sick for almost a week and when Dr. Dumble was called, Thursday, he pronounced his trouble appendicitis. Upon reaching here Corbett was taken to the Riley sanitarium, where Drs. Dumble and Geisendorfer operated that night. They found the case a very serious one, the appendix being very badly diseased and fears for his recovery are entertained, though today he seems to be doing exceptionally well.—Chronicle.
Geo. D. Culbertson & Co. sold last week for William A. Wendor, near Underwood, Wash., his 160 acre farm to John A. Keeley and Charles S. DuBois, recently of Wheeler county, Or. The purchasers have removed to their place and are preparing to begin some important improvements. It is Mr. Wendor's intention to remain in the White Salmon country and some of his friends are entertaining the quiet opinion that his bachelorhood days are soon to be terminated.
George D. Culbertson & Co. made sale, this week, of 40 acres of the Paul Aubert place, a few miles north of the Mount Hood post office, to Walter E. Struhal, a merchant of Portland. Mr. Struhal is one of the owners of the late W. W. Saxon place, and by his purchase of additional land in Hood River valley shows his confidence in our prosperous country. Next spring Mr. Struhal expects to begin the preparation of his land for planting in orchard.
The people of Nicolai have reorganized the Klose Thilikum debating society, and at the next meeting will argue that old question, "Which is Deserving of More Praise, Columbus or Washington?" The meetings are held in the Columbia school house. It is said that Professor H. C. Cromwell is a cracker-jack debater.
J. H. Miller has sold his ranch on the East Side and will leave about the first of January for California, where he will visit for a while with his son and daughter. If he finds nothing better than Hood River he says he will return and see what he can find in the White Salmon country.
S. F. Fouts was up from Portland Tuesday for the city election, Mr. Fouts is now a student in the law school of the University of Oregon, where he is kept busy attending lectures and absorbing pages of Blackstone.
J. F. Bacheider was up from Portland last week. Mr. Bacheider says the Country Club cottage has been closed for a couple of months, while repairs and additions are being made to the building.
Judge and Mrs. L. Henry will start next Tuesday for Southern California, where they will spend the winter, expecting to return in April.
Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Ladd and C. E. Warrens of Portland were guests at Ben Hur in Portland last week.
L. N. Brown and family left Wednesday morning for Los Angeles, Cal., where they will spend the winter.
See the prices in Temple's and Stewart's windows for the baby show Saturday at the Unitarian bazaar.
All children under 2 years of age may be entered at the baby show, Saturday afternoon, in the opera house.
Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Bartness attended Ben Hur in Portland last week.
O. D. Rao, the contractor and builder, was in Portland during the week.
Two boys, who had escaped from the mute school at Vancouver, were captured at the Davenport planer last week by Deputy Sheriff Olinger and brought to Hood River, where they were turned over to authorities from Vancouver.

The boys of the K. of P. brass band are practicing nightly for a public concert, December 18.
Ask to see my cut glass. Clarke, the jeweler.
