MANY FRUIT MEN ATTEND Whealdon gave the committee every attention possible, taking with him to hirs as ints desired, viz: The power of road districts to levy a special tax, and also to decide where such tax should be expended, January 25, 1903, the following letter was received from Mr. Whealdon:

lative session to note that the bill had passed both houses. The above is a statement of facts. Whether or not the Hood River committee had any influence one way or another in road legislation matters not. The power of road districts as incorporated in bill 280, to vote a special tax, was in force. And the Hood River committee did not forget this fact. As soon as the new road laws could be secured, which was in November, the committee quietly went to work to put road district No. 6 in working condition under said lawfirst, by securing the appointment of Hans Lage as road supervisor by the county court, and second, to call a meeting of the taxpayers to support a proposition to vote a tax not to exceed 10 mills on the dollar for improving the new grade. School district No. 7 had just voted a levy of 12 mills to pay ers to make hids, and he also showed ers to make hids, and he also showed off indebtedness and to continue the excellent work of the school. This made the question very doubtful of inducing the people of the road district to support a very high tax for road purposes.

Added to this high school levy was the thought constantly uppermost with the thought constantly uppermost with man Young, C. Dethman, M. L. Thorn, the people that they had virtually been D. H. Thorn and Hans Lage. swindled out of any real benefit from their heavy subscriptions toward improving the new grade this last sea-son. The advocates for the prop-osition held for a 10-mill levy for the reason that this amount of money was necessary in order to get contractors to bid on the work, for if only a small levy was made, then it would mean that the work would have to be done by the day, and time and money frittered away as was the case with the money raised by subscription only a short time ago. A strong sentiment immediately set in among the resident taxpayers for some tax, mostly for 5 mills., Be it said, to the credit of most of the residents of the district that they saw the necessity of improvement of the new grade and the manner of making said improvements, and they were open for understand the county court has promconviction, though it seemed in the seemed in the early canvass that a 5-mill tax levy is yet decided upon. was all that could be secured.

The committee soon found it necessary to make a personal canvass of every voter in the district to overcome the natural desire of every one to avoid high taxation and to remove as far as possible the apprehension on the part of the taxpayer that the levy would be squandered. The canvassers were partially successful, and as the days went by, could count more and more supporters, but never at any time a major kept up, the advocates for the 10-mill levy always believing that when the STORE NEWS.

Winchell, Hoode River, Or.—Dear Sir: I herewith forward your committee House bill 280. Think it covers the points your committee desire, 1f any the points your committee desire, 1et me know, 1 the points wanted, let me know.

The points wanted, let me know. For when at the close of the meeting he for when at the close of the minutes he was called upon to read the minutes he was called upon to read the minutes he was called upon to read the minutes he had every detail chronicled in concise, clear-cut language. Both these gentlemen must have been there before. All shades of politics were represented among the most active workers for the proposition: C. H. Sproat for the republicans, V. Winchell for the dem-ocrats, A. I. Mason for the populo-so-cialo, and our genial friend Hans Lage for the prohibitionists.

Peter Kopke was the only one who insisted on a 25-mill tax or nothing. Peter says, Give them something to work with, or wait till you can. C. H. Sproat made a clear analysis of the district assessment roll, showing the amount of resident and non-resident taxable property in the road district. A. I. Mason made a strong plea money enough for regular road build-ers to make bids, and he also showed how the law protects the people's money and guards every avenue of "frittering." Among the staunchest friends and workers from the outset for the proposition were William Kennedy,

The antis worked to have a secret ballot, not desiring to go on record. At this point, Captain F. M. Jackson said he had formerly thought a 5-mill tax sufficient but would now vote for a 10mill tax, and he declared, with fire in his eyes, he would not submit to being placed in a false position by the secret ballot. The captain was greeted with tremendous applause for his manly statement. As a smooth, winning canvasser, always pleasant yet full of strong points, V. Winchell has no superior in road
