Mr. A. I. Mason gave a very pleasant evening on Wednesday afternoon, in honor of his friend, Mrs. Elizabeth Fitch of Chehalis, Wash. A few friends were invited to leave all cares and bring their families. Mason says this is the first time he ever knew the ladies' definition of a husbandly man. In this case the husband was unanimously declared to be a "care." After the needle work was completed light refreshments were served. All had an enjoyable time.

Mrs. C. H. Sprout didn't know how to sew, and was always ready to lend her thumb and thread. However, she was a very apt pupil and the other ladies can now testify to her efficiency. Those present were: Mrs. Elizabeth Fitch, Mrs. C. H. Sprout, Mrs. U. A. Newman, Mrs. M. M. Hill, Mrs. John Gleason, Mrs. R. E. Harrison and Mrs. Henry Lage.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fitch of Chehalis, Wash., has been spending a few days in the East Side. Mrs. Fitch is the widow of Charles A. Fitch, who died about one year ago at Lakeview, Or. Mr. Fitch was well known in Oregon. He was the populist nominee in Multnomah county a few years ago for state senator. He was on the editorial staff of several Oregon papers and was one of the most impressive political orators in the state. Mr. Fitch was at one time an enthusiastic republican, but he went into the populist party on the money question.

William Westerlund of the William Westerlund Co., land and immigration agents, was in Hood River last week. He had just returned from Marion county, where he located two settlers from Nebraska on $17,000 farms. Mr. Westerlund says the inquiry about Oregon still continues in the East, and that there will be a large immigration of settlers this summer. He recently made 10 sales of tracts in the Fruitland district at White Salmon. The company is spreading Oregon literature broadcast throughout the Middle West, and is inducing many people to locate in Oregon.

The Portland Evening Journal is furnishing its readers with the Hearst news service direct from the seat of war in the Orient. The Journal will send millions of dollars in securing this war news, and the Portland Evening Journal shows admirable enterprise in presenting its readers with the very latest news simultaneous with the great New York papers. The Journal is rapidly becoming recognized as Portland's leading evening paper. Its circulation is now making magnificent strides toward a 20,000 daily circulation.

J. F. Batchelder was up from Portland, Saturday. Mr. Batchelder says the Country Club Inn will open some time in April, depending on the weather. Several cottages will be built this spring, so that during the summer, 30 or 40 people may be accommodated at this resort. Mr. Batchelder says Hood River is getting lots of free advertising from the water discussion. It is going to turn out just as he thought it should, with the farmers owning the ditch.

The deep snow, Monday morning, worked a hardship on the rural mail carriers. Fred Bailey, on Route 1, was forced to turn back at Tucker hill as the road was not broken. J. R. Kinsey, on Route 2, found the farmers out from heavy sleighs breaking the road all along his route. Mr. Kinsey, having no sleigh of his own, had to secure one from the heavy stable boys, losing his day's wages and two dollars besides.

Adolph Aschoff, chief ranger for the Cascade forest reserve, is temporarily in charge of Supervisor Isenberg's office. Mr. Isenberg informs the Glacier that he found Mr. Isenberg's work all finished on the heavy cable. The affairs of the office have not been delayed a single day, and with Mr. Isenberg's assistance, Mr. Aschoff is completing the range allotments for the Eastern Oregon cattle and sheep.

Let us Hoosier today the Hoosier social at K. of P. hall, Monday evening, February 22. We expect to have a big turnout in genuine Hoosier style. Any one who has ever made Indiana his home is entitled to admission. Come represent Lane county in the legislature the next two years, where he made a good record for his constituents.

A. O. U. W. Lodge and Degree of Honorary members went in sleighs, Tuesday night, to the home of Mrs. Parker. A splendid lunch was served by the hostess, and those who went report a royal good time.

Miss Clara Blythe was chosen delegate by the Congregational Christian Endeavor society to attend the Christian Endeavor state convention at Pendleton over next Sunday.

W. E. Sherrill writes to have the Glacier represent Lane county in the legislature the next two years, where he made a good record for his constituents.

Miss Stella Richardson, the efficient clerk in the post office, is sick with tonsillitis. J. R. Nickelsen, who is assistant postmaster, is doing Miss Richardson's work.

A Minneapolis paper contains an extended account of the wedding of Miss Eva Adelaide Sheets to Don S. Nelson. Mrs. Nelson is a sister of Will Sheets, salesman for R. R. Bragg & Co.

Mrs. O. B. Evinger has been very ill with pneumonia during the past two weeks, but was reported some better Wednesday, and the fever broken.

All those who expect to take part in the June election, must register with George T. Prather before May 15.

Miss Teal is visiting relatives and friends in Portland for a couple of weeks.

Mrs. Edward Blythe is visiting relatives in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Early Entertain. The handsome residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Early, on State street, was thrown open Saturday evening to a party of friends for an informal progressive party.

The game of "hearts" continued until 11 o'clock, when a delicious lunch was served by the hostess, the menu card carrying out the programme of hearts which prevailed during the evening.

The game was vigorously contested throughout the evening, and after 16 changes had been made, the hostess announced that that ended the game for the evening.

The scores were then surrendered to Captain J. P. Shaw and Mrs. F. S. Davidson, who counted the points each had made, and awarded the prizes. Mrs. H. L. Dumble, having made the greatest score of the ladies, was given a handsome case of stationery, while P. S. Davidson captured the gentlemen's prize of a box of choice cigars.

Following the announcement of luncheon, red and white hearts broken.

Rheumatism Cured by Pain Balm. The efficacy of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the relief of rheumatism is being demonstrated daily. Parker Triplett, of Grigsby, Va., says that Chamberlain's Pain Balm gave him permanent relief from rheumatism in the back when everything else failed, and he would not be without it. For sale by all druggists.

Box Social at Crapper School House. A box social will be given at the Crapper school house, Monday evening, February 22. A short programme will be given by the pupils. Proceeds to go for books for the library.

halves, were distributed to the guests; one half to a lady, the other half to a gentleman. The lady and gentleman holding the pieces that matched were partners, and when the gentleman found his "heart's desire," and the poor little heart that had been cruelly broken, once more united, with the proud assumption that henceforth these broken bits would be as one, he proudly escorted her to the banquet room.

Luncheon over, the ladies were left in a heated discussion as to what the probable shape and color of the coming spring hat would be, while the gentlemen accepted an invitation of their host to retire to the smoking room, where they were provided with the choicest Havanas as a solace to the strenuousness of the evening.

The decorations throughout the house were unique and elaborate, little red hearts confronting one everywhere. Who, with the brilliancy of electricity that flooded the rooms with incandescent light, and hearts everywhere, could not help feeling that some eccentric's wand had preceded him in creating this fairy-like scene spread out before him?

The fortunate ones receiving invitations were: Mr. and Mrs. R. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Rand, Mr. and Mrs. Carlita N. Vaughan, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Castner, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Clarke, Captain and Mrs. J. P. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. W. Chipping, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Bone, Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Bone, Dr. and Mrs. Dumble, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Cram, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Davidson, Harry DeWitt, Mrs. Ora McClintock.

A Merry Sleighing Party. One of the jolliest sleighing parties of the season left town last Thursday evening for the home of C. G. Roberts, who lives seven miles up the valley in the Odell district. The party left the city at 7 o'clock, snugly tucked in among the straw and numerous robes and blankets provided for the comfort of the jolly voyagers. The route was through the small hills of Bert Stranahan, than whom there are no better at the business in Hood River.

Under the stimulus of the blinking and nodding stars which shone out like diamonds in the sky, the party opened on over the glistening snow to the rhythmic and jingle of bells and joyous laughter and song of the gay voyagers. Arriving at their destination the party was welcomed by the host and hostess in a spacious drawing room where a blazing fire in the big fireplace awaited their coming. Songs and instrumental music were indulged in until a 12 o'clock supper was announced by their charming hostess. The menu consisted of delicious oyster stew and coffee, with a table loaded with delicate sweets and many kinds of fruits to tempt the appetite of an epicure meet the midnight diners as they marched into the dining room. All too soon came the time for the return, and bidding their host and hostess good night, the party began the homeward journey, and barring a few minor accidents, such as losing a king-pin and dumping a girl or two out in the snow, the party reached home safely amidst the welcoming notes of the crowing chickens.

At Mr. Roberts's, the party was joined by Mr. Morton, whose brilliant wit and conversational powers, together with his geniality, completely won the admiration of the ladies, who it will be observed, largely predominated. This was the first one on runners for one of the young ladies, who declared that there was but one other better than a sleigh ride and that was another.

Those composing the party were: Miss Minnie Schungel, Miss Cora Coppie, Miss Edith Coyle, Miss Edna Groves, Miss Louise Shaw, Miss Corinne Fowler, Mrs. Margaret Ried, Mrs. H. L. Dumble, Mrs. J. P. Shaw, Messrs. Glen

Fabric, Fred Clarke, Lou Henderson, J. P. Shaw, Bert Stranahan and Master Charles Roberts.

ROBBERY CRAM'S STORE

Cram's dry goods store was burglarized 2 o'clock this morning by two men. The girl in the telephone office next door heard the racket. She telephoned to E. S. Olinger, deputy sheriff, who arrived with William Shipman, James Stranahan, Mr. Vogt and another man in time to catch the robbers as they were leaving the store. Miss Nellie Lucas gave the alarm.

Social Event on Nob Hill.

Last Friday evening one of the most enjoyable times of the season occurred at Carmichael's hall. It was a leap year party given by the Nob Hill 410, and the girls were given a chance to ask the gentlemen. About 24 couples were present to trip the light fantastic. At 12 o'clock dainty refreshments were served by the ladies, and after a few more dances the party adjourned at 1 p. m. A. J. Carmichael for his hospitable terms for the hall. A movement is on foot to organize a club to consist of several young people, who will issue invitations about twice a month for the members to meet and have a pleasant evening. The chaperons of the party were Madame Abbott, Mrs. Shoemaker, Mrs. Blount and Mrs. Roberts. Those invited were Mr. and Mrs. Mott, Dr. Rowley, George Stranahan, James Stranahan, Shugler brothers, Earl and Chit Roberts, Lee Carmichael, J. L. Blount and son, Mrs. Shoemaker and son Howard, Mr. Beebe, O. A. Oldenburger, Mr. Larwood, Lou Baldwin, Emerson Filsinger, Clint Dicken, Will Ruffner, Phil Bird, Will Morgan, H. M. Abbott, Frank Page, Lou Boyd, Mrs. Abbott, Carrie Abbott, Nettie and Mignon Abbott, Misses Ethel and Lizzie Roberts, Eva Stranahan, Nettie and Cora Pugh, Eva Rod, Roie Blagg, Mrs. Harrell, Mrs. Shoemaker, Greyloose Dicken, Virginia Crowe, Hattie Hansberry, Clara Ruffner, Maude and Ida Stranahan, Mrs. L. C. Baldwin.
