WHITE SALMON NOTES.

A word to the newcomer to this land of promise about our valley of sunshine, fruit and flowers I hope will be admissible in your and our home paper.

Now, friend and stranger, when you have been wined and dined and whirled through the lower and upper valleys of Hood River and shown orchards and apples and berry patches and clover fields, and last but not least, the irrigation ditch, and yet long for something you hardly know what, but yet you want to see something more, just inquire of the editor of the Glacier how to get over the river to that place with the fishy name, where the sun seems to shine all the time on that rock you want. When you land on the beach, just ask the ferryman where S. C. Ziegler, D. B. Moore, F. Egan, C. D. Moore or Judge Byrket live, and before climbing the bluff, just call upon these gentlemen and see where the $5 and $6 a crate strawberries are grown. Just get any of these gentlemen in the confidential mood by telling him you are from Missouri, Ohio, New York or most any place back East, and if it is anywhere near meal time, he will fill you up on canned goods, good cream and strawberries, tomato and Jersey dairy products. You will not doubt consider from his fluency and carelessness in handling letters per half acres net, with no work attached, that his equal in preparing the truth is hard to find. To test him, just make a bluff by offering him $500 to $1,000 an acre for his 5 or 10 acres, and then be quick to catch the look of contempt and the stretch of neck as he sizes you up from the top of the bluff.

Pass along the line and see them all, and as you leave the judge to wend your way from Ringen to White Salmon on the hill, you will probably be deep in the meshes of figures "per box, per crate, per acre," but you won't notice the beautiful drive you are ascending until you confront, all at once, what you mistake in your first hasty inspection as Rockefeller's home on the Hudson, but it is the home of one of our oldest settlers, J. C. Jewett. Don't pass it by. Go in. Just ask them for anything they have, and it is yours. Roam over the lawns and "comps." See all the beautiful shrubs and trees, and the neat little time berries that are grown without irrigation. Ask him all about White Salmon and the country about us away back to Trout Lake and Canas Prairie. He will give you lots of information. If he can't, his good wife, Mrs. Jennie Jewett, will. Never fear but what you will be entertained.

As you pass up Jewett avenue, note the fine vineyard on your left. See our little church and parsonage. And in this little church you will find that you on Sundays you can hear something drop. It will sink into you so deep it will ring in your ears so loudly for days that you will wonder where so much music comes from. No, he did not come from the East just now; he is one of the Pacific coast make, which the rains and dews have kept clean.

Next comes C. F. Waldo's place. He is setting it out in cherries. He is a newcomer among us, but he has wound up on cherries, and if you desire to return to Hood River or your old home again, you had better make some excuse to pass by, for he knows what is taking about. Mrs. Jennie Jewett, in comparison a strawberry ranch will seem to you a poor investment.

Now you are in the business section. Look it over. Talk with the gentlemen. See Mr. W. R. Hoole, the manager and wonder again. Pass up the avenue. Call upon the Mains, the Thomases. Call upon S. W. Condon and see his 8 acres of 2-year-old vines. He is a lawyer in profession, but don't think anything of that; won't you pay for a fee at the moment. He will just tell you what he has done since he came here and how the law business isn't in it in comparison to his berry patch. He will tell you a couple of registered Jerseys, mother and daughter, and if he has time to lay out the cream and berry vision in which he lives in season, you will feel like spending your last dollar there and then for a 10-acre patch near by.

And now, my friend, take a trip to the timber, to the land of stock and clover. Go up to Mr. Woods. Go anywhere around among us. See our apples, our trees, our vegetables, our possibilities; our capabilities; with your help, compare them with everywhere, anywhere. And don't forget to get prices on lands in this Sunshine Valley. Why, just assure us you do this, and at once see there are places in Oregon where they charge you more for climate alone. Come and see us before you go home; we know if you do you will come back to stay, sure.

Letters of inquiry in regard to the White Salmon country addressed to either of the names mentioned in this article will receive prompt attention.

In the Odell District.

Winter is still here. Several from this neighborhood are suffering with colds.

Will Kemp is working near Wasco.

Dan Smith began work on Mr. Wilson's house last Monday.

Mr. Poole of The Dalles visited at Mrs. Booth's over Sunday.

C. M. Boney shipped his apples this week. C. G. Roberts also shipped the balance of his apples.

Mrs. Townsend, who has been visiting relatives here for the past two weeks, has returned to her home in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Cash Johnson, from Edgington, Ill., who have been visiting at Dan Smith's for the past few months, started on their return trip last Saturday. Since leaving home, last April, they have traveled through Colorado, Utah, Nevada and California, stopping at all places of interest. Before returning home they will visit the St. Louis fair and all the principal places in the Southern states. This is their second visit to Hood River, and they are so pleased with this valley they will undoubtedly make it their future home.

Frankton News Notes.

By the School Children.

M. R. Noble, who has been quite sick for the past nine weeks, is able to be out doors. We are all glad to see him about once more.

The Frankton school will close the present term, April 15. This brings the 5th grade examinations two weeks after school closes.

Professor C. H. Cromwell visited his home on the Washington side last Saturday and Sunday.

Hubert Garrabrant and wife of Hood River visited his father, Dan Garrabrant Sunday.

Marsh Isenberg is sick with pneumonia.

Rev. W. L. Dillinger, pastor of the Belmont M. E. church, began meetings at Pine Grove, last Sunday.

The Epworth league of Belmont held a business meeting Friday evening at the home of E. F. Barrett. Although it was a stormy evening, a goodly number turned out. After the business meeting there was a short program. Charley Miller refused to give a five minutes' talk on bathing. "I wonder why?"

Don Ellis quit school Friday to help work on the farm.

Mrs. P. F. Barrett went to Portland Friday of last week with her little daughter Helen, where she will remain a week or ten days to see the effects of the new treatment on the little one.

Fred Blaylock quit school Friday to help his father on the farm. The hired man quitting them, Fred has to take his place.

Mrs. T. G. Frohn of Belmont went to The Dalles Sunday, to visit friends and relatives.

Mrs. J. R. Weid and Frieda Johnson, accompanied by Mrs. Engstrom of Portland, are visiting relatives in Belmont. Lena Isenberg, who has been having small pox, is able to be out.

Arthur Arnold was unable to come to school Monday, because he had a quarrel with a quarrel, and Arthur is laid up with a sore toe.

Barrett District.

Water is again than absorbing them in this district, and the people are determined to take some steps that will once and for all settle the question in this community. At an adjourned meeting held in the school house last Thursday evening, steps were taken to investigate the feasibility and possibility of organizing under the laws of the state an irrigating district. W. R. Hoole was added to the committee, to act during the illness of G. R. Casner, and he was instructed by the committee, to carefully examine the law in the matter, and ascertain what can be done to obtain water under that system and to report at a meeting to be called by the committee. Mr. Hoole, through the courtesy of John Leland Henderson, who placed his library at Hoole's service, has examined the law and is ready to report. He has some interesting information to present and expects that every one interested in securing permanent water should come out to the meeting; that with the active cooperation of the people, this troublesome question can be solved. He advises that not only the citizens of the Barrett district attend this meeting, but that all, East Side, West Side, and Hood River people turn out and come to a mutual agreement and then proceed to the establishment of a system big enough to reach and reach and reach plenty of water to every section of the valley. Turn out everybody, and give the benefit of your counsel.

Water Meeting—At a water meeting to be held at the Barrett school house on Friday night, March 19, 1904, the question of organizing an irrigating district under the laws of the state of Oregon, will be presented and the law explained whereby water can be obtained for this valley in unlimited quantities without ever having to mortgage your farms. Come out, everybody.

D. V. Reavis of Wallawa county, Or., is visiting his son, T. A. Reavis of this district. Mr. Reavis is quite an aged man, but enjoys life as much as when he was young. He is extremely pleased with the valley and thinks the possibilities for a young man to succeed here surpass any country he has any knowledge of.

If you want to live in this valley attend the water meeting at the Barrett school house on Friday night, March 19. Don't forget the date.

Thomas Bishop, jr., is still on the sick list. The change from roses to snow balls was too radical. Brace up, Tom, spring is here.

The Booth store in Hood River, believing in the eternal fitness of things, has promptly taken up the motto of the extensive stock of goods into the care and custody of the ladies' aid of the Valley Christian church for one day, Thursday, March 24, 1904, giving to them in aid of their church or other benevolent purposes, the proceeds of the sale of any and all goods in the store on that day, the aid society to furnish the manager and the clerks. The ladies with all due appreciation of this generous offer have accepted the same and desire to notify all the friends of the Valley Christian church and the generous people of Hood River that on Thursday, March 24, 1904, they will be at Home at the Booth, and would be pleased to have everybody call and examine the goods they will have for sale. It will be a pleasure to the clerks; and by the way, are six of the most beautiful ladies of the beauty-famed district of Barrett, to display any of the goods in their department. So come one, come all; bring your mothers, fathers, sisters, brothers, wives, husbands, lovers, and even the dear mothers-in-law, and if grandmother cannot get out buy her a retainer of the day, and take it home to her. The object is good, help it along.

H. D. Stover has purchased a horse and wagon from Charles C. Copple, and now there is joy in Stewardland. No more tramping through mud and rain to attend church and Sunday school.

No more staying at home because of wet weather. No more colds because of wet feet, and what fun for the kids to feed, water, curry, and braid the flowing tail of the charger, and what blissfulness can be obtained from a horse and cart of your own on a Friday night, and Hoosier socials, etc., etc., to say nothing of H. D. finding solace in being able to get to business on time when the season is not right for biking.

Oh how happy is the heart of a pleasurable association.

Now to your friends you can say, "To hitch up the pony and come down."

Lost, strayed or stolen, probably the latter, on last Saturday, between the school house and the G. A. R. hall, one pony 14 months of age, of a sorrel complexion, greenish eyes, a woe-begone expression, dressed in a pair of red-topped boots and a G. A. R. school, answers to the name of S. A. S. If the young lady who was seen in conversation with him will return him to his guardian the matter will be dropped.

Ike Nealeigh was in Hood River Saturday inspecting the new irrigation system he is about to put in operation on his farm.

S. A. Skinner had an offer on the property he bought of Ike Nealeigh, but did not accept.

At the Booth on Thursday, March 24.

will be found a goodly supply of pies, cakes and other delicacies for sale by the ladies' aid. Reserve your appetite until then, and on that day lay in sufficient for a month.

Save your farms by attending the water meeting next Friday night at the Barrett school house.

Rev. A. A. Beery was handed a telephone message just as he commenced his sermon Sunday night informing him of the serious illness of some of his family. He left for The Dalles on Sunday's night train. The sympathy of his congregation is extended to him and all trust that he may soon return with the glad tidings—all is well.

The Potter place is making a fine showing in the way of clearing, and the same was said of numerous others in this district.

We understand that G. R. Casner, who met with quite a painful accident, is getting along as well as could be expected, and will soon be at work again. Do not forget, good people of Barrett, that news of your section attracts attention, especially of new comers. So do not leave all to the imagination of your correspondent, but send us all the news in your neighborhood, and let us new in making Barrett the banner district. You who are wanting to sell out can find no better way of drawing attention to your homes. It will even beat Barnes. So give us your items.

We are in receipt of a communication that we are compelled to decline owing to its personality. We cannot ask the editor to take up any neighborhood quarrels. All the people of Barrett will enjoy and will take a job if given as such, but nothing will tend to discourage settlement of newcomers in your neighborhood so much as to find a quarrel going on among you. "Let us have peace." Arbitrate your differences before you adopt bitterness, and remain friends, and you will find much greater happiness in so doing. Barrett's motto is "Peace, happiness and prosperity."

Mount Hood Notes.

Still it snows and rains.

The political bee is beginning to buzz a little. The Williamson bee is buzzing very low. He says the Moody bee is dead.

H. E. Davenport is looking for men to go to work on the mill. He wants to have it ready to run within the next 10 days if the weather permits.

The Dukes valley home talent gave an entertainment Friday night, and a dance afterward. The boys say it was all O. K., especially the two or three who were put to sleep.

W. M. Andrews is busy putting in logs at the dam and will have two teams at work in a few days.

There was a rise in the river last Monday and the logs went out in good shape. The Mount Hood Lumber Co. are starting up their lumber camps again.

Paul Aubert has moved up to town on his place he bought of John Vauthiers. Paul says he intends to sell his horse place as soon as he can and only have one ranch to look after.

Dukes Valley Items.

Dukes valley has not appeared in the Glacier for some weeks. This is probably due to bad weather, as the R. F. D. carrier cut us off since the snow until last week, and we appreciate our mail now. We did not know how nice it was to have the mail come to our door until we were cut out of the line.

The snow has not entirely gone, but if the warm weather continues it will not last long.

There is talk once more of a saw mill in our valley to be located on W. G. Dodson's place. This would be a good thing for our valley.

J. F. Dodson and Milton Bingerman have gone to the logging camp.

Ruby Chandler was in our valley during the week visiting friends.

Last Sunday was the regular appointment for David Morri to speak to us at our school house, but from some unknown cause he did not show up. There is a certain class of Christians who are afraid of water, but we hope Mr. Morris is not one of them.

Last Sunday at our Sunday school we had Mr. Sanders of Odell with us, and after Sunday school he organized a Christian Endeavor, which is to meet at the school house at 7 o'clock each Sunday with Mr. Sanders as president.

We understand that the young people of J. F. Dodson have purchased an organ. This is the fourth organ to be hauled into our valley this winter. Who said Duke's valley was not coming to the front?

Odell Notes.

Dr. M. A. Jones and family spent Tuesday at the Little White Store, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Shiller. They will probably spend the summer at Hood River.

The roads will be worked today by the crowds going to, and from the primaries. The politicians will probably work their friends. This will prove an active day in Portland, the result of the factional fight there. The republicans outside of Multnomah county should administer a severe rebuke as well as some sort of punishment for this senseless fight which means simply the crowing of personal ambition and furnishes occupation for the political grafter. Such selfish work in the republican party is proving a serious detriment to the party.

Apple hauling is now on again, and the apples are bringing a good price.

"The way back literature of East Hood River," spoken of by the Barrett correspondent, seems to have borne no fruit in the way of road work. But the fact remains that the road question is proving a serious problem and one that must be considered if land owners expect to sell. Recently quite a party were driven over the roads in district 7, all newcomers, and they were loud in condemnation of our almost impassable roads. Investors reserve the right to choose their own locations, and good roads will go a long way toward solving this problem. The writer also claims the privilege of advocating good roads, and intends to keep hammering

The Little White Store now owns one of the best freight teams on the road, having traded their pair of English shire mares to James Eggert for his large team of geldings. A number at Odell recently referred to the horse trader as a man almost beyond reform, yet there are times when even in horse trading that both parties can be benefited and be respected. It is so in this case. The Little White Store has now a splendid pair of freighters and Mr. Eggert one of the best ranch teams in the valley as well as good roadsters.

SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.

The Odell school will give an entertainment at the Union church, Saturday evening, March 19, for the benefit of the school library fund. Extensive preparations are being made, and the entertainment promises to be no ordinary affair. The exercises will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Be sure and come, and bring the folks to enjoy the treat. Give the school a rousing benefit. Admission 15c. Following is the programme:

- Song—Fairy Moonlight
- Recitation—Marie Lockman
- Recitation—Naomi Boyd
- Singer—Singer
- Recitation—Alice Sanders
- Recitation—John Shiller
- Song—Golden Days
- Recitation—Bernard Callison
- Recitation—Austin Lockman
- Recitation—Nine girls
- Recitation—Leona Carnes

Notes From Underwood.

It snowed some today (Monday), but melted almost as soon as it came down.

Bert Veatch returned home last Saturday, after looking around the lower valley for a location. We understand his trip was not satisfactory.

A. J. Haynes is busy improving his house on his ranch, also making outdoor improvements.

J. M. Springs of Clatsop was seen in our neighborhood today.

Frank Larsen returned from Portland last week.

Mrs. A. J. Haynes' brother of Strawberry Flat is visiting here for a few days.

A few of the Underwood young people attended a dance at the Falls last Saturday evening.

Little Eva Thornton, daughter of M. E. Thornton of Thorntonville, met with quite a serious accident one day last week. While she and her brother Hugh were staking out a garden, the little girl held the stake, while her brother was going to split it with the ax. In doing so she dropped the stake, and as is supposed, reached over to pick it up just as the ax came down, cutting a deep gash in her hand. Dr. Dumble was called and sewed up the wound. At last report she was getting along nicely.

Mr. E. Thornton has been quite ill but is improving lately.

Spring flowers are beginning to appear. Some of the pupils brought in quite a bouquet last Thursday, March 10.
