The Oregon Fire Relief Association has now in force $16,000,000 of insurance in 30,000 separate risks. This is several millions more than is carried in the state by the largest of 55 old line companies operating here, and that, notwithstanding the fact that the association takes no business risks. The average cost per annum of insurance in this association, during the nearly ten years of its existence, has been less than half the cost in standard companies, and always on the easiest possible method of payment. It has thus saved to its members, during the 12 months of 1903 alone, the enormous sum of $118,030.50, while during the same time it paid 180 losses and had cash left in its treasury nearly sufficient to pay 180 more. Harold Hershner has been assigned a clerical position in the banking house of Butler & Co.

The ladies' aid society of the Congregational church voted, at its last meeting, to serve meals on the church lawn during the state encampment of the G. A. R.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Copple went to Portland, Friday afternoon, to attend the funeral of Mrs. Copple's sister, Mrs. Calvin Young of Eugene, who died in Portland after weeks of suffering from cancer of the bowels.

D. A. Sturgess of Mosier was in Hood River, Tuesday. Mr. Sturgess has a good piece of fruit land for sale. Any one looking for a buy would do well to see him. Mr. Sturgess says he heard the Glacier man was in Mosier last week, looking for property, so dropped in to see him.

Ed Miller is now employed as the inspector for the Denver & Rio Grande railroad company. His business is to look after the ties at the Mount Hood Lumber Co.'s big mill in Hood River, the Oregon Lumber Co.'s mill at Viento and the mill at Ingles, Or. He expects to be steadily employed all summer at this work. Saturday he went to Mount Hood to spend Sunday with his family.

J. O. Haynes, day operator for the O. R. & N. at Hood River left during the week for Fairfield, Wash., where he has been promoted to station agent. His place here will be taken by W. W. Pickett, formerly night operator. Mr. Haynes says he regrets to leave Hood River. The Glacier regrets just as much to see such a good station man go, but wishes him all kinds of good luck in his new position.

A special meeting of the Eastern Star was held on Monday evening with a large attendance. The following officers of the grand chapter of Oregon were present: Mrs. Claude Gatch of Salem, grand worthy matron; Jay P. Lucas of The Dalles, grand worthy associate patron; Mrs. Phoebe Morse of Hood River, grand worthy warder. Interesting addresses were made by each of the grand officers. Mrs. Gatch inspected the work of the chapter and pronounced it excellent. Two candidates were admitted by initiation. The ladies of the chapter served a delicious luncheon.

The Oregon educational exhibit will reach St. Louis today in charge of Commissioner H. S. Lyman, who left Portland Saturday, thither bound. The exhibit consists of 300 volumes of manuscript, 2,000 drawings, 200 maps and hundreds of special features, among which are specimens of needlework, polished work, outline and skeleton charts of Oregon's topography, and geography. Professor Lyman expects to take several first premiums, as the different grades of public school work in the exhibit are especially well executed.—Chronicle.

Contractor B. F. Belieu says house-builders in Portland are saved the tedious work of figuring out a bill of lumber for a building. In that city the contractors simply hand the plans and specifications into the office of a lumber dealer and in a few hours they are returned with the figuring completed and prices given for all lumber, etc., just as needed. In Portland the mill men are glad to do this work in order to get a chance to bid on the lumber, while in Hood River the lumber dealers haven't worked down to so fine a point, just yet.

Clarence Shaw has returned from Hoosierland, where he spent the winter, and says he has had enough of the country "back yander." The mercury wobbled around two to four points for the comfort of Clarence's anatomy after a residence of a year or two in our semi-tropical climate, and says Hood River is good enough for him. He is looking for a job, and as he is a sober, industrious, reliable lad it will not be long until he finds it.

Dr. M. A. Jones, dentist, is now prepared to serve the people of Hood River in a professional line, having opened an office in the Langille building, where he will be ready for business Friday, April 8. Dr. Jones, after visiting several other sections of Oregon, concluded that Hood River offered better prospects than any other part of the state.

The democratic primaries for South Hood River precinct will be held at the Barrett school house at 2 o'clock Saturday. The Glacier is informed that voters from the state of Washington will be met at the boat landing by Lou Morse who will conduct them to the office of Copple & Hooe where Charlie will give them the high sign.

A. S. Disbrow, in renewing his subscription to the Glacier, wrote from University Park that he will move with his family to his new home at Nashville, Lincoln county, Or., this week. The many friends of the family in Hood River wish them abundant success in their new location.

St. Mark's guild will give a high tea and sale, April 9, in Artisan hall. Supper will be served from 5 until 7 o'clock, and many useful and beautiful articles will be for sale. Price for supper 25c.

The women's alliance of the Unitarian church will hold a special meeting Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the church at the corner of State and Park avenue, when Miss Lowe, president of the national organization of women's alliances, will address the women and friends of the local alliance. The meeting will be informal in character, and a special invitation is extended to all members and friends of the alliance to be present.

Mrs. Minnie G. Himes, state organizer of the C. W. B. M., will speak at the Valley Christian Church this, Thursday evening, at 7:30. Mrs. Himes is a charming speaker, and will say many things to our profit. Everybody is invited to hear her.

Mrs. Louise Goddard, who has been teaching during the winter at the Western Academy of music and oratory, Portland, has returned to Hood River and will spend the summer at her home in Crapper district.

Patronize the Episcopal high tea in Artisan hall, Saturday evening. You are assured of a splendid meal for 25c.

The entertainment at the Crapper school house last Friday night was a brilliant success in every sense of the word. There was no admittance charged but the audience, which packed the house as tightly as a sardine box, chipped in so liberally when they passed the hat that the committee was able to defray all expenses. The surplus was voted to the fiddler to buy rosin to grease his bow with. The supper was fine and plenty of it, and General Manager Jordan and his assistants take this method of thanking all the good ladies of Crapper for their generous donations in the culinary line. The Thespian societies achieved the brightest laurels from the smallest little tot to that staid couple of Gutterburg and Faust, C. A. Hickie, who is said to have especially covered himself with histrionic glory and red Irish whiskers in his realistic portrayal of the man who looks upon the world when it is well. It is a fine thing for friends and neighbors to get together for a good social time, and is as effective in keeping the old gray moss from gaining a foothold on our verities as Bordeaux mixture is in protecting our fruit trees from fungi. There are a few things "great" besides Barrett, and Crapper is one of them. May their tribe increase.

The citizen's meeting, last Saturday evening, to take steps toward preparing for the G. A. R. encampment, was not so large as might have been expected, but Saturday evening, when business houses are still open and the populace is attracted in many other ways, is not a good time to call a meeting of this kind. However, many sent regrets and promised substantial aid when the proper time comes. The Hood River band kindly volunteered their services and rendered patriotic exercises. Mayor Blowers presided at the meeting, and Captain J. P. Shaw acted as secretary. Addresses were made during the evening by Mayor Blowers, Leslie Butler, R. R. Irwin and Captain Shaw. On motion of Captain Shaw, the chair appointed the following named gentlemen as a committee from the citizens to act with the general committee from Canby post: Hon. E. L. Smith, Leslie Butler, Major J. S. Booth, Captain W. G. Irwin, W. J. Baker. A meeting of the general committee, Captain Shaw, chairman, is called for next Saturday, April 9, at 3 p. m. in G. A. R. hall.

C. H. Stranahan is now the owner of the quarter block, 100x100 feet, on which is located the Fashion stable. Mr. Stranahan having paid to Mr. Gilbert for this property $4,000 cash. Last month there was a slight change in the personnel of the proprietors of the stable, J. T. Bagley, withering, and Chas. Rathbun, taking his place. The proprietors are now Bert and George Stranahan and Mr. Rathbun. An addition 18 feet wide, and running full length is being added to the stable. Mr. Bagley is kept busy with the horse business, and his large jobbing trade in flour, feed and grain. Stranahan & Bagley do a big business, and it is astonishing what a large amount of flour and feed goes through their warehouse each week. Mr. Stranahan says it averages almost a carload a day. This firm began business one year ago April 1, and are well satisfied with their trade.

J. W. Kirkwood, who did top-grafting for many orchardists in Hood River last year, comes back to us again this spring ready for work. He is gratified to learn that his work was satisfactory, in fact every graft is living today and there is no fault to find, whatever with the grafting. Kirkwood stands at the head of the list as a professional in his line. He is an experienced fruit culturist, having made it a life study. For five years he was foreman of the lowest experiment station at Iowa City, and spent 13 months in Europe studying the work of caring for fruit. Mr. Kirkwood says Hood River is the best fruit country he ever saw. In the exhibit at the state fair, he saw that the apple-growing industry here is yet in its infancy, and that we have but a faint idea of our resources in this line.

The Glacier is under obligations this week to F. H. Sparks, of Barrett, for calling the paper out as a bad hole and stating off a severe cold snap in this office. With the senior editor laid up with the grip and the devil off duty with a pain in his belly, the mercury took a sudden drop in the print shop until W. R. Hoole brought in his brother-in-law, Mr. Sparks, Wednesday morning, and turned him loose at a case. The news reports are of a necessity curtailed and the correspondence is omitted, but great is Barrett. The Glacier gets stuck and she sends a man to the rescue.

The mask ball given by the order of Washington last Friday night was well attended, and some very good costumes were displayed. Miss Ignace Abbott dressed as Columbia, and Robert Garbrantas Uncle Sam, took first prize for the best waltzers, while George Boorman got the prize for the best sustained character. The devil Sam, dressed as a mischievous maker entered the small hall where the refreshments set on a table and took part of the cakes. This is the second such occurrence of late and it is well that the offending person once they are caught.

B. F. Belieu came up from Portland, Friday, to look after material for the $2,000 country cottage Mrs. F. Eggert is erecting on the property recently bought of Pierce Cox, at Odell. Mr. Belieu is displaying a white cross dressed as a fish hook, 2,700 of them, three miles of line and bamboo poles 24 feet long at McDonald & Henrich's.

For hoes, rakes, shovels and Planet Junior goods. Cheapest place in town is McDonald & Henrich's.

Meets Death in Flames.

A very sad and heart-rending accident, which resulted fatally to Mrs. Grace Lane Day, wife of Leonard Day, occurred at Menominee, four miles west of Hood River, on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Day was in Hood River on Tuesday morning and gave the following account of the sad affair. His wife was engaged in doing some necessary housework when she had occasion to go to a closet for some article. Taking a lighted lamp, she accidentally let it fall, the oil lighting. In her efforts to extinguish the flames her clothing caught fire, burning her body almost to a crisp. It was thought that she inhaled some of the flames, inflicting serious internal injuries. She lived three hours after the accident, death coming as a sweet relief from her terrible sufferings at 6 o'clock.

Drs. Brosius and Watt were summoned to the scene as quickly as possible, but could do nothing for the unfortunate woman. Her screams attracted some neighbor women and mill men, who extinguished the flames and saved the house from burning. Taking a lighted lamp, she accidentally let it fall, the oil lighting. In her efforts to extinguish the flames her clothing caught fire, burning her body almost to a crisp. It was thought that she inhaled some of the flames, inflicting serious internal injuries. She lived three hours after the accident, death coming as a sweet relief from her terrible sufferings at 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Day was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Lane, of Hood River. She was born in the state of Wisconsin. With her husband she came to Hood River about five years ago, and they have been estimable residents here ever since. She was 27 years old, and leaves one child, a little boy about 6 years old.

John Cradlebaugh Leaves Salem.

Salem Journal.

John Henry Cradlebaugh, a paragrapher, verse blacksmith, telegraph editor, headline artist, proofreader and general ejector of disorderly callers, has gone to take charge of some mine development work in Southern Oregon. The force in the Journal composing room presented him with a handsome gold-mounted briar-wood pipe, the office girls looked blue, and some day will see the genial gentleman back at his desk on this little paper.

His Salem friends wish him great success and he will always be remembered for his many genial qualities, and for having proved himself the best all-round newspaper man ever employed on this paper. His last joke was found on the office pasteboard: "An Revor, old friend; you are not overly handsome or as sweet as the honey of Hyreanum, but you have 'stuck up' for me at all times."

G. H. Hanson of Denver is in the valley looking for a location. Mr. Hanson is a machine operator on the Denver Post, and like most printers when they want to quit the trade go to the country. He has operated the linotype ever since the machine went on the market 15 years ago.

C. D. Moore of the Leader ranch at White Salmon was in town Tuesday. A little like a defeat in politics does it rattle Moore, and he still wears his usual smile. Mr. Moore says his side gave up the fight before the primary and went in and supported the ticket of their opponents. Moore usually comes in with ripe strawberries about this time, but he says they won't be ripe at White Salmon until June.

besides her husband, parents, two sisters, and one brother to mourn her sad and untimely end. Deceased was a member of the Royal Neighbors of America—the ladies' auxiliary of Modern Woodmen—and her life was insured for $100.

Funeral services were conducted at the Congregational Church, Wednesday, at 2 o'clock, in the presence of a large and sorrowing concourse of people. Rev. J. L. Hershner presided at the funeral service. Burial was in Idlewild cemetery.

Mrs. Day was a woman of many virtues of character, and had a large circle of friends and acquaintances, who deeply sympathize with her sorrowing husband and parents in this their painfully sudden and severe trial.

Easter Sunday in Hood River.

The weather man dealt kindly with Hood River last Sunday and with glad acclaim turned loose a flood of sunshine upon the good women of the town and their Easter hats. The churches in the town and valley all held special services that were attended by large crowds of people.

The Unitarian society was made happy by a contribution which liquidated the church debt of $135. There was a splendid program at the morning service. Dr. T. L. Eliot assisted his son, Rev. W. G. Eliot, Jr., in the services. The floral decorations combined with new walls and a new carpet to make a very pretty effect. Mr. Eliot delivered what is considered by many to have been the best sermon ever heard in Hood River. Six persons signed the membership roll, and the beautiful ceremony of baptism was conferred upon four infants: Carol Mack Huxley, Louis McGuire, Paul Douglas Friday, Robert Jakway Blythe.

Exercises appropriate to Easter day were given last Sunday at the U. B. church. The good day began with 126 in the Sunday school, followed by a very interesting program by the junior and intermediate departments under the direction of Earl Barmess, superintendent. The household of people were delighted with the songs and sayings of the boys and girls. In the evening the young people gave "The Easter Cross." Especially touching was the part near the close, when the crucifixion was represented by Miss Grace Soule, clad in a white cross dressed as black, while the strains of "In my hand no price I bring, simply to thy cross I cling," pealed out tenderly and eloquently through the partially darkened room. Then came the triumphant song of the resurrection, sung as only young people full of life can sing. Mrs. A. R. Kinsey's solo was especially entertaining. S. E. Barmess was musical director. It is thought that over 500 people worshipped at the different services during the day.

The pastor, Rev. J. L. Hershner, and Rev. H. N. Smith conducted Easter services with this church, in the M. E. chapel at Pine Grove, on Sunday afternoon. A congregation that filled the chapel was present. The choir, under the charge of Miss Mara Smith, rendered beautiful Easter music. A liberal Easter offering was taken. At the close of the service a business meeting was held, and May 4 was chosen as the day for the convening of the Council of Recognition. The following churches will be represented by pastor and delegate:—First Congregational Church, Portland; First Congregational Church, The Dalles; First Congregational Church, White Salmon; and Riverside Congregational Church, Hood River. Application for membership was made by five persons.

Easter services at the Congregational church were attractive and successful, the church was tastefully decorated with Oregon grapes, maiden hair, and palms and presented a beautiful appearance. One hundred and twelve persons were at Sunday school, including two visitors. Easter eggs of happy design were given to the scholars. The morning service was one of the most impressive Easter services the church has ever held. The congregation was large, occupying all the sittings and overflowing into the Sunday school room. The music was appropriate, inspiring, and effectively rendered. "The Palm," rendered by Mrs. Reid, and "Babylon," by Mr. Phillips, were especially well received. Rev. Howard N. Smith, of Portland, preached an able Easter sermon, showing that the resurrection of Christ was the ground and assurance of hope, of human freedom, and of gladness. Two persons were received into church fellowship by letter. The following children were consecrated in baptism: Mary Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Olinger; Merle Alice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Fredericks; Dorothy D. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Cram; Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hershner. The voluntary offering made without an effort to raise money, amounted to $27.

Odell Notes.

the Davidson Bros' land sold them by Chris Dethman. They have two teams and a force of seven men at work.

The Willow Flat country is looking nice now. They have already cultivated most of the land there, it is nice and dry, and owing to the character of the soil, the season appears to be at least two weeks earlier than here. Notably among the enterprising people who have been working the land there are C. R. Bone, the Davidson Bros., C. L. Rogers, D. L. Davidson, F. E. Naylor and Erank A. Massey. All of these men are displaying commendable enterprise and are worthy of emulation.

Professor J. L. Tonsay and family came up from Portland last Saturday to their home here. The professor returned to Portland Sunday, but the family will remain for the summer. We welcome them back again.

H. C. Crockett, our road supervisor, informs us that he will have the road grader in this district next week. It is to be hoped we will not be suffering in time to do the roads some good. Last year the work of the grader here was a failure on account of getting it too late. Thursday it will be at work at the Davidson hill.

L. M. Wilson laid the corner stone for his house last Tuesday and will crowd it to completion. He says he has not made up his mind yet about putting twenty dollars under the corner stone.

Sadie Young, who has been ill for some time, is convalescent.

John K. Roberts is expected up from Portland this week to take up the improvement on his homestead. Jack is a jolly good fellow and will be welcomed by his many friends here. The hills of Gilead will again resound with the echo of his voice.

With spraying, pruning, grafting and tree planting, everybody is busy now. This good weather piles up the work faster than it can be done. There seems to be a shortage of work horses in East Hood River valley.

The fishing season is now on and there will soon be jolly sport here.

James Eggert is expecting his father to arrive here in about two weeks for a visit. His home is in Kansas. Perhaps he may be induced to locate.

Mr. Decker of Buffalo, N. Y., and who has spent most of the winter here in the interest of New York friends who are desirous of investing in Hood River land, spent a day at Odell, last week, and carefully looked over William Ehrek's place. His friends will be here in a few days with capital sufficient to purchase anything that suits them, and from impressions received by Mr. Decker, Mr. Ehrek had better fix a price on his ranch or say it is not for sale. By the way, Mr. Ehrek has one of the very best quarter sections of land in Hood River valley.

Uncle Sam's hired man has caught the expansion fever as well as the rest of us here in Hood River, and added 140 lock boxes to his office, making about 400 in all. Other improvements recently made, makes with this, very snug quarters for Mr. Yates.
