

Hood River Glacier.

THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 1904.

The report that another newspaper is about to be started in Hood River is in circulation last week. A rumor of this kind has bobbed up semi-occasionally for the past two years. The Glacier was informed of the rumor Thursday evening by a merchant and a good advertiser, who had been asked if he would take advertising space in the proposed new paper. The merchant declined, saying the Glacier was good enough advertising medium for him. A Glacier man traced the rumor to its source and found there was nothing in it, as usual. Probably half a dozen men in Hood River would like to see another newspaper established, but neither of the half dozen men would be willing to put up the cash necessary to keep a paper going. Merchants and other business men, who advertise do not want another paper. They know that it would double their advertising expense without the additional compensation. They know the Glacier is read by every family in Hood River that reads a paper. And they know that a new paper could not hope to get the same number of subscribers for years, and that this it did get would be readers of the Glacier. So there could be no excuse to advertise in two home papers, especially none to advertise in the one that had its circulation to get. The policy of the Glacier has always been to treat all alike, to make friends, to publish as good a paper as our income will allow, and to grow better with the increase of patronage. The Glacier has nothing to fear from competition so long as it adheres to this policy.

Competition might help the Glacier, but it would not help the merchant who might feel compelled to give it advertising. There is no more need of another newspaper in Hood River than there is of another banking institution.

At the meeting of the general committee of the G. A. R. encampment, Saturday, Hon. E. L. Smith suggested that Hood River should have a large hall suitable to accommodate large gatherings such as will assemble when the encampment comes here, and which could also be used for our biennial fruit fair. He believes a building of this kind could be erected in time for the encampment. The suggestion was heartily favored by all present. Leslie Butler said the bank of Hood River would start a subscription for a convention hall at $100. The cost of putting up the big tent for the horticultural fair is becoming too great. About 11,000 feet of lumber is required, and at the present price of lumber the cost, with labor added, is considerable. The cost of a building similar to the one at Glendale Park, with open sides, would not be great. The sides could be inclosed with canvas or kept open to suit the weather. It is hoped this proposition will be agitated and given due consideration. With a suitable building Hood River would become a favorite convention town.

The delegation at Washington has recommended the appointment of J. H. McGreer of Antelope as supervisor of the north division of the Cascade forest reserve. John Combs, previously endorsed, asked to have his name withdrawn.

M. V. Rand of University Park was a visitor in Hood River for several days last week. Mart thinks our town has improved wonderfully since he was a resident here.

Berries for the Veterans.

Portland Oregonian.

Captain James P. Shaw, chairman of the general committee in charge of the arrangements for the encampment of the Oregon department of the G. A. R. at Hood River, June 15, 16 and 17, has recently been to Hood River to see what the townspeople are willing to do, and his investigations have caused the following circular letter to be sent to every post in the state: The 23d annual encampment G. A. R. will be held at Hood River, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, June 15, 16 and 17. This fixes the date right in the midst, and in the height of our strawberry season, therefore we can promise an ample supply of that luscious berry, which God might have made a better, but didn't.

Command and we will feast you on big red berries.

The local committee having the arrangements for the care and entertainment of those of our comrades who may attend the encampment requests that you furnish the number who will come from your post, and how many will be accompanied by their wives. Hotel accommodations in Hood River at present are somewhat limited, but patriots of citizens will open their houses for your accommodation, and the committee has arranged to furnish tents, which will be supplied with straw, wood and water free of charge. Comrades, however, will be requested to bring along their blankets, etc. Four people can occupy each tent with comfort.

Hotel charges will be $1 and $2 per day, sleeping accommodations in private families for two persons 50 cents per night. All meals from 10 cents to 25 cents. The information asked for should be as accurate as possible, and furnished at as early a date as the facts may be had. It is located at the west end of State street, opposite the watering trough, in a grove of oak and walnut trees, and is an ideal spot for a camping ground. Here the tents loaned by the state will be set up, and those of our visitors who come prepared with bedding can enjoy camp life to their heart's content. Plenty of pure spring water will be piped to the grounds from the spring close by, and every detail looked after to make the campers comfortable.

The management of the opera house have kindly tendered the use of the lower and upper halls for the use of the encampment during the three days' session. The lower hall will be used for the session of the encampment and the large hall upstairs will be used by the W. R. C. for the same purpose. The ladies of the G. A. R. will meet in Odd Fellows hall, the use of which has been kindly tendered by the I. O. O. F. free of charge.

The opera house is also given free of charge for the memorial services to be held Sunday, May 29.

The big tent belonging to the Hood River horticultural society will be set up, but the location has not yet been decided upon. It is proposed to purchase more canvas for an extension to the tent, or else to have it made of canvas and board up the sides. It is expected that 2,000 people will be in attendance at the camp fires held in the tent on the evenings of the first and second days of the encampment.

The band boys have asked the post if there would be any objection to their using the opera house to put a patriotic play on the boards during one of the evenings of the encampment. The post voted that there could be no objection, and Friday evening, June 17, was selected as most suitable for the play. The band boys propose to give all wearing the badge of the Grand Army, W. R. C. and Ladies of the G. A. R. free admission on that night. The following night they will repeat the play and charge admission to all.

It is the intention of the general committee to bar out all outside shows and all schemes for deceiving the unwary. The city council will be asked to cooperate in this. No concessions whatever will be granted on the camp grounds to any parties not residents of Hood River. The general committee will hold meetings every Saturday, at 4 o'clock, in the parlors of the bank. All G. A. R. members on committees, and all citizens knowing themselves to be on the general or sub-committees, are invited to attend these meetings.

The finance committee will begin the work of soliciting subscriptions this week. So be prepared to give liberally. You can not give in a better cause. The encampment is going to be a drawing card for Hood River. It will be a big ad, and we must treat our visitors well.

that they may go to their homes with the impression the Hood River is all right. The finance committee has also been instructed to find out how many visitors can be furnished with board and lodging, or lodging without board, at the homes they will call. Hotels and boarding houses will be filled up first, and then the private homes will be called upon to care for as many as they can accommodate. Families having spare beds or accommodations for any number of the visitors can save the committee calling at their houses by leaving word with any member of the committee.

The New Pension Order.

The pension bureau is now sending out the following letter; explanatory of its interpretation of the new order:

"In response to your attached communication, you are advised that under the provisions of section 2 of the act of June 27, 1904, as amended by the act of May 9, 1904, any officer or enlisted man who served 90 days or more in the army or navy of the United States during the late war of the rebellion and received an honorable discharge therefrom, may be entitled to a pension as such, provided he is now or may hereafter be suffering from any mental or physical disability or disabilities of a permanent character, not the result of his own vicious habits, which so incapacitates him as to render him unable to earn a support.

"In the adjustment of valid claims under said act, it is taken and considered as an evidential fact, if the contrary does not appear and if all other legal requirements are properly met, that when a claimant has passed the age of 62 years he shall be regarded as incompetent in ability to perform manual labor and may be entitled to the minimum rating of $9 per month; after 65 years of age, to $8 per month; after 68 years of age, to $7 per month; and after 70 years of age, to the maximum rating of $12 per month. A declaration stating that the claimant is 62 years of age; 65 years; 68 years; or 70 years, as the case may be, is a sufficient allegation in cases of this kind, even if no other disabling cause is set forth, but in all cases the exact date of birth should be stated.

"Allowances under said act at a higher rate, not exceeding $12 per month, will continue to be made as heretofore, where disabilities other than age show a condition of inability to perform manual labor, but in no case can pension exceed $12 per month, which is the maximum rate of invalid pension provided for in said act and is not subject to increase for any cause.

"This ruling will take effect April 13, 1904, and shall not be deemed retroactive. The former rules of the bureau fixing the minimum and maximum at 65 and 75 years respectively are accordingly modified as above.

"Pensions granted under the provisions of section 2 of the act of June 27, 1904, as amended, which are affected by the late ruling or not, are not in addition to pension allowed under any other law, as the law prohibits the payment of more than one pension to a person for the same period.

"This settles one point, about which there has been some anxious questioning; the amount of proof that would be required for age. This says that a mere statement as to age, accompanied by exact date of birth, is all that will be required. In his letter to the senate secretary Hitchcock inclosed a letter from Acting Commissioner of Pensions Davenport, in which it was affirmed that Commissioner Ware's order does not enlarge but simply construes the act of June 27, 1890, and its amendments, and closes as follows:

"The amount the order will increase pensioners annually, and particularly when the same shall become fully operative, can be only roughly estimated. There are supposed to be living today about 875,000 ex-Union soldiers of the civil war. Of these are pensioners under the act of July 14, 1862, known as the general law, about 265,000, and under the act of June 27, 1890, about 428,000, aggregating 693,000, which, deducted from the whole number of survivors, leaves 182,000 who have not applied for pension. To state definitely how many of this number failed to serve the 90 days and receive final honorable discharge, is impossible. One-fourth seems a fair estimate and reduces the number to 136,500. To say that 75,000 of these have reached the age of 62 and will apply seems a reasonable estimate. If these 75,000 are all placed on the roll at $6 a month or $72 a year, the output for pensions will be increased $5,400,000 annually.

"The pension roll is diminishing rapidly, owing to deaths of beneficiaries; and in all probability this decrease will offset any gains caused by claims of soldiers who have reached the age of 65 and upward."

At a special meeting of Stansbury post Legion, Ind., a resolution was adopted to the effect that the new order of Commissioner Ware was not acceptable as a substitute for a service pension, especially if it was intended to prevent further legislation. The roster of the post shows 176 members, of whom only two would be benefited by the new order.
