Now is the Time

To put Hoyt's Patent Tree Supports on your fruit trees. The cut shows how they work. Don't wait until the trees are broken down or bent out of shape with heavy loads of fruit. Put them on now and save the trees. They are permanent and stay for years with a little adjustment of the wires. When you use these supports you have no props in the way of cultivators, and they are always there.

IRON AGE GARDEN

Tools are ahead. High wheel and first class at the right prices. We have the exclusive agency. Come see them.

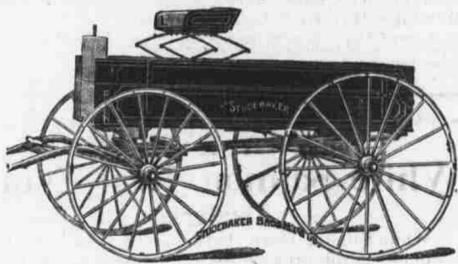

NO. 4 FERTILIZER

If your strawberries are not in first-class condition get some of the No. 4 fertilizer and strengthen them up. This fertilizer helps the culls grow into good berries. Now is the time to apply it.

FOR PLOWS AND CULTIVATORS

We are stocked with what you need. Get the old tools out and either get new parts where needed, or new tools. Time is too valuable to spend trying to make an old worn out tool do your work when the season is short.

STUDEBAKER WAGONS

A car of Studebaker wagons now in contains some special fruit growers' wagons with large size boxes, strong neat and durable, at the same prices that have been asked for less desirable styles. Don't fail to call and examine them when they come in.

BRICK YARD.

I am manufacturing at my yard near Columbia nursery south of town, as fine a quality of common brick as can be found in the state. Have 20,000 to 30,000 brick on hand for inspection. Price at yard $8 per thousand. Come out to the yard and see how we make brick. A. T. ZEEK.

Horatio Goes Camping.

Saturday evening his satanic majesty of the Glacier force, in company with Harold Hershner, Homer Wood, Mayor Dano and Harold Wood took the Overland Route via Belmont and Portland for Dead Point, where they played the Wild Bunchers of the Cascades. The only victims to their prowess they have so far confessed were the wild blackberries, of which they brought home 23 quart boxes besides the bushels they ate of them in their native wilds. Our devil brought his sweetheart, our lady composita, a box of the choicest ones which the happy pair generously shared with the remainder of the force. The berries were fine and the employees voted Horatio a brick. It was a fortunate circumstance for Fred Rordan that the juveniles had no fire arms with them for if they had, his Angora buck would undoubtedly have been mortoned to play the part of a polo ball in a grand hunt. The boys aver that the bears, elk, cougars, deer and all big game except mosquitoes have been enticed away from their mountain fastnesses by the fascinating "wilds" of the late picnicking parties at Maple Dell and other fashionable outing resorts. They say they didn't even see a sea serpent. One uncharitable listener remarked that the boys must have forgotten their snake bite remedy, as the cause. The boys say they slept in the sweetest of an old sawmill site and the time of their lives. If a good many of the old or generation could grab up their blankets once or twice each summer and tear themselves awry from business, daily toil, scrapping with their neighbors, grubbing at their own particularly hard lot, or whatever else they may be engaged at and just go out into the mountains, climb around until tired, camp and eat with such a voracious appetite that they acquire in no other way, climb farther and higher each succeeding day, in fact go wild for at least a week or two, they would come back happier, enjoy better health, live longer and have a brighter view of life. These rough camps would bring out of the common blackberries of their past lives like a gold dollar in a mud hole.

District Pays Off $8,000 Bonds.

At a meeting of the school board of the town district, Monday morning, in the office of W. J. Baker, Clerk Hemman was instructed to draw a warrant for the payment of the $8,000 bonds issued for the building of the Park street school house, 10 years ago. An additional $250 was included for interest. The warrants for these bonds were made payable to County Clerk M. Z. Donnell, who is agent for the New York firm who advanced the money on the same. The bonds have been renewed by money borrowed from the state school fund at a lower rate of interest. Bids for excavating for the foundation of the new school house on the hill and for building the foundation of the same, were opened and the contract let to James McLean for the sum of $4,750, the work to be done in stone.

Charles T. Early, who was named by the board to fill the unexpired term of Dr. H. L. Dumble, was sworn in. The clerk was instructed to make payment of the following bills: Glass & Prudhomme, $20 for printing the bonds; expenses of Clerk Hemman to The Dalles to arrange with the state land agent in making out the bonds, $2.45; W. H. Wilson, payment for service in preparing bonds, $40; W. J. Baker, express on bonds, 50 cents; W. M. Stewart, oil for school house, $2.45; Will Haynes, screws 25 cents; C. A. Dano, property for location of school house, $600.

Dumble Resigns as Director.

At a meeting of the board of directors Saturday afternoon, the resignation of Director Dumble was accepted, and on motion of Captain Blowers Charley T. Baker was elected in his place. A bill from W. J. Cowherd for $3.75 for labor was ordered paid. Director Baker was instructed to draw a warrant for payment of the two lots on the hill, where the new school house is to be built, as soon as the transfer papers arrive.

Records in Bad Shape.

Lee Morse, deputy assessor for the west end of Wasco county, was kept at home the greater part of last week, Mrs. Morse being confined to the house with a severe attack of the measles. Mr. Morse says he doesn't know when he will get through with his work as assessor. He was furnished with new records and started out this morning. The records were supposed to show the present ownership of all property in Hood River valley. The list was supposed to be revised down to date, says Mr. Morse, but he declares he never did see such a muddled lot of records.

Some of the land has changed hands six times since the record was made. In some instances people are credited with land they never owned. Others are located in the wrong section, and in some cases there is no record whatever of ownership.

Finding progress under such conditions absolutely impossible, he took the books to Commissioner Hibbard, who returned them to the county court for a corrected and more up-to-date edition. Mr. Morse says the records furnished him are supposed to come from the chief abstractor in the office of the county clerk.

The Mount Hood hotel experimented with their new system of fire protection for the first time Tuesday morning. The two-inch hose that streams out from the arch in front of the hotel, and proved to be a complete success. The basement, roof and each of the three floors are supplied with a coil of pipe of the 1 1/2 hose, and a reserve pipe has been placed down Oak street from which the hotel is able to draw water whenever necessary. This insures a splendid and valuable fire protection for the hotel, and should make the guests feel perfectly safe as they retire for the night.

Tales of the Town Tensely Told.

Miss Corrae Fowler went to The Dalles Sunday night.

Bess Stranahan of the Fashion Stables went to The Dalles Sunday night.

Bertha Sundland is at Oregon City visiting friends and attended the Chautauque last week.

Mrs. H. Beckwith of Portland is visiting relatives in Hood River and will remain during the summer.

The announcement is made that a democratic paper is to be established in Goldendale to boom Turner for Governor.

Leslie Butler, president of Butler & Co's banking house, left Tuesday morning for a trip of a month or more in Alaska.

Misses Kathryn and Anna Platz came up from Portland Monday and are guests at the home of Mrs. John Mohr on the East Side.

The Hood River Plumbing Co. has been awarded the contract for putting in the water system Jeff Mosier is constructing for his town.

Rath & Co., who opened out with a stock of merchandise at White Salmon last winter, have sold their entire stock of goods to C. M. Wolfard & Co.

W. V. Johnson was in Sherman county last week, looking after the sale of cord wood. He reports splendid prospects for wheat, spring wheat in particular.

The Heppner Gazette of July 21st announces that with this issue the paper is 100 weeks old. The paper was established nineteen years and twelve weeks ago.

Mrs. W. H. Perry and children returned yesterday from a six weeks' visit in Oregon. Miss Helen Perry will resume her position with the Revelle.

Bellingham Revelle.

Cook county is to have a new paper, to be established at the new town of Cline Falls on the Deschutes. F. T. Hurlbert, the Shano banker, will finance the undertaking.

Tom Shere was taken to The Dalles hospital Tuesday noon, with a severe case of erysipelas. He was brought in from his home on a stretcher. His many friends hope soon to hear of an improvement.

J. M. Wallace of Hood River, Oregon, arrived in the city yesterday in company with his daughter, Mrs. W. B. Perry. Mr. Wallace will probably remain in Bellingham about two months.

Bellingham Revelle.

The band concert at Belmont on last Friday night was in every way a success. The Belmont people stand right by the band boys. Mrs. M. B. Potter's hospitality has been truly magnificent.

The band will clear about $18.

J. Goldenstein of the Globe Clothing Co. has moved into the Gilbert cottage on State street. His partner, J. Leavitt, is occupying a residence on River street. Both gentlemen are here from Portland to make Hood River their home.

Mrs. Will Soebbe returned from The Dalles, Monday, and called at the Glacier office with the brand new baby which recently arrived to bless the household of Mr. and Mrs. Soebbe of the East Side. The little one arrived on the wedding day anniversary of its parents and is their first child. The parents are rightfully very proud of the little daughter.

J. R. Phillips and family will leave this week by way of the Barlow road for his old home in Stayton, Marion county. Mr. Phillips says he has worked every day, including Sundays, for two years, and believes he deserves a vacation. He recently completed a contract with the Davenport Bros. Lumber Co., having cut between 4,000 and 5,000 cords of wood.

Willard Udell, the 19-year-old youth who was bound over before Justice Dickelstein last month on the charge of being implicated in the Dollie Welde case, the 14-year-old girl who is now in charge of the Boys' and Girls' aid society at Portland, pleaded guilty before Judge Bradshaw in The Dalles last Saturday, and was given a one-year sentence in the penitentiary.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McBain is suffering from a swelling of the salivary glands of the throat. The little one's neck is badly swollen, and the physician found it necessary to use the oleo Sunday, and again on Monday. It was with difficulty that the child was placed under the influence of chloroform. The doctor says the swelling on the neck appears to be epidemic among the children of the town.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Cross of the Star boarding house on Hood River heights, will leave the latter part of August for Parkertown, where Mr. Cross goes to take charge of the dining room and kitchen of the boarding house at the saw mill of the Davenport Bros. Lumber Co. Mr. Cross was formerly a hotelier in Grand Forks, N. D., where he earned the reputation of setting the best table in the city. The Glacier feels safe in saying the saw mill boarding house will prosper under the new management.

Frank Gregory recently received a letter from his uncle W. F. Boyakin, who lives at Blue Rapids, Kas. Frank was born in this uncle's house and was named for him, therefore the old gentleman takes special interest in Frank's welfare. Mr. Boyakin is 68 years old and takes a most active interest in the affairs of the country. He is a constant reader of the Oregonian and read of the Williams-Neubitt case, expressing himself vigorously on the subject. He writes a plain, legible hand, wonderfully free from nervousness for one of his age.

Mr. Boyakin came to Oregon as a minister before the war, and again during Lincoln's second presidential campaign, and stumped the state for Lincoln. He speaks the highest praise of Oregon and this part of the state in particular. Says if he was a young man he would surely come to Hood River to make his home.

A stranger stepped into the Glacier office Friday and in conversation which followed remarked that he had never seen an orchard the equal of that of Sears & Porter on the East Side. He had heard and disbelieved the story that these orchardist had harvested $1,000 worth of apples from one acre of ground, but after visiting their orchards last week he is prepared to vouch for the correctness of the story, and that the crop this year will do even better than that, notwithstanding the canard that has been circulated to the effect that Sears & Porter's orchard would produce a very light crop this year. The visitor was one who had traveled widely, one who had been a close observer all his life, whose hair had been whitened by the frosts of many winters and when he says that Sears & Porter have the best apple orchard he has ever seen, we are inclined to believe him. The soil that "cannot be beat" anywhere for apples, it is certainly a compliment that will be received with much satisfaction by these progressive apple growers.

Enjoying Life at Camp Overall.

The Glacier man strolled up to the fishing grounds on the West fork of Hood River last Sunday morning, and stole silently back Monday morning, having spent the day before fishing with Dick McDonald. The newspaper man landed one small trout, in addition to several landings in the cold waters of the river. It wasn't a good day for fishing. McDonald, who by the way said he knew all about fishing before he entered the editor to the secluded retreats of Maple Dell, fared little better. His luck that Sunday was taking a day off. His string, as he wound his reel when the shades of evening forced him to retire to camp, showed six little trout. He laid the failure of the fishing to the fact that the waters of the river were milky from the volcanic ashes of old Mount Hood, disturbed by the melting snows these warm days.

It might have been warm in the lower valley Sunday night and Monday morning, but at Camp Overall, a rousing log fire was enjoyed after sun down. The atmosphere was as such a stage that one's breath was easily visible in the air all the morning, and at no time during the day was too warm for comfort.

The title of Camp Overall is a new name applied by Mr. McDonald. Formerly this camping spot was known as Maple Dell. Not so now. The women have made that impossible. The Glacier staff artist got out his camera and endeavored to get some pictures but the women and their overalls got rapidly in the way.

The fishing camps have moved up the river a mile or so each year, so Mr. McDonald informs the Glacier. Formerly Sandy Flat was the favorite spot; then Maple Dell and now Camp Overall which is located about a mile above Maple Dell. The latter place is in but a short distance of the bridge over the west fork, at the point of the old ford.

This bridge is a substantial structure, with strong railings on the sides. Beyond the bridge, the road has been extended across what is known as the desert, and the trail has been widened for wagons to within five miles of Lost Lake.

The desert, or what was the desert, is being made to blossom like a paradise. The landowners there are busy in the present and raised funds for building an irrigating ditch that will supply all water needed. The water will be taken from springs about a mile and a half distant. The Markley Bros. have an improved place here. Strawberries were planted this spring, and afterwards potatoes between the rows. Both crops look fine, growing nicely without irrigation. D. Stone has also made improvements on his homestead here.

Improvements are being made all along the river road from Tucker's mill to the clearings along the west fork. It is understood that a lateral from the Bone Bros' ditch is to be extended to the ranches of George T. Prather and A. S. Blowers. Valuable ranches now, as they have been for 40 years, the water will add immensely to their value.

Among those found tenting at Camp Overall were Lee Morse and family, Charles Caster and family, T. J. Kincaid and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. Pealer, Mr. McCoy, D. McDonald and family, O. B. Hartley and family, George W. Thompson and family.

Capt. Coe and family are camping on the west side of the West Fork.

The Strawberry in England.

W. Markille has handed the Glacier editor a copy of the Advertiser, published at Weisbach, a suburb of London, England, which contains a reference to some monster strawberries grown in that part of England: "H. Tunn, Lynn-road has brought to our office some Royal Sovereign strawberries, grown on the Sutton-road, and 10-year-old plants. They are of great size, six of them turning the scale at 91 ounces, and one weighing a trifle over 11 ounces. The strawberries are of a beautiful bright color, fully ripe, and typical specimens of Fen fruit."

The copy of the Advertiser is of the date of June 22, and is of volume 61. The paper is nothing like an American publication of today. It looks like a copy of the Oregonian as it was published 40 years ago.

W. Markille informs the Glacier that the large strawberries mentioned in the above clipping were grown on Clarks seedling plants, which he secured himself in Hood River two years ago, and sent to his brother-in-law in England. Thus again is the Hood River strawberry made famous. Mr. Markille says the land on which these berries are grown in England is worth a thousand dollars an acre.

Can't Get Along Without the Glacier.

J. O. Haynes, formerly operator for the O. R. & N. Co. at Hood River, and well known here, writes from Fairfield, Wash., where he is now station agent, and encloses $1.50 for a renewal of his subscription to the Glacier. He says he cannot get along without it. "It is like getting a letter from home," continues Mr. Haynes. "I take this opportunity to compliment the new management on keeping the pride of Hood River valley, the Glacier, up to its standard, which your predecessor strove, so many years. For a bright, clean, new paper the Glacier surpasses any local paper I have ever seen. I had the pleasure of living in Hood River for one year, where I was operator for the O. R. & N. Co. In the words of our worthy Captain J. P. Shaw, 'Hood River is a gem all by itself.' Hood River is as near Paradise as I ever expect to reach, and I long for the time to come when we may return."

Blackberries Bring $2 a Crate.

Seattle, July 25.—A. D. Blowers & Co., wholesale commission merchants, report as follows:

"The market the past week cleared up exceptionally well. Prices on most all classes of fresh fruits are good and ready sale today. Triumph peaches from Roseburg made their appearance the latter part of last week and sold at $1 per box. Price on Alexander peaches 40 to 60 cents, Triumphs 75c to $1. Royal Ann cherries 50 to 60c. Black Republicans the same. Sour cherries 5c per pound. Apples range in price from $1 to $1.50 as follows: Harts peaches $1.75, apricots 75c, plums 60 to 75c. There is good demand for blackberries and are selling at $2 a crate. Tomatoes in 20 pound boxes $ 7.75. Fancy sweet corn $1.50 crate of eight to ten dozen. Wax and string beans $5 a pound. Telephone peaches $5.

Delegates to Meet Friday Night.

A meeting of the delegates to the convention of the Development League in Portland August 2 and 3 is called for 8 o'clock Friday evening, in the rooms of the Commercial club.

As it is the desire of the Commercial club that Hood River send a large delegation, all those who wish to attend the convention and to take advantage of the low rates for Portland for this occasion, should attend the gathering at the Commercial club rooms tomorrow night. President Butler desires to see that all those who signify their intention of going.

At the meeting Friday night the delegates will be given their credentials and badges.
