

Hood River Glacier

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1904.

A Chicago produce paper wants the price of apples down but the consumption will, give every one three a day to eat.

Again Hood River leads all towns of its size and some that are larger. This city was the first of many in the Northwest to conclude the contest that sent a popular young lady to the world's fair. At The Dalles the contest began two weeks before the one at Hood River and it is feared the contest cannot be closed by the last of this month.

Because he found it impossible to collect bad debts, J. A. Douthit, has been forced to suspend publication of the Times-Mountaineer. This paper was established in 1864 as the Mountaineer. In 1882 it was consolidated with the Times. It was one of the oldest papers in Eastern Oregon. Mr. Douthit, who has conducted the paper for the last nine years, is a forcible editorial writer and a newspaper man of ability, but friendly support on credit will kill any newspaper.

ANNUAL REPORT FARMER'S DITCH

The first annual meeting of the Farmers' Irrigating company was called to order in Artisan hall, at 10:30 o'clock last Saturday morning. Secretary Evans read the call for the meeting, when President Benson asked for the roll call, which occupied 25 minutes of time, and showed 1,329 and four half shares represented by stockholders or proxies.

Secretary Evans read a complete report of the year's work, and carefully explained all points as he proceeded. On motion of C. D. Thompson the report was accepted without debate.

The following names were then presented for the board of directors: A. C. Staten, Charles Ross, C. D. Thompson, G. W. Woodworth, M. H. Nickelsen, A. Butts, August Guignard, N. C. Evans, W. H. Pugh, E. N. Benson, A. S. Blowers.

Lee Morse, C. D. Thompson, and A. E. Lake were appointed as tellers and a count of the ballots showed the following seven men elected directors of the Farmers' Irrigating company for the coming year: A. C. Staten, Charles Ross, C. D. Thompson, M. H. Nickelsen, A. Butts, W. H. Pugh, A. S. Blowers.

18 kgs nails and spikes. There are some rights of way to be secured and some abstracting to be done yet.

WILL HAVE NO SEWERS

The citizens of Blowers addition, Coe's First and Third additions to Hood River, and those people living on the west end of Oak River and Columbia streets, swooped down upon the councilman at the session in the city hall Monday night with petitions and remonstrances, signed in length and containing the names of every property holder in the additions described, all of them objecting in strenuous tones to the extension of the proposed sewer system so as to include their lands.

The citizens, after the recorder read their complaints, were permitted by Mayor Blowers to voice their sentiments in speeches to the council. They were all of one sentiment. They didn't need the sewer. They wouldn't attach if the system was built; the assessments were considered unfair, and furthermore the payment of the same would work too great a hardship on the property owners.

Councilman McDonald thought the petition on the subject were Dr. Dumble, H. C. Coe, S. A. Cnapp, E. L. Rood, W. H. Pugh, and before they got through, O. B. Hartley wanted to know if the council would grant his petition if he should get up one to cut out of the sewer district all that part of Hood River lying west of Fourth street, or Dallas' corner.

E. L. Rood thought the whole town should be taxed to build the sewer. Councilman McDonald thought the petition against the sewer would be a good thing to keep on file. Early expressed the opinion that without sewers in Blowers' addition the city water from Coe's springs would soon become contaminated and unfit for use.

For that reason Hartley thought they needed a sewer more upon the hill than down in town, as the sewage is now washed down to the lower level by the rains.

To the remark that the whole city should be taxed to raise the money for building the sewer, Mayor Blowers answered that to do so the charter must be changed. This would require an act of the legislature.

It was finally moved that the citizens petitioning to be let out of the sewer district be cut off. The motion carried.

A petition from E. Samuel and other property owners who had a fenced-in parkway on the hill asking that it should be notified to have the fences removed. The committee on streets and public property was instructed to notify the owners to have the fences taken down, and if they did not comply with the request, the street commissioner is to see that the fences are removed.

Rand, chairman of the fire and water committee, reported that an agent for a chemical engine had given him prices and was desirous of placing an engine in Hood River. A 4-horse power engine cost, equipped, $850; a 5-horse, $700. Prather favored the city buying an engine and organizing a fire brigade. Early moved that the matter be left to the fire and water committee to secure the best price from the agents.

Early moved that the judiciary committee prepare an ordinance prohibiting all boxing contests in the city of Hood River.

A. J. Bell introduced an ordinance asking for a franchise to erect electric railroads on the streets of Hood River. His agreement was to complete a railway between the O. R. & N. depot and the boat landing within a year, and to have the lines extended over the whole city within ten years. The matter was referred to the committee on streets and public property.

An ordinance was presented from the Hood River Electric Light, Power and Water company asking for a ten-year contract with the city to furnish water for fire protection, domestic purposes and for fishing sewers. The contract stipulates that the city is to supply 25 hydrants and to pay a monthly rental of $75 for the same. The water company agree to have the system installed within 12 months from the time the contract is granted. The matter was referred to the committee on fire and water.

The following claims against the city were then read:

Judgment, Stranahan vs. city.....	$ 12.50
Transfer Co., ivory.....	3.10
Mount Hood Lumber Co., lib.....	3.67
Mount Hood Lumber Co., lib.....	4.90
L. S. Insouber, labor.....	7.00
Paget & Clark, exp. sewer work.....	50.00
W. R. Graham, hauling gravel.....	29.85
Ralph Savage, hardware.....	7.00
W. R. Brown, labor on road.....	100.00

The bill was allowed as a ten-year contract with the city to furnish water for fire protection, domestic purposes and for fishing sewers. The bill of $175 for the same was furnished in 1903, was left on the table.

Pine Grove Girls Have Cold Feet.
The young ladies of the Pine Grove neighborhood of the East Side arranged last week to entertain the young men of a leap year party at the home of Joe Jarvis.

Now, it is generally supposed that the young women ask the men to accompany them. But when it came to making their escorts, the young women got together and deputized a certain young man to go from house to house and arrange for the men to accompany the girls to the party.

The party was a success nevertheless, and the young men were equal to the occasion, coming to the rescue like knights of old. The young ladies should remember though that a faint heart never won fair bachelor.

SOME LATE DISPATCHES

Mount Defiance, October 6, 1904.
—About three weeks ago a bachelor who has a homestead southeast of Parkerton quietly left for Spokane and returned with a handsome bride, who has agreed to share his fortune and help subdue the wilderness. The bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell, will be "at home" after October 10, on "Motherhood Homestead," which is finely located overlooking the West Fork of Hood river with Mount Hood at the south. The name of their home is suggestive and their host of friends are unanimous in wishing that their joys may be many, their troubles few and "little ones."

There are still several bachelors left in this locality, who should must up the necessary courage to follow this brave leader, except that they need not leave Hood River while we have such a promising crop of bachelor girls to select from.

One in this locality, with a literary turn and a classical name has a nice farm, well tilled. It would make one of Hood River's progressive bachelors no end of happiness to locate in this locality, where he is seen bucking out the stumps where he will soon be gathering hundreds of bushels of big red apples. This disciple of Kent and Blackstone, although of a shy and unassuming disposition, is clear and logical in his actions, surely only men of this kind are retained in his own case to enable him to plead successfully with a frugal, industrious bachelor girl, and she will not boo-hoo about it much either.

There is still another who has lately carried a way the highest honors of his country in the best seats of learning in Oregon. He is a born commander, having won the gold medal as the best drilled non-com. in the contest at his military exam. His farm is near those mentioned in above dispatches. Here is a case of prudent energy, undeveloped resources, and it is plain, too, that it is an instance similar to Scott's Roderick Dhu, whose "blast upon his bugle was worth a thousand men." But there is evidence that there is hope in this case, and that a fair haired, blue-eyed dandy will give soon the bugle-call that will arouse this young warrior and cause him to rush to (her) arms with as much ardor as the little brown men at the last of the war.

Another young man just blossoming into bachelorhood, is a distinguished musician, has had a long and successful experience as a hotel man, and with his knowledge of entertaining and catering to the public, might easily convert his mountain into a famous summer resort.

It's Leap Year, girls, your last chance for four years. If you are as anxious to have your young fellows out of the wilderness of our side as we are, it is our duty to call to the attention of our patrons, call and we will point them out to you.

Dance Friday Night, October 14.
Charles R. McCally, who made such a success of the dance in the opera house three weeks ago, announces that at he will give another of his favorite hops during the week of the fruit fair.

The opera house, than which there is no better dancing floor in the city, has been secured again for the dance, and the date set for Friday night, October 14. Mr. McCally is arranging to have some fine music for the occasion. Mr. McCally himself will play the violin, in itself insures a success of the undertaking. Tickets will be $1 a couple.

China produced 2,000,000,000 pounds of tea in 1903. The experiment station in the Carolinas produced 9,000 pounds. The growing of tea is only possible where the cheapest hand labor can be obtained.

There is a good demand for blooded stock, particularly cattle and sheep, in the Argentine Republic. A lot of fairly good Hereford bulls and cows were recently sold there, which brought eight times as much as they cost in this country.

The field mice, which have been so unusually numerous the past year all over the west, not only made ruinous havoc in the apple orchards, but also barked evergreen trees to such an extent as to destroy them. There is dire need of more owls, hawks and cats.

The woman who has been worrying over her incubator, setting 150 eggs and getting six chickens, can afford considerable satisfaction for her neighbor who has ten old hens bring off eighty chicks by calling on her. The pleasure in living is so largely made up of this sort of contrasts.

It is claimed that they have a plant in Hawaii the juice of which applied to the toughest meat will make it as tender as spring chicken. The agricultural department at Washington would like the people a great service by looking this matter up, for there are all too many old farrow cows and ancient roosters on the market to be disposed of somehow.

An Iowa boy wants to know how to grow peanuts in this state. We do not think it can be successfully done so far as attempting to grow them as a field crop, the seasons not being long enough or hot enough. There are many years when lima beans, eggplant, melons and other semitropical things have a hard pull to mature, and we should class the goober with them.
