

WOODMEN TO MEET HERE

The annual picnic and logrolling of the camps of the Modern Woodmen of America will be held at Hood River, Thursday, October 13.

The K. of P. hall has been secured as headquarters for the Woodmen while in the city. Here the organization of the arrival of the excursionists that have been arranged by the railroad and steamboat companies.

It is expected that fully 500 people will be attracted to Hood River for the logrolling. The camps which will send delegates are: The Dalles, Goldendale, Lyle, White Salmon, Mosier, Klondyke, Wasco and Hood River.

It is the intention at this meeting to perfect a county organization of the Modern Woodmen of America. In addition to this there will be the forming of an Eastern Oregon division.

The Royal Neighbors of America, the ladies' auxiliary organization of the Modern Woodmen of America will meet in Hood River at the time of the Woodmen's logrolling. The ladies will no doubt furnish the good things to eat at the picnic.

J. C. Snyder of Hood River, ranking officer of the Foresters' team of the eastern division of Oregon, attended a meeting of his lodge at The Dalles last week, and says while there C. N. Gillman, president of the Dalles camp, spoke in complimentary terms of the Hood River Woodmen.

Commander Gillman attended the Woodmen gathering held last winter in Hood River and he hasn't forgotten the fine time had here then.

"You can expect the whole camp to attend," remarked Mr. Gillman. "Those who were not there last winter have ever since heard such glowing accounts of the affair at Hood River, that they are determined to go this time. Hood River is a place that does things. They are always on the move down there, so when we want to inaugurate a new movement for the Woodmen, we select Hood River as the place of meeting."

Gatzert Did Refuse Spencer Aid. Portland, Or., Sept. 29, 1904.—Editor Glacier: On September 15, your paper contained an article headed, "Corrects Erroneous Report," in which you print the correspondence that passed between the two boat companies and the United States local inspectors, relative to the Gatzert's refusal of aid to the Spencer, as a correction to the report that the Gatzert refused to give the Spencer a pull when requested.

I do not see in what manner this corrects it or shifts the responsibility. The fact still remains that aid was refused without any excuse, further than the Spencer being a pilot of America's ships. They are always on the move down there, so when we want to inaugurate a new movement for the Woodmen, we select Hood River as the place of meeting."

On some other friend, Manager Campbell, evidently forgets a few incidents in his anxiety to "Correct Erroneous Reports," and impress the public how willing he was to lend the helping hand to the Spencer while in trouble. Perhaps he would care to explain this. While the Spencer was on the beach it became necessary to have a captain, which was sent for and delivered to the Regulator line dock in Portland, at 6:30 a. m. on the morning of the departure of the Dalles City, and part of it loaded, when H. C. arrived, and upon ascertaining to what use the captain was to be put, ordered it brought ashore and put in the warehouse. The captain had to be brought up to the Dalles by rail, and handed back to Rowena by wagon, causing the delay of one day. Yours truly, CHAS. R. SPENCER.

Mosier Taking Interest In Fair. H. C. Bateham, who was in the city from Mosier last Thursday, says the people in the neighboring community to the East are manifesting much interest in the coming Hood River Fruit fair. People up there have some very fine fruit and vegetable specimens, which they believe to be the equal of anything produced in the state, and they propose to prove it by sending a good sized exhibit to the fair.

Business appears to be so rushing with Merchant Stewart Mosier that he finds it impossible to furnish news to the Glacier as he formerly did. The Mosier readers have missed the weekly news letter from that bustling settlement, so Mr. Bateham has kindly consented to assist in gathering the news. This means that the outside world will know what the Mosier people are doing, and if his neighbors will kindly assist in giving him the news, the Glacier will feel grateful for their kindness, and will do all it can to make an interesting department for the Mosier readers.

Will Tell Astorians Of Hood River. H. S. Lyman of Astoria, superintendent of the public schools of Clatsop county, was in Hood River last Thursday. Mr. Lyman is touring Eastern Oregon, and expects on his return to give the readers of the Astoria News an account of what he saw and learned here.

Mr. Lyman says while the city of Astoria secures large sums of money from the fishing and lumbering industries, the population supported by these industries is not equal in comparison to the most diversified industries of Hood River. It is his intention to get the people of his city and county interested in something that will attract and support a larger population.

Mr. Lyman was one time resident of White Salmon, some 20 years ago. He comes through here occasionally, but says he sees many changes each visit.

Packages For Apples. The relative advantages of barrels and boxes as packages for fruit were given a thorough discussion at the recent meeting of the Western Horticultural Society. The advantages of the boxes are chiefly, that they can be made and obtained more easily and cheaply, and that fancy fruit generally sells for a higher price in them as it can be packed solid in nice even rows like oranges; also the export trade is accustomed to this kind of packages and it sells more readily and for a higher price abroad.

The principal disadvantage is that it requires an expert packer to put in fruit in this way. It is also true that there is practically no opportunity to work in uneven or poor fruit in a box. It depends on the point of view whether this is to be classed as an advantage or a disadvantage.

As to barrels, they are increasingly expensive and difficult to get, and it requires skilled labor to make them. Their principal advantage seems to be that it does not require skilled labor to fill them, and that they are easier to move because they can be rolled.

There seems to be a good deal of conservative clinging to an old-fashioned custom in this respect, despite the fact that barrels tend to bruise and injure fruit. West of the Rocky Mountains, however, barrels are no longer used, partly because they cannot be easily obtained and partly because only the choicest fruit is shipped and boxes are preferable for this grade.—Pacific Farmer.

RAISE $62.25 AT BASKET SOCIAL

Yes, the pessimist says we are having hard times in Hood River; strawberry men didn't make anything, apple crop is immense in the East, and our apples will have to go at low prices; but the man behind the crops in Hood River "winks the other eye," and when they want a little bunch to pay for the Star Spangled Banner to fly over the fort of education at Frankton, he turned his youngsters loose, went with them to the social, and then, how it did surprise the calamity howler to see the shekels roll into the strong box of that enterprising school.

Patrons of the school began to arrive at an early hour, and by the time the curtain was to rise the large double room upstairs was well filled, all seats were taken and dozens were standing.

After a few selections on the graphophone by Warren Miller, the program was put through in regular 1, 2, 3 order, without a hitch or breakdown; except the curtain, which was rather refractory, requiring the services of two men and a boy to keep it in line.

Every performer was a star and it would take too much space to tell it all. A number were called back, and all was happy as a clam when the financial part of the program was put on the boards.

Everybody was in a jolly mood, not a jar, nor a discontented face, although all were tired enough when the musical voice of the crier was hushed and he was seen to don his Sunday coat, thus indicating that the sale was off. Each purchaser hunted up his good fairy, for the evening, and proceeded at once to fill up on the fat of the land. Before leaving the hall it was announced the school treasury was enriched to the extent of $62.25. This is the way they do things at Frankton.

Several of Barrett's pretty girls were down and their boys are said to have bought baskets. Good, if there is any other district in Hood River that has girls as pretty as Frankton, or as good things to eat, it's Barrett. Your turn next, neighbor, we're waitin'.

Confessions Of A Priest. Rev. Jno. S. Cox, of Wake Ark., writes, "For 12 years I suffered from yellow jaundice. I consulted a number of physicians and tried all sorts of medicines, but got no relief. Then I began the use of Electric Bitters and feel that I am now cured of a disease that had me in its grasp for 12 years." If you want a reliable medicine for liver and kidney trouble, stomach disorder or general debility, get Electric Bitters. It's guaranteed by Chas. N. Clarke the druggist.

Why Not Laugh? A good old man in the dumps once remarked: "Man, that is born the while is few days and full of trouble." He told the unvarnished truth, but it seems to a philosopher that it would in a measure mitigate the evil to look at it with the eyes of an exchange which puts it thusly: "Man is a fony little-cuss, and hasn't long to stay, he flies around and makes a fuss, and then he hicks away. Some men imagine they are great, and try to tear up Jack, but each one meets the same old fate and trots the same old track. Great Caesar's dead and turned to clay and so is Cicero and Alexander's gone the way the rest of us must go.

The sages, heroes, poets all the men of wealth and worth, into an open grave must fall and crumble back to earth. Then let's not join the mad affray, and struggle like the dence, and agonize our life away, for, really, what's the use? Let's live and love and sing the while and work some now and then, and give to every one a smile that cheers the hearts of men. And whether we are crowned with flowers or chilled with winter snows, with happiness let's fill the house, ere we turn up our toes.

Insomnia And Indigestion Cured. "Last year I had a very severe attack of indigestion. I could not sleep at night and suffered most excruciating pains for three hours after each meal. I was troubled this way for about three months when I used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and received immediate relief," says John Dixon, Tullahoma, Ontario, Canada. WILL COME TO HOOD RIVER

O. J. Fryklund and P. Olesen of Cloquet, Minn., who have made a thorough inspection of Hood River and the valley, express themselves delighted and surprised beyond measure at the varied resources, beauty and evident healthfulness of the valley, the manifest energy and thrift of both town and country, and the delightful climate of this section.

"Why, at home," said Mr. Olesen, "we are all wearing our overcoats now." Mr. Fryklund says he has travelled extensively in Norway, Sweden, England and in many states of the Union and states emphatically that he has never in his life seen a locality which at once combines such wonderful resources with so much natural beauty and such invigorating, health-giving climate, and the best part of it, he says, is that your resources have hardly yet commenced to develop.

He said he had heard of Hood River—a great deal about the valley—but with the pretty heathen queen who made goo-goo eyes at King Solomon, must remain that "the half has never been told."

The gentlemen returned to Minnesota Friday, but Mr. Olesen will be back in Hood River the first of the year with his family, as he has filed on a claim, which he will at once improve. Mr. Fryklund will also return to Hood River in the spring with a number of immigrants who, we understand, are awaiting the result of Mr. Fryklund's investigation.

These gentlemen wish to thank the many citizens who met them so cordially and especially Robert Rand, who entertained them at hotel Wau-Guinn, the beautiful views from which, they think cannot be surpassed in the country.

The Glacier gladly welcomes the newcomers. They are a sturdy, energetic, enterprising class of men, such as will in every way make Hood River valley richer and better for their being in it.

Was Determined To Have That Fish

The latest improvement at Wau-Guinn, Robert Rand's popular pleasure resort, is the trout pond. Mr. Rand has dammed up the old channel, where "helps creek" formerly went over the cliff, west of where the hotel stands, turned in water from the creek, and thus formed a trout pond of about an acre in extent. He has provided an outlet, so that there is a continuous stream of fresh water running through the pond. Mr. Rand has caught about 250 trout from the creek and put them into this little pond. Throw a grass-bopper into the middle of the pool and there is a great rush and the speckled beauties come jumping clear out of the water, two or three at a time, in their eager race to catch the hopper.

They tell a good fish story on Mr. Rand. One day while fishing for trout he got in his pond, he caught a fine one, the largest he had yet caught, and at a place where it was difficult to land him. Just as Mr. Rand got the trout fairly out of the water it became disengaged from the hook and fell back in the water and brush roots at the edge of the bank. Mr. Rand propped quickly face down to the edge of the water and snatched the fish from the water, holding it against his breast with one hand while with the other he endeavored to pull himself back from the creek; but the bank at that place was so sloping that the more he squirmed and struggled to get away the further he slipped down toward the stream. Nor could he make any one move as to quit the place. Finally catching the bushes as far up the bank as possible he managed to turn around and make his way up the slope, saving his fish at the expense of a pair of very wet feet. Mr. Rand says it doesn't matter much as it is about the time of the year when he usually bathes his feet anyway.

The matron at the Union depot, Portland, recently presented Mr. Rand a cutting from which she had secured a fine specimen of the rose tree, a variety of South America as the Rose tree. It is a very peculiar tree, having growth on the limbs resembling roses carved out of wood. The specimen Mr. Rand has is about 3 inches in diameter and one inch deep in the center. It is quite an acquisition to Mr. Rand's already well-filled museum.

Northwest News Notes. A peculiar feature of the attendance at our public schools in 1904 is the fact that a decrease in the number of pupils in the lower grades is noticeable, while the higher grades are overcrowded, says The Dalles Chronicle. The opposite to this is usual. Each day shows an increasing enrollment and at present 703 are registered.

A Santa Rosa, Cal. dispatch says: Emil Weesky of Ukiah has broken all hop-picking records. In one day he picked 1148 pounds, earning $11.48. The best pickers average about 200 pounds daily.

Grass Valley, Sherman county is preparing to erect a Catholic church. The assessable property valuation in Crook county has increased nearly $1,000,000 in the last two years. It is now $2,688,783.

The action of the county court of Umatilla county in refusing to lower the assessment of J. R. Year's Co. from $12,000 to $5,500 a mile, as asked by the company, has been sustained by Judge Ellis of the circuit court. It is understood the case will be appealed to the supreme court.

A Judicious Inquiry. A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or an adult, and if for a child they invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, cold and croup it is unsurpassed. Editor's Strenuous Life. C. L. Ireland, the junior editor of the Observer, is putting in long days with a Kent threshing crew. The straw is wet and tough, but only by sticking to it on the harvest he finished out there. Four machines have been sacrificed in flames from rust, which rots the wheels of a better class of farming.—Moro Observer.

Broke Into His House. S. L. Quinlan of Cavendish, Vt., was robbed of his customary health by influenza last week. Mr. Dano is interested in mines in Mexico, but thinks he would like to locate in Hood River. He was very favorably impressed with the valley. Mr. Dano had not met his brother for over 20 years. Both were former residents of Wisconsin. Prescriptions filled at any hour of the day or night at Clarke's drug store.
