

Hood River Glacier

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1904.

By reference to the "Born" column in this week's Glacier, it will be noticed that seven babies reached town since our last issue in time to enter the baby show at the fruit fair Saturday afternoon.

Colonel E. Hofer, editor of the Salem Journal, is director in a new bank started at Salem. His brother and partner in the Journal, is now vice-president of a bank at Jefferson. This, we believe, is a unique record, unequalled by any other set of newspaper men in the state.

The announcement comes from railroad centers that the Northern Pacific is making a renewed effort to find a shorter route to Portland. Our good friends on the north bank of the Columbia stand a good chance of hearing the whistle of a locomotive in the streets of White Salmon, Bingen and Underwood before they are many years older. Now would be a good opportunity to invest in land there; land that will grow apples and strawberries equal to those in the Hood River country.

The recent rains have cleared the atmosphere and laid the dust on the roads through the valley. The clouds have rolled away and there is every indication of clear, warm days for the fruit fair which opens this, Thursday, morning. The apple display promises to excel even the fine displays of previous years, and everything points to the most successful fair in the history of the association. Let every fruit grower who can supply a plate of fine apples bring out his fruit for the exhibit. The editors of the Oregon newspapers will be here Friday and Saturday and with her best foot forward Hood River stands an excellent chance to make a showing of her products that the people of this community add the state of Oregon will be proud of.

The opposition that is developing against the sewer proposition, even in the business district, or adjacent thereto, threatens to kill the whole project. It is a sewer; in fact, it is an imperative necessity. The health of the community demands that there be a sewer system in the lower part of the city at least, and it is necessary that it be put in. The objectors in the lower town should be overruled by the Council for the good of the public. Many who oppose the sewer have a convenient method of dumping their filth and garbage down onto their neighbor's premises, or in the street, and as long as they are allowed to do this, feel that they can get along without a sewer. If the board of health would their duty and order a disease-breeding place cleaned up, and refuse to allow the public streets to be used as an open sewer, there would be less opposition to the proposed sewer.

The attendance at the Hood River meeting of the Oregon Press association promises to be excellent because of the O. R. & N. refusing to grant transportation to some of the newspaper men of the state. This policy on the part of the railroad appears to us a little shortsighted. The Oregon editors have held five meetings in Eastern Oregon, and all those who would travel over the road could give more than value received for their transportation, in publishing descriptive writeups of the country through which the road passes. The fault may not lie entirely with the railroad. If the editors of the state would take a greater interest in the annual meeting of the Press association, and if those named on the committees would really do something, the association would soon become an organization the railroads or any other business would readily recognize with the extension of all the courtesies in their jurisdiction. In the state of Minnesota, the state Press association demands that the members, whether they attend the meetings of the association or not, shall give a large amount of space to reports of the sessions and writeups of the country. The railroads in that state extend the editors every courtesy, even carrying them thousands of miles every year. Let the Hood River session of the Oregon Press association inaugurate a "do-something" policy.

Christian Endeavor Conference.
Harold Hershner, Mair Danz and Estee Brosius attended the Christian Endeavor convention at The Dalles last week. Speaking of the convention the Chronicle says:
The Columbia district convention of Christian Endeavor, which was held in the Congregational church Saturday and Sunday was a success, and will be productive of much good to the earnest workers who attended.
The session opened at 2:45 Saturday afternoon with a devotional meeting led by President Z. W. Commerford of Prineville. Rev. D. V. Poling then gave the Endeavorers a hearty welcome to The Dalles, when Miss Gertrude Crawford of Heppner responded.
In an instructive talk the relation of state, district, county and local unions was discussed by the state president, J. A. Rockwood of Portland.
Encouraging reports were given by the various associations in the district, as well as the Junior Endeavorers, followed by thoughts on education in the Christian Endeavor by the district president, and the organization of committees by the state president, others joining in the discussion and advancing good thoughts.
At the evening session Rev. W. Skipworth opened the meeting with Bible reading and prayer, after which Rev. D. A. Thompson of Portland spoke of the need of originality in Endeavor, and Rev. F. Elmo Robinson, of the Christian church on "How to Secure Originality."

The only business of the evening was the report of the nominating committee, as follows: President, Rev. Z. W. Commerford; first vice, A. B. Cash, Hood River; second vice, Rev. W. L. Strange, Condon; third vice, Rev. S. E. Elder, More; district secretary, Miss Ida Ward, The Dalles; treasurer, Earl Bartness,

Hood River; Junior superintendent, Mrs. Z. W. Commerford; temperance and citizenship, E. H. Merrill, The Dalles; C. E. literature, Miss Orla Norman, Hood River; devotional, Miss Gertrude Crawford of Heppner; press agent, Miss Clara Blythe, Hood River.
At 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon a Junior Endeavor rally took place led by Mrs. Commerford, and in the evening young and old met in a union meeting at the Methodist church, in which the various pastors took part, a very stirring and searching address being delivered by Rev. J. E. Snyder of Brownsville, on "Nourishing." The choir sang a beautiful anthem and at the close of the sermon H. E. Greene gave a sacred solo most appropriate and well sung.

APPLE SHOW NOW READY

Superintendent Castner and his assistants are busy today arranging the apple exhibits that are coming in every hour from the orchards of the valley. A glance at the plates set out this morning indicates that the fruit is colored up nicely and the display promises to surpass the excellent showings made at previous Hood River fairs.
The large canvas pavilion, 50x100 feet, has been wired for electric lights. Another almost as large as this main pavilion has been secured from Portland to accommodate the crowds at the evening meetings. Water has been placed in the buildings and everything provided for the convenience and comfort of the people who will come in from the country and expect to spend the day in the city.

A stage has been erected at the west end of the main pavilion and another in the north end of the annex. Seats have been provided in the annex seating 400 people. The aisles in the pavilion are of good width, and there should be no discomfort from crowding.
H. Shoemaker was the first fruit grower to bring in his exhibit of apples.

WOODMEN TO HAVE PARADE

The first annual logging of the Modern Woodmen of America camps of Wasco and Klickitat counties will take place at Hood River tomorrow (Thursday). Everything is in haste with the members of Hood River Camp No. 7702, who will act as host for the visiting Woodmen from The Dalles, Portland, Goldendale, White Salmon, Lyle, More, Wasco, Dufur and Klondyke.
Hon. J. W. Simmons of Portland, state deputy head counsel, who will deliver the principal address tomorrow, will arrive from Portland on the early train this evening. He will be met by delegation of Woodmen and escorted to the lodge rooms in K. of P. hall.
The special feature of Thursday morning's exercises will be the parade of the Forester's team in uniform. There will be competing teams from The Dalles, Goldendale, Mosier, Dufur and Hood River. The parade will form at the K. of P. hall at 10 o'clock, march east on State street to First; north on First to Oak, and west on Oak to the oak grove on Fifth street, east of the Hon. E. L. Smith residence, where the Women of Woodcraft will spread a picnic dinner.
Proceeding the dinner there will be an address of welcome by Mayor A. S. Blowers, who will turn the privileges of the city over to the visiting Woodmen and their wives. There will be songs and the address by the Hon. J. W. Simmons. The Hood River brass band will supply music.

After the picnic dinner the band will again play. There will be recitations, songs, instrumental music, a drill by the Forester teams, a tug of war, and at 4:30 the Woodmen and Women of Woodcraft will march to the K. of P. hall to organize a county association.
At 7 o'clock the Woodmen are scheduled to visit the fruit fair to see the display of famous apples they have all heard so much of.
At 9:30 there will be a dance at the opera house.
J. C. Snyder, chief of the Foresters, will have charge of the program tomorrow, and will introduce the speakers.

ORCHARD BOX FOR APPLE PICKERS

Manager E. H. Shepard has introduced a field or orchard box into the orchards of Hood River. These boxes are manufactured by the box factory here, and are for use in gathering the apples in the orchard. By using these field boxes the regular apple boxes are saved from being soiled, and by the construction of the field boxes the apples are freed from danger of being bruised as is the case frequently with the apple boxes.
The orchard box is constructed to hold a box of fruit loosely placed in. The dimensions of the box are 15x20 inches, 10 inches deep. At each end there are hand holds, making the boxes much more convenient to handle. A cleat two inches wide and one inch deep is placed at the top of the box at each end. This assures a firm rest for the boxes as they are placed one above another in the wagon. Thus they are not apt to slip one into another and crush the fruit.
Manager Shepard says he secured 50 of these boxes for his orchard, and after his orchard foreman had used them one day, he remarked that it would be impossible to do without them. Mr. Shepard speaks in high praise of these orchard boxes, and has one on display at the office of the Applegrowers' union, where he explains the merits of the box to all who come in.
To make an orchard outfit complete, Mr. Shepard advises the fruit men to buy a packing table, an outfit of orchard boxes, a milking machine, and he is now arranging to have an orchard stand constructed for use in setting the orchard boxes on while the apples are being picked.
The use of the orchard boxes, says Mr. Shepard, more than saves their cost in one season by economizing time, no soiling of the packing boxes, no bruising of fruit, etc. Call on Manager Shepard and have him explain the advantages to you.

Fined For Cruelly Beating Horse.
S. A. Helmer, a merchant of Mount Hood, was fined $75 and costs in Justice Nielsen's court Monday afternoon, for cruelly beating a horse on the East Side grade September 26.
J. M. Leuz was the complaining witness in the case, and several other witnesses testified for the prosecution. Attorney Hartwig appeared in behalf of the state. Attorney A. A. Jayne was counsel for the defendant. The trial jury consisted of T. Bishop, J. H. Gill, G. M. McCurdy, N. T. Chapman, Chris Dethman, and Simpson Capple.
It developed in the course of the trial that Helmer unmercifully beat a balky horse, and blocked traffic on the road for half an hour. His team finally Congregational Services.

On last Sunday, October 9, the services were conducted by Rev. D. V. Poling in the Dalles, who preached a very strong sermon to a large congregation. The special music prepared by the choir was well received. Mr. Poling is a very earnest worker and we are pleased to note that he is meeting with good success in his work at The Dalles.
On next Sunday, October 16, it is expected that Rev. W. C. Gilmore of Hubbard, Oregon, will conduct the services. Mr. Gilmore has talents of a high order, has preached in one of the best churches in Chicago, and has many calls to speak before different denominations. We would urge as many as possible to improve the opportunity of hearing him.
All members of the Christian Endeavor society are requested to be present at the meeting at 6:30 p. m. to hear reports of the delegates to the convention at The Dalles.
