

NEW REGULATOR LINE DOCK AT HOOD RIVER.

FOR 50 years steamboats have been carrying passengers and freight to and from Hood River, but it remained for Manager H. C. Campbell of the Regulator line to furnish the first dock facilities for the accommodation of the Hood River patrons of the Columbia river steamers.

The accompanying illustration shows the dock recently put in by Mr. Campbell at the steamboat landing in the east end of the city. C. A. Bell of the Transfer Co. took a Glacier reporter to the boat landing yesterday and showed him over the dock.

Moorled behind piling is a covered wharf boat, 24x60 feet in extent, affording capacity for storing three or four cars of freight. At the east end of the dock is a neatly fitted up office and waiting room, where Norman Young, the Hood River agent for the Regulator line may be found at any time during the working hours of the day. Telephone connection has been made with the boat company's office, which will enable the merchants to ascertain at a moment's notice the arrival of their freight. And not like it has been for 50 years, freight that is left at the boat landing over night will not suffer from the rains, as it will remain safely under cover until hauled away.

As a matter of news, the reporter inquired about the business of the Regulator company at Hood River. Mr. Young opened the new record books the company has supplied him with since the establishment of the dock here, and showed an average of seven and eight tons of freight passing through the dock every day of the week. The Regulator pulled in at that moment and the dozen deck hand were kept busy for half an hour unloading a large consignment for the merchants, and taking on lot of lumber for lower Mosier.

Now that the dock has been placed in position, Agent Young expects to see a perceptible increase in the freight traffic by boat. A large amount of fruit leaves for Portland each day by the Regulator Line from Hood River.

BANNER SCHOOL FOR ATTENDANCE

As will be seen by the monthly report of the Frankton schools as given below, the percentage of attendance is 97.77, and punctuality, 99.77 for the two schools in the district. What other school in the state with anyway near the same attendance can equal this record?

The following is report of the Frankton schools for the month ending September 30, 1904.

Organize Principals' Club.

Seventeen teachers responded to the call for the organization of a Principals' club of Wasco county at the rooms of the Hood River high school last Saturday afternoon.

The Wasco County Superintendents and Principals' club was organized, and the following officers elected: L. A. Wiley of Hood River, president; C. D. Thompson of Barrett, vice president; Miss Mabel Riddell of Pine Grove, secretary; J. T. Neff, J. S. Landers and Professor Orrent of The Dalles, a committee on programs.

The next meeting will be held at the Pine Grove school house, just before dinner, as Professor Thompson stated, Saturday, October 29.

Superintendent Landers of his trip to St. Louis, and the educational exhibit at the world's fair. There were also discussions on the every day province of the teacher.

While the organization is to be known as a superintendents' and principals' club, all teachers of the county are privileged to join and to secure the benefits of the meetings.

Elect Class Officers.

Members of the tenth grade of the Hood River public school met last Friday afternoon to perfect class organization, and elected the following officers: Harold Hershner, president; Charles Shute, vice president; Miss Pearl Bradley, secretary; Miss Leila Kelsay, treasurer; Herman Struck, sketch artist. There are 13 members of the class, but this they take to be a good one, least, the record of the first month's work would so indicate.

Class spirit among the upper grades seems to have been placed on a firm footing in the Hood River schools and

VETERANS TELL WAR STORIES

Conby post, G. A. R., had a good meeting Saturday. Several of the comrades who were not present at former meetings when the experience of the boys on their enlistment in the army was given, responded at this meeting. M. F. Isenberg enlisted at Alexandria, Pa. He told of his experience up to and including the battle of Antietam, when his brother John and seven comrades of the name of Isenberg, were killed. Himself was severely wounded in this, one of the bloodiest battles of the war. He was then enlisted in the Pennsylvania Reserves, a division of troops that saw as much hard fighting and service as any division in the Army of the Potomac.

Harvey Cole served in the 14th Michigan, and it was his proud boast that, as an orderly detailed upon his general's staff, he witnessed the grand review of the veteran armies of Grant and Sherman in the streets of Washington. His description of that event was eloquently portrayed, and the interested comrades who took part in that grand review could imagine themselves once more marching down Pennsylvania avenue, and hear the shouts of the multitude who cheered as they marched.

Students Form Athletic Club.

The boys of the Hood River public school, at the instance of Professor Wiley, have organized an athletic association. Friday evening the following officers were elected: Eese Brosius, president; Harold Hershner, vice president; Mair Dano, secretary; Willie Baker, treasurer; Harold Hershner, Howard Hartley and Elwood Luckey, members of the executive committee.

The club starts out with a membership enrollment of 42. The organization has for its object the fostering of a spirit for athletics, and will be known as the Hood River Public school athletic club.

The boys have already made an improvement to the Park street school grounds by clearing up the northeast corner for a basket and hand ball court.

TO ADVERTISE HOOD RIVER

Hood River business men last week subscribed $300 for a writeup in the Lewis and Clark Journal that will advertise Hood River, its advantages and resources, to thousands of readers in the Eastern states.

Kothe & Valley, advertising managers for the Lewis and Clark Journal, the official organ of the Lewis and Clark fair, spent last week in Hood River soliciting the advertising subscriptions from the business men. Before going directly to the business men, Messrs. Kothe & Valley met with the directors of the Hood River Commercial club, before whom they laid their proposition, which was discussed by the directors and sanctioned by them.

The $300 is to pay for a writeup of the city and valley which is to appear in the November issue of the Journal, that is to have a circulation of some 200,000 copies, nearly all of which are to be distributed at the St. Louis fair. Statistics for the article have been prepared by the secretary of the Commercial club. It is the intention of the secretary to secure some photographs of the apple exhibits this week for illustrations to accompany the article.

If anyone in the town and country has pictures of orchard and farm scenes suitable for half-tone cuts, the secretary of the Commercial club would be pleased to have them left at the Glacier office.

Handsome Apples From Mount Hood.

G. C. Ruff, on his way to Portland last Friday, was exhibiting some of his fine apples grown on his fruit farm at Mount Hood. The Kings he showed to the Glacier reporter were indeed beautiful. They were highly colored; so much so that it would be difficult to find Spitzbergers to excel them. The Kings were four-tier apples. Some Spitzbergers he displayed, while not so large, were nicely colored, and on fruit stands would retail about two to five cents.

Mr. Ruff owns what was formerly the P. F. Fouts ranch. He has about ten acres in bearing orchard, and has kept a grubbing machine busy all summer clearing land on which he will plant more apple trees. Mr. Ruff also has an extensive clover patch.

Mr. Ruff is the proprietor of a grocery store in Portland, and when he displays these samples of fruit in his show cases he should have no difficulty in securing orders for his entire crop at top notch prices.

Boys Laundry at Heppner.

R. C. Willis closed a deal last Saturday whereby the Crescent Steam Laundry was transferred to Orin Clay Johnson of Hood River, at the normal figure of $5000. Mr. Johnson and two sons will operate the laundry, and as they come well recommended, and are thoroughly familiar with the business, there is no reason why they should not do a good business from the start.

Mr. Johnson will add at once a lot of new machinery and put the plant in shape to do work equal to the Pendleton or Portland laundries, so there will be no excuse for sending your work away.—Heppner Times.

The Apples Are Waiting For You.

The annual meeting of the State Editorial Association will be held this year at Hood River, October 14-15 when the boys will meet to swap experiences, have a good time and sample the big red apples that have made Hood River famous. Every man in the editorial harness should make it a point to dodge work for a couple of days and go. He will find it the best investment of time he can make in the whole round year.—Forest Grove Times.
