

Hood River Glacier

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1904.

It pays to advertise says the Newberg Graphic and cites the incident of W. L. Douglas, the shoe man, who has been elected democratic governor of the republican state of Massachusetts. The picture of Mr. Douglas is known from one end of the land to the other.

Fruit Commissioner Carson of Grants Pass estimates the apple crop in the Rogue river district at 400,000 boxes for 1904. Other fruits he estimates as follows: Peas, 100,000 boxes; prunes, 3,000,000 pounds; peaches, 75,000 boxes; small fruits, 75,000 crates; gross value, $1,500,000.

In the Pacific Homestead of Salem for November 10, Hood River comes in for a generous amount of space and a splendid writeup. The article is filled with illustrations of business houses and orchard scenes. Wallace G. Trill has prepared a carefully written descriptive article which includes some of the business men and many of the fruit growers. This special edition of the Homestead contains 108 pages devoted to the inland Empire. A large edition was printed, thousands of copies being distributed by the O. R. & N. Co. Extra copies of the publication may be had as long as they last at 25 cents each.

According to the Chicago Fruit and Produce News, New York apple growers are experiencing difficulty in disposing of their crop of apples. Apple buyers do not care to take the fruit at the prices asked by the growers, and but little fruit is going into cold storage, the buyers stating they would rather pay a higher price in the spring than to buy for $1 now. Present receipts of winter fruit are selling Baldwin at $1.25 to $1.50; Greening at $1.12 to $1.25, with some fancy Greenings occasionally bringing $1.50. Every man who handles apples in New York is flooded with consignments, and the prices are so low that there is no encouragement in handling them. Early in the season, fancy Ben Davis apples in Northern Arkansas were contracted for $1.25 a barrel, and today they can be bought, the same apples in the same place, for 75 cents a barrel. Many of the apples will have to be converted into cider. Notwithstanding all these bear reports, there has been no decline in the price of the Oregon apple, but farmers will do well to heed the remarks of Mr. Rodgers, of Watsonville, who would impress upon

Promises Better Light Service.
H. L. Vorse, speaking of the electric light service says: "No one realizes better than we that the service has not been at all satisfactory to our customers during the last few days, and I am very glad to be able to say that we have purchased a machine more than double the size we are now using, and we hope to have it installed and within operation within two weeks."

"When I first came to Hood River, I took an option on some of the stock of the company in order to have an opportunity to thoroughly investigate the business before investing the capital of myself and friends in the enterprise. I am now entirely satisfied with the investigations I have made and have taken up the stock of Leslie Butler, who has retired from the company. I expect to be permanently identified with the light and water business of this place."

"We have other improvements in view, and it shall be our aim to see that Hood River's electric light service shall be everything that this wide-awake and growing little city has a perfect right to expect."

Feed Store Seeks New Location.
The rooms in the Morse & Early building on Third street, where H. W. Wait, proprietor of the Farmers' Friend Feed Store, began business less than a year ago, were too cramped for the rapidly growing business of this firm, and during the week Mr. Wait moved his stock in the large warehouse vacated by Mr. Rand.

Mr. Wait hasn't put in steps to the door yet, but promises to, and is fitting up one corner for an office.

The Farmers' Friend Feed Store sold 35,000 apple boxes this fall, as well as a large amount of flour, feed, hay and grain. Mr. Wait has now introduced a folding hallock for strawberries that should sell like hot tamales. The hallock is constructed of spruce, and with a few staples is perfectly collapsible. But when pressed into position the box is as firm as the old style hallocks. The great convenience in hauling and storing knockdown berry boxes is a strong point in their favor. A farmer can haul them out during the rainy season and put up his own crates, thus saving time and expense.

Skamania Ties on Vote for Sheriff.
The official count of the vote in Skamania county shows a tie between Sweeney, dem., and Haffey, rep. The total vote of the county was close on to 600, an increase of 100 over the result two years ago. Roosevelt carried the county by a plurality of 233. Debs, the socialist candidate, received 68 votes. Mead's plurality was 135.

The entire county ticket, with an exception of sheriff, went strongly republican. W. A. Orser, candidate on the socialist ticket for sheriff, received 103 votes. Fred Luthy, candidate of the same party for commissioner, received 121 votes.

Underwood precinct cast a total of 28 votes. Roosevelt received 15 votes, Parker 4 and Debs 6. The total democratic strength in Underwood precinct is about 5, as Amos Underwood says he refused to vote for Parker, and left the presidential ballot blank.

Prosperity At Trout Lake.
A. W. Clark, writing in the Goldendale Agriculturist, says: "I made a short trip through Camas Prairie, Fulta and Trout Lake, finding the people in good spirits and getting along nicely, many who heretofore have seen it pretty hard through the fall and winter when supplies are short. This fall things look much better than of yore, as they have their cellars full of fine vegetables of their own raising; also a good supply of fruit. Some have just moved up on their land which enables them to feel much better, as they can say they own their land now. Many have gone into the dairy business. They have some pieces of land to cover which produce well. Their cows look fine. Some make butter at home, while others send their milk to the creamery, which is giving good satisfaction. Willam Coate has a fine dairy and ranch, milking a big lot of cows which they feed on this fine hay; also a fine lot of carrots is given to his cows which makes grand feed for them and helps greatly on the butter. He has a large amount of carrots stowed away for winter feeding. Mr. Coate is an energetic farmer. Rufus Byrket is also in the dairy business and is doing finely. He is improving his dwelling. New additions have been built on in the modern style. He has added a fine cellar to the north side, all stone walled and cemented floor. Also has water running in the house for bath and toilet use, the bath room being upstairs. Mr. Byrket is a real stowed away for winter feeding. He has all the necessary conveniences of the water system and done all his own plumbing himself. Also a great deal of his carpenter work, which he seems to understand. Soon as he can he will erect a stone wall in front of his place fence thereon. Charles Moore, who keeps the postoffice, has also a fine place with modern improvements; also a good ranch. He is growing clover and vegetables.

LIGHT DOCKET IN CIRCUIT COURT

Special to the Glacier.
The Dalles, Or., Nov. 15.—Circuit court was convened yesterday by Judge Bradshaw with a light docket before him. There were but two civil cases. One of those occupied the attention of the court yesterday afternoon. It is styled Mary Baker vs. John Baker, and is a suit wherein the plaintiff sued to recover $400 alleged to have been loaned defendant. Bennett & Sinnott appeared for the plaintiff and A. A. Jayne for the defendant.

James T. Brown of Mosier was charged yesterday to answer the charge of assaulting B. F. Fisher late in the summer with a shot gun.

Testimony was taken in the divorce case of Emma Innes vs. Harry C. Innes, and a divorce granted.

Several of the regular panel of jurors were excused for the term.

The Nelson boys of Hood River were arraigned yesterday afternoon, and this morning pleaded guilty to killing cattle belonging to Emile West. Sentence will be passed upon the boys tomorrow.

The condemned murderer, Norman Williams is growing fat under his confinement. He is still reticent and refuses to be interviewed save by one of the women of The Dalles, who is a follower of the condemned Crawford, who was at one time the leader of a band of Holy Rollers here. Williams is seemingly getting comfort from the spiritual consolation tendered by the followers of the noted apostle, and is developing a religious side to his lonely life of solitary confinement.

Hood River is well represented in the jury box and witness stand. The following comprise a partial list: A. S. Carroll, Robert Barr of Wan-Guin-Guin, W. J. Sears, E. D. West, N. O. Billings, Roswell Shelley, O. M. Ewing, Mark Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson and two sons, Otto Ehrek and sister, Mrs. P. F. Shelley.

Frank McConfee, district attorney paid the witnesses in a certain criminal action a high compliment for the manner in which a certain case had been worked up. This was a case that was investigated by parties from Hood River valley. Hence is an efficient officer.

It is likely that the business of this term of court will be over before the end of the week. ROSWELL SHELLEY.

NEW FIRE ENGINE COMES TO TOWN

The big double 35-gallon chemical fire engine for Hood River reached the city Monday night. The Steamer Spencer brought the engine from Portland free of charge, and the people of Hood River will be glad to remember it in justice to Mr. Campbell of the Regular Co., it should be stated that he too asked to carry the fire engine free.

The engine is stored temporarily at the barn of the Fashion stable, until the stand is erected near the city hall.

Tuesday evening an effort among the young men of the city to organize a volunteer fire company was highly successful. With an attendance of some 25 and an honorary list of 17 the following officers were chosen:

Walter McGuire, president; Lew Morgan, vice president; Earl Bartmess, secretary; Will Sheets, fire chief; S. J. Frank, assistant chief; W. L. Gadwa, Clarence Shaw and Will Morgan, first, second and third engineers.

A committee of five was appointed to draw up a constitution to be considered next Friday evening, and the boys hope soon to be organized for any effort that may be required of them with the new fire fighting apparatus.

Davidson-Jackson.
The wedding Tuesday noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Jackson, when their eldest daughter, Miss Vera, was married to Barton G. Davidson, a very pretty fellow. None but relatives and a few friends of the contracting parties were present. Rev. W. C. Evans of the M. E. church officiated. The ceremony was performed at high noon, when the guests sat down to a dainty lunch of which the following was the menu:

Chicken Salad. Peanuts. Sandwiches.
I
III
Cakes. Ice Cream.
The dining room and tables were profusely decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and smilax, while the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, was banked with white chrysanthemums Oregon grape and ferns.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidson left on the afternoon train, amid a shower of rice, for a trip to Portland. They will return the latter part of the week, to spend a few days in Hood River before continuing to Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, where Mr. Davidson is interested with his brothers in extensive lumbering interests.

The presents were many and beautiful. Among them were pictures, carving sets, napkins, table linen, tray cloths, blue mirror, silver candlesticks, silver knives, forks and spoons, rocking chair, lady's toilet set of sterling silver. The presents in cut-glass were very elaborate and consisted of center piece, bowl, water set, salt and pepper shakers, salad dish, jelly dish. Among the Chippendale were a chocolate set, tea set, celery dish salad dish.

FIRST NATIONAL IN NEW HOME

The First National bank is now located in the new quarters in the E. L. Smith brick, on the southeast corner of Oak and Third streets. The new rooms were built especially for the bank, and the idea of convenience has been carried out in every detail. The building is elegant and substantial, and of a character that will lend a favorable impression to all visitors.

The bank entrance is on Oak street. The floor of the passageway is covered with tile, and in this Mr. Smith takes a pardonable pride, when he tells of erecting the first pressed brick building in Hood River, laying the first cement sidewalk and the first tiled floor.

In the rear of the building is the directors room, which will shortly be supplied with a carpet, council table and other furniture. Large plate-glass windows supply an abundance of soft light to all desks in the office. Heat will be supplied from a furnace to be installed in the rear building. Every thing about the bank is neat, comfortable and convenient.

A large vault, absolutely fire proof, affords ample room for storing documents and valuable papers, while a combination safe holds the coin and currency necessary for the daily business transactions. This safe was secured at a cost of $2000, and is said to be the best-tested positively burglar-proof safe that is manufactured in the world.

The First National bank opened its doors in May of this year. The growth of business has been steady and commensurate with the progress of Hood River and the valley. The banking work keeps Cashier Blanchard and Mr. Brook, the bookkeeper very busy all the time. Mr. Blanchard, in conversation with a Glacier reporter, stated that he is well satisfied with the business his bank keeps. A address of the bank is 101 E. L. Smith street.

"The fact that Hood River is a two-bank town will help the community in many ways," continued Mr. Blanchard, "and while the growth of a banking institution is a conservative, we have shown our faith in the future of Hood River by a substantial outlay in banking fixtures. Banks cannot prosper without a prosperous country behind them, nor can the country get along without the banks."

"The First National bank has placed a number of loans throughout the valley this summer, and I believe in this way a good deal of business has been developed for the bank. The Hood River bank is borrowing $20 from an outside bank, and we look for a good business in the next few years."

The First National bank of Hood River has a paid up capital of $25,000. Its shareholders liabilities equal $25,000, and there is a surplus of $5,000. The officers of the bank are Robert Smith, president; F. S. Stanley, vice president; E. O. Blanchard, cashier. The directors are Robert Smith, F. S. Stanley, E. L. Smith, J. C. Ainsworth and F. H. Hopkins.

Fine Piece of Wood Carving.
A panel between the gable windows on the residence being built for A. D. Moe, on east oak street, is the work of J. F. Stranahan, the architect. Mr. Stranahan did the work in a day, and has executed a piece of art in wood carving difficult to excel any where. Mr. Stranahan completed his course in architecture and house building with all the details of house building from the work of the designer and architect to the carpenter and contractor.

Stranahan one time landed in Seattle after an unprofitable trip to the gold fields of Alaska without a cent in his pocket. Borrowing $20 from an old friend, he started out to look for work. Finding a man about to construct a dwelling, he picked up a crude design some one had drawn and in a moment had made such an improvement that the home builder gave him a job. Stranahan went right to work and says he cleared up $800 the first month he was in the city.

Need the Hood River Spirit.
Salem Steamboat.
Salem needs some of the spirit of the people of Hood River. Every resident of Hood River will tell you of the grand resources and possibilities of their beautiful valley and each one will declare that there is no place on earth like the city of Hood River. The fact is Hood River is an honest, educated, refined and industrious class; no foreigners; all thoroughly American, and each one ready to do his part by his town and his neighbors. This makes up a community that is bound to prosper. If Salem had the Hood River spirit, she would have a lot of motor lines before the end of 1905, and a whole lot of other good and useful things.

Apples for Royalty.
Thomas P. Wallace of New York is placing apples for the royalty and the wealthy. Every year at this time Mr. Wallace has a quantity of Newtown Pippins sent him, and these are taken to the store and the barrels emptied and the apples gone over and very carefully selected. The apples are each wrapped up in paper of a certain size and neatly repacked into the barrels.

This has been going on for years. During the reign of Queen Victoria it was always her desire to have Virginia Albemarle Pippins on her table during the holidays. Some of the apples that are now being packed by Mr. Wallace will go to King Edward's family, and numbers of barrels will be presented by the American banking interests or representatives of such houses as Morton, Bliss & Co., J. P. Morgan & Co. and others. There is no set price per barrel on these apples, but it is said that Mr. Wallace has received as high as $20 a barrel. There have not been many
