

Hood River Glacier

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1904.

The question every one is asking these nights as the lights go out: "When will that new dynamo be here?"

Reports from Eastern apple markets state that the situation has taken a turn for the better and prices are advancing. Cold weather is said to have cut short the supply.

Hood River has been signally honored by the election of E. L. Smith of this city as third vice president of the National Irrigation congress. The congress meets next year at Portland.

John H. Ginder, the new proprietor and editor of the White Salmon Enterprise has made a marked improvement in that little paper. The Enterprise promises no longer to be a burlesque on its name. We know the people of White Salmon welcome the change.

A bright little weekly came to light the other day at St. Johns, and will hereafter be known as the St. Johns Review. The paper is edited and published by J. C. Crane, and will be devoted to the interests of the Peninsula, the manufacturing center of the Northwest. The Review well deserves the rich success its breezy little pages give evidence of.

The young men of Hood River have organized a complete volunteer fire department. Give them your moral and financial support. They are drilling a team of fire fighters that may some day save the city thousands of dollars. The boys are enthusiastic and ambitious to become the crack fire team of the state. They have the material, and after a few months drilling will be able to contest with the best of them. The Glacier wishes the boys success.

FORM VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT

The Hood River Volunteer Fire department is now ready to combat what ever fire should dare show itself within the city limits. While the boys have only the chemical engine as apparatus at present, the department expects to organize a hose company as soon as the fire hydrants have been erected. Ladders and ladders department will also be formed.

The organization of the fire department has been officially recognized by the city council, and the care of the chemical engine has been turned over to the boys. An engine house is being erected next to the city hall, where the chemical will be stored. Room will also have to be made here for hose carts and a hook and ladder truck.

The officers of the fire department elected last week are: W. B. McGuire, president; Lou Morgan, vice president; Earl Hartness, secretary; Percy Cross, treasurer; S. J. Frank, assistant chief; W. J. Gadwa, chief engineer; Will Morgan, first assistant engineer; Clarence Shaw, second assistant engineer; Winn Olinger, third assistant engineer.

Members of the fire department have seen service in other towns and are tried veterans in the work. Sherm Frank, the assistant chief, held the same position at The Dalles. W. J. Gadwa, the chief engineer, was formerly a member of the Pendleton department. Will Sheets has won a number of medals for service with the Larimore, N. D., team. This team came to be the champion of the state. Mr. Sheets has belonged to the fire department since he was eight years old. Will Morgan was at one time a member of the Brookfield, Mo., team. Walter McGuire saw service at McMinville.

The boys are arranging to give a Fireman's Benefit ball on the 24th of next night. Of course anything like this will be a great success. No one will refuse to buy tickets, and it is intended to make it one of the popular social events of the season. Later announcements of this ball will be made.

The members of the Hood River Volunteer Fire department are: W. E. Sheets, S. J. Frank, W. L. Gadwa, W. A. Morgan, Bert Stranahan, L. G. Morgan, A. Whitehead, Tom Kopp, Oregon Lbr. Co., James Sneyd, A. G. Dobney, R. J. Woicka, Joe Vogt, Winn Olinger, Percy Cross, Emmett Tompkins, W. L. Dickey, W. B. McGuire, E. G. Wright, C. S. Jones, Wm. Shuman, Arthur Cole, Earl Hartness, Webster Kent, Mel Foley, Edwin Henderson.

Losses Valuable Bear Hound

"Old Drive," a valuable bear hound belonging to Bennett Jones, the Hunn bear hunter, met his death last week from a tussle with a big black bear. Mr. Jones regrets very much the loss of his faithful hound, who had seen service for many years, and taken part in the capture of 70 bears.

Mr. Jones was in the city Tuesday, the guest of Dan Mears. He was out hunting last week with some friends from Wales. The hunt proved too strenuous for his guests and they gave up the chase. Jones, who never turns back when the dogs have scented a bear, followed the lead of his hound. Darkness was coming on, but Jones got a glimpse of the bear as he was about to disappear over the top of a steep, muddy "pot-hole" and firing for the neck, the bullet grazed the bear's back, and a bruise came tumbling to the ground. Rushing into the thicket, Jones found the bear very much alive, and with the dog in his mouth he rolled on down the mountain side. Hurrying on, Jones dispatched the bear with a bullet through the head. The dog arose with an ugly gash in his throat, and shortly after his side was pierced with a violent coughing spell which burst the jugular vein and caused the dog's death.

The bear was a monster. It hid when dressed and carried all meat weighed 54 pounds.

To Supply Power for Flour Mill

The big ditch down the side of the hill east of the steps and across the business section of the city to the railroad track will be filled with iron pipes, which Joe Wilson is laying to supply power to the flour mill at the foot of Irving street.

Joe Wilson has signed a contract with the milling company to supply upward of 50 horse power for a period of ten years, with the privilege of renewing at the expiration of the present contract. The pipe to carry the water is 12 inches in diameter, and the reservoir on the hill near Charley Clark's residence Mr. Wilson says has a capacity of 1,000 gallons. The big pond is 100x200 in extent. Water to supply the reservoir comes from Indian creek.

Mr. Wilson while laying the pipe is putting in cross for hydrants, one in front of the Davidson Fruit Co's office, another in front of Wilson's warehouse, a third beyond the Page & Son warehouse and one near the flouring mill. Mr. Wilson is putting in these fixtures at his own expense.

From the bench near the railroad track from where the railroad engineers do all their surveying, is 352 below the bottom of Wilson's reservoir. A 12-inch pipe with such a fall from the reservoir making 1,000 gallons of water for will naturally develop an immense amount of motor power.

The machinery of the flouring mill will be operated by water motors. For each separate piece of machinery there will be a separate motor, water coming from the water supply, and making it much easier in closing down any particular bit of machinery.

NO REDUCTION ON INSURANCE

It developed at the meeting of the city council Monday night that the board of insurance underwriters at Portland will refuse to grant a reduction in insurance rates in the city of Hood River unless the city secures water for fire hydrants from a reservoir having a reserve at all times of 1,000,000 gallons.

Joe Wilson, with whom the city council is arranging for a water supply for fire hydrants in the business part of the city, returned Monday night from Portland, where he had conferred with Mr. Stone of the board of insurance underwriters, and made a report to the council concerning the question of reducing rates if a system of fire protection is installed.

The first question Mr. Stone asked Wilson was: "What is the capacity of your reservoir?" "One million gallons," replied Wilson. "The amount flowing in?" "Three times what will be flowing out."

On learning the pipe from the reservoir was 12-inch iron, Mr. Stone wanted to know what the town would do for water should the pipe break. "What if the ball run pipe should break?" replied Mr. Wilson. Mr. Stone then stated there would have to be a reserve of 1,000,000 gallons in the reservoir at all times, and then went on to inquire why Mr. Wilson did not have two pipes leading from the reservoir.

This report from Mr. Wilson came as a surprise to the members of the council. Mr. Early stated that a member of the Hood River Electric Light, Power & Water company had a few weeks ago been quoted in the Glacier as saying that the board of underwriters had promised a reduction in insurance rates provided the system they wished to give the city was installed.

Mayor Blowers stated that when he once had a proposition before the city council to sell water for fire protection, the board of underwriters had promised in writing that the rates would be reduced provided he had a reserve in his reservoir of 300,000 gallons. N. C. Evans mentioned the same facts. He had the letters in file showing a promised average reduction of 25 per cent.

Early in the session, Councilman Prather resigned as chairman of the sewer committee, and J. E. Reed was named in his place. W. L. Gadwa and Will Sheets of the Fire department addressed the council, and on motion the fire and water committee was instructed to meet the boys and receive whatever report they had to make, and to turn over the fire engine to their care.

Rand, chairman of the committee on fire and water, reported favorably on the proposition from Joe Wilson to supply the city with water for fire hydrants. An ordinance, giving Mr. Wilson a contract to supply the water, passed first reading and was referred to the fire and water committee for a few days. The ordinance stated that the city shall take water for not less than five hydrants at $1 a month, Mr. Wilson to supply the crosses and connections. Councilman Early thought that the ordinance was a little costly, the city $2500, and on motion the finance committee was instructed to see if the necessary funds would be forthcoming.

Ordinance No. 91, prohibiting boxing contests in the city of Hood River, passed second reading and was placed on final passage by a unanimous vote. Votes of thanks were extended to Captain Spencer for bringing the chemical engine to Hood River free of charge and to Manager Campbell for offering to do the same.

The following claims against the city were allowed and ordered paid: Woodard, Clark & Co., chem... $1034 A. G. Long, engine... 1100.00 Jason Taff, labor... 3.00 Oregon Lbr. Co., lumber... 10.48 F. T. Bowen, board workmen, East Side grade, same being taken from their wages... 45.75 J. L. Morrison, for cashing orders laborers East Side grade... 62.55

Apples Reach St. Louis in Good Shape

Joe Wilson, who was in Portland Monday, was told by President Myers that the Hood River apples reached St. Louis with a bruise.

Jefferson Myers was at the fair when the fruit arrived, and assisted Mr. Gallop in placing the fruit on exhibition. The girls were engaged to polish the apples, each apple being placed in a top layer, brushed up and packed in again just as they left Hood River.

Mr. Myers says a sample of 20 boxes were placed outside of the building Underwood, where the apples were of great deal of attention, and started great crowds into the horticultural building to see the great display of Hood River apples.

Mr. Wilson was informed that the money from the commission in payment for the apples will be in Hood River in a few days. It will be sent to the First National bank and by them distributed to the farmers who sold apples to the commission.

Called the Fight a Draw

About 50 Hood River sports crossed the Columbia Sunday afternoon to Underwood, where the boxing contest was pulled off between Clarence Elliott of this city and "Brooklyn Red" of Portland.

The lads mixed things in lively shape for eight rounds, both the contestants striking the man and once or twice each. Things were running even, and with the fast and furious punishment the boys were giving and receiving, the referee called the fight a draw, deciding the affair a tie, and awarding the fighters an equal share of the gate receipts. It is understood there will be a return scrap in the near future at Astoria.

Cogar Story From White Salmon

A young cogar came into Mrs. Olson's door yard recently and essayed to catch some chickens, but Mrs. O. and sister thwarted his plans and drove him off. He returned at night and killed a half dozen or more hens. The next night Mr. Mickelson and son came to lay for him and walked up to the chicken house with two guns and a pair of milk. The cogar jumped out brushing Mr. M's. clothes as he went, disappearing in the darkness before the guns could be trained on him. He had to be chicken and didn't care for milk, and they forgot to put salt on his tail. Mrs. Olson had a trap set and caught the rascal on the steamer Bailey Gatzert. When he heard of this, President Truman Butler of the Hood River Commercial club at once arranged to have a committee of the club members meet the Grangers at Cascade Locks and accompany them up the river to Hood River.

BIG APPLES FOR THE GRANGERS

Forty members of the national Grange now in session in Portland will make the river trip from Portland to The Dalles on the steamer Bailey Gatzert. When he heard of this, President Truman Butler of the Hood River Commercial club at once arranged to have a committee of the club members meet the Grangers at Cascade Locks and accompany them up the river to Hood River.

The committee will distribute apples and Hood River literature to the visitors. The apples will be presented with the compliments of the Hood River Commercial club. One of this week's issues of the Glacier, which contains the excellent writeup from the Lewis and Clark Journal, will also be distributed among the Easterners.

George W. F. Gannett of Mullica Hill, N. J., and C. D. Raine, master of the Missouri state grange, arrived on the noon train Tuesday, to visit with C. D. Moore and A. I. Mason. The gentlemen were accompanied by their wives, and spent the day seeing the apple and berry orchards of Hood River and White Salmon.

Mr. Gannett and Mr. Moore were schoolmates years ago in the state of New Jersey, while the same was true of Mr. Raine and Mr. Mason in Missouri. Mr. Gannett is president of the People's Rural Telephone Co. at Mullica Hill, N. J.

SLOCOM, THE BOOKMAN HAS A NEW LOCATION

While Slocum, the bookman, announced last week in his ad that he did not intend to sing the new store song, part of the store room is being moved, and is now located in the Smith brick on Oak street, where he has a large and roomy store, well stocked with all that is latest in books and stationery.

Follow the cement sidewalk as he suggests. It will lead to the big sign on the window "Slocum's." You can't pass it. Mr. Slocum has received his fall stock of books and stationery for the holiday trade. It will pay you to make an inspection of the stock. There is nothing like it in the city—nothing half so dainty. All proper tints in note paper and envelopes.

Mr. Slocum began business in Hood River about two years ago, when he bought the store from R. Bradstreet. Since then Mr. Slocum says there has been a steady increase in his trade, and he is well satisfied Hood River is one of the best towns in Oregon.

Charles Temple, the jeweler, occupies part of the store room. Mr. Bradstreet's Temple has here a fine display of jewelry, and is kept busy attending to the repair work given him. He advertises in another column some very fine souvenir spoons.

RAISE FUND FOR RURAL CARRIER

Hood River, Or., Nov. 23 1904.—Editor Glacier: The committee which solicited funds to aid in the continuation of the mail service on rural route No. 1, finished their labors last Saturday, and it is no more than right that the patrons should be informed concerning the method by which their money has been expended.

H. C. Crockett, William Davidson, Harry Laga and myself were the solicitors, and the total amount contributed by the patrons was $139. Of this sum $76 was collected in cash while on our rounds; $3 of the old fund which was collected over a year ago was also found to be in the hands of Butler & Co.

A. J. Friedley was engaged to carry the mail for one year on the following terms. The salary allowed by the government on routes of this length is $68. To this will be added $116 of the patrons' money, making the carrier's salary $184 for the year.

At the end of the fourth month he will receive 1-12 of the patrons' allowance and so on thereafter to the end of the year. Three months' pay being reserved which will be forfeited by the carrier if he fails to fulfill his contract. The remaining funds which were raised will be expended, so far as needed, for putting the mail wagon, which is in a very rickety condition, in repair. The carrier will then take care of the rig at his own expense until his term expires.

Each of the solicitors failed to interview a few of the patrons on his beat, and as these will not likely care to get their mail at his expense, it is probable that a few more dollars will soon be placed in the treasury. The writer was appointed trustee for

Laundry Problems

The rain has begun at last, and you cannot afford to be bothered all week drying your laundry at home. We wash and dry by steam power, while you have to do it at home by hard knocks and lots of patience. Your laundry work can be done at the Paradise Laundry cheaply and satisfactorily, and we guarantee all work to be first-class.

the funds, which are to remain in Butler's bank, and in accordance with instructions of the committee will be sent to his check for the carrier's salary and the payment of repair bills on the mail wagon only. It was with reluctance that each one of the committeemen engaged in this business, but somebody had to make a move toward getting the mail started again, hence our appearance before the public. As a rule we met with a cheerful reception from the patrons, and it is plain now the service will never be discontinued for want of a sufficient number of persons who will be willing to contribute a dollar towards the sum needed to maintain it.

No one was found who did not wish to have the service resumed at once, but occasionally a man was met who found it necessary to turn loose a lot of fireworks before he would contribute. They would give a dollar, but they didn't give a—n for the dollar, but said one, "there is something rotten about the whole business," another cried "it's a cinch." Another man with a large crop of apples to sell demanded to know, "where's this going to stop?" and he pinched the dollar in his pocket until the screams of the eagle started the poultry for a mile around. One man assured me that if Moody had been returned to congress carriers' salaries would have been raised to such a fine figure that none of this begging would be necessary.

Just where the rickety car is, the cinch, etc., etc., come in is hard to understand. Carrier after carrier has tried this thing and every man has his quit in disgust and gone back to "sawing wood."

It was known to all that our late carriers resigned two months ago, and if, before quitting, he had given a week's warning there would have been no reason to complain.

It is not so easy to get this rural carrier's salary business settled to the satisfaction of everybody, as some seem to think. All money appropriations are in the hands of congress instead of one man, and the sum set apart for rural mail delivery has already reached an enormous figure. The new routes which are being established every day keep the appropriations drained to the last cent.

Government affairs must of necessity move slowly, but nearly every year since the beginning of rural free delivery has seen an advance in the carrier's salary.

A few have been known to say that the present salary is high enough, but there is no good reason why the stock why rural carriers with a team to support should not receive as big a salary as a city carrier who is not required to own anything except the clothes on his back. If farmers would pull together in this matter, instead of being fearful lest one of their fellows should stumble onto a soft snap, their influence would soon place rural free delivery on a settled and satisfactory basis.

Free mail delivery is a great boon to the farmer, and it is hard to understand why a Hood River fruit grower should expect some one to carry his mail year after year without other recompense than board and clothes.
